前言

《义务教育教科书(五·四学制) 英语练习部分 九年级上册》依据教育部颁布的《义务教育英语课程标准(2022年版)》编写,是学生用书《义务教育教科书(五·四学制) 英语 九年级上册》的必要补充和拓展,旨在帮助同学们夯实课内所学,拓宽学习维度,延展学习内容,辅助课外学习并提升自主学习能力。

本书紧密围绕学生用书,对接并辅助落实各单元学习目标,精选主题相关、真实地道、体裁多样、内容有趣的素材,设计题型丰富、有针对性的练习,关注同学们的基础。同时,对课内学习的话题、语篇、语言知识、语言技能、文化知识、学习策略应用情境等方面都作了有效拓展,以期体现课内外学习的贯通连接,发挥作业促学提质的作用,从而帮助同学们将知识技能内化为素养。

本书各单元设有六个板块:A、B、C、Grammar、D 和 Unit review (单元复习),主要单元板块与学生用书单元板块的对应关系如下:

| 本书单元板块  | 学生用书单元板块                |
|---------|-------------------------|
| A       | A Viewing and listening |
| B       | B Speaking              |
| C       | C Reading               |
| Grammar | Grammar in use          |
| D       | D Writing               |

A 板块包含语音辨识、词汇运用、听力理解等练习,旨在围绕单元主题,训练单元视听板块中出现的语音知识、核心词汇和视听技能,帮助同学们在更多情境中运用相关学习策略。同时配有学生用书听力板块 Update my to-do list 活动的书写区域,更好地落实板块自评。

B 板块包含选择、情境问答、创编对话等口语表达练习,对学生用书中的对话主题、情境和范例适当拓展,旨在训练单元口语板块所学语音知识、词汇、句型、口语功能表达和交际策略。

C 板块包含选词填空(句子、篇章层面)、阅读理解练习等。阅读理解练习旨在训练单元阅读板块所学核心词汇和阅读策略,在主题、选材、文本类型、呈现方式、题型设计等方面体现层次:既有多模态视读和基于语篇的理解型练习,又有深入语篇和超越语篇的理解型练习以及拓展型综合练习。

Grammar 板块包含正确词形填空、句子转写、句型转换、语法选择等多种练习形式,帮助同学们夯实单元语法点在形式、意义和用法层面的理解和使用。

D 板块包含两至三个练习。第一个练习采用句子改写、判断、选择等形式,帮助同学们熟

练掌握单元写作策略要点，提升遣词造句的能力和语篇结构的意识；第二（和第三）个练习聚焦句子和简短语段层面，采用回答问题、补全句子等形式，引导同学们在头脑风暴后写出句子、若干句群、段落等，提升对主题内容和句间逻辑关系的把握。

每个单元最后还设有 Unit review 板块。该板块采用填充思维导图的形式，以单元大问题为引导，串联单元各板块内容，帮助同学们回顾单元主要语言知识、主题内容要点和学习策略，形成单元整体概念，加深对主题意义的理解。

此外，本书还配有期中和期末评价试卷，供同学们检查阶段性学习成效。

本书可配合学生用书，作为课堂补充或课后作业使用。相信通过日积月累，同学们能够进一步发展英语语言能力，培育文化意识，提升思维品质，提高学习能力，从而全面发展核心素养。

1 Complete the passage with the words and expressions in the box.

用方框中的单词和表达补全短文。

spoke highly of      blow      made fun of      poverty imagination      paid off      struggled

Lena was a quiet girl. She loved reading very much, and to her, books were like windows to new worlds.

However, when Lena turned twelve, her father lost his job. Her family started to live in <sup>(1)</sup> _____. Money became tight, and they didn't have extra money for new books. But Lena had a lively <sup>(2)</sup> _____. Even without new books to read, she used it to think up interesting plots and characters, and then wrote them down.

Some classmates didn't understand her and always <sup>(3)</sup> _____ her. They said her writing was just a waste of time. Their words hurt, but the real <sup>(4)</sup> _____ came when the school writing contest turned down her first story. Lena felt sad, but she didn't give up.

In the following months, she <sup>(5)</sup> _____ to make her writing better — she fixed bad sentences and made her characters more real. Her English teacher, Mr Evans, noticed how hard she worked. In class, he often <sup>(6)</sup> _____ her detailed writing and realistic characters, and gave her useful advice and kind words of encouragement to help her.

Her hard work finally <sup>(7)</sup> _____ — the school magazine published one of her stories. Looking at her words in print, Lena felt a quiet warmth in her heart. For Lena, her stories became new windows, much like the books she loved.

Teens facing difficult situations

Being a teen is like playing a real-life adventure game. Going through a tough time? Don't stress! Here are some tips to help you ride out those tricky teen years:

 Find your sounding board: Chat with someone you trust. This person can be a friend, teacher or family member. Getting things off your chest lightens your worries.

 <sup>(4)</sup> _____: Go for a run, or dance like no one's watching. Exercise helps us release chemicals that improve our mood.

 <sup>(5)</sup> _____: Find a cozy corner. It can be real or imaginary. It's a place where you can relax and recharge.

You've got more strength and smarts than you know. Use these tips and own your teen years!

Hua Luogeng: A mathematician's journey

Hua Luogeng was born on 12 November 1910, into a poor family in Jintan, Jiangsu province.

After finishing junior high school, he went to a vocational ( 职业技术的 ) school in Shanghai but had to drop out because his family couldn't afford the fees. He returned home to help his father run a grocery store.

By his late teens, Hua Luogeng had developed a strong interest in maths. Tragically, he got typhoid fever ( 伤寒热 ) when he was 19. The illness made his left leg disabled forever. But Hua Luogeng's passion for maths never went away. Despite poverty and disability, he kept studying — even during long, tiring days at his father's store. Over the next five years, he taught himself all the maths lessons from high school to early university level. The hard work laid a solid foundation for his future academic pursuits.

In 1930, his paper caught the attention of mathematician Xiong Qinglai, who helped him secure a position at Tsinghua University in 1931. He began as a library assistant — a rare opportunity for someone without a formal degree. At Tsinghua, with abundant study resources and a good academic environment, he focused on maths research. His talent was so evident that he was quickly promoted to teaching assistant in 1933 and became a lecturer in 1935. In 1938, he was appointed professor at the National Southwestern Associated University.

From the age of 31, Hua made great contributions to maths, publishing an influential book on number theory and winning the First Prize of China's 1956 National Natural Science Award. In the 1960s, he travelled nationwide to teach practical maths to factory workers.

In 1982, he made history by becoming the first Chinese scientist to be elected as a Foreign Associate of the US National Academy of Sciences. His work has significantly contributed to the development of maths worldwide, and his inspiring life story continues to motivate (激励) people facing challenges.

