《高中英语》（上外版）教学参考资料板块说明

1. 单元教学内容与目标（Content and Objectives）

单元教学内容与目标是单元教学活动设计的指南，对单元各板块的活动设计和教学建议等起统领作用。单元教学目标是指从英语学科素养和单元教学内容的角度，审视整个单元，确定单元教学宏观目标，即单元整体教学目标。再从课程六要素：主题语境、语篇类型、语言知识、文化知识、语言技能和学习策略出发，依据教材内容和学业质量标准，分解课程目标，设计相关的板块微观目标。《课标》是单元设计的坐标，把握教材体系与教学内容是单元整合设计的基点，考虑课程六要素综合设计教学目标是起点，运用 SMART 策略设计教学目标是焦点。目标应该是具体的（specific）、可检测的（measurable）、可达成的（attainable）、现实的 / 相关的（realistic/relevant），以及在单位时间内可以完成的（time-based）。单元教学内容与目标能帮助教师把握单元教学基本要求，形成单元教学活动的坐标。

2. 单元导入（Getting Started）

该板块是单元学习的导入环节，旨在通过开放式的讨论，激活学生的语言和背景知识，创设单元主题语境，引入单元话题，构建相关的话题词汇语义网，为后续的单元活动奠定语言基础。导入可以采取问题驱动，激活语境；看图互动，激活语言；基于话题，交流互动等

方式。该板块的显著特点是：活动设计的开放性、话题交流的指向性和语言激活的情境性，注重教师的引导和学生的积极互动。该板块的宗旨是帮助教师构建单元主题语境，引导学生熟悉单元话题，激活话题词汇语义网。

3. 阅读 – 课文 (Reading A) 【理解】

课文 A 是本单元的主阅读语篇。为帮助教师掌握语篇的内容和内涵，我们将其细分为“语篇分析”“背景介绍”“教学建议”“难句注释”“词汇释义”等。“语篇分析”从语篇类型、语篇内容、语篇结构、语言特征以及语篇所表达的主题意义入手，帮助教师掌握语篇理解与生成的方法，从而指导学生掌握阅读技能，根本上解决授之以渔的问题，同时，通过对课文的深层剖析和互动，实现从浅层教学向深度教学转变，提升基于单元主题的文化意识和思辨能力。“背景介绍”涉及语篇来源和作者背景介绍；“难句注释”主要为教师解释课文中较难理解的句子；“词汇释义”是为课文中的生词与短语提供中英文解释和经典例句，供教师参考。

4. 阅读 – 读后感触 (Personal Touch) 【理解】

该板块是基于课文 A 的互动活动，旨在为学生搭建读后互动交流平台，将阅读的体验与感悟表达出来，引导学生讨论并分享读后的真实感受。阅读与表达既是语言技能，也是语言学习的方式与过程，通过读后分享互动，有助于学生内化语言，培养理解与表达技能。该板块的活动设计注重情景的真实性、内容的真实性、语言的真实性和表达方式的真实性等。此外，还关注口语表达的思维性和逻辑性，帮助教师引导与鼓励学生说真话，让活动的展开顺阅读之势而为，促进学生自然交流和表达。

5. 阅读 – 语篇理解 (Reading Comprehension) 【理解】

该板块属于课文理解的核心内容。课文是英语语言知识及其运用的范本，其语言具有示范性，所涉及的语言学习目标具有综合性，分别指向语篇理解力、表达力、词汇能力、语法能力和策略运用能力等，旨在帮助教师解构语篇，将教学策略融入语篇教学。语篇理解活动包含基于语篇、深入语篇和超越语篇三个层次。基于语篇的理解包括语篇所传递的重要线索、事实信息和语篇大意；深入语篇的理解是整合梳理语篇信息，理解语篇目的、语篇对象和作者的理念、观点、立场、结论等；超越语篇的理解是对语篇的文体特征、文化特点、思想内涵作出价值判断，发表个人的见解和观点，从而培养学生的批判性思维和创新性思维能力。

6. 阅读 – 词汇聚焦 (Vocabulary Focus) 【发现】

该板块聚焦课文的目标词汇，核心词汇是教学的重点，包括运用词汇和少量识别词汇。活动设计的理念是，将词汇教学与语篇理解相结合，通过与语篇互动，学习并运用词汇；围绕语篇话题，建构该话题特有的词汇语义网，形成以语篇为依托，以主题意义的探究为目标，融合语言、文化和思维于一体的词汇教学设计。设计路径是：在基于语篇的互动中，理解词

汇；在深入语篇和超越语篇的互动中，运用词汇。每一个互动问题或任务均围绕一个话题，在互动中建构与话题相关的词汇。这种设计的价值在于，帮助教师在语篇互动中开展词汇教学，避免那种脱离语境的、单纯的语言主题式的教学，并密切联系单元其他板块，使板块之间互联互通。

7. 阅读 – 语法使用 (Grammar in Use) 【发现】

该板块是以单元语法为中心，根据《课标》倡导的英语语法教学观，以语言运用为导向，体现“形式—意义—使用”三维动态语法观，帮助教师理解语法设计中的认知语言学理念、情景教学理念和语篇教学理念。在具体活动的设计上，关注语法与语篇的关系，将语法教学与语篇理解相结合；关注语法与语境的关系，将语法教学与语境建立相联系；关注语法与语义的关系，实现语法规则与语义的统一。注重语法的表意功能与用法，尤其引导学生在真实的语境中运用语法，逐步培养与发展学生的语法意识，帮助教师明确学习语法是发展语言能力的基础，也是提升英语语言运用能力的重要组成部分。

8. 视听实践 (Listening and Viewing) 【理解】

视听板块的首要目标是在视听过程中，引导学生根据视听任务，关注多模态语篇协同建构意义的方式，并运用适当策略，培养学生获取和加工语篇所传递的相关信息的能力。其次，视听语篇还起到滚动并升级单元话题、丰富单元主题语境、增加内容和语言输入，以及建构话题知识的目的。为此，该板块教学活动设计应以内容为中心，依据视听任务分层设计活动，指导学生选用合适的视听策略，开展情景语境分析、言语行为分析、话轮分析等，进行基于视听语篇的基础互动和深入视听语篇的拓展互动设计，形成视听说一体化设计。

9. 综合运用 (Moving Forward) 【表达】

综合运用板块是以阅读和视听语篇中的语言输入内容为基础，以产出为导向的能力训练板块，着力培养学生的口语和书面表达能力。说与写的活动在设计上既相对独立，又密切相关，互联互通，相辅相成。板块设计是基于输出驱动教学和任务型教学的理念，从语用角度出发，关注真实语境、交际目的、交际场合、交际对象以及语言选择等，实现多模态语言输入、多技能语言输出、采用以说促写、以写助说、说写融合的教学流程，达到说写一体的效果。该板块主要帮助教师理解与掌握说与写技能教学理念、方法和策略，将说与写的活动有机融合，培养学生的说与写的表达性技能。

10. 拓展阅读 (Reading B) 【理解】

拓展阅读是对本单元课文主题语境的拓展及话题的延伸。该板块的“语篇分析”“背景介绍”“难句注释”和“词汇释义”栏目，虽然与课文 A 的栏目设置相同，但是各栏目容量相对较少。如在相同的“词汇释义”栏目中，对课文 A 解释的单词和短语不超过 20 个，而对

拓展阅读列出解释的单词和短语不多于 15 个。其次，拓展阅读与课文相比，文体不同，风格各异，因此，教学活动设计也因文而异，采取不同的策略，并从不同的角度帮助教师分析语篇内容及认识语篇文体特点。拓展阅读的目的是帮助教师开阔学生视野，提升学生的阅读和思维能力，并扩展主题语境下与该话题相关的词汇语义网。

11. 思辨训练 (Critical Thinking) 【拓展】

该板块的核心是思辨训练，兼顾思维的逻辑性和创新性，指向学生思维品质的培养与发展。思辨训练活动设计的特点是，以问题为导向，整合单元的阅读和视听语篇的相关信息，融语言、文化与思维于一体，通过梳理信息、运用思辨策略、表达个人见解或观点、提出解决问题的方法，形成思维成果。在思维训练的过程中，教师需要引导学生重组信息、阐明观点、举例说明、分析解释、得出结论等，这样既有助于培养学生的思辨能力，也能内化所学语言，实现语言产出，发展学生的语言能力。该板块的宗旨是，帮助教师掌握思辨训练要素，运用思辨标准与策略，设计出分析问题、解决问题、创造性地表达观点、情感和态度的思辨活动。

12. 项目探究 (Further Exploration) 【拓展】

项目探究板块的设计特点是，以项目为主线、教师为引导、学生为主体，设计信息收集、信息处理、方案设计、项目实施与评价的过程，突出项目探究过程的综合性、实践性和目标指向的多重性。活动内容是单元的延伸，与单元主题相关；具有可操作性，通过参观、采访、调查等实践活动，或采用上网或小组讨论形式等进行探究；培养学生自主学习、合作学习和探究学习的能力；活动设计的路径是，为教师提供较为具体的操作建议、内容要求和具体框架、要求学生以项目为载体，运用项目学习方法，整合单元学习内容，开展语言综合活动，以培养学生的探究能力。

13. 文化链接 (Culture Link) 【理解】

该板块主要对单元语篇中隐含的中外文化知识提供补充，或对文化现象作深入解读，可用作单元输入性语篇文化知识的补充或拓展。学生在阅读或审视文化现象的同时，也促进文化理解、增长文化知识、拓宽文化视野、深入理解文化价值观念，并树立正确的文化观和价值观，进而培养文化意识。利用好该板块也将增长教师的文化知识，培养教师的文化意识，有助于教师深刻理解并分析单元语篇中所隐含的文化知识、文化行为、文化习惯，以及这些文化现象所承载的文化观念和文化价值。若能将补充的文化知识与语篇中隐含的知识相融合，形成文化意识，则语言教学可达到“以文化促进语言理解与表达、以语言理解与表达促进文化传承与发展”的境界。

14. 自我评价 (Self-assessment)

该板块是对本单元总体学习目标的分项评估，涉及语言知识、文化意识、思维品质和学

习策略等。评价方式主要是引导学生在单元学习结束后参照所列的具体条目，回顾自己在单元学习中所取得的进步并反思存在的问题，启发学生调整学习策略，提升自主学习能力。设计自我评价的关键是，突出单元整体目标和不同维度的分项目标之间的关联以及两者的主导地位，将其用于评价学生的进步与成长；突出学生的评价主体地位，发挥学生的主观能动性；注重评价的合理性和多样性，开展好过程性评价；发挥评价的促学作用，帮助教师设计活动，培养学生形成检查、反思、计划与改进的良好学习习惯，并最终提升自主学习能力。

Getting Started

-  Discuss this question with your partner: when you think of nature, what first comes to mind? Note down what you like about nature in the mind map. Compare your notes with your partner's.

Reading A

Do you know that things in nature are connected? Read the text and find out how.

THE NATURAL GARDEN

There once lived a king who had a palace with beautiful gardens. In those gardens lived thousands of creatures representing hundreds of different species.
5 It was a paradise.

There was only one thing that the king disliked — the remains of a huge tree standing in the middle of the gardens. It was withered and dry. So, he had it cut down 10 and replaced with elaborate fountains.

Some time later, a wise nobleman visited the king. “Your Majesty, people have been singing the praises of the beauty of these gardens and the many creatures that 15 live in them. But I’ve hardly seen a thing move — not one animal. I feel tricked!” whispered the nobleman. The king realised that the wise man was right! The animals had left and the gardens were empty. The 20 king sent for his advisers. He offered a reward to anyone with a solution. He was presented with many theories and ideas. He tried them all, but nothing could restore the royal gardens to their former splendour.

25 Years later, long after many of the grounds’ plants and flowers had also disappeared or withered, a young man showed up. He had an explanation. “There

Getting Started

教学内容与要求

- 能通过思维导图说出与本单元主题相关的词汇；
- 能通过讨论激活该单元话题背景；
- 能通过讨论意识到自然界与人类和谐共生的关系及其重要性。

教学建议

1 Introduce the topic of the unit—nature. Direct students’ attention to the mind map and the question on text page 4. Encourage students to work out their answers individually and write down what comes to their minds to complete the mind map. Ask students to compare and discuss their notes with their partner. After that, let students share answers with the class. Compile a list of ideas on the blackboard if necessary.

2 If students have difficulty understanding some of the words in the mind map, explain the words with examples or have upper-level students explain them to lower-level students.

3 If students have difficulty answering the question, provide them with some scaffolding questions, like What kind of flower(s) do you like? What famous mountains come to mind? Have you ever visited any national parks? ...

Suggested Activities 见 page T18d.

背景介绍

This passage is adapted from a story retrieved from a website for bedtime stories. It tells us that the balance of nature can be upset very easily. Before taking actions that impact nature, we should conduct a careful study of species that might be affected.

难句注释

1. There was only one thing that the king disliked — the remains of a huge tree standing in the middle of the gardens. (lines 6–8)

难句注释

3. The bigger animals fed mainly on the brightly coloured birds, which ate colourful worms, which in turn fed on the various plants and flowers native to that part of the world. (lines 38–42)

本句比较长，且有着分句套分句的布局，重点是要看出各分句之间的逻辑关系，一层一层地分析。本句中 which ate colourful worms 是 which 引导的非限制性定语从句，修饰前面的 birds；本句中 which in turn fed on the various plants and flowers native to that part of the world 也是以 which 引导的非限制性定语从句，修饰 worms。整句意为“体型较大的动物主要以色彩明艳的鸟类为食，这些鸟以颜色各异的蠕虫为食，而蠕虫又以园中生长的各种花草植被为食。”

4. But recreating the gardens, he later found out, would take many years. (lines 59–60)

本句中 he later found out 是一个插入成分，可以理解为 He later found out (that) recreating the gardens would take many years。整句意为“不过后来他发现，重塑花园需要很多年的时间。”

1. Ask students to name the person who they think is the wisest and then tell their partners why they think so.

Chinese Wisdom: Harmony Between Humans and Nature

The core of Chinese culture is the pursuit of humans' harmonious unity with nature. Such values are expressed in our lifestyles by the word du (literally "degree" or "limit"). It represents the wisdom of the Chinese in life and in human interaction with the environment. In many Chinese landscape paintings, waterfalls and mountain peaks make up much of the painting while humans often have a place. They are participants in the natural scene, but they do not dominate it.

● Comprehension

I. Put the sentences in the right order according to the story.

6	The king was full of regrets. He wanted to restore the beauty of his gardens, but it would take many years.
2	The king had the tree — the only thing that he disliked in the gardens — cut down.
3	The king realised that there were no more living creatures in his gardens.
5	A young man came with an explanation and a solution.
4	The king sent for advisers, but none of them was able to explain the mystery.
1	The king had gardens as beautiful as paradise.

II. Answer the questions.

1. Why did the king order his men to cut down the huge tree in his gardens?
2. What was soon missing from the king's gardens? What had caused the problem?
3. How long did it probably take for the beauty of the gardens to be recreated on the young man's property?
4. What does the sentence "Nature couldn't be rushed" (line 61) mean? Explain it in your own words.
5. What lesson have you learned from the story?

III. Make your own dialogue.

The king is now about to ask his men to cut down the old tree in his gardens. Suppose you are one of the advisers to the king and you know how everything in the gardens is connected. You want to persuade the king to give up his plan. Work with a partner and make your own dialogue, and then act it out. You can start like this:

The king: The old tree is withered and dry. What's the point of leaving it in my royal gardens? It's completely out of place!

The adviser: Your Majesty! Allow me to ...

参考答案

- II 1. Because it was withered and dry and did not match the rest of his beautiful gardens.
2. There were no more animals in the gardens. The removal of the withered tree had caused this.
3. Probably decades (20–30 years). The text gives us the clues such as “before he (the young man) was born, his father had collected the old tree that the king ordered taken out. He replanted it on their land.” When the young man visited the king, he was probably in his early 20s.
4. No matter how eager you are to restore nature, it takes time — sometimes ages — to do it. Just as the idiom goes, “Rome was not built in one day.” It reminds people of the time needed to create something great.
5. Nature is in such a delicate balance that any of our careless decisions may lead to its destruction.

III Reference answer:

The king: The old tree is withered and dry. What’s the point of leaving it in my royal gardens? It’s completely out of place!

The adviser: Your Majesty! Allow me to bring to your attention the fact that the old tree has been very important in keeping the balance of nature in your gardens.

The king: What? A dead tree?

The adviser: Yes, a dead tree.

The king: Come forward! I am eager to hear your reasons.

The adviser: Although the huge tree is dead, the remains of it provide the gardens with thousands of moths. The moth poo is the main source of nutrition for insects and other organisms, which give food to the rare plants and flowers in your gardens. These various plants and flowers give food to the colourful worms, which in turn are the main food for the brightly coloured birds. The bigger animals feed mainly on those birds. So, Your Majesty, actually everything in the gardens is connected. We’d better keep the old tree and carefully maintain the balance of nature.

The king: Judging by your explanations, I believe the old tree in question should be kept and well/carefully protected.

I am the tree who used to live in the king's gardens. Every spring thousands of moths came out of me. The moths attracted birds, which 1 in turn provided food for bigger animals. Gradually, the gardens were filled with life and colour. The king was very proud of his gardens, in which thousands of creatures 2 representing hundreds of species now lived. They turned the gardens into a paradise that everyone enjoyed. I was old, withered and dry, and it turned out that I was the only thing in the gardens that the king disliked. Then one day the king 3 showed up and decided he could stand me no more. He had me cut down and 4 replaced with elaborate fountains. But to his surprise, all the animals living in the gardens were gone in time. The king 5 sent for advisers, but none of them came up with a solution.

Many years passed before a young man presented himself to the king. Though everyone else 6 broke into laughter when he pointed out that it was the "moth poo" that played a key role in keeping life balanced and healthy in the gardens, the king took his 7 explanation seriously.

The king wanted to recreate the 8 former beauty of his gardens. However, it would take many years to restore the 9 balance of nature, for I was delicate — easy to 10 destroy and so was the balance of nature!

People have different views about how we treat natural resources. Some people believe that wild forests should be preserved. Others think that wild forests are there to be used as much as possible to keep the economy running.

An antonym is a word that is opposite in meaning to another word. For example, active is an antonym of passive. Here are more examples.

T: Why has the island attracted international media attention?
S: Because of the swimming pigs that live there.

Suggested Activities 见 pages T18h–T18i.

A relative clause gives more information about someone or something referred to in a main clause. Some relative clauses (defining relative clauses) are used to specify which person or thing we mean, or which type of person or thing we mean. Relative clauses begin with a relative pronoun, such as who, whom, that, which or whose. For example:

- Several athletes whom the reporter spoke to complained about the smog hanging over the city.
- The king offered a reward to anyone whose solution would be effective.

When we use a defining relative clause, the relative pronoun can be the subject or the object of the clause. For example:

- Rockall is a small island which/that lies west of Scotland.
- He showed me the rocks (which/that) he had brought back from Australia.

When the relative word is the object of the clause, it can be omitted. For example:

- We went to a garden (which/that) Jane had recommended to us.

II. Connect the sentences using a relative pronoun, as in the example. Use “–” to indicate where a relative pronoun is not necessary.

EXAMPLE

Most of the forests have now been destroyed. (They once covered this area.)
Most of the forests that/which once covered this area have now been destroyed.

- He took me to see the old garden bridge. (He is rebuilding it.)
He took me to see the old garden bridge which/that/- he is rebuilding.
- Sea lions are intelligent animals. (They can be trained to monitor and report on underwater conditions.)
Sea lions are intelligent animals that/which can be trained to monitor and report on underwater conditions.
- People have to pay for their actions or clean up. (They create air, water and waste pollution.)
People who create air, water and waste pollution have to pay for their actions or clean up.
- We are going to interview people. (Their job is to study humans’ impact on our planet.)
We are going to interview people whose job is to study humans’ impact on our planet.

III. Complete the passage with appropriate relative clauses from the options given on the right.

Do pigs swim? Anyone 1 F can answer this question. The island has attracted international media attention because of the swimming pigs 2 A. No one knows for sure how these pigs first got to the island. Some say they were left by a group of sailors 3 E.

Pig Beach has become a popular tourist attraction. Those who want to take a break from their busy lives can swim with pigs 4 D. Because the pigs have got used to being fed by tourists, they swim out to meet the boats 5 B.

People 6 C can not only get a selfie with the swimming pigs, but also enjoy a boat trip along the attractive coastlines, and discover its endless natural beauty.

- A. that live there
- B. that arrive each day
- C. who come to the island

- E. who planned to come back and cook them
- F. who has visited the tiny island of Big Major Cay

Landscape Painting: What's in the Picture?

I. Speaking: Describing a scene in a landscape painting or photo

A collection of landscape paintings and photos will be shown at the International Art Festival of your school. You are one of the volunteers and will introduce and describe pieces of artwork to the visitors: your schoolmates and some exchange students from other countries.

Below is one of the paintings on display. Prepare your description by following the steps.

Step 1 Work with a partner and talk about what you see in the painting. Try to find as many details as possible. Make a list of the details that you want to include in your description. Rank them from the most impressive to the least.

Step 2 Talk with your partner about what you see from different angles, e.g. from left to right and from top to bottom. Decide on the order in which the details will be presented.

Step 3 Practise your description with your partner. While you describe the painting, use some of the prepositions of place.

Prepositions of Place
above	next to	near	in front of
below	behind	here	in the foreground/background
across	on the top of	opposite	in the distance
through	to the side of	against	on a lower level
beside	far to (the left side)	between	on the left/right

Step 4 Suppose your classmates are the visitors. Describe the painting in class. Maintain good posture and eye contact with your classmates while presenting.

教学建议

I. Speaking:

Introduce “Speaking Strategy: Maintaining good posture and eye contact” to students. Remind students to maintain good posture by standing upright and facing the audience during a presentation. And encourage them to look people in the eye and break eye contact with each person every 2–5 seconds.

Step 1

1. Describe the plan for the International Art Festival at your school to arouse students’ interest. Show a picture of volunteers to students, encourage them to work as volunteers at the festival and explain the speaking task to them.
2. Ask students to study the Chinese painting on text page 12 and then talk with their partner about what impresses them most in the painting.

Step 2

Guide students to view the painting from different angles, for example, from left to right and from top to bottom, and have them decide on the order in which they would like to present the details that impress them most in the painting.

Step 3

1. Have students look at the table and introduce prepositions of place to them: prepositions of place are prepositions we use when we talk about where an action takes place or when we discuss important details for communication purposes.
2. Describe the painting for students as an example and remind them to pay attention to what has been described, such as who, what, when and where, the order in which they have been described, and the prepositions of place that have been used in your description. Call on a few students to check for understanding and make brief comments.
3. Have students practise introducing the painting to their partner using prepositions of place as important signposts.

Step 4

1. Encourage students to volunteer and present their descriptions of the painting to the class. Remind them to maintain good posture by standing upright and facing the “audience” during the presentation.
2. Pass an evaluation sheet around the class and ask the “audience” to assess the speakers’ performance according to the rubrics given.

Evaluation sheet for reference:

Evaluation Grades: A=Excellent B=Good C=Okay D=Need to be improved

Volunteer	Rubrics and Grades
Volunteer 1
Volunteer 2
...

3. Select “Best Volunteer” or “Best Presentation” by voting based on the evaluation sheets.
4. Ask some of the “audience” to make comments on their classmates’ performances in terms of content, language and body language.