Breaking away from my phone

Not long ago, I was hopelessly addicted to my phone. I would be glued to the screen for hours, mindlessly swiping videos and losing track of time while playing games. I was so absent-minded that I hardly spoke a word with my family at dinner and completely lost any motivation to study. Unsurprisingly, <sup>(1)</sup> my grades got worse and I became much quieter.

(Describe the results of the impact on my studies and personal life.)

Realising how much this habit was affecting me, <sup>(2)</sup> _____
_____. (Describe my feelings at that time.)

I decided to make a change. My parents and I worked out new phone rules: I could use it for no more than 30 minutes before bedtime on weekdays, and not at all during meals or other times of the day. On weekends, I could use it for up to 1.5 hours per day, but still not during meals or family time.

At first, it was really difficult to follow the rules. I kept reaching for my phone out of habit and <sup>(3)</sup> _____.
_____. (Describe my feelings without a phone.) The change was hard, and I even got upset once. But <sup>(4)</sup> _____.
_____. (Describe my parents' attitude.) They calmly encouraged me and started doing more activities with me — like playing board games or going for walks. Slowly, things <sup>(5)</sup> _____.
_____. (Describe the positive change.) I started noticing how nice it was to talk and laugh with my family.

Now <sup>(6)</sup> _____. (Describe the atmosphere at home now.) I'm also more focused on my schoolwork and feel my interest in studying return. There are still moments when I miss my old phone habits, but I try my best to stick with the change.

When my parents see my efforts, <sup>(7)</sup> _____.
_____. (Describe my parents' reaction to my progress.)

Their support helps me learn to manage my phone use better. I understand that real happiness doesn't come from a screen — it comes from being present in everyday life.

Finding our rhythm

Last year, I joined the school music club. I was so glad to find many friends who loved music as much as I did. We soon became close and often shared our favourite songs after class.

<sup>(1)</sup> _____, our teacher told us that we would perform at the School Arts Festival. <sup>(2)</sup> _____ we heard the news, we jumped with excitement and decided to work hard for it together. However, we soon ran into a problem. We had totally different ideas about the song we preferred. Some of us wanted a fast, exciting song, while others liked a gentle and quiet one. We argued for quite a long time and still couldn't reach an agreement. <sup>(3)</sup> _____, we all calmed down and realised that teamwork was much more important than our own ideas. <sup>(4)</sup> _____, we sat down and listened to each other patiently. In the end, we all agreed on a beautiful song and started to practise. <sup>(5)</sup> _____, we practised again and again after school. We learned to sing in two parts and created a lively ending with a special clapping rhythm. <sup>(6)</sup> _____, we felt a little nervous but really confident. During the show, we sang and performed on stage brightly. Our classmates cheered for us.

<sup>(7)</sup> _____, we are looking forward to performing again at the Sports Day opening ceremony this term.

3 Read the feature story from a magazine. 阅读杂志上的专题报道。

Have you watched the documentary Masters in the Forbidden City? It follows ordinary yet extraordinary people who spend their days fixing China's old treasures. One of them is Wang Jin, a clock restorer at the Palace Museum. He has spent decades making broken clocks work again.

Wang Jin was born in 1961 and started working at the Palace Museum in 1977 when he was 16. He fixes clocks from the Ming and Qing dynasties — many came from Europe long ago. Throughout his career, he has brought over 300 broken clocks back to life, allowing people to see how amazing they are.

_____

He began as a young learner under Master Ma Yuliang. At first, he only cleaned small parts and watched carefully. The clocks were very hard to understand because they had hundreds of tiny pieces. But with time and practice, he learned how they work. Mastering these basics helped him become an expert.

His hard work and love for his job have earned him great respect. In 2018, he was named a National Representative Inheritor of Intangible Cultural Heritage, a top honour for people who protect traditional skills in China. He also helps train others and shares what he knows at the museum.

Wang Jin lives by a simple but powerful idea: "Choose one thing and stick to it for a lifetime." Even after retirement, he still comes to the workshop every day. His calm spirit and lifelong dedication ( 奉献 ) show us that ordinary people can do extraordinary things — if they just keep going with heart.

3-1 Choose from subheadings A to F for each paragraph. There is an extra subheading. 为每个段落选择恰当的小标题, 填写序号 (A-F)。其中有一个小标题是多余的。

4 Read the interview. 阅读采访。

Journalist: Sara! Huge congratulations on the award! The teahouse you designed has such a peaceful feeling. Did you always want to be a designer?

Sara: Thank you! Actually, I started as a painter. But I wanted beauty to be part of people's everyday lives — not just something on the wall. So I switched to interior design.

Journalist: That's a big change! Do you regret studying painting in college?

Sara: Not at all. I loved painting — it taught me how light shapes a space and how colours work together. Now, I handle almost everything in a project — from space planning and material selection to colour schemes (配色方案), lighting and even furniture.

Journalist: You've worked on all kinds of projects. How is being an interior designer different from being a painter?

Sara: As a painter, I worked alone; it was personal and quiet. Now, I work with people and for people. My work becomes part of their daily lives — and that's deeply meaningful.

Journalist: What are some challenges in your work?

Sara: Changing careers wasn't easy — I've had to improve my skills. AI also brings challenges. Some people worry it might replace us. But I don't think so. Design isn't just about looks; it's about understanding people's emotions and behaviour. AI can't offer that human touch.

Journalist: That's good to hear! What would you tell teens who aren't sure about their future careers?

Sara: Don't be afraid to change paths if needed. My art training became my strength. Stay curious and keep learning. Also, ask yourself: How can I use my talents to make life better for others? And remember — develop your own style. You can't please everyone, and that's okay. The future belongs to those who bring both knowledge and heart to what they do.

Journalist: Thank you. That's truly inspiring.

Sara: My pleasure. Great spaces aren't just seen. They're felt.

The upside of travel: First-hand insights from travellers

To explore the benefits of travelling, we've collected insights from two avid (热衷的) travellers. Each one shares why travel matters for personal growth, well-being and understanding of the world.

A. hesitate    B. regularly    C. inspire    D. willing    E. visible

Mark Johnson, an adventure traveller

Travel can really <sup>(1)</sup> _____ you. When you visit new places, you see new things and meet new people. This changes how you see the world. Sometimes, you may feel nervous or <sup>(2)</sup> _____ before you go somewhere new. That's normal, because you're used to your everyday life. But when you travel <sup>(3)</sup> _____, you learn more and become braver.

If you're <sup>(4)</sup> _____ to try new things, travelling can be very exciting. You can learn how to get around and find cool places to visit. Nowadays, thanks to so many travel apps and websites, planning your trips is much easier.

F. invitation    G. harmonious    H. unplanned
I. surprise    J. souvenir

Hazel Rae Carter, a solo travel enthusiast

Travelling also brings people together in a <sup>(5)</sup> _____ way. When you eat with people you just met or talk to locals in the places you visit, you realise you're all not so different after all. Even if you can't chat much, you'll still feel connected when someone points out the way or you admire the same view.

Travel often brings an invisible <sup>(6)</sup> _____ to accept the unknown events that add excitement to your journey. The best memories often come from the surprise side trips and <sup>(7)</sup> _____ adventures you find along the way. Remember that every new place hides a kind stranger, ready to offer the simple guidance you need — just a nod or a mark on your map.

You can keep the lessons you learned from your travels, making them the true <sup>(8)</sup> _____ of your soul, and the best memories aren't photos — they're a stranger's soft "follow me" when you're lost, and the laughter that makes your sides hurt as you both try a sour local fruit. These little, lively moments stick in your mind long after the trip ends.

2 Read the online conversation between Li Na, a travel consultant, and Mike, a 28-year-old Briton. 阅读旅行社顾问李娜与 28 岁的英国人迈克之间的网上对话。

Li Na: How can I help you?

Mike: Hi! I want a trip with strong Chinese culture. Any recommendations?

Li Na: Dunhuang is perfect for that. It was the heart of the Silk Road — where East met West and cultures shaped each other. Shall I plan a personal itinerary for you?

Mike: Yes! I want to feel its cultural soul, not just take photos.

Li Na: Let's start with the Mogao Caves (莫高窟).

They're the finest example of Silk Road Buddhist art. The murals (壁画) aren't just religious stories — they're a visual record of ancient clothing, tools and trade scenes, like a living history book. The natural mineral pigments (颜料) have kept them vivid for over a thousand years. You can even try copying a simple pattern using those same natural pigments.

Mike: That's fascinating! It's more than just art — it's real life in ancient times.

Li Na: Exactly. After that, you can visit the Crescent Moon Spring (月牙泉). Locals protected it for centuries, as a symbol of perseverance in the desert and a peaceful resting place for tired Silk Road traders. You can take a leisurely walk around it and enjoy a clear spring in the middle of the vast desert.

Mike: Wow! Any chance to connect with local culture?

Li Na: Sure. I can arrange a visit to a local artist's studio — for three generations, his family has painted Flying Fairies with techniques from the Tang dynasty. You can practise painting a little part.

Mike: Brilliant! How long is the trip? My accommodation budget is around £80–£120 a night. I prefer local guesthouses near food spots.

Li Na: It will take four to five days, and I know a suitable family guesthouse. Do you have any food allergies?

Mike: None at all! I'm ready to try all local flavours.

Li Na: Then don't miss the lamb noodles for just £2.5 — a true taste of the Silk Road. On your last day, you can explore the local market and make a small Silk Road style souvenir. I'll email the itinerary today — feel free to suggest any changes.

Mike: Thank you so much!

2-1 Match the underlined words or expression from the conversation with their definitions according to the context. 根据上下文，将对话中划线的单词或表达与其释义配对。

(1) itinerary

(2) perseverance

(3) accommodation

(4) food allergies

• A. a place to live or stay

• B. a detailed plan or route of a journey

• C. the quality of never giving up

• D. your body getting sick from some foods

2-2 Complete Mike's travel vlog script with no more than two words for each blank. 完成迈克的旅行视频脚本, 每空格最多两词。

Hi, everyone! This is my Dunhuang vlog. Today I'll share my amazing Silk Road culture trip.

First, I visited the Mogao Caves. The murals are more than art — they show us <sup>(1)</sup> _____ in ancient times. I even tried to copy a <sup>(2)</sup> _____ with special natural pigments.

Then I went to the Crescent Moon Spring. It's not only beautiful, but also a sign of <sup>(3)</sup> _____ in the desert.

The most special part was visiting a local artist's studio. I learned to paint <sup>(4)</sup> _____. The family has kept the <sup>(5)</sup> _____ for three generations.

On the last day, I tried tasty local noodles and made a special <sup>(6)</sup> _____. This is not just sightseeing. I really feel the <sup>(7)</sup> _____ of Chinese culture.

Savouring the Three-Course Tea in Yunnan: A cultural experience

Yunnan has always fascinated me — a land of diverse ethnic cultures and beautiful landscapes. During my visit in a quiet Bai village, I discovered a remarkable local tradition: the Three-Course Tea of the Bai ethnic group.

The first cup was the bitter tea. An old man, who had many stories to share, brewed (沏) the tea in a traditional pot. He handed me a small cup and said, "This bitter tea is like the beginning of life. We all have to go through tough times." I took a small sip. The bitter taste was strong, but it woke me up — difficulties in life help us grow.

Next came the sweet tea. Its light smell filled the room, and its warm, gentle sweetness brought a smile to my face. The old man explained that it stood for the sweet rewards of hard work, like joy after a long, tiring journey.

The last cup was the aftertaste tea. Made with various herbs and spices, it had a rich flavour that stayed on my tongue. It carries the meaning of reflecting on life's journey. Just as the tea leaves a long, gentle taste, it reminds us to cherish our memories and lessons. The old man sat beside me and told his story. He learned wood carving from his father. When he was young, it was hard to learn — he even hurt his hands sometimes. That was like the bitter tea. But he kept going and taught young people. Some came to love it — that was the sweet tea. Now he still passes on the old skills and enjoys the peace and meaning of his life's work. This is just like the aftertaste tea: calm, meaningful, and full of lasting sweetness.

When I left the village, I took home more than tea memories — I gained a true appreciation for the Bai people's wisdom and kindness.

3-1 Match the courses of tea with their meanings and the writer's feelings. 将每道茶与其含义及作者的感受连线配对。

| Courses of tea     | Meanings                                                | The writer's feelings     |
|--------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------|
| (1) Bitter tea     | A. All kinds of experiences in life (both good and bad) | ① Happy and satisfied     |
| (2) Sweet tea      | B. Tough times at the start of life                     | ② Awake and thoughtful    |
| (3) Aftertaste tea | C. Good results after hard work                         | ③ Moved and understanding |

3-2 Choose the best answer. 选择最恰当的答案。

- (1) Why has Yunnan always fascinated the writer?
  - A. Because it has many modern cities.
  - B. It has wonderful sights and colourful cultures.
  - C. It is well-known for several kinds of tea.
  - D. Because it is famous for wood carving all over the world.
- (2) Why did the old man say his wood carving experience was like the bitter tea?
  - A. Because he disliked wood carving when he was young.
  - B. Because learning wood carving was hard and he even got hurt sometimes.
  - C. Because no one wanted to learn wood carving from him.
  - D. Because his father forced him to learn wood carving.
- (3) What can we infer from the old man's story about the sweet tea?
  - A. The sweet tea is the most popular drink in the Bai village.
  - B. The sweet tea carries deep feelings for home and family.
  - C. Keeping and passing on skills can bring great joy.
  - D. The sweet tea is mainly for young people to drink.
- (4) What is the last cup of tea like according to the blog?
  - A. Peaceful and valuable.
  - B. Sweet and soft.
  - C. Bitter and strong.
  - D. Easy and light.