II. Writing:

Introduce “Writing Strategy: Writing in spatial order” to students. Guide students to understand what spatial order is by showing them some examples. Encourage students to use spatial order when describing a scene.

Step 1

1. Ask students to look at the landscape picture on text page 13 and reflect on the scene and the most important details in it.
2. Have students read the description of the picture and find the spatial order of the description.
3. Have students ask the four questions about the description as a checklist.
 - Are all the most important details in the scene described?
 - Is the scene described in spatial order?
 - Is the scene described in proper tenses?
 - Is the scene described with appropriate expressions?
4. Ask students to find a landscape painting or photo that they would like to submit to the exhibition.
5. Guide students to reflect on the scene of the painting or photo and write down the most important details that they are going to describe.

Step 2

1. Ask students to decide on the angle from which they want the viewers to observe the scene.
2. Ask students to re-read the example in their textbook and this time pay special attention to the words in bold.

Step 3

1. Ask students to write a description in spatial order in 70–90 words.
2. Have students do self-evaluation and peer-evaluation by asking the four questions.
3. Ask students to revise or rewrite their draft based on self evaluation and peer suggestions.
4. Create opportunities for students to display and share their writing, e.g. on the wall of the classroom, in the school newspaper, on the school website, etc.

Suggested Activities 见 pages T18j–T18k.

II. Writing: Describing a scene in spatial order

- Find a landscape painting or photo that you are very fond of. Write a paragraph to describe it in spatial order.

Step 1 Reflect on the scene in the painting or photo, and write down the most important details that you are going to describe.

Step 2 Decide on the angle from which you want the viewer to observe this scene. Take the following description as an example.

EXAMPLE The example writing can be used as reference.

A stream is flowing from the left to the far right in front of us through the grassland. In the water are the reflections of the clouds and the sky. At our feet, wild flowers grow on the bank. On the other side of the bank on the far right, some trees grow tall and strong. Further in the distance on our left stands a beautiful palace. The sun is setting beside the palace and casting a magnificent glow on the masses of clouds above in the sky. All these elements combine to present a lovely view of nature at dusk.

Step 3 Write your description in spatial order in 70 – 90 words.

Writing Strategy

Writing in spatial order

Spatial order is a method of organisation in which details are presented as they are (or were) located in space — e.g. from left to right or from top to bottom. Spatial order provides the angle from which readers observe the details.

THE BEAUTY OF NATURE

I sometimes stare at the sky and wonder why we have made such a mess of things. I wonder why we tear up the seas and use up the trees all in the name of progress. It is such a tragedy that we are 5 damaging things so fast and they will soon be way beyond repair.

It is sad to think future generations will not have the natural things to enjoy as 10 we have had, and that they will be paupers when it comes to the offerings of the natural world.

But preserving nature is one thing, appreciating it is quite another. There is so 15 much beauty all around us to see, touch and hear. Nature is miraculous because it is always changing. No matter how many times you look at something, you can always find something different.

20 Nature can set a sky aflame at sunset or magically transform a familiar landscape into a snow-white wonderland. It can paint a rainbow in the sky, paint beautiful autumn colours on trees, or paint a clump 25 of daffodils in the grass with a glow of soft sunlight.

Nature brings beauty into our lives. Nature has a way of affecting our moods and it can force us to change our plans.
30 Nature is responsible for the sun, clouds, rain and snow. When it is sunny and bright outside, we feel cheerful inside. When it is cloudy and rainy, we often feel gloomy. When there is a beautiful starry night, the 35 moonlight makes us feel romantic.

When we see the leaves budding on a tree or when a timid flower pushes through the frozen ground, or when we smell the freshness of spring, new hope will always 40 come to us. Nature is truly an intrinsic part of our lives.

When we wake and see a sunrise, when we walk and feel a breeze, when we gaze at the mountains and the splendour
45 of the seas, when we see the earth renew its beauty at each season of the year and when the stars shine at night, we should be thankful to nature for giving us all these wonderful and miraculous things. Learning
50 to become more aware of nature can truly have a positive effect on our lives in the way we look at things and in the way we feel about ourselves.

Sharing stories about the efforts made to restore damaged nature

Like the king in “The Natural Garden,” people often destroy the environment before they realise it is too late. What can be done to restore nature to its original state? Work in groups and find an example of where this has been done, and tell the story to your classmates using pictures to show the contrast.

Step 1 Find a natural place/spot that was once damaged but is now restored or being restored. Search for pictures of its past and present.

Step 2 Find out what efforts have been made to restore the damaged natural place/spot. Write a story about it.

Step 3 Present your story to your classmates and use pictures to assist your presentation. An example slide is given.

- 能通过独立查阅资料、合作探讨的方式获取相关信息，并能将其整理后分享。

教学建议

Step 1

1. Ask students to read the introduction of the “Further Exploration” project and the three steps they are supposed to take to accomplish the project. Make sure they understand the task.
2. Divide the class into small groups of four according to their seating arrangement. (Variation: Ask students to team up by themselves.) Ask each group to fill in the following table and ensure that each group member is responsible for at least one part of the job.

Group	Information Collector	Information Organiser	Main Writer	Presentation Maker

3. Give students a clear timeline for their project. Make sure they know exactly the deadline for each step listed on text page 16.

Step 2

1. Monitor the groups’ progress by looking at or reading what they have accumulated so far (e.g. pictures, scripts for presentations, etc). Tell students the writing and the oral presentation will be assessed separately and that any delay may incur a forfeit of points from their final group score.

Self-assessment

教学内容与要求

- 通过核查与反思，确认本单元目标的达成情况；
- 通过计划与调控，提升自主学习能力，提高学习效果。

教学建议

Step 1: Check

Remind students to check whether they have achieved the overall learning goals about “nature” by going over the expected outcomes of this unit.

Ask students to put the items in the right places. List those items they did well and put them in the blank beneath the first question. Figure out the problems or difficulties and put these items in the blank beneath the second question. The problems can be related to any text, activity or strategy concerning understanding, discovering, producing or extending.

Step 2: Reflect

Have students recall the activities that they have done well to give them a sense of achievement. Get them to describe the process or the result they have achieved and explain the reason for their success.

Guide students to think of the problems or difficulties they have encountered while they were doing an activity. Analyse the possible causes of the problems.

Step 3: Plan

Lead students to make a plan to overcome the difficulties. Encourage students to find an effective solution to each problem, e.g. turning to a dictionary, a reference book or online resources, asking a friend or a teacher for help, inviting a partner to practise together. Provide them with an example and give support if needed.

范例 (Answers may vary.)

Which of the above have you done well? Why and how?

A. Understanding and explaining the connections between things in nature and the importance of the balance of nature

After reading the two texts in Unit One, I've developed a thinking mode of looking for possible cause-and-effect relationships between events and things. Besides, through various classroom activities, I've acquired useful vocabulary and plentiful examples that will help me to explain these connections to people in English as well as advocating environmental protection.

Which of the above do you still find difficult? Why?

G. Maintaining good posture and eye contact with my audience in a presentation

For most of the time, I read from a script prepared beforehand to ensure the accuracy and fluency of my speech, which actually prevents the establishment of an authentic communication between me and the audience. I still find it difficult and intimidating to deliver a speech and meanwhile make on-the-spot adjustments based on my audience's feedback.

What do you plan to do?

I definitely need more practice in making public speeches. And perhaps I can begin by sharing my thoughts and answers with my classmates whenever my English teacher poses an open question. When it's my turn to give a speech (perhaps on behalf of my group), I will bring to the stage several flashcards covering the main points of the speech instead of a whole script. In that case, I will have to look at my audience more often.

Self-assessment

补充文化知识

Chinese Landscape Paintings

Images of nature have remained a potent source of inspiration for Chinese artists. While the Chinese landscape has been transformed by millennia of human occupation, Chinese artistic expression has also been deeply imprinted with images of the natural world. When we appreciate Chinese landscape paintings, it is clear that Chinese depictions of nature are more than representations of the external world. Rather, they are expressions of the mind and heart of the individual artists—cultivated landscapes that embody the culture and cultivation of their masters.

Nature Makes You Happy

What is happiness? Can you find it in a new pair of shoes, a fast car, or a bigger house? Or does real happiness lie somewhere else? Hundreds of studies have proved that spending time in nature can make us feel better both in mind and body in a way that nothing else can. We wanted to find out whether simply watching footage of the natural world could have the same effect.

Last year, we partnered with Professor Dacher Keltner, an expert in human psychology and emotion at the University of California, Berkeley. For this project, he has reviewed over 150 scientific studies to explore the positive effect of nature on humans. We also asked over 7,500 people in six countries to tell us how they were feeling before and after watching Planet Earth II clips. These data show significant increases in joy, contentment, curiosity, awe, amazement and wonder, and clear reductions in tiredness and low energy. It even reduces stress, especially among younger viewers. These findings reveal that wildlife programmes can cause you to experience positive emotions.

“My study of human happiness has revealed that these emotions—amazement, wonder and awe—are the foundations of a powerful form of real human happiness. Real happiness is a deeper, less transient form of happiness. They can positively affect our health and well-being.”

So by simply watching incredible footage of our natural world, you too can experience these uplifting emotions, helping you to be more connected with this amazing place we call home.

Getting Started

Option 1 ★★

Have students read the title, and ask “What can nature bring to us?” Then ask students to brainstorm some keywords (nouns) and write them down on the blackboard.

Option 2 ★★★

Ask “What do you imagine nature to be? What does that word mean to you?” Then have students work in pairs or in groups and share their opinions and reasons.

Option 3 ★★★

Digging In

Comprehension

Option 1 ★★

Have students read the text and find key factors (characters, time, place, plot...) of the story.

Reference answers:

Characters: the king, a wise nobleman, a young man

Time: once, some time later, years later

Place: the king's gardens

Plot: cause, development, climax, ending

Option 2 ★★

Have students read the text and retell the story according to the timeline and the king's main action(s).

Timeline	The king's main action(s)
Once upon a time, ...	... had beautiful gardens...
One day, ...	... had the tree cut down ...
Some time later, ...	... realised ...
Years later, ...	... regretted ...

Reference answer:

Once upon a time, there lived a king who had gardens as beautiful as paradise on earth. One day, the king had the remains of a huge tree—the only thing that he didn't like in the gardens—cut down.

Suggested Activities

But some time later, he realised that there were no living animals in his gardens. The king sent for advisers, but none of them was able to solve the problem. Many years later, a young man came with an explanation and the king regretted what he had done and wanted to restore the beauty of his gardens. But the restoration would take decades.

Option 3 ★★ ★

1. Have students work in groups and discuss how to put the story into a 5-minute short play.
2. Have students decide on at least three acts and make up the lines of the different characters according to the plot of the story.

Reference answer:

Act 1: Once upon a time, ...

The king:	The old tree is withered and dry. What's the point of leaving it in my royal gardens? It's completely out of place!
The gardener:	Your Majesty! ...
The king:	...

Act 2: Some time later, ...

The nobleman:	Your Majesty, people have always been singing the praises of the beauty of these gardens and the many creatures that live in them. But I've hardly seen a thing move — not one animal. I feel tricked!
The king:	...
Adviser 1:	...
The king:	...
Adviser2:	...

Act 3: Years later, ...

The young man:	There just wasn't enough poo, Your Majesty. Particularly, moth poo.
The king:	...

...

3. Encourage students to practise acting the short play and prepare their presentation (using PPT if necessary) in a week's time.
4. Ask students to present their short play group by group and have the "audience" comment on their performances.
5. Provide students with the following evaluation sheet when necessary.

Evaluation sheet for reference:

Vocabulary Focus

I. Key Vocabulary

Option 1 ★ ★

Guide students to acquire words and expressions in the reading contexts through classroom interactions. Integrate target words and expressions into reading activities in different stages. Activate students' knowledge about some target words and expressions or raise their awareness of the literal meanings of some words in the pre-reading stage, guide students to read between the lines in the while-reading stage and encourage students to use the newly learned words and expressions in the post-reading stage. Involve students in classroom interactions as follows.

Before-reading

Target words: paradise, wither, flourish, organism

Words relevant to literal comprehension such as paradise, wither, flourish, organism are suitable for teaching in the pre-reading stage. You may create proper contexts to help your students work out the meanings of these words.

- T: Look at this picture of a rose garden, which is called the Paradise of Rose Lovers by the locals because visitors can find almost all popular varieties of roses there and enjoy their fancy colours and sweet smells to the full. Now can you understand why it is called the Paradise of Rose Lovers?
- S: Yes, because it is a perfect place to rose lovers.
- T: Look at these roses. If we forgot to water them regularly, what would happen to them?
(Try to use words in the text.)
- S: They may wither and die for lack of water.
- T: So to help them grow well or flourish, regular watering is essential. Apart from the care given to the roses, we also need to ensure the whole garden is a thriving organism. Do you know what that means?
- S: Yes, we need to ensure that the garden is a healthy and balanced ecosystem.

While-reading

Target words: restore, damage

Words based on the text to help students grasp the main idea, explore the details, analyse the characters or infer the writing purpose can be taught during textual interactions. Ask questions, give further explanations and enable students to use the words based on text understanding. Take the teaching of “restore” as an example.

T: Read the sentence “He tried them all, but nothing could restore the royal gardens to their former splendour” (lines 22–24) again, and decide which “restore” in the following two sentences has the closest meaning to the one in our text.

A. The police have now restored the painting to its rightful owner.

B. He is now fully restored to health.

Reference answer: B (bring sb/sth back to a former condition)

T: So what can we learn from the tragic ending revealed by the sentence?

Reference answer: The wildlife won’t come back, and we can’t restore the gardens!

T: So we shouldn’t damage nature. Pay attention to the two words “restore” and “destroy”. We call them antonyms.

After-reading

Target word: balance

After some vocabulary-learning activities, motivate students to use what they have learned in class to express their own ideas. Take the teaching of “balance” as an example.

T: After learning the text, can you retell how the king destroyed the delicate balance of nature in his gardens?

What can we learn from the text? And what should we do to keep the balance of nature?

(Answers may vary.)

Option 2 ★ ★

Encourage students to learn words and expressions with different meanings, i.e. denotative meanings (DN) and connotative meanings (CN), in different scenarios. Make sure students know that denotation is primarily what a word refers to and connotation is the feelings or ideas, either positive or negative, suggested by the word. Create scenarios based on the text and guide students to identify the suggested or implied meanings of a word in addition to its literal meaning. Take the following scenario as an example.

Target word: flourish

T: What do you think will happen to the rare plants and flowers in the king’s gardens once the balance of nature is restored?

S: They will flourish.

T: To grow well. (DN)

T: How do you feel when you see something flourish?

S: I feel happy for it and I see hope of getting better and better. (CN)

T: Can you complete the sentence: “I’m glad to see _____ flourish”? For example, “I’m glad to see the arts flourish in a time of peace and open-mindedness.”

S: ...

Never does nature say one thing and wisdom another. — Juvenal, Roman poet

自然与智慧永不相悖。——朱韦纳尔，罗马诗人

- Have students choose one proverb or saying and write down their understanding of it in a few sentences.

Reference answer:

Speaking of the proverb “Only to obey nature in order to overcome nature”, I think if people want to explore, conquer and even transform nature, we must obey the natural law and make efforts to protect our environment. We should not cut down too many trees in the forests or pollute the environment, otherwise such damage may cause natural disasters and destroy countless homes one day.

Moving Forward

Option 1 ★★

Lake Therapy

By Janice Duvall

My vision of heaven never included streets paved with gold. I picture it with the cypress-lined lakes of Louisiana — the murky water that hides all creatures below and the slightly fishy smell that is strongest in the late afternoon when the sunset glows through the green leaves draped in moss.

My love for the water started at a very young age. A fearless tomboy, I was springing off the high dive at age four. Whether I was following or leading my older brother Bruce didn't matter, as long as we got wet. Living in the South, the only way to endure the heat of summer is in the water. If a puddle of water was around, we would find it.

Eager to be on the lake, my best friend Gail and I spent most weekends and holidays camping and fishing with my dad. If he minded that only us girls wanted to go, he never said anything.

I guess the need to be on the water stayed with me, because after I finished my studies in nursing, my first purchase was a used boat. It was questionable whether my ratty, old car would even last to pull it. But my dream was realized. I could go to the lake whenever I wanted! Waterskiing became a passion as my girlfriends and I took every opportunity to go for "lake therapy".

My tomboy traits never subsided as I continued to enjoy all the outdoor sports I loved so much. If it was outside in the sun, I loved it. Tennis, biking, softball, Rollerblading, swimming and skiing — I loved them all.

At thirty-one, I started sharing my love of outdoor sports with my boyfriend Ronnie. Three months after our wedding, I was diagnosed with a brain tumor. Surgery and radiation removed most of it, and I thanked God that I could continue to work and enjoy life with my new husband. We had eight glorious years and a beautiful son, Aaron, before the tumor came back.

The surgery was more aggressive this time, and I suffered a stroke during the operation. Even with intensive rehabilitation, I was left with no use of my left arm and limited use of my left leg. This level of disability would be difficult for anyone, but I felt especially wounded because of my love for the outdoors. I was never a spectator; I wanted to play!

Gradually, I learned to walk again, but I was still essentially one-handed; my left arm and hand never recovered. The words "accept" and "adapt" were thrown at me like snowballs. I found some peace in going to the lake with family and friends, but riding in the boat just couldn't measure up to flying across the water on skis. Then, in a fit of determination, I decided there had to be a way for me to ski again.

After many phone calls, I found the disabled division of USA Water Ski. Denise and Bill, two very kind and compassionate members, agreed to meet us in Mississippi and teach me how to use a harness designed for one-armed skiers.

I arrived very excited and nervous. With my bad "wing" tucked in my ski jacket and the sling attached to the rope, I jumped in ready to conquer the lake. I jokingly laughed about skiing under the water and drinking half the lake before I got it right. The boat driver gave me a pair of nose clips, and Ronnie and Bill cheered me on.

With Denise behind me holding the skis and giving encouragement, I would tuck my head, take a deep breath and prepare for another noseful of water as I heard the engine accelerate to pull me up. My good arm clinging fiercely to the handle, my legs would tense and attempt to direct the skis. With each failed attempt, I became more and more determined to ski again. Stubborn by nature, I was not going to give up.

And then, after what seemed like a hundred tries, I came out of the water standing up. Though wobbling and falling quickly, my heart soared because at that moment I knew it was possible. I was going to ski again! The cheers from the boat echoed my elation. I was on top of the water! It may have been only a few seconds, but it felt magnificent. It was a moment of success that could only be compared with the rush of a first solo bike ride or dive into the deep end.

We left armed with information and hope. Returning home, Ronnie made the adaptations and the equipment I needed for one-armed skiing, and we were off to the lake. Having no difficulty learning to ski as a strong, agile child, I finally understood how hard it sometimes was for others. My Louisiana lake wasn't quite as beautiful when I was swallowing most of it.

It wasn't easy, but with each lake trip my wonderful husband, beautiful child and loving friends cheered me on. They patiently and lovingly pulled me around the lake until I could ski on top of the water rather than under it. The sensation was glorious. Each trip across the water brought on the same thrill I felt the very first time I ever skied as a child. It is a feeling of fear mixed with delight as the water seems to rush by with great speed. The pure fun of it helped to make the physical challenges of weakness and partial paralysis much easier. Once again, I could share the activity with friends and family as a participant, not just an observer. The beauty and peace of the lake spoke like a message from God, reminding me of all I have to be grateful for. Once again, the water was working its healing magic.

Over the coming months, "lake therapy" took on a whole new meaning as skiing strengthened my legs in ways regular physical therapy never could. But I think that what healed the most was my spirit. Skiing brought back a sense of motion and connection to the outdoors, recharging not only my body, but also my soul. It gave me hope.

Food for thought

1. What role did the lake play in the author's life?
2. Besides the lake therapy, who and what else contributed to the author's recovery and her re-connection to nature?
3. What impressed you most after you read this passage?

Reference answers:

1. Before the author was diagnosed with a brain tumor, spending time on the lake was her favourite pastime. After she was disabled by the disease, picking up waterskiing again helped her cheer up and regain her health.
2. Two kind and compassionate members of the disabled division of USA Water Ski gave her information and hope of one-armed skiing. The author's wonderful husband, beautiful child and loving friends kept her company on those trips to the lake and cheered her on. But above all, it was the author's unyielding spirit and passionate love for nature that made everything possible.
3. After I read the story, I was deeply impressed by the author's determination to fly across the water on skis. Despite the difficulties, the very idea of giving up never occurred to her. After so many failures, she finally succeeded. It not only strengthened her legs, but recharged her soul, making her much stronger.

Animals

Besides love and sympathy, animals exhibit other qualities connected with the social instincts which in us would be called moral.

Getting Started

- Look at the pictures. Where do these animals live? How do they probably feel?

Answers may vary.

Zoos are found in almost every big city in the world. Do you think they are suitable homes for animals? Read the text and decide whether you agree or disagree with the author.

ZOOS: CRUEL OR CARING?

Last weekend I visited a zoo with a friend. When we were there, we debated whether or not zoos were a good thing. When I was little, I loved going to zoos. Now, at the age of 20, I still enjoy visiting them. However, I am aware that there are lots of people who don't support these establishments.

Animal welfare is a growing concern in today's society. There are many people who believe that zoos are cruel. They argue that it is cruel to remove animals from their natural habitats and keep them in cages. An animal kept in a zoo will lead a life different from an animal that lives in the wild. For example, animals in zoos don't have to hunt for food. Additionally, some animals become unhappy in zoos because there isn't enough space. Zoos exhibit animals from places all over the world and animals must therefore adjust to different climates and seasons, depending on the location of the zoo in relation to where they come from.

For human visitors, however, a trip to the zoo can be an educational experience.

教学内容与要求

- 能描述图片中动物所处的生活环境和可能的感受；
- 能通过回顾常见的与动物主题相关的词汇，构建词汇语义网；

教学建议

1 Introduce the topic of the unit — animals. Direct students' attention to the three pictures and ask them to discuss the two questions on text page 20. Go over the questions with the class and allow time for students to consider their answers individually or encourage them to discuss the questions in pairs or in groups. Have students share answers with the class.

2 If students have difficulty in describing the pictures, provide them with some related expressions, for example, animal protection base, nature reserve, breeding base of giant pandas.

3 If students have difficulty in answering the two questions, provide them with some scaffolding questions: Picture 1 — Where is the monkey? How does it look? What might it be thinking? Picture 2 — Where are the baby pandas? How are they treated? Do you think they are well looked after? Picture 3 — Where are the elephants? How are they feeling? Do you think they enjoy living in the wild?

教学建议

Ask students to read and answer the questions carefully. Give students time to think.

1. What animals do you often see in a zoo?
2. What do animals do there? How do they look?
3. Do you think the animals enjoy their lives in a zoo?

25 When students learn about endangered species and are able to see them in a zoo, they are more likely to support projects designed to save these animals from extinction. Zoos are involved in 30 many conservation projects: supporting zoos provides essential funding for these projects. Due to threats such as illegal hunting, there are many species which would be extinct if they weren't kept in 35 zoos. Moreover, many zoos attempt to replicate an animal's natural habitat: a range of materials is used to create a space that is similar to what would be found in the wild. Lots of toys are usually 40 put in exhibitions to prevent animals from getting bored. Animals that live in tropical countries are typically housed indoors in heated tanks which are kept at a temperature similar to that of their 45 natural habitat.