- (5) What can we infer from the blog about the Three-Course Tea?
- It is mainly prepared to welcome tourists to the Bai village.
  - Its cultural meaning is not as important as its special taste.
  - It can be experienced in the old man's simple home.
  - It carries the Bai people's wisdom and life philosophy.

3-3 Design two English slogans for the Bai people's Three-Course Tea. Keep them simple and easy to understand. 为白族三道茶设计两句英文宣传语, 要求简洁易懂。

Last weekend, I visited a local fair. It was full of life, with music and laughter everywhere.

The first thing that caught my eye was the <sup>(1)</sup> _____ (create) handmade crafts. There were <sup>(2)</sup> _____ (beautiful) painted bowls and woven clothes. I stopped and chatted with some <sup>(3)</sup> _____ (friend) craftsmen.

The fair also had <sup>(4)</sup> _____ (vary) entertainment activities. There were live music performances and <sup>(5)</sup> _____ (tradition) carnival games. I saw kids riding on a merry-go-round and tried some games myself.

The best part was the dessert exhibition. I saw creamy cakes, animal biscuits and colourful macarons (马卡龙). I even got to decorate a small cake myself. It was really cool.

- ☐ The fair was a joyful and <sup>(6)</sup> _____ (memory) experience. It was a perfect day filled with <sup>(7)</sup> _____ (excite) and new discoveries. Everyone was having a good time.

As a teenager, you go through emotional and physical changes. It can be harder to <sup>(1)</sup> _____ your feelings, but it is completely normal, even if it feels challenging.

However, if these feelings last for weeks or start to <sup>(2)</sup> _____ your daily life, like school or sleep, it might be a sign of something more <sup>(3)</sup> _____. While this doesn't always mean you have a mental health condition, it could mean you need support or <sup>(4)</sup> _____ help.

If you're <sup>(5)</sup> _____, try to talk to someone you trust, like a parent, teacher or counsellor. Sometimes, it's hard to find the words to express what you're feeling, but <sup>(6)</sup> _____ can be the first step toward feeling better.

Therapy ( 治疗 ) can be a helpful way, and it provides a safe space for you to express yourself and <sup>(7)</sup> _____ healthy ways to reduce stress. Your parents or <sup>(8)</sup> _____ can also learn how to support you more effectively.

With understanding, patience and the right help, you can get through this period and come out stronger and wiser.

Hello, I'm Joe Anderson. I'm a researcher who studies how people think about work. Have you noticed people's attitudes <sup>(1)</sup> _____ their jobs are changing?

In the past, people often <sup>(2)</sup> _____ in the same job for years. Work was seen as a duty. But things are very different now.

Today, more and more people want their work to be meaningful. They want to know <sup>(3)</sup> _____ they do their jobs for and hope that they can have time for family, hobbies and rest. Many are even willing to change jobs <sup>(4)</sup> _____ to find something that fits their goals.

One new trend shows that some people try to find a better balance between work and life. They are learning to finish their work on time and enjoy their free time with family. This helps them feel <sup>(5)</sup> _____, so they can do a better job when they work.

Another trend is the rise of self-employment. More people are choosing to work for <sup>(6)</sup> _____. They use platforms like social media to find work. This gives them more control over their time and allows them <sup>(7)</sup> _____ their passions.

What does the future hold? I think this trend will continue. More people will look for jobs <sup>(8)</sup> _____ match their values and allow them to live a full life. Companies will need to adapt by <sup>(9)</sup> _____ better support, flexibility and fair pay.

Change can be good. <sup>(10)</sup> _____, it also brings challenges. What do you think? Will you be part of this new way of thinking about work? Let's see what the future brings.

Looking for advice!

Hello, everyone! I'm a 15-year-old boy. Lately, my relationship with my mum has become really tense (令人紧张的). I find myself getting angry at her over small things, and I don't even know why. It's like I can't control my emotions sometimes. Have you guys gone through this? Any advice on how to handle it? I really don't want to keep fighting with her. Thanks!

Hey, I totally get what you're going through. I'm 14, and I've been feeling the same way with my mum recently. It's like everything she says or does just annoys me, and I end up yelling or saying things I don't mean. I don't know why it's happening either. It's really frustrating. I wish I had some advice, but I'm just as confused as you are. Hopefully, someone else here can help both of us out!

Hi! I haven't had the same issue with my mum, but I've definitely gone through other changes during puberty ( 青春期 ) that made me feel out of control. It's tough, but I think it's just part of growing up. Hang in there and it'll probably get better with time. You're not alone!

Hey, I'm sorry you're going through this. It sounds really tough, but it's great that you're reaching out for help. I've heard that talking to someone professional can really make a difference. Have you considered calling a youth counselling hotline or talking to a school counsellor? They specialise in helping teens with family and emotional issues. It might be worth a try to get some guidance. Take care!

Letters from Istanbul

Day 1

Dear children,

Hello from Istanbul! I just got here and I'm already in love with this city.

My first stop was a famous shop named Hacı Bekir. It is known for a kind of sweet candy called Turkish Delight (土耳其软糖). It is made with sugar and some kinds have nuts in them. I bought some for you. You have to try them!

In the evening, I went to Sultanahmet. I could smell fish cooking on boats by the water there. It smelled so good that I had fish sandwiches. It was a fun experience and made me feel part of the city.

Istanbul has a very long history. It began around 660 BCE when a Greek settlement (定居点) known as Byzantium (拜占庭) was founded on this site. It later grew into an important trading city on the Silk Road. Many cultures have mixed here, and it is very special. I hope you can visit it one day.

Love,

Dad

Day 2

Dear children,

Good morning from Istanbul! Yesterday was great and today was even better. My day began by learning how Istanbul is a mix of many cultures. People from Europe and Asia have come here, bringing their own traditions and ways of life.

What I like most is Turkish music. Turkish music mixes old and new styles to create a very unique sound. It is beautiful and interesting. It makes me think of the songs your great-grandma used to sing at home. I also met a nice old lady named Aylin who baked very good scones (司康饼). I had a nice talk with her and was even invited into her kitchen to help her bake some scones, reminding me of my childhood in England! When I was young, your grandma didn't let me eat too many scones. But today I baked them myself and enjoyed them with strong Turkish coffee.

My trip has been wonderful so far. I'm excited to show you more of Istanbul when I come back. I will write again soon with more stories!