Every zoo has a slightly different approach to animal care and welfare, but overall I think zoos are a good thing. Seeing animals in their natural 50 habitat isn't always possible and I think zoos offer a good alternative. A trip to the zoo is both educational and fun — I'll definitely continue to visit zoos!

● Personal Touch

Do you like visiting zoos? Why or why not? Answers may vary.

Digging In

● Comprehension

I. Answer the questions.

1. Why do many people think that zoos are cruel?
2. Why can a trip to the zoo be an educational experience?
3. What is the author's attitude towards zoos?

II. Read the sentences. Guess the meaning of each underlined word by circling the context clues, and then put it in the blank.

Reading Strategy

Using context clues to understand meaning

EXAMPLE

When I was little, I loved going to zoos. Now, at the age of 20, I still enjoy visiting them. However, I am aware that there are lots of people who don't support these establishments.

Meaning of "establishment": a place or type of organisation

1. When students learn about endangered species and are able to see them in a zoo, they are more likely to support projects designed to save these animals from extinction.

Meaning of "extinction": a situation in which a plant, an animal, a way of life, etc stops existing

2. Moreover, many zoos attempt to replicate an animal's natural habitat: a range of materials is used to create a space that is similar to what would be found in the wild.

Meaning of "replicate": to make or do something again in exactly the same way

3. Animals that live in tropical countries are typically housed indoors in heated tanks which are kept at a temperature similar to that of their natural habitat.

Meaning of "tropical": extremely hot

III. Complete the table by making inferences about the author's opinions towards zoos based on the given details. Then answer the questions that follow.

Detail	Opinion
Animals in zoos don't have to hunt for food.	An animal kept in a zoo will lead a life different from an animal that lives in the wild.	Negative
There isn't enough space.	Some animals become unhappy in zoos.
Students are more likely to support animal protection projects.	A trip to the zoo can be an educational experience. /A trip to the zoo can raise students' awareness of protecting endangered species.	Positive
Tropical animals typically live in heated tanks.	Many zoos attempt to replicate an animal's natural habitat.

Questions:

What is your attitude towards zoos? Apart from what the author has mentioned, what other information can be used to support your opinion? Answers may vary.

Comprehension

阅读策略

Using context clues to understand meaning

1. Have students look at the title of the reading text “Zoos: Cruel or Caring?” and guess the meaning of either “cruel” or “caring”. The word “or” implies that these two words have opposite meanings.
2. Guide students to focus on the words next to an unknown word that might function as a clue to their understanding of the unknown word’s meaning, e.g. “When I was little, I loved going to zoos. Now, at the age of 20, I still enjoy visiting them. However, I am aware that there are lots of people who don’t support these establishments.” (lines 3–7)
3. Ask them to look for a definition or an explanation in a sentence, which might help them understand the meaning of a new word, e.g. “Animals that live in tropical countries are typically housed indoors in heated tanks which are kept at a temperature similar to that of their natural habitat.” (lines 41–45)

教学建议

- I 1. Guide students to guess the author’s viewpoint by having them read the title before they start reading. If possible, ask students to predict the reasons that the author is going to state in the text. Illustrate some new words in the text with examples if necessary.
2. Have students read the text quickly to get the author’s viewpoint and give reasons. Then check their prediction.
3. After students have read the text, have them answer the three comprehension questions.
- II 1. Before students start reading the text a second time, ask them to pay attention to the following new words: establishment, extinction, replicate, tropical. Encourage them to find out the meanings of these new words by using context clues.
2. Ask students to circle the context clues which can help their understanding of the new words.
3. Ask students to work individually first and then exchange their ideas with their partners.
- III 1. Make sure students know what they are expected to do before they start reading for a third time. Give them enough time to complete the chart and then check answers in class.
2. Ask students to voice their own views towards zoos, and list their views according to the side they take (the pro-side or the con-side) on the blackboard. Give students time to brainstorm the supporting evidence in relation to their views.
3. Ask students from both sides to report their views and supporting evidence.

Suggested Activities 见 pages T34d–T34e.

参考答案

- I 1. Many people believe that zoos are cruel because the animals are removed from their natural habitats and they are kept in cages.
2. The author thinks a trip to the zoo can be an educational experience because if students learn about endangered species and see them in a zoo, they are more likely to support projects designed to save these animals from extinction.
3. The author’s attitude towards zoos is that zoos are a good thing and that a trip to the zoo is both educational and fun.

II. Word Meaning: Synonyms

1. Do the underlined words in sentences A and B have similar or opposite meanings?

Group 1

A. When I was little, I loved going to zoos.

B. Now, at the age of 20, I still enjoy visiting them.

Group 2

A. Additionally, some animals become unhappy in zoos because there isn't enough space.

B. Moreover, many zoos attempt to replicate an animal's natural habitat.

The underlined words in sentences A and B have similar meanings.

A synonym is a word or phrase that has a similar meaning to another word or phrase. We use synonyms to make our writing more interesting. Words from any part of speech (e.g. nouns, verbs, adjectives, adverbs or prepositions) can have synonyms. For example:

- amazing, surprising, unbelievable, wonderful (adjectives)
- car, auto, automobile, motorcar (nouns)
- participate, take part, join (verbs)
- quickly, fast, rapidly (adverbs)
- on, upon (prepositions)

When replacing a word with its synonym, make sure the meaning of the sentence in the specific context is maintained.

2. Match each word with the sentence containing its synonym.

- (1) attempt A. Because of its difficult financial situation, it is likely that the zoo will need to close for a period of time.
- (2) possible B. White-beaked dolphins are social animals, most commonly found in groups of fewer than ten.
- (3) typically C. A few zoo animals tried to escape.

3. Read the passage and replace the underlined words with their synonyms. Make sure the meanings of the sentences are maintained to the greatest extent. Note that there might be slight differences between some synonyms.

Cats (1) leap (jump) through hoops of fire. Horses dance in a circle. Trained monkeys perform alongside clowns. To the audience, it's a wonder; to others, a disturbing scene. To the trainer, it's the end result of a hard "education" that (2) began (started) when the animals were young.

It starts with one small, simple lesson. A young tiger, (3) for instance (for example), is taught to make a very short leap. A meat treat and words of praise follow. These are known as positive rewards — good things that happen when an animal does what it is (4) asked (told) to do. The next time the tiger is encouraged to make a longer leap. Gradually the leaps become even longer and higher. (5) Soon (Before long) the trainer is demanding that the tiger jump through a hoop.

Of course, there are always problems along the way. The tiger may refuse to move or decide to jump around the hoop (6) instead of (rather than) through it. When this happens, the animal receives (7) a few (several/a couple of) sharp taps with a stick as punishment. Training can take years. But sooner or later most tigers do what they are told. Their performance only looks easy and natural on the circus stage.

● Grammar in Use

Relative clauses 2 — introduced by when, where, why and "preposition + which"

I. Study the sentences and find out how they are combined.

1. Last weekend I visited a zoo where (in which) I had a discussion with one of my friends about whether or not zoos are a good thing. (=Last weekend I visited a zoo. In the zoo, I had a discussion with one of my friends about whether or not zoos are a good thing.)
2. The best time to go on safari in South Africa is the dry season when (in / during which) animals gather around rivers. (=The best time to go on safari in South Africa is the dry season. In / During the dry season, animals gather around rivers.)
3. Having the chance to see all kinds of animals from different parts of the world is the reason why (for which) I think zoos are educational and fun. (=Having the chance to see all kinds of animals from different parts of the world is the reason. For this reason I think zoos are educational and fun.)

 - (1) Ask students to read the three words in the left column. If students don't remember their meanings, ask them to find the sentences with these words in Reading A, so that they may recall from the context.
 - (2) Have students read the sentences in the right column and match them with the words. Then check answers in class.
3.
 - (1) Have students read the passage. Make sure that they understand what has been talked about in the passage.
 - (2) Ask students to work on the underlined words. Give them time to think. Encourage them to come up with more possibilities while working.
 - (3) Call on students to share their answers and give brief comments.

Grammar in Use

教学内容与要求

- 能在语篇中识别、理解并应用由 when, where, why 以及“介词 + 关系代词” (prep. + which) 引导的定语从句。

教学建议

I

1. Guide students to go over the previously learned relative clauses introduced by who, whom, that, which and whose.
2. Guide students to study the sentences given, underline the formation of the relative clauses and find out how each pair of sentences in the brackets is combined. Note that the expression “the reason for which” is acceptable as a clarification to explain the use of why in a relative clause. However, learners should not be encouraged to use the expression because “for which” is redundant after the word “reason”. With where and when, this problem does not arise.
3. Guide students to study the Grammar Highlights section and understand the function and usage of a relative clause introduced by when, where, why or “prep. + which.”
4. Have students study the examples and point out how the relative adverbs have helped combine two sentences into one.
5. Encourage students to read the text again and find more relative clauses introduced by when, where, why or “prep. + which”.

II

1. Ask students to complete the conversations with proper relative clauses introduced by relative adverbs.
2. Check answers. Encourage students to verify their answers by explaining what relative adverb is used to combine a pair of sentences. For example, when is used in the first blank because the antecedent summer in the main clause functions as an adverb in the relative clause.

Suggested Activities 见 pages T34h–T34i.

The relative adverbs when, where and why can also be used to introduce a relative clause. They act as an adverb in the relative clause to refer to a time, place or reason, and are often used instead of the more formal structure of “preposition + which.” For example:

- Summer is the season when (in / during which) the common seal gives birth to its babies along the Irish coastline.
- We'll visit an animal rescue centre where (in which) homeless or injured animals can be taken care of before suitable homes are found for them.
- Scientists have finally figured out the reason why (for which) penguins lost the ability to fly.

II. Complete the conversations about animals with the help of the hints in brackets.

A: Is that a koala in the photo?

B: Yes. It was taken in a wildlife park last summer when I visited Australia (visit, Australia).

A: I've heard that koalas are only found in Australia. Do you know why?

B: As far as I know, they only feed on the leaves of certain trees and Australia is the only place where these trees grow (these trees, grow).

A: I see. No wonder I've never seen a koala in our city zoo.

B: You know, the chance to come face to face with Australian wildlife, such as koalas and kangaroos, is a powerful reason why many tourists travel in Australia (many tourists, travel in Australia).

Conversation 2

A: Do animals sleep like humans?

B: Yes, they do. We humans may need up to eight hours of sleep a night to keep our brains functioning, while animals require more or less rest. Bats, for example, sleep 20 hours a day while giraffes sleep less than two. But keeping their brains in order is not the only reason why animals sleep (animals, sleep). Some animals such as bears and turtles go into hibernation for several months in order to survive difficult seasons. Different species have their own sleeping patterns.

A: What is hibernation?

B: It is an extremely deep sleep. Before hibernation, animals feed heavily during the few months when food is plentiful (food, plentiful) and build up fat, and then go to sleep and live off their fat reserves throughout the cold season when the weather is freezing and food is limited (weather, freezing, food, limited).

Moving Forward

Feeding Homeless Cats: Helping or Hurting?

- I. Speaking: Discussing the pros and cons of feeding homeless cats
- Students at Lan Shan School have recently found some homeless cats hanging around the campus. Some students feed the cats every day while others have begun to show their concerns.

Step 1 Read the conversation below and decide whose opinion is closer to your own.

Sally, look at the cat. How cute! It's really sad to see it out there with nowhere else to go. I'll bring some food for it this afternoon.

Poor little kitty! I love animals, Jenny, but I'm concerned that it will bring a lot of problems.

Step 2 Discuss in groups. Listen to each other's opinions and make brief notes. Before you begin, read the tips below about contributing ideas.

Speaking Strategy

Contributing ideas to a discussion

Useful tips:

1. Try your best to be original, i.e., don't repeat what others have said without adding something new.
2. When your thought builds on another person's idea, quickly summarise their point before you begin yours.

I. Speaking:

Introduce “Speaking Strategy: Contributing ideas to a discussion” to students. Guide students to read and understand the useful tips about contributing ideas. Encourage students to try using some of the tips while listening to each other’s opinions and discussing with group members.

Step 1

1. Ask students to read and understand the conversation.
2. Have students recall their experiences with homeless cats and ask them to list some problems homeless cats might bring. Provide the following expressions if necessary: fear and aggression towards humans; diseases; continuing breeding; frequent and loud noise from fighting; strong foul odours from male cats spraying to mark their territory; fleas that might spread to other pets.
3. Guide students to say whose opinion is closer to their own, Jenny’s or Sally’s? And then have them express their own opinions as clearly as possible.

Step 2

1. Have students discuss in groups, reminding them that everybody should contribute his/her ideas.
2. Ask students to take notes while listening to each other’s opinions and encourage them to ask questions when necessary.
3. After group discussion, ask students to present their opinions on behalf of their groups in a clear way to the class.

II. Writing:

Introduce “Writing Strategy: Using cohesive devices” to students. Help students understand the purpose and function of using cohesive devices in writing. Guide students to know about the common types of cohesive devices and encourage them to use determiners, pronouns and linking words to hold a text together and connect ideas when they practise writing an opinion paragraph.

Step 1

1. Guide students to read the directions and make sure that they know what they are to write.
2. Have students review their notes taken on the pros and cons of feeding homeless cats on campus.

Step 2

Have students group their notes into two categories either for or against feeding homeless cats on campus. Let them decide on the details they would like to include in their writing.

Step 3

1. Ask students to read the example on text page 29 and guide them to understand the opinion of the writer.
2. Explain the structure of the model essay (Reading A), especially how the ideas are supported and linked and how the different parts fit together. Explain and show what cohesive devices there are in the essay.

Step 4

1. Encourage students to use the checklist before and after writing as a reminder.

Reference checklist:

- Have I stated my claim clearly?
- Have I provided enough evidence to support my claim?
- Have I used proper cohesive devices to link my ideas smoothly?

2. Let students write an opinion paragraph on feeding homeless cats on campus in 70–90 words. Remind them to use cohesive devices when necessary.
3. Have students do peer review or self-check against the checklist (grammar and word limitation might not be the focus). Ask them to revise or rewrite their draft based on peer review or self-check.
4. Create opportunities for students to display their writing, e.g. on the wall of the classroom.

Suggested Activities 见 pages T34j–T34k.

II. Writing: Expressing your opinion on feeding homeless cats

- Step 1 Review your discussion by looking at the notes you've taken on the pros and cons of feeding homeless cats on campus.
- Step 2 Group your notes into two categories that are either for or against feeding homeless cats on campus. List both the statements and the supporting details.
- Step 3 Read a model essay, like "Zoos: Cruel or Caring?" Study how ideas are linked and how the different parts of it fit together.

For human visitors, however, a trip to the zoo can be an educational experience.

FRIENDS REUNITED

In 2011, retired bricklayer Joao, 71, found a South American penguin lying on the rocks and close to death on his local beach, just outside Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

5 Joao cleaned the oil off the penguin's feathers, fed him a daily diet of fish to get his strength up and named him Dindim.

A week later, Joao tried to release the penguin back into the sea, but he just 10 wouldn't leave. Joao took him out in his boat, went to a nearby island and released him. Later that day, the penguin was back in Joao's backyard. In the end, Dindim stayed with Joao for 11 months and then, "just 15 after he changed his coat for new feathers, he disappeared," Joao explains.

In fact, Dindim returns to Joao's little beach in the summer every year — it's believed that the penguin prefers to visit 20 the elderly man rather than migrate to the feeding areas of his species.

Joao recalls how the penguin continued to follow him home. "Everyone said he wouldn't return, but he has been coming

25 back to visit me for the past four years," he says. "He arrives in June and leaves to go home in February and every year he becomes more affectionate as he appears even happier to see me." Now new pictures

30 have emerged of Dindim visiting Joao in his village earlier this month.

When Dindim is staying with Joao, the two friends sometimes like to take a walk together down the beach — or sometimes 35 Joao walks and Dindim swims alongside him. "I love the penguin like my own child and I believe the penguin loves me," Joao says. "No one else is allowed to touch him. He pecks them if they do. He lies on my lap, 40 lets me give him showers and allows me to feed him sardines and to pick him up."

Who said there wasn't still some good news left in the world?

难句注释

1. In fact, Dindim returns to Joao’s little beach in the summer every year — it’s believed that the penguin prefers to visit the elderly man rather than migrate to the feeding areas of his species. (lines 17–21)

本句中 it’s believed that the penguin prefers to visit the elderly man rather than migrate to the feeding areas of his species 是由 that 引导的主语从句，其中 it 为形式主语，而 the penguin prefers to visit the elderly man rather than migrate to the feeding areas of his species 是真正的主语。整句意为“其实，丁丁每年夏天都会回到这片狭小的海滩。人们都认为，比起跟着同类迁徙至摄食区，它更喜欢来探望若昂”。

2. “Everyone said he wouldn’t return, but he has been coming back to visit me for the past four years,” he says. (lines 23–26)

本句中 has been coming 是现在完成进行时，强调企鹅在过去的四年里从不间断地回来看望老人。整句意为“大家都说他不会回来了，但过去四年他一直回来看我，”他说。”

3. Now new pictures have emerged of Dindim visiting Joao in his village earlier this month. (lines 29–31)

本句中 visiting Joao in his village 为分词短语作定语，修饰 Dindim。整句意为“最近的照片拍摄于本月初丁丁来村子里探望若昂的时候”。

4. Who said there wasn’t still some good news left in the world? (lines 42–43)

本句是反问句，旨在强调 there was some good news left in the world。整句意为“谁说世上就没有真实动人的故事了呢？”。

Critical Thinking

Seeing things from a different perspective

- I. Reflect on what you have learned in this unit and make a list of different ways animals are treated. If you were an animal living with humans, how would you like to be treated? Some examples are given below.

How animals are treated	How animals might want to be treated
• kept in a zoo • trained for entertainment • protected in their natural habitat • used in lab tests • barred in cages • raised as pets and treated as companions • raised for their meat, wool, skin, etc • hunted and slaughtered	• I want to live with my own kind / species. • I need to be fed with proper food / natural food. • I need love and care. • I need to live in my own habitat where drinking water and all other natural resources are available. • I don't want to be kept in a cage. What I need is FREEDOM. • I don't want to be tested in a lab, which might do harm to my health or kill me. • I don't want to be trained in a circus, for it is against my nature. • No hunting! Life comes first.

- II. Compare an animal's needs with the way humans treat it. Try to find possible ways to develop a harmonious relationship between humans and animals.

e.g. We should set up more national parks.

Exploring animal establishments

Work in groups. Do some research on zoos, animal parks, aquariums, wildlife reserves or animal protection zones around the world and make a poster to introduce your favourite animal establishment to your classmates.

Step 2 Follow the example given below and complete the table with basic information about the three animal establishments.

Name	Changfeng Ocean World

WHAT animal species can be found	more than 15,000 sea animals of over 300 different varieties
HOW the animals are treated	These sea animals are kept in clean, well-maintained tanks or housed indoors.

Step 3 Which one of the three is your favourite? Make a poster to introduce it. An example is given.

Changfeng Ocean World

China's first large-scale themed aquarium
Shanghai's youth science education base

WHERE it is:

Putuo District,
Shanghai, China

WHAT animal

species can be found:

Self-assessment

教学内容与要求

- 通过核查与反思，确认本单元目标的达成情况；
- 通过计划与调控，提升自主学习能力，提高学习效果。

教学建议

Step 1: Check

Remind students to check whether they have achieved the overall learning goals about “animals” by going over the expected outcomes of this unit.

Ask students to put the items in the right places. List those items they did well and put them in the blank beneath the first question. Figure out the problems or difficulties and put these items in the blank beneath the second question. The problems can be related to any text, activity or strategy concerning understanding, discovering, producing or extending.

Step 2: Reflect

Have students recall the activities that they have done well to give them a sense of achievement. Get them to describe the process or the result they have achieved and explain the reason for their success.

Guide students to think of the problems or difficulties they have encountered while they were doing an activity. Analyse the possible causes of the problems.

Step 3: Plan

Lead students to make a plan to overcome the difficulties. Encourage students to find out an effective solution to each problem, e.g. turning to a dictionary, a reference book or online resources, asking a friend or a teacher for help, inviting a partner to practise together. Provide them with an example and give support if needed.

范例 (Answers may vary.)

Which of the above have you done well? Why and how?

C. Understanding different views about animals in different cultures

Getting to know views about animals in different cultures is both interesting and instructive. On the one hand, it helps us to understand the language of a culture better. For example, once we know that people in the UK and the US love dogs, it will never be a surprise for us to realise that there are many English idioms about dogs, such as “every dog has its day”, “work like a dog”, “lead a dog’s life”, etc. On the other hand, such knowledge will be very instructive in terms of cross-cultural communication. We will not offend people easily or be offended when talking about animals. I am now planning to learn more views about animals in different cultures.

Which of the above do you still find difficult? Why?

G. Using cohesive devices in writing an opinion paragraph

Writing is always demanding for me. In order to write an opinion paragraph, we first had a group discussion, trying to list the pros and cons of feeding homeless cats on campus. Then we added statements and supporting details to the relevant opinions. After that, we focused on how to link our ideas in a more logical and effective way by using cohesive devices. It took us a lot of time to prepare an opinion passage, and still there is a lot to be improved in my writing work.

What do you plan to do if you find something difficult?

I will try to get some advice from my classmates. My peers are always of great help. Besides, I will turn to the Internet for help, for it’s the world’s largest library with unlimited resources. Of course, I will spend more time practising the things that I find difficult.

Self-assessment

Look at the expected learning outcomes of this unit and answer the questions.

- A. Understanding the writer's attitudes in an argumentative essay
- B. Talking about the pros and cons of feeding homeless cats
- C. Understanding different views about animals in different cultures
- D. Reflecting on the relationship between humans and animals from an animal's perspective
- E. Using context clues to work out a word's meaning
- F. Contributing ideas to a discussion
- G. Using cohesive devices in writing an opinion paragraph

Which of the above have you done well? Why and how?

Which of the above do you still find difficult? Why?

What do you plan to do if you find something difficult?

I'm a real animal lover. I'm fascinated by the whole animal kingdom. I loved animals when I was a kid. I used to read every book I could find on animals. I knew all the different animal species. The most exciting thing for me was going to the zoo. I would spend hours just watching the animals walk around, sit, or even sleep. When I was older, I went on a safari to Tanzania. I saw real wild animals in the wild. Everyone should do this once in their lives. Looking at animals in their natural habitat is a real honour. Now I often go to the Natural History Museum and watch animal documentaries. I'm worried about the future of many animals. Some of my favourite animals are in danger of dying out. We really need to change our lifestyle so that animals can survive in the wild.

[Clip 1] Salty the Dog

Number 2, Salty, the guide who led her owner to safety on 9/11. Guide dogs are expected to keep their owners out of danger, but Salty, a New York guide dog, took protection to a whole new level. Salty and her owner, Omar Rivera, were on the 71st floor in Tower 1 of the World Trade Centre on Sept. 11th, 2001. As the building began collapsing around them, Salty led Omar and a friend down 70 flights of stairs to safety, just moments before Tower 1 completely collapsed. Salty was there the whole way, and even refused to let the friend take her leash because she wanted to stay with her owner until he was saved. Their ordeal took 1 hour and 15 minutes to accomplish. Salty and Omar received the Partners Encourage Award, and Salty was also given the Dicken Medal, an honour given to animals who display gallantry during conflict.

[Clip 2] Winnie the Cat

Number 18, Winnie the Cat, who saved her owner from carbon monoxide. Most rescue stories involve dogs saving their owners, but cats could (can) be just as heroic. Winnie the Cat was asleep when her owner's house began filling up with carbon monoxide. Winnie started meowing loudly and scratching objects to get her owner to wake up. The cat's distressed actions saved her owner's life, because if they had waited any longer to evacuate the home, they might have died from carbon monoxide poisoning.

注 释：

1. leash n. a piece of rope or leather fastened to a dog's collar in order to control it 牵狗的绳子，皮带
Never leave your dog off the leash outside a store. 商店外面请勿解开狗的牵绳。

Getting Started

Option 1 ★★

Have students think about the condition of natural habitats today and then ask them to discuss the possible ways to protect and save animals.

Option 2 ★★★

Have students compare how zoo life and life in natural habitats differently affect animals and then ask them to discuss which way they think is better for animals.

Option 3 ★★★

Encourage students to share their understanding of the quote by Charles Darwin on text page 18.

(A brief introduction to Charles Darwin)

Charles Darwin (1809 – 1882) was an English natural scientist who holds a unique place in history for his theory of evolution. His book On the Origin of Species (1859) provided a great deal of evidence that evolution has taken place and also proposed a theory to explain how evolution works. This theory is now an integral component of biological science.

Digging In

Comprehension

Option 1 ★

Have students read the text and then answer the questions.

1. What do zoos usually offer to animals that live there?
2. What is the greatest concern with zoos?
3. What are the differences between a zoo and a wildlife park?

Option 2 ★

1. Have students identify facts and opinions from the information in the chart.
2. Have students think about the question: how does the author list facts/supporting evidence for each of his or her claims?

Option 3 ★★

Ask students to role play in pairs. Student A is the author and student B is the author's friend. Have them make up a dialogue about whether or not zoos are a good thing by using the information provided in the chart.

Option 4 ★★★

Ask students to read the following sentences, paying special attention to the underlined words, and then have a discussion about the strategy of using context clues in reading to work out a word's meaning.

Suggested Activities

	Sentences	Types of context clues
1	They argue that it is cruel to remove animals from their natural habitats and keep them in cages.
2	An animal kept in a zoo will lead a life different from an animal that lives in the wild .
3	Moreover, many zoos attempt to replicate an animal's natural habitat: a range of materials is used to create a space that is similar to what would be found in the wild .
4	Endangered animals can be like fragile glass in need of care and attention .
5	The Earth is home to lots of wonderful wildlife, but sadly, some species that once called our planet home today no longer exist . These are known as extinct animals .

Before-reading

Target words: cruel, debate, argue, concern, habitat, cage, threat

T: How do people treat animals?

S: ...

T: Some people kill animals. For example, they kill whales, elephants, dogs and so on. What do you think of these people? (Write the word “cruel” on the board.)

S: ...

T: Have you heard of bullfighting? What do you think of it?

S: ...

T: Due to threats such as illegal hunting, there are many species which would be extinct if they weren’t kept in zoos.

T: In addition, many zoos attempt to replicate a natural animal habitat: a range of materials is used to create a space that is similar to what would be found in the wild.

T: Animals that live in tropical countries are typically housed indoors in heated tanks which are kept at a temperature similar to that of their natural habitat.

Grammar in Use

Option 1 ★ ★

- Ask students to rewrite some sentences with the relative clauses introduced by “prep.+ which” without changing their original meanings.
- Encourage students to write some meaningful sentences related to animals by using relative clauses introduced by when, where, why and “prep.+ which”.

Reference answers:

- Do you remember the day when he started to raise the dog?
⇒ Do you remember the day on which he started to raise the dog?

- (Answers may vary.)

Option 2 ★ ★ ★

- Suppose a group of foreign teachers and students are coming to visit Shanghai Wild Animal Park, ask your students to prepare a brief introduction to the park, using relative clauses introduced by relative adverbs to introduce the functions of different places and the facilities in it.
- Encourage students to surf the Internet for more information.

Reference answers:

This is the open space where tigers play.
 This is the lake where ducks and geese swim.
 This is the little hill where monkeys rest.
 These are the nursery rooms where new-born pandas can be taken good care of.

Option 3 ★ ★ ★

- Ask students to think about what animal they will raise as a pet. Then have them fill in the table with a brief introduction to the animal and the reasons for their choice.

Suggested Activities

(Name of the animal)
Brief introduction (to the animal)	Features: Character: Meals: ...
Why?	Here are the reasons why... The first reason is that... In addition, ... What's more,

- Ask students to write a short introduction to the animal in at least 5 sentences, properly using relative clauses introduced by relative pronouns and adverbs.

Reference answer:

Dogs, which are perhaps the most widely owned pets in the world, are famous for their carefree spirit and unconditional love. They can cheer us up when we are feeling down and give us a laugh when we need one.

Loyalty, friendship and unconditional love are some additional reasons why people love dogs. An American actress, who was one of the most famous icons of pop culture, always compared dogs to humans. "Dogs never bit me. Just humans."

Dogs, which are known for biting as a main source of defence, have never bitten her. She had a lot of trust in dogs and believed humans were the only ones who had ever hurt her.

Listening and Viewing

Option 1 ★★

Encourage students to do research on dogs using the table to take down useful notes, and then make a report in class. Remind them to consider the following questions: what roles can dogs perform in people's life? How do they perform these roles? What kind of training do they need? What other findings do you have about dogs?

Role dogs perform	Description of role	Training needed	Other findings
Guiding blind people (guide dogs)	They guide their owners to walk through the street, up or down stairs and even hang around in the park.	Guide dogs should be trained from a very young age and need time to get accustomed to their life in their owner's family.	Labrador is an ideal breed for guide dogs.

(Answers may vary.)

Option 2 ★★ ★

Motivate students to have a debate on this issue: some people claim that keeping animals as pets or raising them in the zoo will protect the animals, but others argue that by doing so we separate animals from their natural habitats, thus doing harm to the animals. What is your view of the issue?

Option 3 ★★ ★

Provide students with the following background information: “survival of the fittest” was first used by Herbert Spencer after he read Charles Darwin’s On the Origin of Species. It means that some animals die out because they no longer fit into an ever-changing environment and their extinction is the “choice” of nature. Inspire students to express themselves on this issue: is it necessary to save endangered animals? Why or why not?

Moving Forward

Option 1 ★★

1. Ask students to read the conversation between Jenny and Sally. Give them three minutes to decide whether feeding homeless cats is helping or hurting and list as many ideas to support their stance as possible so that they can put forward some ORIGINAL ideas in the discussion.
2. Divide students into groups of four. Name a group leader and a note-taker for each group. Before discussion, ask students to read the Speaking Strategy box and explain the tips with examples and useful expressions (See the box below).

Tip	Example
Summarising a previously mentioned point and then building on it	As Sally said earlier, feeding homeless cats may lead to their growing dependence on humans. They'll wait for free lunch. Even worse, some of them will tag along students and beg for food.
Asking questions when necessary	What if we find a feeding spot for the cats? What do you mean by ...? How can we make sure the cat population will not grow?

3. Give students five minutes to discuss in groups. Ask them to listen to each other’s opinions and make brief notes while discussing. Ask the group leader to be the ice-breaker and monitor the discussion process, and the note-taker to take notes and report their discussion results afterwards.

Option 2 ★★

Have students conduct a survey about people’s attitude towards homeless cats.

Step 1

Ask students to list the questions they are going to ask and make a questionnaire.

Step 2

Have students work in pairs and walk around the classroom, asking questions and collecting answers.

Step 3

Encourage students to analyse and report their survey results to the class. They may display their survey reports on the back wall of the classroom.

Suggested Activities

Option 3 ★★ ★

Ask students to write a two-sided argumentative passage on the topic.

Suppose the students' union in your school is collecting students' opinions about whether or not to rescue homeless animals on campus.

Step 1

Have students list the statements and supporting details that are either for or against rescuing homeless animals on campus.

Step 2

Ask students to organise the paragraph(s) by logically linking the statements and their supporting details with cohesive devices.

Step 3

Have students finish their writing on the topic.

Step 4

Encourage students to have a peer review, and help them check and revise what they have written.

Option 4 ★★ ★

Step 1

Encourage students to read the following sayings by famous people, which show their feelings and understandings about animals.

- The greatness of a nation and its moral progress can be judged by the way its animals are treated.
— Mahatma Gandhi
- Animals are reliable, many full of love, true in their affections, predictable in their actions, grateful and loyal. Difficult standards for people to live up to.
— Alfred A. Montapert
- Animals are the bridge between us and the beauty of all that is natural. They show us what's missing in our lives, and how to love ourselves more completely and unconditionally. They connect us back to who we are, and to the purpose of why we're here.
— Trisha McCagh

Step 2

Have students read again the above sayings in the box and write a short paragraph to tell:

- (1) which of the quotes they agree with most;
- (2) the reasons or details to support their choice.

Students may start their writing as follows:

I agree with ... the most because ...

Reading B

Option 1 ★★ ★

Have students complete the following table after reading the passage. This will help check students' comprehension of the passage and get them familiar with the elements of a story.

Friends Reunited

Characters:
Setting:
Plot (events)
1. Beginning:	_____

2. Middle:	_____

3. Ending:	_____

Reference answers:

Friends Reunited

3. Ending:	Joao and Dindim have become intimate friends.

Option 2 ★★

Ask students to read the passage again and find out some highlights of the story. Have them take notes of these highlights to get a better understanding of the theme of this unit — a harmonious relationship between human beings and animals.

Reference answers:

- (1) When Joao tried to release the penguin back into the sea, Dindim wouldn't leave. Once he even found his way back to Joao's backyard.
- (2) Dindim returns to Joao's little beach every summer. He would visit the old man rather than migrate to the feeding areas of his species.
- (3) Dindim has been coming back to visit Joao for the past four years. Every year he becomes more affectionate as he appears even happier to see the old man.

Suggested Activities

- (4) Dindim allows no one but Joao to touch him. He lies on the old man's lap, lets him give him showers, and allows him to feed him with sardines and to pick him up.

Option 3 ★★ ★

Ask students to read more stories about how human beings and animals get along with each other. Have them choose one that they think is the most touching and thought-provoking, and share it with the class.

Critical Thinking

Option 1 ★

1. Form groups and get students involved in a discussion about the possibility of developing a harmonious relationship between human beings and their animal friends.
2. Call on some groups to make presentations and share their ideas with the class.

Option 2 ★

Ask students to watch a public-service advertisement about animal protection — “When the buying stops, the killing can too.” Ask students to tell what is shown in the ad and what they have learned from it.

Option 3 ★★

1. Ask students to describe the pictures and summarise the attitudes human beings hold towards the animals.

2. Have students describe the feelings of these animals from the animals' perspectives.
3. Have students make a T-chart and write down people's attitudes and animals' feelings in separate categories.
4. Have students work in groups and decide whether the animals are happy or not, and if they are not happy, what can people do to make them happy again?

Further Exploration

Option 1 ★

Ask students to vote for the “Best Poster” based on the following checklist.

Poster Checklist

Item	Very Good	Satisfactory	Needs Improvement
Graphics – Clarity
Graphics – Relevance
Labels
Content
Attractiveness
Title

Option 2 ★★

Ask students to compare the animal establishments that all the groups have introduced. Have them make a list of similarities and differences between these animal establishments.

The Call of the Wild

The Call of the Wild (1903) is considered by many people to be Jack London's finest piece of writing, and it is widely recognised as one of the classics of American literature.

The main character of the story is Buck, a large dog, who is stolen from his comfortable life in California and sold as a sled dog in the frozen Klondike. Buck's new life is harsh and cruel and he is forced to learn to adapt in order to survive. He works in a team of dogs pulling sleds loaded with mail for the gold prospectors who have rushed to the cold north. Buck is strong and determined and soon becomes the leader. Throughout the book, as Buck passes through the hands of various owners, he grows closer and closer to his primitive origins and the "call of the wild" becomes stronger and stronger.

The story explores a number of themes which were dear to London. London took a copy of Charles Darwin's On the Origin of Species with him when he went to the Klondike and the story strongly reflects the "survival of the fittest" that originated from Darwin's evolutionary theory. This law of the survival of the fittest applies to both the animal and human worlds: both men and animals need to use their strength and intelligence to survive. London was a determinist and believed that our lives are conditioned by what we inherit and the environment which surrounds us. So when Buck lives with Judge Miller, he is a pet and lives an easy and peaceful life. His deeper inherited instincts do not appear until he moves to an environment that allows them to develop. These themes are revisited in London's later novel White Fang.

When it was published in 1903, The Call of the Wild was an immediate success. The single-volume version of the novel also included illustrations, which enhanced its descriptions of Canada's natural beauty. Though it has been and is still, at times, classified as a children's book, its themes and overarching narrative are suited for mature readers.

Adapted from Helbling Readers, level 4

Food for thought

1. How different is Buck's life in California from his new life in the frozen Klondike? What awakens his primitive origins?
2. What theme do you think is explored in this story?
3. Have you read the story yet? If yes, what impresses you most in the story?/If not, are you going to read the story?

Reference answers:

1. As a pet, Buck's life in California is comfortable and easy. However, in the frozen north, as a sled dog, his life is harsh and cruel. It is the changing living environment that awakens his deeper inherited instincts.
2. The story reflects the law of the "survival of the fittest" which applies to both the animal and human worlds.
3. Yes, I have already read this famous novel. In the story, Buck begins as a tame, obedient dog, enjoying his carefree life in the sun-kissed Santa Clara Valley, but ends as a brave, fierce, masterful wild animal fighting for his survival. The enormous change Buck undergoes is dramatic, but convincing. That is what deeply touches my heart.
Or No, I haven't read the story yet but I'm going to read it because it is about dogs which are my favourite animals.

难句注释

1. As it turns out, in the days after the New Year, the French celebrate with the galette des rois, or the “kings’ cake”, a special cake with its own set of traditions. (lines 6–7)

本句中，词组 turn out 意为“最终结果是，原来是”，而 as 在此引导非限制性定语从句，通常表示“正如”的意思。galette des rois 是法语词，意为“国王饼”或“三皇饼”，也译作 kings’ cake 或 three kings’ cake。a special cake 是 the “kings’ cake” 的同位语。整句意为“原来新年过后几天，法国人会用格雷派饼，也就是‘国王饼’来庆祝，这是一种特别的甜点，具有自己独特的传统。”

2. There is a small toy hidden inside the cake, and whoever finds it in their serving is the winner. (lines 7–8)

本句中，过去分词 hidden 作后置定语修饰 toy，whoever finds it in their serving 是第二个分句的主语，该主语从句由 whoever 引导，whoever=anyone who。整句意为“国王饼中藏着一个小玩偶，吃到的人就是幸运儿。”

3. You may experience a “honeymoon” phase, where you find everything new and exciting or even better than your home country. You may also experience low points, where all these little differences may seem frustrating and overwhelming. (lines 18–20)

在这两句中，关系副词 where 引导的均是非限制性定语从句，修饰的先行词分别为 phase 与 points，这两个单词都有“阶段、时期”的意思。除此之外，where 引导的定语从句还可修饰 stage、case、situation、position 等抽象名词。两句意为“起初，你可能会经历‘蜜月’期，这个时候你对国外的一切都感到新奇和兴奋，甚至觉得国外比国内还要好。但之后也难免会有情绪低迷的时候，所有这些细微的差异似乎都会让你沮丧崩溃。”

4. It is also common to use bread as a utensil, holding it in your hand like a knife, or using it to clean up the plate at the end of the meal. (lines 24–25)

本句中，句子结构为“It is (adj.) to do sth.”。It 作形式主语，真正的逻辑主语是 (to) use bread as a utensil，而 holding 与 using 两个现在分词做伴随状语或方式状语。整句意为“用面包当餐具也很常见，像拿刀一样把面包拿在手上，或者用餐结束时用面包来清理盘子。”

DINING IN FRANCE: CULTURE SHOCK

HOME > ALL POSTS > DINING IN FRANCE: CULTURE SHOCK

On my first weekend abroad, I attended a dinner party with my host family to celebrate the New Year. It was everything I had imagined a French dinner party would be — multiple courses, a variety of cheeses, bottles of champagne, and slices of fresh bread. Then, at the end of the meal, the host called out, “Okay, everyone, get under the table!”

5 What? I watched as the children came running into the dining room and hid under the table. As it turns out, in the days after the New Year, the French celebrate with the galette des rois, or the “kings’ cake,” a special cake with its own set of traditions. There is a small toy hidden inside the cake, and whoever finds it in their serving is the winner. Before it is sliced, all the children hide under the table so that they cannot see who will get the slice 10 with the toy.

I’ve learned that many French traditions focus on food, and often they’ve taken me by surprise! From time to time, I’ve experienced a sense of culture shock, the feeling of confusion in a new country when you’re adjusting to things that may be unfamiliar to you. Thankfully, I haven’t run into anything too difficult to manage. Before leaving for France, 15 I learned strategies from the International Programs Office, a facility which helps prepare students to deal with these kinds of ups and downs.

They explained the phenomenon with a line graph to illustrate the highs and lows of the experience. You may experience a “honeymoon” phase, where you find everything new and exciting or even better than your home country. You may also experience low 20 points, where all these little differences may seem frustrating and overwhelming.

I encountered a few fun, food-related cultural differences while in France. For example, the French eat with both wrists resting on the table, while many Americans tend to keep their left hands in their laps. I hadn’t even noticed the difference until my five-year-old host brother pointed it out! It is also common to use bread as a utensil, holding it in your hand
25 like a knife, or using it to clean up the plate at the end of the meal. Finally, I love hearing “Bon appétit!” (“Good appetite!”) before eating, whether I’m seated at the table with my host family, or just grabbing a coffee at a nearby café!

参考答案

- I
1. The author expected a French dinner party to include multiple courses, a variety of cheeses, bottles of champagne, and slices of fresh bread.
 2. They refer to different phases of cultural shock. The “ups” and “highs” may refer to a “honeymoon” phase, where you find everything new and exciting or even better than your home country, while the “downs” and “lows” may refer to the low points, where all these little cultural differences may seem frustrating and overwhelming. The phrase “ups and downs” mainly refers to positive and negative experiences, while “highs and lows” is used to refer to feelings.
 3. The author probably comes from America, for in the last paragraph, she compares the French dining culture to the American one, saying “the French eat with both wrists resting on the table, while many Americans tend to keep their left hands in their laps,” which indicates the author’s home country.
(Actually, the author comes from the US, because she uses American English, e.g. “program” instead of “programme”. ☺)

When I studied in Shanghai, I lived with a Chinese host family. Before leaving for China, I had learned 1 strategies from the International Programs Office, a 2 facility which helps prepare students to deal with various kinds of 3 ups and downs in a foreign culture. However, I still experienced culture shock during my stay. I had learned that many Chinese traditions 4 focus on food but my first meal with the family completely 5 took me by surprise. In the middle of the table were dishes of 6 a variety of foods and small bowls of rice for each member of the family. My 7 host mother took charge and placed food into my bowl, and I happily ate whatever was served. I was taught that finishing your plate was to show your host how much you enjoyed the meal, but my host mother 8 tended to refill my bowl every time it was empty. It seemed a bit odd to me. I later learned that finishing your bowl in China is a signal to the host that you would like more food. So leaving some food in the bowl to show you are quite full is also acceptable. My experience may 9 illustrate the type of problem many exchange students are likely to 10 run into when they first experience a foreign culture. My advice would be: keep an open mind, show respect and try to understand; you'll gain valuable experience.

II. Word Meaning: Hyponyms

1. What is the relationship between “utensils” and “knives”?

In English, some words have broader meanings than other words. For example, utensils are tools used to help with cooking, serving or eating food. It is an umbrella term that covers many words such as knives, forks, spoons, toothpicks, drinking straws, chopsticks, frying pans, etc. And these words are the hyponyms of the word “utensils.” The prefix “hypo-” means “under” or “lower.” The suffix “-onym” means “name” or “word.”

The word “utensils” is the umbrella word and the word “knives” is one of its hyponyms.

2. Read the passage. Find the hyponyms of “food” and group them under an umbrella.

The Song dynasty was a time of plenty* in China. There were “Seven Necessities” that people had to have every day: firewood, rice, oil, salt, soybean sauce, vinegar and tea. As trade increased, the food explosion was evident in large cities like Kaifeng and Hangzhou. This was apparent in the separate markets for different food products in different parts of the city: markets for grain, for vegetables and for fruits. There were markets for seventeen kinds of beans, as well as fresh fish and preserved fish. Additionally, there were two markets for pork, and others for meats besides pork like beef, horse meat, poultry and rabbit. In the butcher shops, five butchers at a time were lined up at tables: cutting, slicing and pounding cuts of meat to order.

* Note: “a time of plenty” refers to a situation in which large supplies of something are available, especially food.

3. Complete each of the sentences with a hyponym or an umbrella word.

- (1) The Indians cook with lots of spices, including ginger, chilli pepper, black pepper, etc. cakes/pies/ice-cream (Any specific item for desserts is acceptable.)
- (2) The British have a weakness for sweet food. They love _____, chocolates and sweets. Can you imagine a pudding made mostly with bread and butter? It exists in British cooking — “Bread and Butter Pudding.” It’s great!
- (3) A Chinese dinner is a marathon of food. Usually it starts out with some cold dishes, and then moves into a wide variety of main courses. Of course, there are always some staple foods around — rice, dumplings, or noodles.

• Grammar in Use

-ing/-ed forms 1 — used as attributives

- I. Read the passage and pay attention to the underlined -ing and -ed forms in it. What functions do they serve?

The Chinese New Year celebration is called the “Spring Festival” and is deeply connected to China’s ancient farming culture and to the moon.

The New Year’s Eve dinner is a feast of traditional foods that are supposed to bring good luck and success in the coming year. Each region has its own typical dishes. Near the sea, these might be prawns, dried

- (1) Ask students to come up with several hyponyms of “food” to see whether they understand hyponyms well.
- (2) Have students read the passage and circle the hyponyms of “food” in the passage.
- (3) Get students to group the hyponyms of “food” in the passage under an umbrella.

For example:

Q1: What is the sweet cake known as?

A: It is known as the “kings’ cake”.

Q2: What is the best time to serve the “kings’ cake”?

A: It should be served when warm, straight out of the oven.

2. Call on one or two students to speak out the answers and report the -ing/-ed forms used as attributives. Give brief feedback.
3. Encourage students to prepare an introduction to a Chinese New Year dish in about 8 sentences using -ing/-ed forms as attributives, and introduce the dish in groups.

I All the underlined words are used as attributives (An attributive is a word or word group, such as an adjective, that is placed next to the noun it modifies without a linking verb) in the passage.

II Attributives:

1. known 2. containing 3. topped 5. brought 7. buried 8. varying 9. shared 10. hidden oysters, fish salad and seaweed. In the south, they might include rice cakes, while in the north dumplings boiled in water and steamed dumplings made of wheat are favourite foods. Don't cut your noodles — long noodles mean long life.

Grammar Highlights

The -ing and -ed forms of a verb can be used as attributives (=word(s) used before a noun to describe it).

- Some -ing and -ed forms used as attributives have been established as common adjectives. For example:

Example	Meaning	Function
boiling water	=water that is boiling	the -ing form is a participle with an active meaning indicating a progressive action
frozen food	=food that has been frozen	the -ed form is a participle with a passive meaning indicating an earlier event
spoken English	=English that you speak (or that is spoken rather than written)	the -ed form is a participle with a passive meaning
dining room	=room for eating and dining	the -ing form is a gerund and is used rather like a noun

- The -ing/-ed phrase after a noun is similar to a relative clause.