Love,

Dad

Host: Welcome! Today, we have a special guest Alex, who is a fan of Agatha Christie, a famous British writer known for her detective novels. Can you tell us a bit about yourself and why you're such a big fan of Agatha Christie?

Guest: Hi! I'm Alex, and I've been a huge fan of Agatha Christie since I was in primary school. Her stories are so full of mystery.

Host: That's great, Alex! Do you know how Agatha started her writing career?

Guest: Well, I do actually. Agatha was largely educated at home. She wrote her first book because her sister Madge challenged her to do it. At first, it was really hard for her to get published. She tried for about five years before finally breaking through with The Mysterious Affair at Styles (《斯泰尔斯庄园奇案》) in 1920. This marked the beginning of her incredible career as a writer.

Host: Wow, that's quite a journey! What made her storytelling so unique and successful?

Guest: Agatha had an amazing imagination and unmatched storytelling abilities. She created two of the most beloved fictional detectives: Hercule Poirot and Miss Marple. In fact, her books have sold over two billion copies and have been translated into over 100 languages!

Host: Those numbers are mind-blowing!

Guest: Yes! Agatha broke another record with the thickest book ever. It is a collection of Miss Marple stories, including 12 novels and 20 short stories, with 4,032 pages in total. She was also the first writer to release 100,000 copies of 10 different novels on the same day. Also, her play The Mousetrap (《捕鼠器》) has been performed in London for over 70 years!

Host: That's truly remarkable! How do you think Agatha's legacy will continue to influence future generations?

Guest: I believe her legacy will live on for a long time. You know, she is often called one of the world's best-selling novelists. I think her stories will inspire many more writers and readers in the future.

Host: Thank you, Alex, for sharing your insights about Agatha Christie.

Voices of overseas Chinese

Hu Yuan, originally from Guangzhou, is now an IT engineer in New Zealand.

"To me, customs mean _____."

I've worked in many places around the world, and many Chinese people like me still follow our traditions, especially during the Spring Festival. We get together with family and cook tasty meals at home or eat out in restaurants. Celebrating the Spring Festival reminds me of who I am.

My little daughter was born here in New Zealand, but I want her to learn about Chinese history and language, so she can appreciate where she came from. Keeping traditions like the reunion dinner and wearing red is more than just fun. It is a way to help my daughter find her roots. I hope these celebrations will give her a strong sense of belonging, so she will always be proud to say she is Chinese, no matter where she grows up.

I often think about my grandma during the festival. She passed away years ago. I miss the time I celebrated the festival with her when I was young. She taught me how important family is.

An Ping, originally from Beijing, is now a 17-year-old boarding school student in the U.S.

"I'm glad that I can work as an envoy (使者) to _____."

This year, I'm going to spend the Spring Festival at my boarding school. The school will hold a morning meeting where Asian students will be invited to share their stories about the traditions and customs of the Spring Festival. I plan to teach my American classmates how to make jiaozi and Chinese knots. Many of my American classmates are very interested in Chinese culture. They even offered to help me decorate my room with red lanterns and paper cuttings. It will be great fun. I still miss the Spring Festival back in China — the food, fireworks and gifts. My family is what I miss the most. I'll talk to my parents through video calls and exchange best wishes. Hopefully, I'll also receive red envelopes from my family.

3-1 Choose the correct answer(s). 选出正确的答案。

- (1) The Spring Festival traditions that Hu Yuan and An Ping still follow are _____.
 A. having a big dinner
 B. making jiaozi
 C. doing the cleaning
 D. setting off fireworks
 E. making best wishes
 F. decorating rooms with red lanterns
 G. giving out/receiving red envelopes
- (2) Both Hu Yuan and An Ping miss _____ most.
 A. delicious food
 B. celebrations
 C. beloved family members

Topic: Is it still necessary to keep folk customs alive in the modern world?

I think <sup>(1)</sup> _____. We are living in a fast-changing modern world, and many traditional customs don't fit into our lifestyle today.

First, many traditional rituals are too complicated and take too much time. We are so busy with schoolwork and travelling that we don't have time for these procedures. For example, we have to clean the house and cook for days before the Spring Festival. It's exhausting!

Second, the ideas behind some traditions are old-fashioned. Many young people today don't believe in lucky signs or gods. Also, the custom of setting off fireworks causes air pollution and safety problems.

Lize 16 Nov.

@Lize I disagree. I think <sup>(2)</sup> _____. They are the root of who we are and help us understand our history.

Traditions give us a sense of identity and belonging. When we celebrate traditional festivals, we feel connected to our family and our country's past. Celebrating together also brings family members closer, which is important in our busy lives. For example, eating jiaozi during the Spring Festival is not just about enjoying food — it is about family reunion.

However, I agree that we need to change the way we celebrate to fit into the new era. We can use new technology to make it easier. Instead of physical red envelopes, we now send digital “red envelopes” on our phones. Instead of setting off real fireworks, we can use electronic fireworks. It not only keeps the spirit of the tradition, but also makes it safe and convenient for modern life.

A tourist and a guide are walking through Old Havana, Cuba. They are talking about the restoration work in the city.

Tourist: What was this square used for in the past?

Guide: It was a busy market square back then. People sold flowers, fruits and vegetables here, and it was also a popular place for celebrations.

Tourist: <sup>(1)</sup> _____ Are you doing repair work to make it look like it did before? It must have been a wonderful place in those days.

Guide: You're right. <sup>(2)</sup> _____ First, we give new apartments to the families who have to move. Then we find new uses for these old buildings — like turning them into cultural centres, restaurants or schools. Sadly, some of the old decorations can't be fully restored.

Tourist: <sup>(3)</sup> _____

Guide: But the good news is that there are still well-kept paintings high up on the walls. They show daily life from long ago.

Tourist: <sup>(4)</sup> _____ Do you have any trouble with the restoration work?

Guide: Sure. Sometimes our tools aren't good enough, so the work goes slowly. But we won't give up.

Tourist: <sup>(5)</sup> _____

Guide: We'll focus on repairing the street that leads to the Capitol (国会大厦) building. We really hope to save more of those valuable old buildings along that road.

The Hanging Gardens of Babylon

The Hanging Gardens of Babylon were among the most famous wonders of the ancient world. It is believed that they <sup>(1)</sup> _____ near the king's grand palace in Babylon. This area is now part of southern Iraq, <sup>(2)</sup> _____ its exact location remains a mystery.

This amazing attraction featured a very special <sup>(3)</sup> _____. It was probably built on a series of large stone platforms, rising like a green staircase from the ground. A well-known legend says that King Nebuchadnezzar II (尼布甲尼撒二世) <sup>(4)</sup> _____ the gardens for his wife, Amytis, who missed the green mountains and fresh air of her distant homeland and often felt sad.