For example:

The man carrying a suitcase handed me an envelope. (=The man who carried a suitcase handed me an envelope.)

There is a small toy hidden inside the cake. (=There is a small toy which is hidden inside the cake.)

II. Read the passage and fill in each blank with the appropriate form of the verb given in brackets. Then circle the -ing/-ed forms used as attributives.

As the New Year begins, many people across the globe celebrate the calendar change with a sweet cake 1 known (know) as the “kings’ cake.” It is indeed a tradition to eat pies and cakes 2 containing (contain) little “prizes.”

If you are in France, you have probably noticed this delicious-looking cake, usually 3 topped (top) with a golden paper crown, in your local bakery or supermarket since mid-December. It's sweet and best 4 served (serve) when warm, straight out of the oven.

But the pleasure 5 brought (bring) by a “kings’ cake” isn't merely due to its good taste; it's also the excitement of 6 wondering (wonder) whether you will be the lucky one to discover la fève, a tiny charm 7 buried (bury) inside one of the slices. If you are, you're “king for a day” and take your place in a 700-year-old French tradition.

The cake goes by different names around the world, and comes in 8 varying (vary) shapes and styles. But people who eat it have a 9 shared (share) hope to find the little prize 10 hidden (hide) inside, wear the crown, and be king or queen of the party.

Recognising examples

1. Explain “Viewing Strategy: Recognising examples” to students. Tell them that because themes are often buried deep within a narrative’s structure and ideas are not always easy to grasp when people are viewing, it is helpful for viewers to recognise the examples that are used to illustrate the ideas, which can make statements clearer, give viewers more information and help clarify complex concepts.
2. Remind students that examples often follow the idea they are used to illustrate, and are usually introduced by cohesive phrases like “for example”, “for instance”, and “such as”.

教学建议

Before-viewing:

Help students get familiar with the words in the bubbles by asking them to explain the meanings of the words in the sentences. If needed, give more sentences containing the words or ask students to make sentences with the words.

While-viewing:

1. This viewing activity is designed to develop students’ ability to find out main ideas/points and to recognise examples that support the main ideas/points. When teaching, have students think about the function of the examples in a passage, i.e. the relation between the examples and the main messages/points, and how examples are usually introduced, e.g. following cohesive phrases like “for example”, “for instance”, and “such as”.
2. Remind students to pay attention to the particular examples provided in the video clip and have them infer the main messages/points from the examples by using the “strategy of recognising examples”.
3. Have students read the sentences in Activity II. Play the video and have them put the messages in the same order as they are presented. Play the video again and have students write down the examples that illustrate the speaker’s points (Activity III).

After-viewing:

Ask students to come up with more examples that can support the main messages/points of the video, and call on a few students to share their examples with the class. Comment on their work.

Dining Customs Around the World: Eating Utensils

There are three methods of eating in the world: with forks, with fingers and with chopsticks. Most people in Europe, Australia and North America eat with a knife and fork. Chopsticks are widely used in East Asia. Fingers are the most widespread eating tool, commonly practised in India, Sri Lanka, Indonesia, the Middle East and much of Africa. Globally, there are fewer fork-feeders than the other two groups of eaters.

教学建议

I. Speaking:

Introduce “Speaking Strategy: Using hand gestures effectively while presenting” to students. Help them to know how proper hand gestures can act as a second language in presentation, e.g. hand gestures can be used to communicate numbers (1–10). And encourage students to try using some or all of the strategic points mentioned in this section when practising speaking.

Before-speaking

1. Briefly introduce the format of email and the basic elements of a formal email, i.e. the subject line, salutation, introduction, body and closing.
2. Divide students into groups and ask each group to select one topic from Section 2 of the given brochure.
3. Ask each group to conduct topic-related research and find some examples of culture shock that international students are likely to encounter while dining in China.

While-speaking

1. Ask students to share their culture shock stories and collect ideas within their group. Encourage them to use hand gestures to communicate with their group members and avoid pointing directly at someone.
2. Ask each group to select a presenter to present the group’s ideas to the class. Encourage the presenters to use open hands and palms up for a positive effect and make sure their hand gestures are natural.
3. Ask students to take notes while listening and prepare for the brochure article.

I Speaking:

Answers may vary. The passage in Activity I of Key Vocabulary on text page 39 may serve as an example.

II. Writing:

Introduce “Writing Strategy: Writing in topical order” to students. Help students grasp how to write in topical order. Guide students to try arranging information according to different sub-topics within a larger topic, or the “types” of things that fall within a larger category when they write in topical order. Have students know each “type” represents a main section of information.

Before-writing

1. Guide students to read the directions and make sure that they know what they are to write.
2. Explain “Writing Strategy: Writing in topical order” to students. Ask them to read the example in Step 2 to get the idea. You may provide more examples.
3. Have students choose a topic from the Table of Contents in the brochure. And have them brainstorm the ideas and examples they would like to include in their writing.
4. Ask students to use the checklist before and after writing.

Reference checklist:

- Do I organise ideas and write in topical order?
- Do I provide examples of possible culture shocks?
- Do I make cross-cultural comparison and give explanations of the cultural differences?
- Do I use proper cohesive devices?
- Do I use correct grammar and spelling?

While-writing

1. Guide students to organise their ideas and examples in topical order. Guide them to divide the topic (e.g. staple foods) into several sub-topics (e.g. rice, wheat, other grains, etc) and give brief descriptions of each one by one.
2. Ask students to pick one (e.g. noodles) which might cause culture shock to people from certain areas and make cross-cultural comparison to provide possible explanations.
3. Encourage students to use the ideas and examples from the Speaking activity to make their writing convincing.
4. Ask students to write an article according to the requirements listed in the email in the Speaking activity.

After-writing

1. Have students do peer check.
2. Ask students to revise or rewrite their draft based on peer suggestions.
3. Create opportunities for students to display their writing, e.g. collecting students’ articles and making them into a real brochure.
4. If it is convenient for you, you can also ask students to properly write a formal email back to your email address and send their work as an attachment.

Suggested Activities 见 pages T50i–T50j.

III Writing:

An example is given below.

Seating

In a formal Chinese dinner, there is a specific seating order based on age and social status, which includes the seat of honour and other seats. The seat of honour, usually in the centre facing the door, is reserved for the host, the eldest or the person with the highest social status, while the least prominent seat is generally the one nearest to the door. This may cause confusion to you if your host insists that you should not sit near the door, since there is probably no such tradition in your home country. A simple solution can be: just follow your host’s arrangement and accept their hospitality.

II. Writing: Giving advice about dining in China to foreign students

Write your article according to the requirements listed in the email.

Writing Strategy

Writing in topical order

By writing in topical order, the writer arranges information according to different sub-topics within a larger topic, or the “types” of things that fall within a larger category. In this pattern, each “type” represents a main section of information.

Step 1 Choose a topic from the Table of Contents in the brochure.

Step 2 Organise your ideas in topical order. Divide the topic (e.g. staple foods) into several sub-topics (e.g. rice, wheat, other grains, etc) and give brief descriptions of them one by one. Pick one (e.g. noodles) which might cause culture shock to people from certain areas and make a cross-cultural comparison to provide possible explanations.

Step 3 Use ideas and examples from the Speaking Activity to support your writing.

Step 4 Revise your article and make sure you use proper cohesive devices.

WHAT FOOD TELLS US ABOUT CULTURE

Have you ever wondered why people from different parts of the world eat different types of food or why certain foods and culinary traditions are so important to one's culture? There is more of a connection between food and culture than you may think.

On an individual level, we grow up eating the food of our culture, and we learn to closely identify with it. Sometimes foods help us remember things in the past — memories that have special meanings to us. Family dishes often become the comfort food we seek as adults at lower points of our lives. When I was sick as a child, my mother used to cook soup and bring it to me in bed because I was too weak to get up. The smell and taste of the soup became something very familiar to me. Now, whenever I feel tired or stressed, I remember the soup my mum used to make for me.

On a larger scale, food is an expression of cultural identity. Traditional cuisine is passed down from one generation to the next by maintaining precious family recipes. Immigrants cook traditional food as a way of preserving their culture in their new homes and as a means of coping with homesickness.

Each country or community's unique cuisine reflects its history, lifestyle, values and beliefs. In China, harmony is a vital trait. This is reflected in Chinese cuisine, where almost every flavour (salty, spicy, sour, sweet and bitter) is used in a balanced way to create delicious dishes. Also, Chinese people have a historically elaborate style, which can be seen in their architecture and costumes as well as in their food. They believe that food not only needs to be nutritious but also needs to look appealing and colourful.

The cuisine of the United States reflects its history of immigration, which introduced many different ingredients and cooking styles. Over the years, the US therefore has developed a rich diversity in food preparation throughout the country.

As the world becomes more globalised, it is easier to access cuisines from different cultures. We should embrace our heritage through our culture's food, but we should also become more informed about other cultures by trying dishes from around the world. Food is a portal into culture, and it should be treated as such.

背景介绍

This article is an adapted version of “What Food Tells Us About Culture”, written by Chau B Le, originally published in the Freely Magazine, a Philadelphia-based multicultural media channel for international students and anyone who appreciates cultural diversity.

难句注释

1. Family dishes often become the comfort food we seek as adults at lower points of our lives. (lines 13–15)

本句中的 we seek 是定语从句，修饰 the comfort food，该定语从句的关系代词由于作动词 seek 的宾语而省略了。at lower points of our lives 意为“在我们人生低谷时”。整句意为“当我们长大成人，家常菜往往是我们跌入人生低谷时寻求的慰藉。”

2. Immigrants cook traditional food as a way of preserving their culture in their new homes and as a means of coping with homesickness. (lines 27–30)

本句中 as a way of ... 和 as a means of... 是两个并列的介词短语，修饰主句。a means of doing something 意为“做某事的一种方式”，preserve their culture 意为“保存他们的文化”。整句意为“异乡人烹饪传统美食是为了延续家乡的文化，也寄托思乡之情。”

3. We should embrace our heritage through our culture’s food but we should also become more informed about other cultures by trying dishes from around the world. (lines 52–56)

本句中两个 we should... 并列，结构为“我们应该……但我们也应该……”，其中后一个是作者所强调的。become informed about something 意为“了解某事”。整句意为“我们既要品味自己的食物以拥抱传统，也要品味各地美食以理解世界其他文化。”

教学建议

Step 1: Check

Remind students to check whether they have achieved the overall learning goals about “food” by going over the expected outcomes of this unit.

Ask students to put the items in the right places. List those items they did well and put them in the blank beneath the first question. Figure out the problems or difficulties and put these items in the blank beneath the second question. The problems can be related to any text, activity or strategy concerning understanding, discovering, producing or extending.

Step 2: Reflect

Have students recall the activities they have done well to give them a sense of achievement. Get them to describe the process or the result they have achieved and explain the reason for their success.

Guide students to think of the problems or difficulties they have encountered when they were doing the rest of the activities. Analyse the possible causes of the problems.

Step 3: Plan

Lead students to make a plan to overcome the difficulties. Encourage students to find out an effective solution to each problem, e.g. turning to a dictionary, a reference book or online resources, asking a friend or a teacher for help, inviting a partner to practise together. Provide them with an example and give support if needed.

范 例 (Answers may vary.)

Which of the above have you done well? Why and how?

C. Recognising cultural differences in food and dining customs

I was very curious about Western dining customs and interested in different foods worldwide, so I listened attentively when my classmates shared their different experiences in different countries. Besides, I searched online and found a lot of information about differences in food and dining customs, and I even searched for background information such as religious or historical reasons for different food and dining customs. I learned a lot and really enjoyed the activities and the learning experiences.

Which of the above do you still find difficult? Why?

G. Introducing Chinese food and dining customs by writing an article in topical order

I never tried to introduce Chinese food in English. I found it difficult and sometimes frustrating to describe Chinese food, especially the names of some dishes. The way I introduced Chinese food often confused my teacher and classmates; you can imagine how Westerners might have felt lost in my presentation.

What do you plan to do if you find something difficult?

I have discussed it with my friends, and we have decided to study some English menus of Chinese dishes. Additionally, my teacher has recommended an English book on Chinese dining customs to me. I'm going to read it at weekends. I hope it will help.

How to Use Knives and Forks

If you have more than one fork, the outer one is your salad fork and the inner one is for your main dish. The fork for your main dish will be larger than your salad fork.

To cut into items on your plate, pick up and hold your knife in your right hand. The index finger is mostly straight and rests near the base of the top, blunt side of the blade. The other four fingers wrap around the handle. Meanwhile, hold your fork in your left hand. Bend the wrists, so that your index fingers are pointing down towards your plate. This makes the tip of the knife and fork also point towards the plate somewhat. Hold the food down with the fork by applying pressure through the index finger. If you're cutting, place the knife close to the base of the fork and cut with a sawing motion. Foods like pasta will only require a swift, easy cut, while chewy meats will take a bit of work. Generally, only cut one or two bites at a time.

When it comes to eating, there's a major difference between the European style and the American style. As for the European style, keep the fork in your left hand. However, in the American style, after cutting a bite, put your knife down on the edge of your plate, transfer your fork from your left hand to your right, and eat with your fork in your right hand.

Dining Customs Around the World

Dining customs differ from culture to culture. It may confuse newcomers like travellers or overseas students. Here are some dining customs we should be aware of when travelling abroad.

Number 1 – Some people might think nothing of flipping over a whole fish to get every last bit. In Southern China however, this is considered bad luck so either enjoy the top side only, or simply remove the bone to get to the bottom.

Number 2 – American waiters see a big tip as a source of pride in a job well done*, but to the Japanese, it is insulting. The price you pay for your meal includes service, so sit back and enjoy!

Number 3 – Also while dining in China or in Japan, do not leave your chopsticks standing upright in your rice bowl as this practice is often associated with funerals. Use the chopstick rest if provided or place them together in front of you.

Number 4 – Indians prefer not to use their left hand to touch their food or even their plates as this hand is used for bathroom functions and considered unclean. Parts of the Middle East and Africa also observe this custom.

Number 5 – In Italy, cappuccinos are for breakfast, or at most, before noon. While Americans think this traditional drink is wonderful after any meal, some Italians think it upsets the stomach when taken later in the day.

What do you think is the worst mistake Americans make when dining in other countries?

Note: * North American restaurants pay very low hourly, official wages on the assumption that wait staff will earn tips to supplement their income. Tips are a key part of an American server's salary and a kind of subsidy from the customer.

注 释:

1. flip v. to turn over or cause to turn over with a sudden quick movement 翻转，翻动
The boat flipped right over. 船翻了。
2. cappuccino n. coffee made with milk that has been heated with steam to produce a lot of small bubbles. 卡布奇诺咖啡（一种以同量的意大利特浓咖啡和蒸汽泡沫牛奶相混合的意式咖啡）
We were sitting in a coffee shop, sipping cappuccinos and eating pastries. 我们坐在咖啡店里，喝着卡布奇诺咖啡，吃着油酥糕点。

The Connection Between Food and Culture

Do you have childhood memories of eating a favourite food? Maybe you remember how you eagerly anticipated ending each holiday meal with your grandmother's sensational strawberry shortcake? Or how your Dad made Saturday mornings extra special by serving up his famous chocolate chip pancakes? If you stop and think about it, you probably associate some of your favourite foods with family memories.

Food is clearly important for nutrition, but it's also meaningful to humans in other ways. Think about it: we're the only mammals that cook our food. This makes our consumption of nutrients much different.

Culturally speaking, food is very important. Food can be nostalgic and provide important connections to our family or our nation. Food can be a bridge that helps immigrants find their place in a new society. Food can have a number of different meanings that might not be immediate to us when, for example, we take our first bite of our favourite dinner.

Food provides an important link to our cultural heritage. Imagine an Italian grandmother who immigrated to the United States and is teaching her grandchildren, who have never been to Italy, how to make an authentic Italian meal. This is an important experience in maintaining connections to one's cultural heritage.

注 释：

1. anticipate v. to expect something, or to prepare for something before it happens 预期，预料
We anticipate that prices will fall next year. 我们预期价格明年会跌。
2. sensational adj. very exciting or extremely good 极好的，绝妙的
The experts agreed that this was a truly sensational performance. 专家们也认为这个表演极好。
3. nostalgic adj. thinking affectionately about things that happened in the past 怀旧的，恋旧的
Many people were nostalgic about the good old days. 许多人怀念过去的好时光。
4. heritage n. valued objects and qualities such as historic buildings and cultural traditions that have been passed down from previous generations 遗产
Together, we must help each other preserve our national heritage for future generations. 我们必须携起手来，互相帮助，为后代保护民族遗产。
5. authentic adj. made or done in the traditional or original way, or in a way that faithfully resembles an original 真正的，纯正的
A local cook was hired to provide authentic southern-style meals at the lodge. 一位当地厨师被聘请来为小屋提供正宗的南方风味美食。

Option 1 ★★

Have students discuss their understanding of the quote on text page 34 with the question “Why is food the first necessity of the people?”

Option 2 ★★★

Ask students about their understanding of culture shock. Call on some who have been to a foreign country to share their experiences of what “shocked” them in that country and ask those who haven’t been abroad to guess what might shock them. Then ask students to brainstorm words that describe the experience of travelling abroad. List the words on the blackboard.

S: When she was attending a New Year dinner party with her host family and running into the "kings' cake" tradition, she was full of confusion.

T: Great! Now you got it.

Topic 2: Food-related cultural differences between France and America

Summary:

T: Now we've learned Hannah's experience of "culture shock" while she was dining in France, let's sum up her blog diary with the help of the topics and topic-related words and expressions in the box below.

Hannah's experiences: abroad, host family, celebrate, multiple courses, cheeses, champagne, bread, under the table, it turns out, "kings' cake" traditions, small toy, in one's serving, winner
Culture shock: take someone by surprise, feeling of confusion, adjust to, unfamiliar, phenomenon, a line graph, highs and lows, honeymoon phase, low points, frustrating and overwhelming

Dealing with culture shock: run into, strategies, International Programs Office, facility, deal with, ups and downs

Other fun, food-related cultural differences: both wrists resting on the table (Americans, tend to, left hands, in one's laps), use bread as a utensil, clean up the plate, "Bon appetit!", grab a coffee

2. Inferential comprehension ★ ★

Topic: How can we deal with culture shock?

Target words and expressions: facility, culture shock, strategy, adjust, ups and downs, run into, confusion

T: If you are going to a foreign country you know nothing about and want to get some advice, where can you go for help?

S: The International Programmes Office. It is a facility which helps prepare students to deal with potential culture shocks.

T: What preparations will you make with the help of the International Programmes Office?

S: I might learn some strategies, which will help me adjust to ups and downs in a foreign country.

T: Do you have any effective strategy to share with us?

S: Sure. When I run into something that causes confusion, I will ask local residents about it directly but politely. After they explain it, I'll show respect for their customs and do just what they do. After all, when in Rome, do as the Romans do.

3. Critical comprehension ★ ★ ★

Ask students to draw a line graph, illustrating the author's culture shock experience and then use the target words to narrate her experience in the first person.

Topic: My culture shock experience

Target words and expressions: confusion, take someone by surprise, run into, frustrating, overwhelming, ups and downs

Reference answer:

I saw multiple courses, a variety of cheeses, bottles of champagne, and slices of fresh bread. I felt a little excited because I could attend a French dinner party I had imagined. However, at the end of the meal, the host called out, "Everyone, get under the table!" It took me by surprise! The children came running into the dining room and hid under the table, which caused me much confusion. I had thought I was lucky not to have run into things too difficult to manage. This was frustrating and overwhelming! Seeing me confused and frustrated, the host explained the "kings' cake" tradition to me, which was very interesting. I was soon excited again because I learned something new. Anyway, it is common to experience ups and downs when in a foreign country.

Ask students to share with their partners a personal experience about culture shock concerning food and dining customs in a foreign country. Have them tell how they felt and what they did to overcome the shock. Encourage students to figure out the differences in food and dining customs between the country and China, and why.

Target words and expressions: variety, illustrate (illustration), run into, take someone by surprise, tend to

Reference answer:

I used to travel with my parents to India. Though I had learned about the Indians eating with their fingers from illustrations, it still took me by surprise when I ran into the scene in an Indian restaurant. On the table was a variety of curry dishes but no chopsticks or forks. I know that when in Rome one should do as the Romans do, but during my Indian travels I still, nonetheless, tended to use chopsticks instead of fingers.

Grammar in Use

Option 1 ★★

- Ask students to read a paragraph introducing fish and chips and underline the relative clauses in it.
Fish and chips is an English hot dish which consists, obviously, of fish and sliced potatoes that are fried. It is a common takeaway food which is loved by many in the United Kingdom. Those who meet friends in pubs like to order this dinner. Fish and chips is now a staple in numerous countries, particularly throughout the commonwealth. In Britain and Ireland, cod and haddock appear most frequently as the fish which is used for this dish, but vendors also sell many other varieties.
- Have students read the paragraph aloud and use -ing /-ed forms to replace the relative clauses.
- Ask students to rewrite the paragraph using -ing/-ed forms as attributives.

Reference answer:

Fish and chips is an English hot dish which consists, obviously, of (=consisting of) fish and sliced potatoes that are fried (=fried sliced potatoes). It is a common takeaway food which is loved (=loved) by many in the United Kingdom. Those who meet friends (=meeting friends) in pubs like to order this dinner. Fish and chips is now a staple in numerous countries, particularly throughout the commonwealth. In Britain and Ireland, cod and haddock appear most frequently as the fish which is used (=used) for this dish, but vendors also sell many other varieties.

Option 2 ★★

Ask students to write a story about culture shock concerning food and dining customs based on their own experiences in at least 8 sentences. Remind them that they should use at least 3 -ing /-ed forms as attributives in their story.

Reference answer:

The first time I came to the UK, I was quite surprised to find that there were actually a lot of differences between the West and the East in food and dining customs. For instance, in China it is customary for people to drink hot water, and wherever you travel within the country, you can always find airports or railway stations providing hot water for free. However, in the UK, drinking cold or even iced water is a long-standing custom. People use hot water only if they want to enjoy a cup of tea or coffee. I still remember when I asked my UK host family to prepare some hot water for me to take to school: they felt very surprised, and asked me for sure if boiled water was the only drink I needed. And besides the well-known differences in dining utensils and cooking styles, I also learned that Western people may have lunch or supper very late. For example, it is normal for British students to have classes until after 12.30 and then they will start having lunch! And in Spain, dinner time is around 9p.m.! I wonder if the Spanish people are able to sleep well with such a full belly...

Viewing

Get students to have a group discussion on the following topics:

1. How do you understand “Food reminds people of their cultural roots”?
2. Can you give an example of a Chinese food which provides an important link to the Chinese cultural heritage?

Reference answers:

1. For instance, a northern Chinese who immigrated to Britain may feel it necessary to eat jiaozi to celebrate New Year’s Day because it’s a rooted tradition.
2. Take zongzi as an example. Each year during the Dragon Boat Festival, the Chinese people eat zongzi, a special Chinese rice dumpling made of glutinous rice stuffed with different fillings and wrapped in bamboo leaves, or with reed or other large flat leaves, to commemorate the death of Qu Yuan, a famous poet and hero in ancient China. This tradition dates back to thousands of years and is practised to arouse the patriotic spirit among the Chinese as well as to raise awareness of their own culture and history. Zongzi is indeed a food that provides an important link to China’s cultural heritage.