Some researchers, however, have different ideas. They think the gardens might not have been in Babylon, but in the city of Nineveh, built by <sup>(5)</sup> _____ Sennacherib. He also relied on an advanced water system for his gardens. The design could <sup>(6)</sup> _____ the beauty of mountain scenery, showing the amazing skill of the ancient builders.

Even with these uncertainties, the Hanging Gardens remain a precious <sup>(7)</sup> _____ of ancient beauty, creativity and wisdom, inspiring people all over the world today.

Incredible landmarks around the world

Hey, everyone! Now I'm totally dreaming of visiting some landmarks around the world. Do you have any must-see ones that I should add to my wish list?

Hi, there! I've got one for you! If you love peaceful views, the Three Pools Mirroring the Moon at the West Lake, first built in the Song dynasty, is an absolute must-see. The three little pagodas in the water are only about two metres tall, arranged in a perfect triangle. But at night — magic happens! When the lights inside are turned on, their reflections on the lake look like little moons. It feels like stepping right into a fairy tale!

That's cool. Okay, my turn. Have you heard of Burj Al Arab in Dubai? It's a famous hotel built in the shape of a giant sail. It stands on its own little man-made island and is one of the tallest hotels in the world. Some say it's the only so-called "seven-star" hotel on the planet. If you want to see something truly modern and wonderful, this is the place to be!

Ningbo Museum — A memory of the past

Ningbo Museum in Zhejiang province <sup>(1)</sup> _____ (design) by Wang Shu, a famous Chinese architect who <sup>(2)</sup> _____ (win) the Pritzker Prize in 2012. Construction began in 2006 and ended three years later.

The building was designed to look like a mountain. Its lower part is square and firm, while the upper part angles outward. This “architecture as mountains” design <sup>(3)</sup> _____ (create) by Wang Shu to connect the building with nature.

The museum's most striking feature is its walls. Millions of old bricks and tiles <sup>(4)</sup> _____ (collect) from villages that had been torn down. These materials, some hundreds of years old, were carefully pieced together by local workers using traditional methods that <sup>(5)</sup> _____ (pass down) for centuries.

During construction, traditional building methods <sup>(6)</sup> _____ (employ) by local craftsmen. Fifty workers were brought in to place each brick by hand. Thanks to their careful and patient work, every detail of the walls was perfectly made. The result of this painstaking effort is a building like no other. Since its opening, the museum <sup>(7)</sup> _____ (attract) architecture lovers worldwide. What moves them is not just the appearance, but the ideas behind it. Here, Wang Shu gave new life to old materials and brought forgotten traditions into modern use. In doing so, he created a space where the past and the present exist side by side.

Wang Shu believes that traditions should <sup>(8)</sup> _____ (bring) into modern life. This idea has been widely discussed in his articles and interviews. Today, Ningbo Museum <sup>(9)</sup> _____ (recognise) as one of China's most important modern buildings. It <sup>(10)</sup> _____ (stand) as history itself — built from the stones of the past.

Tom: I'm really into famous buildings. Do you know anything about the Sydney Opera House?

Lily: Sure! I'm actually from Australia, so I've seen it many times.

Tom: Oh, you're Australian? That's perfect! How was the design chosen?

Lily: Well, the design was chosen in 1957 from over 200 entries. Finally, the winner was a Danish architect <sup>(1)</sup> _____.

Tom: A Danish architect? That's interesting. Was his design very different from others?

Lily: Yes, very different. Most buildings back then looked nothing like it. The opera house was designed like sails — really unique for that time.

Tom: I see. How long did the construction take?

Lily: It <sup>(2)</sup> _____. That's 14 years!

Tom: Wow, that's a long time. Who opened it in the end?

Lily: It <sup>(3)</sup> _____ on 20 October 1973.

Tom: That must have been a big event. I heard it's a World Heritage Site now. When did that happen?

Lily: It <sup>(4)</sup> _____ in 2007.

Tom: Thanks for all the information! I'd love to visit it one day.

Lily: You really should go someday.

A visit to Shanghai Natural History Museum

Today our class went on a trip to Shanghai Natural History Museum. It was an amazing experience!

The dinosaur exhibition was our favourite part. <sup>(D)</sup>Huge dinosaur skeletons displayed in a large, open space. <sup>(E)</sup>People discovered the skeletons in many places across China. <sup>(F)</sup>Scientists spent years putting them together.

<sup>(G)</sup>A short film about climate change was shown to us in the afternoon. After the film, we discussed how to protect the environment. Some of my classmates shared excellent ideas.

<sup>(H)</sup>Before we left, I bought a small dinosaur toy at the gift shop. The toy was made from recycled materials. Mum loved it when I showed it to her. I hope we can visit again soon!

Plastic pollution is a severe problem. Around eight million tons of plastic waste ends up in the ocean every year, and it takes centuries to <sup>(1)</sup> _____. This waste, especially those tiny plastic pieces, is extremely <sup>(2)</sup> _____ to ocean animals and birds, yet many people ignore the danger.

Fifteen-year-old Sophie, who cares deeply about the environment, decided to help <sup>(3)</sup> _____ this problem using her engineering skills. She built a remotely-operated vehicle (ROV) that can reach the <sup>(4)</sup> _____ of the ocean. It uses three kinds of light to make plastic stand out from sand and plants.

The vehicle also identifies plastic by its <sup>(5)</sup> _____ colours and shapes before sending data back to the computer.

Sophie developed her engineering <sup>(6)</sup> _____ by attending university workshops from an early age. She faced many failures but kept trying. A(n) <sup>(7)</sup> _____ praised her excellent engineering sense. Sophie believes that everyone can contribute to fighting plastic pollution. Small efforts can help bring <sup>(8)</sup> _____ back to nature and let hope blossom for our environment.

How do sewage ( 污水 ) treatment plants work?

Have you ever wondered where the water goes after you flush the toilet or wash your hands? It doesn't just disappear! Instead, it travels through a network of underground pipes to a sewage treatment plant. There, the water is cleaned and made safe for reuse. Let's take a look at how it happens in five simple steps!

Step 1: Wastewater collection

First, wastewater from homes, schools and factories flows through underground pipes to the treatment plant. Since most plants are built on low ground, gravity ( 重力 ) does most of the work. However, pumping stations are sometimes needed to help lift water to higher ground.

Step 2: Large waste removal

At the plant, the water first passes through screens ( 格栅 ). These screens catch big things like plastic bags and sticks. Then, the water slows down in special tanks, where heavy materials like sand sink to the bottom and are removed.

Step 3: Solid settlement

Next, the water flows into large tanks. Here, the water moves very slowly. Small solid particles ( 颗粒 ) sink down and form a thick, muddy layer called sludge ( 淤泥 ).