Moving Forward

Option 1 ★ ★ ★

Suppose your class is going to write on the most important topic from Section 2 of the brochure, ask them to work in groups, choose their topic and present to the class:

- (1) the reasons why the topic is more important than the others;
- (2) the aspects or sub-categories the topic contains;
- (3) two or three examples of culture shock regarding the topic.

Reference phrases and sentence structures:

For making comparison:

- Compared with..., ...
- In comparison, ...
- Comparatively speaking, ...
- Comparing... with..., it is clear/evident or we can find that...

For illustrating topics:

- The topic can be divided into several parts/sections/categories, which are...
- The topic covers several aspects, and they are...
- I'd like to illustrate the topic... from several aspects: ...
- The topic consists of several sub-topics, ...

For giving examples:

- For example/instance, ...
- Take... as an example, ...
- Let me give you an example of...
- Here I'd like to provide an example of...
- There is a typical example of...

Option 2 ★ ★ ★

1. Ask students to read the four quotes by famous people about their feelings towards and understandings of food. Have students pick out their favourite quote and give reasons.

- An apple a day keeps the doctor away.
— Welsh proverb
 - One cannot think well, love well, sleep well if one has not dined well.
— Virginia Woolf
 - Food is for eating, and good food is to be enjoyed... I think food is, actually, very beautiful in itself.
— Delia Smith
 - Cooking is all about people. Food is maybe the only universal thing that really has the power to bring everyone together. No matter what culture, everywhere around the world, people get together to eat.
— Guy Fieri

2. Ask students to write a short paragraph about:
 - (1) which one of the quotes they like most;
 - (2) the reasons for their choice.

Option 3 ★★

Step 1

Role-play. Ask students to work in groups, some acting as foreign visitors and the others as journalists. The journalists will have an interview with the foreign visitors. They will ask the visitors about the typical food and dining customs in their countries, and the culture shocks they have encountered in China. Encourage the journalists to use the sentence structures below, and take down notes in the table for future use.

Name	Nationality	Typical foods/dining customs in home country	Favourite Chinese foods/dining customs	Culture shock(s) encountered when dining in China

Reference sentence structures:

- Excuse me, can I take a few minutes of your time and do an interview with you about...?
- Hello, I am planning to write a report on... and I am wondering if you can...
- My first/second/next question is...
- The first/second/next thing I would like to know is...
- What are the typical foods in your home country?
- Are there any special... in your home country?
- How do you feel about ...? Which... is your favourite/least favourite?
- Is there any food or dining custom here that makes you...?
- Have you encountered any culture shock while dining in China?

Step 2

Ask group representatives to make presentations to the class.

1. Have the journalists share their notes in the group. Then ask each group to organise their information and summarise the results of their interviews, i.e. typical foods/dining customs in the visitors' home country, their favourite Chinese foods/dining customs, and the culture shocks they have encountered in China.
2. Have each group select a representative, and call on a few group representatives to share their group's findings.

Step 3

Ask students to write a report comparing food and dining customs between China and other countries, and explaining the possible culture shocks foreigners might encounter in China.

Reading B

Key to exercise 2 in Comprehension Plus on text page 47:

	Food-culture connection	Example
On an individual level	We closely identify with the food we grow up with (food of our culture). Family dishes often become the comfort food.	The author feels comforted and relaxed when he thinks of his mother's soup he had when he was ill as a child.
On a larger scale	Food is an expression of cultural identity.	Immigrants cook traditional food as a way of preserving their culture in their new homes and as a means of coping with homesickness.
On the national level	Each country or community's unique cuisine reflects its history, lifestyle, values and beliefs.	(1) Chinese cuisine: – Different flavours are used in a balanced way to create delicious dishes. → Harmony is a vital trait in Chinese culture. – Chinese people believe that food not only needs to be nutritious but also needs to look appealing and colourful. → Chinese people have a historically elaborate style. (2) American cuisine: It reflects the American history of immigration, which has introduced many different ingredients and cooking styles. Over the years, the US has developed a rich diversity in food preparation throughout the country.

Option 1 ★

Have students skim the article and divide it into different parts and write down the main idea of each part. They may borrow a topic sentence to describe the main idea or summarise it in their own words.

Reference answers:

Part One (paragraph 1): There is a close link between food and culture.

Part Two (paragraph 2): We identify with the food of our culture as individuals.

Part Three (paragraph 3): Food is an expression of cultural identity.

Part Four (paragraphs 4~5): Each country or community's unique cuisine reflects its history, lifestyle, values and beliefs.

Part Five (paragraph 6): We should treat food as a portal into culture and learn more about other cultures by trying different cuisines.

Option 2 ★★

Get students to answer the questions based on their own understanding and experiences so that students' background knowledge will be activated and their interest will be aroused.

(1) What is your favourite home-made dish? When and how often do you get to eat that dish?

(2) If you have a visiting foreign friend, what Chinese dish(es) will you treat him/her to? Give your reasons.

- (3) How much do you know about typical dishes of other countries? Work with your classmates and list as many as possible.

Option 3 ★ ★

Ask students to read the article more carefully to find out what method the author mainly uses to illustrate his/her points. This activity aims to raise students' awareness of how they can better explain something in expository writing.

Reference answer:

The author mainly uses exemplification to illustrate his/her points. The author uses his/her personal example in paragraph 2, and in paragraphs 4 and 5, the author uses this method again by raising the examples of the food cultures of China and the US.

Option 4 ★ ★ ★

Have students brainstorm how the flavour, look, ingredients and cooking style of food can reflect the culture of a country. Remind students not to use the same examples the author has used in the article. This activity aims to challenge students' cultural knowledge and their ability to express their opinions orally.

Reference answer:

For example, Japanese people's care in both the selection of ingredients and the preparation of food reflects their pursuit of perfection.

Option 5 ★ ★ ★

Ask students to work in groups and make a presentation on the food culture of a country or a region. They are supposed to focus on the association between food and culture. This is to enhance their understanding of the food-culture relationship through doing research on their own.

Critical Thinking

Option 1 ★ ★

Guide students to speculate on the suggestions given by different people about how to deal with culture shock, and then have them work in pairs to compare the suggestions and choose the one they regard as the most effective. Ask them for their reason(s).

Option 2 ★ ★ ★

Ask students to work in pairs to design a poster about different food cultures based on the key messages in the unit, and then have them share in groups.

Further Exploration

Ask students to study and categorise China's food culture. Then have them compare our food culture with that of a foreign country.

American Food and Culture

When it comes to American food and culture, it is for good reason that the term “Melting Pot”—the name of a 1908 play—is still used to describe the United States today. The United States is a nation of immigrants, each ethnic group retaining customs, festivals and food traditions with great pride and yet with a stamp that is unmistakably American.

Huge areas of fertile land, abundant natural resources, and some of the world’s most advanced technology, marketing and transportation systems combine to give the United States one of the highest living standards in the world. Immigrants to America were dazzled by the space, opportunities, freedom and diversity of things around them. Their glowing letters sent home spoke more of “You can get anything here!” than of the hard struggle to get ahead in a new land and often with a new language.

Though a visitor to the United States may conclude that the country’s staple foods are hot dogs, hamburgers and French fries, washed down with soft drinks and topped off with ice cream, a more careful examination reveals regional as well as ethnic specialties.

For the first generation of European immigrants, making a living, creating a home and raising a family were the realities of everyday life. Food was whatever was available and affordable to fill an empty stomach. But as they became established, the newcomers found comfort in grouping together in neighbourhoods where the familiar languages and customs gave them strength for whatever the future might hold. It was good to share a glass of homemade wine, a pint of beer, or a schnapps. It was comforting to smell the familiar scents of cooking and baking and, even better, to drown a day’s hard work in a homey soup or familiar stew. Adapting available foods to familiar recipes helped a little to make them feel at home.

It was from the Native Americans that the earliest pioneers learned how to prepare such staples as corn, tomatoes, peanuts, tobacco, turkeys, wild rice, pumpkins and squash, and even to tap wild maple trees for sweet maple syrup. As the pioneers settled into the land, they adapted the ethnic foods they brought with them to the new and different produce that was so plentiful. Ethnic foods melded into regional specialties, and although few writers dare to define the exact borders of these regions, distinctive ways of preparing, cooking, combining, seasoning and even serving foods do exist.

Food for thought

1. Why do you think the United States is called a “Melting Pot”?
2. How did ethnic foods meld into regional specialties?
3. How do you understand “Ethnic foods are inevitably changing”?

Reference answers:

1. Because the USA is a nation of immigrants, who have brought different customs, festivals and food traditions to America’s shores.
2. As the immigrants settled down, they found comfort in cooking family recipes, and these ethnic foods were gradually adapted to cater to more people in the region, and given time they became regional specialties.
3. As ethnic foods adapt themselves to a new environment, their ingredients, flavours and cooking styles will unavoidably be different from what they were. The change in ethnic foods may be a result of globalisation.

Unit 4

Sports

- ▶ talk about the gains and losses that result from playing sports, and write a “letter to a sport”;
- ▶ appreciate the sporting spirit beyond cultural boundaries;
- ▶ think critically about the advantages and disadvantages of doing sports;
- ▶ summarise while reading, ask for and give clarification in a conversation, and write in chronological order.

Sports teaches you character, it teaches you to play by the rules, it teaches you to know what it feels like to win and lose — it teaches you about life.

Reading A

背景介绍

1. This passage is adapted from an article in the magazine New Oriental English (Teens), published in December, 2013.
2. Michael Jeffrey Jordan (born on 17 February 1963) is a former American professional basketball player. Regarded by most as the NBA's greatest all-time player, Jordan won six titles with the Chicago Bulls. Jordan was also one of the most effectively marketed athletes of his generation and was considered instrumental in popularising the NBA (National Basketball Association) around the world in the 1980s and 1990s. He is currently the principal owner and chairman of the NBA's Charlotte Hornets.

难句注释

1. If someone had told me then what would become of us, I'm not sure I would have believed them. (lines 6–8)
本句是虚拟语气的语法结构，表达对过去发生事情的假设。该结构中从句使用过去完成时 had done，主句使用 would/could/might have done。become of 为习语，相当于 happen to，意为“发生”“遭遇”等。整句意为“如果那时有人告诉我，我和你之间会发生些什么，我不知道自己会不会相信。”
2. And as life would have it, when I finally got really interested in you, when I was finally ready to get serious, you left me off the varsity. (lines 17–20)
本句中 as 引导方式状语从句，as life would have it 指“正如生活不为人所控”。整句意为“但仿佛命运捉弄，当我终于对你产生了兴趣，准备好全情投入的时候，你却让我在校队选拔中落选。”

Summarising

1. Get students to know that summarising is making a short statement giving only the main information and not the details of a plan, event, report, etc.
2. Have students read the text to find its key information, e.g. the stages of development of Jordan's relationship with basketball and his feelings towards basketball at each stage are the key pieces of information in his Open Love Letter.
3. Guide students to convey the information in their own words—different words from those used in the original text, e.g. “I barely remembered your name” could be “I didn't really notice basketball at first”, and “I love you, Basketball. I love everything about you and I always will... Our relationship will never end” could be “Jordan treasured his relationship with Basketball and his love for it will never end.” The paraphrased thoughts are logically sequenced into a summary.

教学建议

- I 1. Before students begin reading, ask them to look at the title, the first paragraph and the last paragraph. Guide students to predict what Michael Jordan will probably write in his letter. Then have students read the text quickly to check their predictions.
2. Ask students to look through the six questions. Allow them enough time to read the text again and find the answers. If students have difficulty, encourage them to have a discussion with their partners.
3. Call on some students to share their answers in class and give brief feedback.
- II 1. Ask students to read about the stages of the development of Jordan's relationship with basketball and put the letters before the statements into the timeline.

4. Have students read the text once again and encourage them to summarise the stages of the development of Jordan's relationship with basketball in their own words. Familiarise them with the reading strategy of summarising: grasping the main idea and the main points of the text and using one's own words to convey the information. Make comments on students' work.
- III 1. Have students read the quotes demonstrating different types of sporting spirit and make sure they know what each quote means. Encourage them to think of more quotes related to sporting spirit and fill in the blank.
2. Have students work in groups and discuss the types of sporting spirit Jordan has demonstrated. Remind them to find evidence in the text to support their opinion.

When asked to come onto the stage and accept an Oscar for the movie at the 2017 Academy Awards, Bryant commented, "As basketball players, we're really supposed to shut up and dribble ... I'm glad we do a little bit more than that."

During the animation, we're shown images from Bryant's past. We see an animated Bryant when he was still a boy. He was playing basketball games, using a rolled-up sock as a ball. And we see him for real on the court, shooting a basketball into the basket. This short movie is all about Bryant looking back over his life and career, and remembering it all with great fondness.

The love for basketball Bryant shows in the film will be recognised by players and fans everywhere. They will see it as not only a movie about a beloved player, but also a love story about the game they enjoy so much as well.

Grammar Highlights

The -ing and -ed forms of a verb can be used as adverbials to indicate time, cause, condition, concession, means, result, purpose, or attendant circumstances.

Notes:

- (1) The -ing form can be used after conjunctions and prepositions, such as when, while, before, after, on, without and instead of. For example:
I hurt my ankle while playing tennis in my navy-blue jeans.
- (2) The -ed form can be used after conjunctions such as when, if, unless and although. For example:
Although disappointed, the coach sees benefits to playing tough competition.
- (3) The implied subject of an -ing or -ed clause is usually the subject of the main clause.

II. Read the passage and fill in each blank with the appropriate form of the verb given in brackets. Then circle the -ing/-ed forms used as adverbials.

The movies that people grow to love are the ones that connect with their lives. The world loves sports, 1 making (make) sportspeople great subjects for cinema stories. Football is one of the most popular sports in the world, and, if 2 asked (ask) about who is the most famous football player, people would probably choose the former England player David Beckham. That's why 3 putting (put) Beckham's name in the title of their movie was a clever move by the makers of Bend It like Beckham (2002).

The main character of the film is a British Indian girl 4 called (call) Jesminder "Jess" Bharna. 5 Living (live) in London, Jess loves football. However, Jess's family members are very traditional. In her family, it's fine for a girl 6 to watch (watch) football on TV, but it's unacceptable for her 7 to play (play) the game herself. 8 Knowing (know) it would upset her parents, Jess decides to play football with the boys in the local park. And when Jess 9 joins (join) a local young women's football team, her parents' disappointment turns to anger. Yet, 10 faced (face) with this opposition, Jess does well in the team and leads them to victory.

II. Writing:

In this section, introduce “Writing Strategy: Writing in chronological order” to students. Guide students to learn to organise actions or events in chronological order or time order when writing a story.

Before-writing

1. Guide students to read the directions and make sure that they know what they are to write.
2. Explain the writing strategy writing in chronological order to students. If possible, show them the basic patterns of this type of writing by analysing an example.

Example passage:

Michael Jordan was a member of the Tar Heels’ national championship team in 1982. Jordan joined the Bulls in 1984 as the third overall draft pick. He quickly emerged as a league star and entertained crowds with his prolific scoring, gaining a reputation for being one of the best offensive players in basketball. In 1991, he won his first NBA championship with the Bulls, and followed that achievement with titles in 1992 and 1993, securing a “three-peat”. Although Jordan abruptly retired from basketball before the beginning of the 1993–94 NBA season, and started a new career in Minor League Baseball, he returned to the Bulls in March 1995 and led them to three additional championships in 1996, 1997 and 1998. Jordan retired for a second time in January 1999, but returned for two more NBA seasons from 2001 to 2003 as a member of the Wizards.

While-writing

1. Ask students to study their cue cards and decide on what they will include in their writing.
2. Have them reflect on their experiences with the sport they like or dislike and use a timeline to organise thoughts.
3. Guide students to organise thoughts about how their relationship with the sport has developed over the years while referring to the timeline.
4. You can take one student’s cue card as an example.
5. Give students enough time to refine their ideas and write a letter.

After-writing

1. Ask students to do self-evaluation using the checklist.

Writing task: My experiences with a sport
Item	3 points (Excellent)	2 points (Average)	1 point (Poor)
The passage is in chronological order.
The passage is well-organised.
There is a good choice of words or phrases.
There are different sentence patterns.
There are few grammatical mistakes.

2. Make comments on students’ work.

II. Writing: Writing about your experiences with a sport

Write a “letter to a sport.” It can be a sport you like or dislike. Explain your feelings towards it by recalling your experiences with the sport.

Writing Strategy

Writing in chronological order

Chronological order, or time order, is a method of organisation in which actions or events are presented as they occur or occurred in time.

By simply telling a story as it happened, chronological order differs from other organisational styles in that it is fixed according to the timeline of events.

Stories can also be written backwards, i.e., in reverse chronological order.

Step 1 Study the cue card your partner has helped you complete in the interview.

Step 2 Reflect on your experiences with the sport you like.

Step 3 Use a timeline to organise your thoughts. Mark the timeline with time indicators (e.g. X years ago; in 2016) and fill in the major events or significant feelings. (You can refer to Reading A.)

Step 4 Organise your thoughts about how your relationship with the sport has developed over the years while referring to your timeline.

Step 5 Refine your ideas and write a letter in 70 – 90 words.

Excerpt from *BEND IT LIKE BECKHAM*¹

The match was nearly over and I was almost on my last legs, when I saw a chance. I picked the ball up from Sally and headed for the German penalty area.

5 “Jess!” I could hear Jules shouting as she ran alongside me. “Pass!”

I glanced up and hit the ball forward into space. Jules ran on to it, picked it up and hit the ball into the net. It was just as good as Beckham’s last-minute goal against Greece. I almost collapsed with relief.

15 Jules ran into me and I jumped on her, followed by the rest of the team. We were all screaming with joy. The referee had to break it up and hurry us back to the centre circle, but two minutes after we kicked off, he blew the whistle for full-time. A draw.

“Penalties,” Jules said, with a wide smile on her face.

20 Although it wasn’t usual to finish a friendly with penalties, both sides had decided that it would be a nice idea. Now, with my legs shaking dangerously, I wasn’t so sure. Joe came on to the pitch to give us a quick pep talk. Maybe he wouldn’t choose me.

30 “OK, Jules, you go first,” Joe said. “Then Mel, Tina, Hannah and —” he turned to me “— Jess.” I tried not to look relieved that I was last. With any luck I wouldn’t have to take my turn, if the match was decided before that.

35 The Germans went first and scored. So did Jules, with a cracking shot that nearly broke through the net. The Germans scored again. So did Mel. After a third German goal, Tina was looking nervous, but she was lucky because her shot went in off the post².

40 My stomach was turning over and over as Hannah stepped up to take our fourth penalty. The Germans hadn’t missed one yet. If Hannah scored, it would be all down to the last German penalty-taker — and me.

45 Hannah sent the goalkeeper the wrong way and rolled the ball smoothly into the left-hand corner of the net. I tried to take deep breaths to calm myself down. If the next German player scored, I’d have to take my turn. I closed my eyes, willing her to fail.

50 A loud roar around the stadium told me that she’d scored. The referee signalled me to come over and with heavy steps I walked over to place the ball on the spot. I was incredibly tired and my legs felt like they were made of lead. Behind me I could hear the girls yelling encouragement.

55 “Come on, Jess!” That was Jules. “You can do this.” I made a superhuman effort and ran towards the ball, but even as I hit it, I knew it wasn’t right. I groaned as the ball hit the crossbar and bounced away into the crowd. Now I knew exactly how those players who’d missed penalties felt. Like someone had grabbed hold of my insides and ripped them out. Guttled, in other words.

Promoting a sports game in school

Work in groups and design a poster to promote a sports game in your school.

- Step 1 Do some research on a sports game. It could be a popular game, such as basketball. Or it could be a new kind of game, such as Muggle Quidditch adapted from the Harry Potter series. Study the rules and matches of the sport you choose.
- Step 2 Read reports and comments on this game and analyse its advantages to players.
- Step 3 Find a way to encourage people to take part in the game in a poster presentation to the class. Your poster should include the name of the game, its basic rules and its advantages. An example poster is given.
- Step 4 Share your posters in class and then decide which game is the most suitable for your school.

Further Exploration

教学内容与要求

- 能通过对某一项体育运动的探究性学习，设计海报，推广该项体育运动；
- 能分享该项体育运动的基本规则、优势以及作为校园体育运动项目的适切性。

教学建议

Steps 1 & 2

1. Ask students to brainstorm different sports.
2. Divide the class into groups and decide on their sports game which they will promote.
3. Explain to students that they need to conduct research on their sport's rules and some of its famous matches. Remind students that each of them should be responsible for at least one part and finish their research in 2–3 days and that group members should meet again to read relevant news reports and comments on the game and analyse its advantages to players.

Step 3

1. Present an example poster to students. Have students follow the example to design a poster for their game which should include the name of the game, the rules and the benefits to players.
2. Call on each group to present their poster in front of the class. Remind students to pay attention to the fluency of their presentation and the use of proper body language.

Step 4

1. Encourage students to consider which game is the most suitable for their school in terms of space, time, facilities, etc and have a vote.
2. Showcase each group's poster on the display board in the classroom.

Self-assessment

教学内容与要求

- 通过核查与反思，确认本单元目标的达成情况；
- 通过计划与调控，提升自主学习能力，提高学习效果。

教学建议

Step 1: Check

Remind students to check whether they have achieved the overall learning goals about “sports” by going over the expected outcomes of this unit.

Ask students to put the items in the right places. List those items they did well and put them in the blank beneath the first question. Figure out the problems or difficulties and put these items in the blank beneath the second question. The problems can be related to any text, activity or strategy concerning understanding, discovering, producing or extending.

Step 2: Reflect

Have students recall the activities that they have performed well to give them a sense of achievement. Get them to describe the process or the result they have achieved and explain the reason(s) for their success.

Guide students to think of the problems or difficulties they have encountered when doing the other activities. Analyse possible causes of these problems or difficulties.

Step 3: Plan

Lead students to make a plan to overcome the difficulties. Encourage students to find out an effective solution to each problem, e.g. turning to a dictionary, a reference book or online resources, asking a friend or a teacher for help, inviting a partner to practise together. Provide them with an example and give support if needed.

范例 (Answers may vary.)

Which of the above have you done well? Why and how?

A. Understanding feelings about and attitudes towards certain sports

I am crazy about sports, so it's easy for me to put myself in the writers' shoes, identifying with their experiences and understanding their feelings. Every time I read the texts in this unit, it seems as if I had a conversation with those who share the same interest with me. I enjoyed every minute of it.

Which of the above do you still find difficult? Why?

D. Thinking critically about the advantages and disadvantages of doing sports

I had to analyse all the information about the advantages and disadvantages of doing sports, discriminate between useful and less useful details, and make a reasonable judgment. I also needed to share my conclusion with my group and communicate with them effectively to come up with some coping methods to minimise the disadvantages of doing sports. Fortunately my English teacher gave me a lot of guidance and help. The task was interesting and instructive, but it really took me a lot of time.

What do you plan to do if you find something difficult?

I will try to get some advice from my teacher and spend some time practising the item of thinking critically about the advantages and disadvantages of doing things with a T-chart.