Step 4: Biological treatment

Then, the water enters aeration tanks ( 曝气池 ), where friendly bacteria are added to break down the remaining dirt. This is called the activated sludge method. After the bacteria finish their work, they sink to the bottom, leaving cleaner water above.

Step 5: Final treatment

Finally, the water goes through special filters ( 过滤器 ) to remove any remaining tiny particles. Disinfectants ( 消毒剂 ) or UV light are then used to kill the germs ( 病菌 ) in the water. Now the water is clean and safe enough to go back to rivers or be reused for watering plants.

Sewage treatment plants are essential for protecting public health and the environment. Without them, dirty water would pollute our lakes and rivers, harming wildlife and people.

2-1 Complete the problem-solution diagram according to the passage. 根据短文内容, 填写“问题—解决方案”图表。

2-2 Complete the diagram about the sewage treatment process. 补全关于污水处理过程的图表。

Organisations fighting against pollution

Pollution comes in many forms — air, water, plastic and more. Around the world, there are different organisations working hard to fight against it.

United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP)

Based in Nairobi, Kenya, UNEP was founded in 1972 as an international intergovernmental organisation responsible for global environmental issues and promoting sustainable development. For example, it has supported some countries in improving policies to cut industrial and vehicle emissions (排放). With a team of nearly 3,000 staff members in 41 countries and regions, UNEP aims to encourage people to live better lives and protect the environment for future generations.

WaterAid

WaterAid is an international not-for-profit and non-governmental organisation which was established in 1981 and has its headquarters in London, UK. It works to deal with water pollution and provide clean drinking water. It operates in 22 countries across Africa, Asia, South America and the Pacific region. Since its establishment, it has helped about 29 million people get safe water. In Ethiopia, it has built many wells so villagers no longer need to drink from polluted rivers.

China Environmental Protection Foundation (CEPF)

Founded in Beijing in 1993, CEPF is China's first national public foundation dedicated to environmental protection, operating as a non-governmental organisation. It organises beach and wetland clean-up activities to reduce plastic pollution in cities such as Shanghai and Guangzhou. It also runs environmental volunteer projects to raise public awareness of environmental issues and promote low-carbon practices. So far, it has provided over 90,000 hours of volunteer service across 421 communities and schools in 39 cities.

Thanks to the efforts of these organisations, progress is being made in the fight against pollution. By working together — across borders and communities — they are helping to create a cleaner, healthier planet for both people and wildlife.

3-1 Complete the summary of the passage. 补全文章概要。

The passage introduces three organisations that are working to fight <sup>(1)</sup> _____ pollution. UNEP is <sup>(2)</sup> _____ organisation founded in 1972. - 2 Read the letter that Meiling wrote to her sick teacher, Mr Zhang. Find the improper expressions or sentences. Then rewrite them in the table. 读美玲写给病中张老师的信，找出不恰当的表达或句子，并在表格中进行改写。

Hi Mr Zhang,

What's up? Hope you're OK. Just wanted to tell you about our "No Plastic Day" activity held last Friday.

We got a lot of students to bring their own bottles and say no to plastic ones. Many students took it seriously and shared their own ideas to reduce waste. It was meaningful because it raised awareness of plastic pollution among us. Hope we can do more stuff like this.

Thanks!

Bye for now,

Meiling

(Part 2 Vocabulary and grammar)

- 1 Complete the passage with the proper forms of the words in brackets. 用括号中所给单词的适当形式补全短文。

Can air pollution cancel out your exercise benefits?

Hey, there! Have you ever gone for a run or played sports outside? You're probably thinking that you're doing something great for your <sup>(1)</sup> _____ (healthy). But did you know that breathing polluted air might make your workout less <sup>(2)</sup> _____ (effect) than you thought?

People living in highly polluted areas experienced fewer positive effects from <sup>(3)</sup> _____ (physics) activity. Shockingly, more than 90% of the world's <sup>(4)</sup> _____ (populate) lives in areas where air pollution levels go beyond WHO safety limits!

So, what's the problem? When you exercise, you breathe faster and deeper. This means you breathe in much more air than usual. More harmful particles (like PM<sub>2.5</sub>) go deep into your lungs and even enter your bloodstream. It hurts your lungs and heart. Your body gets overloaded with toxins (毒素). You might cough, or feel tired more easily. The benefits you gain from exercise drop <sup>(5)</sup> _____ (significant).

But don't worry! Staying active is still <sup>(6)</sup> _____ (benefit), even in polluted places. Experts say that good air quality would make your exercise better.

Here's what you can do: Check air quality forecasts before heading out. Choose cleaner routes, like parks instead of busy roads. Working out indoors is also a wise choice, as long as you keep the room full of fresh air.

Staying active is necessary, but breathing clean air is also of great <sup>(7)</sup> _____ (important). Keep moving, and be smart about where and when!

Take the trip: Four reasons to travel

Travelling isn't just for adults. It's an amazing experience for teenagers too! Whether it's a short trip or a longer adventure, travelling can teach you what you might not expect. Here's why you should <sup>(1)</sup> _____ your bags and explore the world.

1. You'll learn to solve problems.

When you travel, you'll face new challenges every day, like figuring out directions, finding a place to stay, or dealing with <sup>(2)</sup> _____ changes. These experiences will make you more independent, <sup>(3)</sup> _____ and adaptable.

2. You'll see the world differently.

Travelling is the best way to understand other cultures and <sup>(4)</sup> _____ fixed ideas. You'll meet people with different lifestyles and learn to be more open-minded. Seeing how others live might even <sup>(5)</sup> _____ you to help out or volunteer in your own community. It's a chance to get a whole new <sup>(6)</sup> _____ of the world.

3. You might learn new languages.

When you travel <sup>(7)</sup> _____, you'll have the chance to pick up some of the local language. Even learning a few basic phrases can help you connect with people and understand their culture better.

4. You'll make amazing memories.

Travelling is an adventure you'll never forget. Whether it's trying new foods, exploring beautiful places, or meeting new friends, the memories you make will <sup>(8)</sup> _____ you forever.

So, if you have the opportunity to travel, take it! It's a chance to grow, learn and discover new things. And don't forget to take lots of pictures. You'll want to remember this adventure for years to come!

The old vs the new

“We should build more tall new buildings,” says Mia.

I think it's a good idea to replace old buildings with tall, modern ones. Many cities are growing fast, and more space <sup>(1)</sup> _____ for people to live and work. Tall buildings can house more families and offices. It helps solve problems like overcrowding and high housing costs. Old buildings <sup>(2)</sup> _____ not be safe or useful after many years, so they often need a lot of repairs. By building new structures, we will make our communities <sup>(3)</sup> _____ than they used to be. What's more, new buildings are usually better designed, like energy-saving features <sup>(4)</sup> _____ are good for the environment. <sup>(5)</sup> _____ it's sad to see old buildings go, sometimes change is necessary for progress.