Self-assessment

补充文化知识

Taijiquan

Taijiquan is a Chinese martial art, which has seen increasing popularity throughout the world in recent years not only for its martial aspects, but for its soothing and beneficial aspects as well. It is a Chinese phrase which can literally be translated into supreme ultimate fist. In many ways, Taijiquan has a very Taoist tradition which teaches such things as learning to move with the world — both in a literal physical sense in terms of martial self-defence, and in a more abstract meditative sense. Indeed, the core of the practice could be described as simply learning to react appropriately to whatever is offered. This is one reason why many in the modern world consider it a valuable discipline. Practitioners of this discipline usually find that within a relatively short period of time, they are better equipped to handle stressful situations, and find themselves less prone to be caught off balance either physically or mentally.

Wushu

Wushu is a Chinese martial art in which people fight using their hands and feet.

The birth of wushu has a close relationship with a couple of factors. The first is hunting in ancient times. Before agriculture, the meat of wild animals was a main food. In hunting, people acquired fighting skills such as kicking and hitting with sticks and fists. Later, with the emergence of private property, people began to make war. They usually fought bare-handedly or with weapons at the risk of their lives, during which they figured out methods of winning, such as daoshu, jianshu and qiangshu. A final factor: thoughts of human harmony with the universe, yin and yang and the five elements. According to those thoughts, for instance, staying healthy means keeping a balance of yin and yang. Therefore, people designed various physical exercises and fighting movements based on their understanding of the moving systems of the universe and the actions of certain animals.

As a sport, wushu plays a positive role in exploiting the potential of our bodies. It can also help cultivate perseverance and even become the cure of some difficult and complicated cases of illness.

Leo's Wushu Dream (Interview)

Audio 1 (课堂使用)

Leo Koskinen is a high school student from Helsinki, Finland. He's currently studying at the Max Sports School while having a busy schedule of training and competition as a member of the Finnish national wushu team. We talked to Leo about his experiences as a competitive athlete.

Interviewer: So, Leo, tell us a little bit about wushu. What is it exactly?

Leo: Wushu is a general term for Chinese martial arts. It's what we in the West generally refer to as Kung Fu. In competitive wushu athletes perform routines and they are then awarded points by a group of judges. The routines involve quite gymnastic movements with a lot of jumps and spins, which are based on martial techniques. Weapons, such as sword and spear, are also used in some of the routines.

Interviewer: How long have you been practising wushu, and what got you interested in it?

Leo: I've been training for about 7 years now. Like a lot of other people, I first got into the sport by watching Chinese Kung Fu movies, the great stars like Bruce Lee. I dreamt of being able to move like that.

Interviewer: What have been your greatest achievements?

Leo: During my years in the Finnish team I've won quite a few different medals at various different international championships, but I suppose it's my two silver medals from last year's European Championships that I value the most.

Interviewer: What are your goals for the future?

Leo: Well obviously, I want to go as far as I can with wushu competitions. That means European Championships, World Championships, and of course ultimately the Olympics — if wushu is included. But naturally I have to be realistic, the top-level competitors from China and the other East Asian countries are all professionals, and without the funding here in Finland there's no way we can really compete with athletes who are training between 6 and 8 hours a day.

Audio 2 (补充资源，供学有余力者使用)

Interviewer: What have you got out of wushu?

Leo: Where can I start? The travel, the competitions — some really amazing experiences that I'll never forget. I think one of the most rewarding things for me has been the opportunity to meet so many people from different cultures at the competitions. I've made a lot of great friends from around the world, and I've had the chance to practise all the languages I study at school — English, Swedish, German and Russian. My time in China was a real eye-opener. It's fantastic to be in a culture where everything is so new and different, yet to get the chance to really integrate into the community at a very grassroots level.

Interviewer: How do you manage to combine training with your studying?

Leo: Luckily I had the chance to attend a sports school. I manage to get a lot of my basic training done during my days at college, and they help me with my training schedules, nutrition and that kind of thing. But it's often difficult to focus on the academic side of my studies when everything's so geared towards sporting success. On the other hand, though, my training makes me a lot more energetic, and teaches me how to focus and motivate myself. And if there's one thing that wushu has taught me, it's concentration — it may look like a purely physical sport, but there's a whole mental dimension to it too. It demands great powers of concentration, and that's really helped me with my schoolwork.

Interviewer: Do you have any advice for other students who have sporting dreams?

Leo: It's been said before, but the key is to strike the right balance. Both studies and your sporting career will be important for you in the future, and you've got to make sure that you don't neglect either of them. But of course that's easier said than done!

Digging In

Comprehension

Option 1 ★★

Have students read the letter again carefully and summarise the changes in Jordan's feelings about basketball. Remind them to give supporting details to back up their summary.

Suggested Activities

--	--	--	--	--

Reference answer:

be curious about basketball — get interested in basketball — get frustrated after some failures — be determined to work hard on basketball — fall in love with basketball

Option 2 ★★ ★

Have students conduct an interview with their partners. One student is a reporter who raises questions concerning Jordan's experiences and feelings about basketball, and the other acts as Michael Jordan, who answers the questions raised by the reporter. Call on several pairs to demonstrate their interviews in front of the class.

Option 3 ★★ ★

Guide students to appreciate and analyse sentences from the angle of figures of speech. Have students complete the table. If students have difficulty, illustrate some figures of speech with examples and provide them with some scaffolding questions like What figure of speech is used in this sentence? What kind of feeling did Jordan express here? What did he mean by describing basketball in such a way?

(1) _____	That night, at the Louisiana Superdome in the final seconds of the championship game against Georgetown, you found me in the corner and we danced.
(2) _____	Since then, you've become much more than just a ball to me. You've become more than just a court. More than just a hoop. More than just a pair of sneakers. More than just a game.
contrast	(3) _____

Reference answers:

(1) personification

* Personification is a figure of speech in which a thing, an idea or an animal is given human attributes. The non-human objects are portrayed in such a way that we feel they have the ability to act like human beings. This figure of speech is used here to express the joyful and excited feelings of Michael Jordan after he won the championship game through so much effort.

(2) repetition

* Repetition is a literary device that repeats the same words or phrases a few times to make an idea clearer and more memorable. It serves to lay emphasis and create rhythm. This figure of speech is used here to emphasise the great significance of basketball to Michael Jordan.

(3) You're my biggest fan and my severest critic. You're my dearest friend and my strongest ally. You're my most challenging teacher and my most endearing student. You're my ultimate teammate and my tough competitor.

* Contrast is a rhetorical device through which writers identify differences between two subjects, places, persons, things or ideas. Through opposite and contrasting ideas, writers make their arguments stronger, thus making them more memorable for readers. In addition, contrasting ideas shock the audience, heighten drama, and produce balanced structures in literary works.

Superficially, Michael Jordan describes basketball as his fan, critic, friend, and so on. In fact, he wants to be thankful to those who love, help and cooperate with him. It is basketball that brings so many people together. He owes all his happiness to his perseverance in basketball.

Option 1 ★ ★

Guide students to acquire words and expressions in the reading context through classroom interactions. Integrate target words into reading activities in different stages, namely Before-reading, While-reading and After-reading. You can elicit some words in the before-reading stage, guide students to read between the lines in the while-reading stage and encourage them to use the newly learned words and expressions in the after-reading stage. Interact with students in the following way.

T: Did you participate in any competition? Who was your major competitor?

S: ...

T: The competitors can be really tough in the competition. But Jordan once said, "I never fear any opponent because the opponent is not strong enough." He made it. While-reading

Target words: crush, tough, challenging, severe

Reading B

Option 2 ★★ ★

Have students skim the text and answer the following questions. If they have difficulty, encourage them to have a discussion with their partner.

1. What is the passage about?
2. Who does "I" refer to in this passage?
3. What famous sports story is mentioned in the passage?

Reference answers:

1. A football match with exciting penalty kicks.
2. Jess, a football player.
3. Beckham's last-minute goal against Greece.

Option 3 ★ ★

Have students read the story again and put the events in the story into the correct sequence. Guide them to pay attention to the process of a sports game.

- a. Mel succeeded in scoring a goal.
- b. Jess was appointed by Joe to take the last penalty.
- c. The coach gave his team a pep talk.
- d. Jess's team lost on penalties to the German team.
- e. The Germans scored on their first penalty.
- f. Jess was anxious about whether she would be the next penalty-taker.
- g. Jules got in a shot as successfully as Beckham once did.
- h. Jess took the decisive shot.

Reference answer:

g – c – b – e – a – f – h – d

Option 4 ★ ★ ★

Ask students to work in groups and rewrite the story so that Jess scores the penalty and her team wins. If they have difficulty, encourage them to draw up the outline first.

Reference answer:

The match was nearly over and everyone was almost on her last legs when I saw a chance. I picked the ball up from Sally and headed for the German penalty area.

“Jess!” I could hear Jules shouting as she ran alongside me. “Pass!”

I glanced up and hit the ball forward into space. Jules ran on to it, picked it up and hit the ball into the net. It was just as good as Beckham's last-minute goal against Greece. “Good shot!” I yelled, feeling really proud of her.

Jules ran into me and I jumped on her, followed by the rest of the team. We were all screaming with joy. The referee had to break it up and hurry us back to the centre circle, but two minutes after we kicked off, he blew the whistle for full-time. A draw.

“Penalties,” I said, with a wide smile on my face.

“OK, Jules, you go first,” Joe said, after a quick pep talk to us. “Then Mel, Tina, Hannah and —” he turned to me “—Jess.” I tried not to look disappointed. Somehow, I always had a feeling that Joe underestimated me.

The Germans went first and scored. So did Jules, with a cracking shot that nearly broke through the net. The Germans scored again. So did Mel. After a third German goal, Tina was looking nervous but she was lucky because her shot went in off the post.

My heart started to flutter as Hannah stepped up to take our fourth penalty. The Germans hadn't missed one yet. Only if Hannah scored, would it be all down to the last German penalty-taker—and me. I crossed my fingers for her.

Hannah turned out to be terrific. She sent the goalkeeper the wrong way and rolled the ball smoothly into the left-hand corner of the net.

The last German penalty girl had a thickset build, though she was short in stature. She looked rather pale at that very moment. She went over to place the ball on the spot, and then made a superman effort to run towards the ball. She kicked the ball. It hit the crossbar and bounced away into the crowd. The spectators let out a deep groan. The girl crouched down, face in hands.

A glimmer of joy came into my heart. A bit nervous as I felt, I couldn't wait to have a try. The referee signaled me and I went over with the ball. Behind me I could hear the girls yelling encouragement.

Suggested Activities

“Come on, Jess!” That was Jules. “You can do this!” I backed a few steps, took a deep breath, dashed to the ball and gave it a good kick. The ball flew in a tight arc to the goal and its angle was perfect. The goalkeeper strained herself to the limit to catch it, but fortunately she failed.

A loud roar went up around the stadium. I made it! Now I knew exactly how those players who’d scored penalties felt. Like someone had sent you up in the sky. Feeling on top of the world, in other words.

(Answers may vary.)

Option 5 ★★ ★

1. Have students read the last paragraph of the passage and think about the following questions:
 - (1) Have you ever been asked to undertake a rather challenging task which turned out not to be completed well?
 - (2) How did you feel?
 - (3) How did you deal with this feeling?
2. Encourage students to work in groups and share their experiences with their group members.

Reference answer:

When I was in junior high, I joined the school’s dance club. Although I showed great interest in dance, I was not an outstanding dancer. Once before the final exam, our administrative teacher told us that we were supposed to give a performance at the school New Year’s party. What surprised us more was that I was chosen as the leader of the team. I had no choice but to accept the arrangement. When the New Year’s party came, we were so nervous that several of our team members did not keep pace with the music. What’s worse, I unexpectedly fell down on the floor, leaving my partner at a loss. Several minutes later, we ended our show in panic, embarrassed and ashamed. In the evening, my English teacher asked me to go to her office. She looked at me tenderly and said, “If you have tried your best, it is absolutely unnecessary for you to be ashamed or feel sad. Several days, weeks, or a couple of years later, you will find it all of no significance.” Several years later, I still bear in mind these powerful words, which tell me that since I am not Superwoman, it is absolutely normal for me to make mistakes and fall short of perfection.

(Answers may vary.)

Critical Thinking

1. List all the disadvantages of doing sports raised by students on the blackboard and ask students to come up with some coping methods to minimise them. Remind students that these methods should be practical and realistic.

Excerpt from Li Na's Farewell and Retirement Letter

My dear friends,

For close to fifteen years, we've been a part of each other's lives. As a tennis player representing China on the global stage, I've trekked around the world playing hundreds of matches. You've always been there for me, supporting me, cheering me on, and encouraging me to reach my potential.

Representing China on the tennis court was an extraordinary privilege and a true honour. Having the unique opportunity to effectively bring more attention to the sport of tennis in China and all over Asia is something I will cherish forever. But in sport, just like in life, all great things must come to an end.

After four knee surgeries and hundreds of shots injected into my knee weekly to alleviate swelling and pain, my body is begging me to stop the pounding.

...

As hard as it's been to come to this decision, I am at peace with it. I've succeeded on the global stage in a sport that a few years ago was in its infancy in China. What I've accomplished for myself is beyond my wildest dreams. What I accomplished for my country is one of my proudest achievements. In 2010, there were two professional women's tennis tournaments in China. Today, there are 10, one of them in Wuhan, my hometown. That to me is extraordinary!

...

When I started playing tennis, I was just a neighbourhood kid with an afterschool hobby, not realizing what a magical journey lay ahead of me. While my journey hasn't been easy, it has been rewarding. I see changes taking place in front of my eyes: young girls picking up tennis racquets, setting goals, following their hearts and believing in themselves. I hope that I've inspired young women all over China to believe in themselves, to set their goals high and pursue them with a vengeance and self-confidence.

Whether you want to be a tennis player, a doctor, a lawyer, a teacher or a business leader, I urge you to believe in yourself and follow your dream. If I could do it, you can too! With hard work, your dreams will come true.

Adapted from "Tennis Star Li Na Sends Farewell to Fans" on the China Daily website

Food for thought

1. What does Li Na think of her career? What does she compare it to?
2. What can you infer about Li Na's personality from the article?
3. Li Na urges that everyone believe in themselves and follow their dream. Do you agree with her? What will you do to achieve your dream?

Reference answers:

1. She compares her career to a magical journey, which is hard but rewarding. She hopes that she has inspired young women all over China to believe in themselves, and she's happy to see the growth of tennis in China.
2. She is persistent, ambitious, grateful and patriotic. She is persistent because her knee problems have brought much pain to her life but she persevered in playing tennis. She is patriotic because she considers representing China on the tennis court an extraordinary privilege and a true honour.
3. Yes, I couldn't agree more. Our dream is the only thing that keeps us going. My dream is to become a scientist, and I'll zero in on it. I will believe in myself and follow my heart, not letting others' opinions drown out my own inner voice.

Unit 1

天然花园

从前有一位国王，他的皇宫里有许多美丽的花园，花园里孕育着无数代表成百上千不同物种的生灵，是万物生长的天堂。

花园里只有一样东西是国王不喜欢的，那就是矗立在花园中央的一具大树的残骸。这棵树早已腐朽凋零。于是，国王命人将枯木砍下，改造成精美的喷泉。

后来，一位博学的贵族求见国王。他对国王低声道：“陛下，人们常常歌颂您的花园美轮美奂，生机盎然。但我却发现生机全无——一只动物也没看见。我觉得自己被骗了！”国王意识到贵族说得对！没有动物，花园里空荡荡的。于是国王传召谋士，下令谁要能有办法，就能得到奖赏。国王听取了许多理论和想法，并付诸实践，但没有一个方法能让皇家花园重焕生机。

多年后，一个年轻人出现了。这时，许多花草树木早已凋零甚至从花园中消失。他解释说：“陛下，花园里只是缺少粪便，特别是蛾粪。”

众人哄堂大笑，认为年轻人是个傻瓜。卫兵正准备将他撵走，国王却阻止道：“我想听听你怎么说。”

年轻人认真地解释了花园里所有生命的联系。体型较大的动物主要以色彩明艳的鸟类为食，这些鸟以颜色各异的蠕虫为食，而蠕虫又以园中生长的各种花草植被为食。只要有足够的蛾粪，这些稀有的花草植被便会与昆虫和其他生物和谐共处，欣欣向荣。不过一个年轻人怎么会对皇家花园如此了解？

原来在他还未出生时，他的父亲接收了国王下令铲除的那棵枯木大树，并将其重新栽种在自己的土地上。每逢春天，这里有成千上万的飞蛾从树上飞出来，重现了皇家花园的美丽。

这下国王明白了问题在哪里，如何才能解决，他希望自己的花园能重焕光彩。不过后来他发现，重塑花园需要很多年的时间。对待大自然不能操之过急。恢复生态平衡需要时间，而国王在有生之年再也无法看到了。他后悔不已，只能怪自己太大意，破坏了大自然微妙的平衡。

自然之美

我常仰望苍穹，想知道为什么一切会变得如此糟糕。我不明白为什么我们要以发展之名掠夺海洋，屠尽森林。破坏的速度如此之快，很快我们将束手无策，这真是莫大的悲哀。

子孙后代将无法同我们一样享有大自然的馈赠，他们会变得一无所有，念及此，我不禁悲从中来。

但是除了保护大自然，我们也要懂得欣赏大自然。周遭美好的事物不胜枚举，等待着我们去观察，去聆听，去触摸。神奇的大自然总是变化万千，其中的任何事物，无论你观察它多少次，总能有新发现。

大自然或于日落时分在空中燃起绚烂晚霞，或魔术般将熟悉的风景变为一片皑皑的白雪仙境，有时在空中绘出彩虹，给碧树着上迷人的秋色；有时又在原野中点一丛水仙，微闪着柔和的日光。

大自然将美注入我们的生命，它能左右我们的情绪，影响我们的计划。大自然主宰着阴晴雨雪，阳光灿烂使人愉悦，阴雨绵绵使人阴郁，而满天星斗的时候，夜色使人沉醉。

当我们瞧见枝头抽出嫩芽，娇羞的花儿也冲破冰封的大地，或是当我们嗅到春天清新的气息时，我们总会生出新的希望。大自然确实是我们生命中不可或缺的部分。

当我们清晨醒来观赏日出，散着步与微风撞个满怀；当我们领略山河辽阔，见证四季更迭、万象更新；当黑夜中群星闪烁，我们应该感恩大自然给予的美好一切。学会感知自然之美，能让我们正视周围的一切，正视人类自己。

动物园：虐待动物还是善待动物？

上周末我和朋友参观了动物园。在动物园里，我们为动物园的存在是好是坏而争论不休。小时候我就很喜欢去动物园，如今 20 岁了还是喜欢去。不过，我知道有许多人并不支持设立动物园。

现下，动物福利日益受到社会关注。许多人认为动物园对动物是一种虐待，让野生动物远离自然栖息环境，把它们关进笼子里，本身就很残忍。动物园里圈养的动物和野外生存的动物有着天壤之别。比如，在动物园里，它们不需要捕食。而且，由于空间狭小，动物园里的一些动物会变得闷闷不乐。动物园展示来自世界各地的动物，它们必须适应不同的气候和季节，这由动物园的地理位置和它们原本的生活环境而定。

但是，对参观者而言，参观动物园是一次具有教育意义的经历。学生们能够在动物园认识并见到濒危物种，因此也就更有可能支持意在拯救这些濒危物种的项目。动物园参与许多动物保护项目，支持动物园能为这些项目提供必要资金。由于存在非法捕杀等各种威胁，许多物种如果不圈养在动物园里，就有可能灭绝。更何况，许多动物园尝试还原动物的自然栖息环境，用各种材料来创设与野外环境相似的生存空间。他们还会在展区内放置众多玩具，以免动物百无聊赖。生活在热带国家的动物通常被圈养在室内暖箱中，暖箱中的温度和动物的自然栖息地温度基本保持一致。

每个动物园的动物护理和福利措施略有不同，但总体而言，我认为动物园的存在是一件好事。在自然栖息地看到动物并不总是那么容易，而动物园提供了一个绝佳的选择。参观动物园既充满趣味，又有教育意义，我一定会常去！

旧友团聚

若昂是巴西里约热内卢的一名退休泥瓦匠。2011 年，71 岁的若昂在当地海滩发现一只卧倒在礁石中已奄奄一息的南美企鹅。若昂帮企鹅洗净羽毛上的油污，每天给他喂鱼，帮助他恢复体力，并给他起名叫丁丁。

一周后，若昂试着将企鹅放归大海，但企鹅不愿离开。于是若昂带他上了船，行至附近的岛上将他放生。可那天晚上，企鹅丁丁又回到了若昂的后院。之后，丁丁便留下来，陪伴了若昂 11 个月。而接下来，“就在他刚换上新的羽毛外套后，他消失了。”若昂说道。

其实，丁丁每年夏天都会回到这片狭小的海滩。人们都认为，比起跟着同类迁徙至摄食区，他更喜欢来探望若昂。

若昂回忆起丁丁不断跟着他回家的情景：“大家都说他不会回来了，但过去四年他一直回来看我，”他说，“他六月抵达，二月返家，他对我的感情一年比一年深厚，因为每一次见我他都比上一次还要高兴。”最近的照片拍摄于本月初丁丁来村子里探望若昂的时候。

丁丁和若昂在一起的时候，两个老朋友有时一起在海滩上散步，有时若昂散着步，丁丁在旁边游泳。“我爱他就像爱自己的孩子，我相信丁丁也爱我，”若昂说。“他不许别人碰他。如果有人这么做了，丁丁就会啄他。但他会趴在我的腿上，让我给他洗澡，让我喂他沙丁鱼，让我抱他。”

吃在法国之“文化冲击”

到法国的第一个周末，我就参加了由寄宿家庭举办的新年庆祝晚宴。宴会上有我能想象到的有关法式大餐的一切，一道道的美食、各种奶酪，还有香槟美酒和新鲜的切片面包。用餐结束后，主人高声道：“现在，大家都到桌子底下去吧！”

听到这话，我惊讶不已，只见孩子们涌进来，纷纷躲到餐桌底下。原来新年过后几天，法国人会用格雷派饼，也就是“国王饼”来庆祝，这是一种特别的甜点，具有自己独特的传统。国王饼中藏着一个小玩偶，吃到的人就是幸运儿。在国王饼被切成若干份之前，所有的孩子都得躲到桌子底下，不能偷看。

我渐渐了解到，许多法国传统都与食物有关，而这些传统习俗往往超乎我的想象！因此我时常感受到“文化冲击”——当你来到一个陌生的国家，适应陌生的环境，就会有这种困惑。好在目前为止，我还没遇到过什么太过棘手的问题。去法国之前，我在国际项目办公室的帮助下学到了很多，这个机构会帮助学生掌握一些应对此类波折与起伏的策略。

国际项目办的老师用曲线图来解释“文化冲击”所带来的心情起伏变化。起初，你可能会经历“蜜月”期，这个时候你对国外的一切都感到新奇和兴奋，甚至觉得国外比国内还要好。但之后也难免会有情绪低迷的时候，所有这些细微的差异似乎都会让你沮丧崩溃。

在法国，我体验了不少和食物相关的趣味文化差异。例如，法国人吃饭时会把手腕搁在桌子上，而许多美国人却常常把左手放在大腿上。要不是寄宿家庭里五岁的弟弟指出来，我还没发现呢！用面包当餐具也很常见，像拿刀一样把面包拿在手上，或者用餐结束时用面包来清理盘子。此外，无论是和我的寄宿家庭一起用餐，还是在附近的咖啡馆买一杯咖啡，我都爱在餐前听大家说一句“祝你胃口大开”！

食物与文化

你想过为什么世界各地的人们吃着不同类型的食物吗？为什么特定的食物和烹饪传统对特定的文化如此重要呢？食物和文化之间的联系远比你想象的多。

对个人来说，我们吃着自己文化中的食物长大，也认识到我们与食物间千丝万缕的联系。有时食物能帮助我们记起过去的事，也就是对我们有特殊意义的记忆。当我们长大成人，家常菜往往是我们跌入人生低谷时寻求的慰藉。小时候我生病了，身体虚弱，不能下床，母亲就会煲好汤端到床前喂我。那碗汤的香气和味道是我再熟悉不过的。如今，每当我疲惫或焦虑的时候，就会想起妈妈给我煲的汤。

对于群体而言，食物是文化认同的一种表达。传统美食在珍藏的家庭食谱里代代相传。异乡人烹饪传统美食是为了延续家乡的文化，也寄托思乡之情。

任何国家或群体的特色美食都能反映其独特的历史、生活方式、价值观和信仰。和谐是中国文化的重要组成部分。这一点体现在中式菜肴里，几乎所有的味道（酸、甜、苦、辣、咸）都被充分调和，创造出美味的菜肴。此外，中国人历来讲究精致，从中国建筑、服饰和食物中可见一斑。中国人认为，食物不仅要有营养，也要色味俱佳，令人垂涎。

美国菜肴引入了多种多样的食材和烹饪风格，体现了移民历史。因此多年来，美国各地都发展了丰富多样的食品制备工艺。

随着世界全球化加深，人们有机会品尝到来自不同文化的美食佳肴。我们既要品味自己的食物以拥抱传统，也要品味各地美食以理解世界其他文化。品食物即可领略文化，食物的重要性大致如此。

写给篮球的告白信

亲爱的篮球，

二十八年前，我与你在车库后面第一次相遇，那时父母介绍我们认识，一晃二十八年过去了。

如果那时有人告诉我，我和你之间会发生些什么，我不知道自己会不会相信，因为我那时甚至没记住你的名字。

后来我渐渐在家附近注意到你，在电视上看到你。我经常看到你和其他男生一起在球场玩耍。而当我的哥哥开始关注你的时候，我就在想，也许你真的很特别。

我们渐渐有了几次接触。越了解你，我就越喜欢你。但仿佛命运捉弄，当我终于对你产生了兴趣，准备好全情投入的时候，你却让我在校队选拔中落选。你说我还不够好。

我崩溃了，心碎了，可能还哭了。

我对你的渴望愈发浓烈，所以我不断练习。我拼尽全力，提高篮球技术。传球。运球。投篮。思考。跑步。仰卧起坐。俯卧撑。引体向上。举重。我钻研和你有关的一切，我开始爱上你，你也察觉到了。至少，史密斯教练是这么说的。

那时候，我并不确定到底是怎么回事。但我现在知道了。史密斯教练教会了我如何爱你，倾听你，理解你，尊重你并欣赏你。然后，一切就自然而然地发生了。那一晚，在路易斯安那超级巨蛋球场，在与乔治城大学队对抗的冠军赛的最后几秒，你在角落里发现了我，我们携手共舞。

从那以后，你对我来说变得尤为重要，不再仅仅是一个球，一个球场，一个篮筐，一双球鞋或一场比赛。

你是我最忠实的粉丝，也是最严厉的批评者。你是我最亲密的伙伴，也是最坚定的盟友。你是我最严苛的老师，也是最可爱的学生。你是我最亲密的队友，也是我最难缠的对手。你是我周游世界的护照，也是我走进千万人心里的通行证。

就像所有的感情一样，我们之间的关系再一次改变，但有一件事是毋庸置疑的。我爱你，篮球。我爱你的一切，矢志不渝。我的 NBA 职业生涯已明确地画上了句号，但我和你将永不分离。

致以无尽的爱与尊重
迈克尔·乔丹

《我爱贝克汉姆》节选

比赛快结束了，我几乎只剩最后一点力气，这时候机会来了。我从萨莉脚下接过球，朝着德国队的罚球区前进。

“杰西！”我能听到朱莉在我身侧，一边跑一边喊：“传球！”

我抬起头，用力把球踢向前。朱莉跑起来接了球，直接射球入网。这个球不亚于贝克汉姆对战希腊时最后一分钟的绝杀，精彩极了。我如释重负，近乎崩溃。

朱莉奔向我，我扑向她，其他队员也扑了过来。我们兴奋得尖叫起来。裁判不得不吹哨让我们散开，催促我们回到中圈。但开球才两分钟，他就吹响了哨子，比赛结束，平局。

“还有点球。”朱莉说道。她的脸上绽放着灿烂的笑容。

尽管以点球结束一场友谊赛并不常见，但两队都觉得是个好主意。这个时候，我的双腿已经在不停颤抖，我内心有些动摇了。乔来到场上进行简单部署，给我们打气。也许他不会选我的。

“朱莉，你第一个，”乔说，“然后梅尔、蒂娜、汉娜和——”他转向了我“——杰西。”我是最后一个，我松了口气，尽量不让人看出来。如果运气好，比赛的胜负提前揭晓，我根本不用上场。

德国队先发制人，点球得分。朱莉也不赖，一记射门球差点儿破网而出。德国队再下一分。梅尔紧跟其后。德国队三球得分后，蒂娜显得很紧张，但幸运的是，她脚下的球击中门柱，掉进了球门。

汉娜走上前准备发第四个点球的时候，我的五脏六腑都在翻江倒海。德国队已经连得四分，如果汉娜点球成功，一切都会锁定在最后一个德国点球队员——还有我的身上。

汉娜成功误导了守门员，从球门左手边的角落顺利地把球送了进去。我试着深呼吸，让自己平静下来。如果最后一个德国球员进球了，就该轮到我了。我闭上眼睛，祈祷她不要进球。

运动场上响起巨大的欢呼声，我知道，她得分了。裁判示意我过去。我迈着沉重的步伐走上前，把球放好。我太累了，腿像灌了铅。身后的队员们叫喊着给我鼓劲加油。

“加油，杰西！”那是朱莉的声音，“你能行。”我用尽全身力气跑起来，虽然踢中了球，但我知道这种感觉不对。球击中门柱后弹开，飞向人群。我忍不住低吟抱怨，现在我能体会到那些错失点球的球员是什么心情了。就像有人揪住了我的五脏六腑，全掏出来一样。换句话说，感觉糟透了。

1. W: Excuse me, can you tell me how to get to Star University from here?
M: Sure, just go to the end of the block, turn left, go straight for two blocks, then turn right and you would be one block from the university.
Q: Which of the following pictures shows the correct location of Star University?
2. M: Hey, it was great to see you at the lecture about garbage classification yesterday. You know we could really use your help to get ready for the volunteer activity of our environmental group.
W: I'd love to, but I'm afraid I don't have that much extra time because I am working on a science project.
Q: What does the woman mean?
3. W: You know what the Wildlife Club needs? We need an advisor who knows a lot about the environment and wildlife protection.
M: Ms Bell, there's a new student in the Biology Study Group. She seems to be the suitable person. I'll see if she is interested.
Q: What will the man most probably do?

What do you think of the habit of recycling? Listen to the dialogue and fill in the blanks with the information you have just heard. The dialogue will be read twice.

- W: Hello, how may I help you?
- M: Well, I've been seeing these yellow boxes in front of a lot of houses in my neighbourhood. I just wondered what they were for. I noticed your phone number on all of them, so I called. Could you tell me about your business?

W: We do recycling, but we're not a business. Gaea's Guardians is a non-profit group. We encourage recycling as a way of protecting the environment because we believe recycling will help to preserve the beauty of nature.

M: Good idea! But I really don't read the newspaper every day.

W: And we don't come collect newspapers every day! In fact, we only do pickups every other week.

M: Oh, maybe I could help. I mean in my neighbourhood there's too much rubbish lying around everywhere. I'd like to help out, I guess.

W: That's great.

M: So, I'm guessing those yellow boxes are for newspapers?

W: Yes, that is correct.

M: Do you recycle anything besides newspapers?

W: Oh yes, we recycle almost everything. Glass, plastic, paper...

M: So I can put things like glass and plastic bottles in the box?

W: Sorry again. You have to bring things like those to our collection centre.

M: And where is that?

W: Our main centre isn't that far from you. It's actually right on the east side of Central Park.

M: That new blue building?

W: That's the one!

M: Cool. Hey, what's with all those different coloured boxes outside that place?

W: Oh, that's for the different materials we recycle. The blue one on the left is for metal, the green one in the middle is for glass and plastics, and the yellow one on the right side, of course, is for paper.

M: Okay. I'll try and manage to keep all that straight.

W: Oh, no need. They're labelled each. So would you be interested in volunteering?

M: Um, I'll think about it. Could you send me more information?

W: Absolutely. I'll be sending you our booklet.

M: Hey, that's cool, thanks!

Pre-reading questions

(Answer for reference)

1. I don't think there is a link between giving women more control over their life and stopping global warming. These two things seem to be completely different.
2. If these two things need to be connected, the role of women and girls should be linked with resources, reduced use of which may stop global warming.

- (2) Empowering women and girls
- (3) Higher crop yields are achieved.
- (4) Women marry later and have fewer children.
- (5) Carbon emissions are reduced.

Challenge

(Answer for reference)

Currently, a large number of girls have limited access to education. In fact, more years of education can cause women to marry later and have fewer children, thus reducing the demands for food, electricity and other basic necessities, which in turn results in the reduction of carbon emissions and the slowing down of global warming.

Do you know about elephant nurseries? They rescue elephants and give them a loving home. Listen to the passage twice and decide whether the statements are true (T) or false (F).

Believe it or not, serving at the elephant nursery in Chiang Mai, a city in northern Thailand, is an experience that most people would never even dream of.

The day begins around 6:30 am, when volunteers head to the river to help to bathe the mother elephants and baby elephants before feeding them. After that, volunteers and on-site staff take a moment to feed themselves before starting their daily tasks, which include everything from harvesting grass to making medicine balls for the elephants.

As a volunteer, you'll join the full-time staff in taking care of the grounds and facilities. Every day you head out with the staff to harvest grass, corn, bananas and other treats. It may seem simple to you, but it makes a huge difference in these elephants' lives. You'll also be asked to greet and interact with day visitors at the camp, filling them in on some of the details of the important preservation work here.

Finally, you'll also have the chance to work with local villagers, most of whom are staff members and their families. Most of these people come from northern Thailand and are eager to learn and practice English with visiting volunteers. Besides their work in the elephant nursery, the volunteers also choose to help out at the local school when time permits.

Zookeeper (M): Welcome to our behind-the-scenes tour.

Visitor (W): Thank you.

M: Have you visited this zoo before?

W: No.

M: OK. Welcome to our zoo. First, we're going to look at some small animals that you probably know from TV shows. Do you know what they are?

W: Uh... squirrels?

M: No, not squirrels. They're meerkats, and they come from the southern part of Africa. As you can see, they're busy eating at the moment. Can you see what they're eating?

W: They look like insects.

M: Yes, they live on live insects, spiders and snakes.

W: Yuck!

M: They aren't afraid of snakes at all. And when they're not eating, they spend a lot of their time looking for food, hunting food, and a lot of time socialising.

W: Socialising? Huh?

M: Yes, uh... they clean one another, like monkeys do, and they play a lot. They seem to have a lot of fun.

W: Yeah, the babies are very cute! How many babies do they usually have?

M: Usually about three.

W: And so how long do they live?

M: Well, in the wild it varies, but on average, they live to the age of about 10. And in captivity, a little longer: about 12 years. But actually, that guy there. See that big one there? He's 16 years old. He's the boss of the group here. Look! He's showing that little one who's boss now.

W: Oh, yeah.

M: It's OK. Any questions before we go to the next area?

W: Uh... are these animals endangered at all?

M: Well, lucky for them, they live in desert areas where there aren't so many people, so they're pretty safe from extinction. And they're very tough, so they survive even in hot, dry weather.

W: Oh, that's good.

M: Any more questions? No? OK, let's move on.

After a loud bang, a rabbit fell down. The hunter stepped forward to have a look at the rabbit. Just at that moment, a rescue team made up of three rabbits came out. Two of them moved the injured rabbit onto the stretcher and hurried to the hospital. Another rabbit held up a Red Cross flag, glared at the hunter and said angrily to him, “Hey! How could you shoot at such a lovely rabbit? Animals and humans are friends. No hunting anymore, or you will be punished by nature one day!” The hunter stood still, feeling ashamed of what he had done.

Ladies and gentlemen,

Although you may think it is safer for us to keep endangered species in zoos than in the wild, you could be making a big mistake. First of all, as an ecosystem requires diversity, removing breeding endangered animals from their natural environment endangers the wild population. What's more, individual endangered animals shouldn't suffer in captivity for the sake of all the species. In other words, extinction of wild animals is no excuse for continuing to keep individual endangered animals in zoos. Let's turn back to our zoos. Do you think they are a loving home for endangered species? Most zoo breeding programs don't release endangered animals back into their natural habitats, thus producing little effect in reviving the species. What's even worse is that the operation of zoo breeding programs doesn't guarantee sufficient habitats for endangered species in the wild. With so many arguments of mine, don't you want to change your view?

Are you a tea lover? Do you know there are manners in having afternoon tea? Listen to the passage and choose the best answer to each question. The passage will be read twice, but the questions will be spoken only once.

Afternoon tea has also been called "low tea" because it was taken at low tables placed beside armchairs. The traditional time for afternoon tea is four o'clock. Today, most hotels and tearooms serve from three to five o'clock. Along with a choice of teas, there are three distinct courses. They are tiny sandwiches first, then scones, and finally, pastries.

Invitations of afternoon tea may be extended and accepted by telephone, face-to-face, or by mailing them at least a week in advance.

Invite a close friend or two also as "pourers" and set up a schedule of when each will be "on duty" serving tea. No one should pour for more than fifteen or twenty minutes. It is an honour to be asked to pour tea. The pourer is considered the guardian of the teapot, which implies high social graces and mutual trust.

Let your guests know whom you are honouring. When there is a guest of honour, it is your duty as host to stand with that person near the entrance of the room and introduce each arriving guest to the guest of honour. When the tea is over, guide your guest of honour back to the room entrance to say good-bye to your guests.

Do you know about the sport described in the picture? Listen to an introduction to the sport and fill in the blanks. The introduction will be read twice.

Today we are going to explore the clear blue waters around the islands of the Bahamas to learn about the exciting sport of scuba diving. You may ask why it is called “scuba diving”, not “basca diving”. Let me tell you the reason. Because the word “scuba” stands for self-contained underwater breathing apparatus. Knowing how to dive opens up an entire underwater world of coral, fish and other creatures. So join us and let’s learn the basics of diving and say hello to a shark.

Since humans are not designed to see and breathe underwater, scuba diving requires several pieces of important equipment. We scuba divers must wear a mask in order to be able to see underwater. The mask creates an air space that protects our eyes and nose.

We breathe with the help of a regulator, which brings air to the mouth when we breathe in. The regulator is attached to an air tank that is placed on our back. There is an extra regulator called an octopus, which is used in case of emergency situations.

We also wear a BCD to control how much we float or sink. A pressure gauge device tells us how much air is left in the air tank. Or, a dive computer can calculate how much air is left as well as our depth and the length of time we can stay underwater.

Besides, we wear scuba fins on our feet to help us move easily and quickly through the water. We also wear a wetsuit in order to stay warm underwater.

To learn how to use all of this equipment, it helps to come to our dive school. So, next let’s practice how to use the equipment... (fading out)

Wilma Rudolph is an international sports star in track and field. Listen to the passage and fill in the blanks with the information you have just heard. The passage will be read twice.

Let me tell you about a little girl named Wilma Rudolph. Wilma was born in a poor family in Tennessee. When she was four years old, she was seriously ill and it left her with a useless left leg. As a result, she had to wear an iron support and was told by a doctor that she would never walk normally.

Fortunately for little Wilma, she had a mother who taught her that despite her leg, she could do whatever she wanted to do with her life. And she told her that all she needed to do was to have faith, persistence and courage.

So, at the age of nine, Wilma took away the iron support and took a step that the doctor told her she never could take. In four years' time, she had developed a rhythmic step, which was a wonder medically.

Then, Wilma got the faith that she would like to be the world's greatest woman runner. It seems like an impossibility for a person who once had a useless leg, but Wilma was determined. So, at 13 in high school, she entered a race but she came in last. Her classmates begged her in the name of pity to quit it. But one day she came in next to last. And there came a day when she won the race. From then on, she won every race that she ran.

Then she went to Tennessee State University, where she met a coach named Ed Temple. And Ed Temple saw the persevering spirit of this girl. She was a believer and had great natural talent. He trained her so well that she went to the Olympic Games in Rome along with Mr Temple in 1960.

There she competed against the greatest woman runner of those times, a German girl named Yetta Heine. Nobody had ever beaten Yetta Heine. But in the 100 metres little Wilma beat her; again in the 200 metres and the 4×100-metre relay.

How did she do it? She wanted to. And you will never become what you want to be, unless you want to.

Good evening!

My name is Wilma Rudolph. It is a great honour to stand here and give a speech to all of you. Today I would like to share my story with you.

I was unable to walk after a serious illness when I was only four years old. At the age of nine, I took away the iron support and learnt to walk normally again. And as you can see, I succeeded. At 13 I went to high school where I entered one race after another because I dreamed of becoming the world's greatest woman runner. As for my success, I'd like to express thanks to the doctor who thought I would never walk normally again and to those who begged me to quit running first. It was you who made me stronger and drove me to fight against fate.

Then, I want to express my earnest gratitude to my dear mother. It was you who gave me hope and taught me to have faith, persistence and courage. What's more, I'd love to say thank-you to my coach Mr Temple. It was you who saw the persevering spirit and natural talent in me and gave me the professional training I needed.

All in all, I am grateful to those who have lost their faith in me, laughed at me, supported me and trusted me. I would never have accomplished the achievement I have made today without you.

Thank you!

Pre-reading questions

(Answer for reference)

1. From the picture, I guess they are similar to sticks, which we can use while hiking.
2. I may think they are useful for hiking, especially when we feel tired.

- Task 1

FOR

British runner Damian Hall believes the boost provided by sticks makes them invaluable.

Hand-held sticks or poles have been used by skiers since the Middle Ages. In recent decades, hikers and runners have recognised their effectiveness and adopted them too, especially in Europe.

In ultra-distance mountain races nowadays you might guess at least 75% of runners are using them, including the likes of Kilian Jornet and François D'Haene, Mimmi Kotka and Núria Picas – all UTMB winners.

A 2010 Northumbria University study showed poles reduce soreness after a hill walk and help to maintain muscle function, provide “motivation to enjoy the benefits of exercise for longer”, and avoid injury. Three US studies (from the Universities of Massachusetts, Wisconsin and Steadman-Hawkins Sports Medicine Foundation) found the same things: poles lead to less tiredness, less stress on the joints and fewer injuries.

You hear occasional complaints about popular races where pole use is sometimes unruly in crowded situations. But races such as Transgrancanaria ban their use for the first 2 kilometers, which does a lot to ease the situation.

To sum up, if poles are likely to make it less painful to go up and down mountains, and therefore mean that more people enjoy the great outdoors, that must be a good thing.

AGAINST

American world mountain running champion Joseph Gray says poles are dangerous and speed up trail erosion.

About 1 kilometre into a race I almost got my eyes poked out by a competitor using running poles. Although the trail was a little wider than single track, his poles were taking up the space that would typically allow one to pass without concern. I was forced to pass off-trail to avoid being tripped by the poles.

I began spending time watching groups of hikers attached to poles on trails across the globe. I realised my story wasn't isolated. I saw numerous people being tripped by the poles of passing hikers and plenty of trekkers poked by pole tips. Even worse, the poles were digging into the terrain, putting small holes into the earth with every step they took. I've noticed over the years that various trails I frequent have become noticeably more eroded, new rocks once beneath soil now resting their edges on exposed trail.

Is it time for us to ban the use of poles in public spaces? Definitely in races. They are dangerous to others around and, due to the fact that one must go wide to pass someone using poles, athletes are also forced to run off-trail, damaging new terrain and vegetation. We are already leaving our footprint on natural areas across the globe; do we need to speed up the process simply to allow someone to use an unnecessary piece of equipment to entertain themselves in the outdoors? Our ancestors climbed rugged mountains without poles. And slowing down erosion of natural areas is more important than making it easier for someone to climb a mountain.

Listen to the passage and choose the best answer to each question. The passage will be read twice, but the questions will be spoken only once.

A new study suggests that dog training methods based on negative punishments can cause long-term harm to the animal. Much research in the past has studied training methods for dogs working with police or with search and rescue operations. But the latest study centred on dogs kept as companion animals for humans. The researchers carried out experiments involving two kinds of dog training methods — negative and reward-based.

Negative methods use some negative actions in answer to unwanted behaviours, such as shouting, pushing or pulling the dog to force it to do something or using special collars that put pressure on the neck. Reward-based methods involve giving the dog food, praise or attention when the animal completes wanted behaviours.

The study included 92 dogs which were put in a room containing food bowls. Researchers observed how quickly and excitedly the dogs went to the bowls. Meanwhile, the dogs receiving negative training were observed to be more “depressed” in behaviours than the ones trained with rewards.

The study supports earlier research on the effectiveness of reward-based training. Many other studies have suggested that food is the best reward to get dogs to perform the behaviours we want. Some dog trainers teach the use of “life rewards” which could include play or taking the dog for a walk. These can be useful to help to keep behaviours the dog has already learned. However, for most everyday behaviours most people want to teach, food rewards are just quicker and easier.

Questions:

6. What kind of dog does the research focus on?
7. Which of the following is a reward-based method?
8. What can we know about the research results?

W: No, the classes fall into a separate category.

W: That's not how it works. This pass gives you access to the gym and to all the equipment, but not with team practising.

M: What do I have to do if I want to take a class?

W: You have to: one, register; and two, pay the fee for the class.

M: But people who play sports in the gym don't have to pay anything.

W: No, they don't. They just come in and play or swim on their own. But taking a class means that you have to pay the instructor.

M: So, if I want to enroll in a class...

W: Then you have to pay extra. So, what class do you want to take?

M: Swimming.

W: OK. Swimming classes are thirty dollars a semester.

M: I guess I could manage that. So, how do I pay you?

W: Well, first, you need to talk to the instructor. They have to assess your level and put you into the right class.

M: You mean, I have to swim for them? Show them what I can do?

W: No, you just tell them a little bit about your experiences and skills, so they know what level you should be in.

M: OK. So I'll need an appointment.

W: I can make that for you right now. And I'll tell you about your gym ID card. You'll need it to get into the building. Now about that appointment... how does Wednesday at three sound?

Xiao Ming and Xiao Li were having a picnic on the grass. Both of them took their shoes off. Xiao Li was sitting on a picnic blanket, eating snacks happily. Xiao Ming was sitting on a stump and saying, "What fun it is having a picnic in nature!" But while they were enjoying the beauty of nature, they were throwing rubbish all over the place. Around them were tins of soft drinks, fast food boxes and a plastic bag. Beside them was a frog. He sighed sadly and thought to himself, "What a pity the beautiful park has been damaged by these selfish people!"