“We should keep some old buildings,” says Leo.

I don't think we should tear down all the old buildings. Old buildings are part of our history and culture. They tell stories about how <sup>(6)</sup> _____ in the past and give our community <sup>(7)</sup> _____ unique character. If we destroy them, we lose a piece of our identity. Some old buildings are still strong, <sup>(8)</sup> _____ they can be reused instead of being replaced. For example, old buildings can be transformed into museums, art galleries or even homes through smart construction. <sup>(9)</sup> _____ this way, we can keep our history alive while still making room for modern needs. I believe we <sup>(10)</sup> _____ this — keeping the most important old buildings and building new ones where it makes sense.

第三部分 阅读理解

(Part 3 Reading)

- 1 Read the passage and choose the best answer. 阅读短文，选择最恰当的答案。

Zikawei Library

Zikawei Library (徐家汇书院) is located in the core of the Xujiahui Origin Scenic Area, Shanghai. "Zikawei" is the Wade-Giles romanisation (威妥玛式拼音法) of "Xujiahui" based on the Shanghainese pronunciation. The library hosts cultural and tourism functions. It was designed to be an open and welcoming place in order to build a strong connection within the community and attract people who love reading, as well as those who want to explore the city.

Features

Zikawei Library is a large and modern public library with a total floor area of 18,650 square metres. Its design is both distinctive (独特的) and meaningful, representing a mix of East and West, as well as the past and the present. The library features a unique Guangqi Gate inside its main hall, which was inspired by the Tushanwan Archway (土山湾牌楼) and created through 3D printing technology. As a library, it also contains its own iconic feature, a 20-metre-long reading table. It is the longest reading table in Shanghai.

Functions

The library has two underground floors and three above-ground floors. It provides nearly 800 reading seats for readers. Inside the library, you can find over 200,000 books and more than 600 kinds of newspapers and magazines, along with rich digital resources. Zikawei Library is not just a place for reading books. It is a new cultural and tourism space. It combines different functions such as reading, technology, museum services, art and tourism.

Opening hours

The library is open from Tuesday to Sunday, from 9:00 to 21:00. Please note that the last entry is at 20:30. The library is closed on Mondays. The first-floor Children's Area and the third floor close earlier, at 17:00.

Come and visit Zikawei Library to enjoy the magic experience of reading!

- (1) What is the main purpose of this passage?
  - A. To describe how to build a modern library using 3D printing technology.
  - B. To introduce Zikawei Library and attract people to visit it.
  - C. To compare the past and the present of Zikawei Library.
  - D. To explain what makes Zikawei Library a cultural and tourism space.
- (2) Which of the following information is NOT included in the passage?
  - A. Opening hours.
  - B. Floor plans.
  - C. Location.
  - D. History.
- (3) For parents who take their children to Zikawei Library, they should know that _____.
  - A. the Children's Area opens eight hours a day.
  - B. the Children's Area is closed on weekdays
  - C. there is a children's area on every floor
  - D. they must leave the library at 8:30 p.m.

- (4) According to the passage, which of the following statements is true?
- A. Zikawei Library mainly serves people who live in the Xujiahui community.
  - B. Zikawei Library is a traditional library that focuses on providing paper books.
  - C. The name "Zikawei" comes from an old spelling system used for the Shanghai dialect (方言).
  - D. The Guangqi Gate was made from the old wood of the Tushanwan Archway.
- (5) Why was the library designed to be an open and welcoming place?
- A. To sell more books and magazines to tourists.
  - B. To better fit the architectural style of the Xujiahui area.
  - C. To strengthen community ties and attract readers and visitors.
  - D. To make it easier to run the library.

Emma, a curious junior high school student, is chatting with an AI assistant named Spark about jobs _____.

Emma: Hey, Spark! I've been hearing a lot about AI taking over jobs. Is that true? Will robots do everything in the future?

Spark: Probably not everything, Emma! Although AI is really good at some tasks, there are many jobs that still need humans. For example, jobs that require creativity, emotional intelligence or complex problem-solving are tough for AI to handle at the moment.

Emma: Really? Like what?

Spark: Well, think about teachers. Teaching isn't just about giving information; it's about understanding students' feelings, encouraging them and helping them grow. AI can't replace that human connection.

Emma: Oh, that makes sense. What about doctors? Can AI do their job?

Spark: AI can help with diagnoses (诊断), but doctors still need to make important decisions and care for patients themselves. AI doesn't have the human feelings needed for healthcare, like kindness and common sense.

Emma: Wow, I didn't know that. What about artists? I know AI can create amazing art.

Spark: AI can generate (生成) art, but it's not the same as human art. Artists express their emotions, ideas and experiences through their work. That's something unique to humans. And also, people love art because it connects with their feelings. It's something AI processes differently from humans.

Emma: I see! So, even with all the amazing things AI can do, there are still lots of jobs that need people.

Spark: That's right, Emma! AI is a tool to help humans, not replace them. Jobs that involve creativity, empathy (共情) and human connection will always need people. So, if you're thinking about your future career, don't worry. There are plenty of roles where you'll shine! Good luck!

The hidden cost of big sports events

What happens after the Olympic flame goes out? Or when the final whistle blows at the World Cup? You might think of medals and cheers, but there's a hidden side to these giant events — one that affects our planet.

Big sports events can create a lot of pollution. Think about all the people flying in from around the world, the energy used to light up huge stadiums, and the tons of waste from food packaging and plastic bottles. For example, the 2016 Rio Olympics in Brazil produced as many carbon emissions as hundreds of thousands of cars would in a year! And in Qatar, where water is very rare, during the 2022 World Cup, a huge amount of water was used every day just to keep the football fields green.

Fortunately, some countries are trying to change this. Beijing 2022 was the first Winter Olympics to be carbon-neutral. This means it did not cause extra harm to the climate. All the venues ( 场地 ) used green energy, like wind and solar power, instead of regular electricity. Beijing even saved old buildings from the 2008 Games to reuse for the new events. For example, the Water Cube was turned into the Ice Cube.

In Paris, France, the 2024 Olympic Games set out with the ambitious ( 有雄心心的 ) goal of becoming the greenest ever. To achieve this, the organisers built fewer new stadiums and used existing ones. The Games were powered by 100% renewable electricity. Even the beds in the Olympic Village were made from recyclable cardboard!

In the United States, Los Angeles is getting ready for the 2028 Olympics. They plan to use electric buses to carry athletes and visitors. No gas, no smoke — just clean travel.

Big games don't have to hurt the Earth. With smart ideas and care, we can enjoy sports and protect our planet at the same time. Maybe one day, you'll help design a zero-waste stadium. What green idea would you bring to the sports world?
