Introduction

Aims of the course

The course is fully task-based, learner-centred and easy to use. It is designed to meet the changing needs of today's students and to help them acquire a functional competence in English, an international language.

We have put particular stress on developing generic skills involving communication, working with others, being creative, thinking critically, using information technology, problem-solving and self-management skills so that students will become self-confident, independent learners of English.

At the same time we have carefully structured the grammatical core and vocabulary content of the course so that the tasks will challenge students while remaining within their range of ability.

Organization of Student's Book

The Student's Book is divided into three modules. Each module has two or three units. Each unit is divided into five main sections: Reading, Grammar, Listening, Speaking and Writing. In each unit, there is a More practice section designed to provide students with additional materials and a Progress file designed to help students review some key items from the unit. At the end of each module, there is a Using English. At the end of the book, there is a Project.

Keep in mind that not all of the materials in the Student's Book have to be done in class. Some materials marked with an asterisk (*) in the Student's Book are optional. Teachers may decide whether or not to use them according to their students' abilities.

Unit topics

Each unit has a topic which is related to the theme of the module. The topic provides a context for the language being taught. In the Teacher's Book, each unit begins with a brief overview which shows how the different sections of a unit are linked together thematically.

Cartoons

On the opening page of each unit, you will find a simple cartoon involving two characters, a boy and a robot. The cartoon usually introduces the topic of the unit in some way. The humour in many of the cartoons involves a pun—a joke with a word which has two meanings. In the Teacher's Book, there is a short section explaining the joke in each cartoon clearly.

Reading

The reading passages include a wide variety of text types, as recommended by the Curricula Criteria of the English Subject for the Schools in Shanghai. For example, there are passages in the form of stories, newspaper and magazine articles, news reports, letters, poems, diaries, science fiction, encyclopaedia entries, interviews and many others. They provide students with examples of the kind of English they will use or see at school, in the community or in the media.

There are three main types of reading exercise—pre-reading, while-reading and post-reading.

1 Pre-reading

Students must be prepared before they read, so each unit of the Teacher's Book contains suggestions on how the Reading section may be initially presented to students before they move on to the pre-reading exercises in the Student's Book.

The aim of the exercise 'What do you know about ...?' is to discover and activate any background knowledge of the topic that students may already have. The Teacher's Book provides information to help fill in any gaps in students' knowledge. It is important, however, that students first be given the chance to show what they know. These pre-reading exercises should not be regarded as 'tests'. Their aim is to increase knowledge and develop skills.

The second pre-reading exercise is called 'Before you read'. In this exercise students are asked to look quickly at certain features of the passage (e.g., title, heading format, pictures) to help them make guesses about the topic of the passage and the things they think will be in it. They can confirm their guesses after they read the whole passage. The aim of this exercise is to encourage intelligent guessing, so there should be no penalty for guessing wrongly.

2 While-reading

These exercises provide students with vocabulary work and simple comprehension tasks on the passage.

In the vocabulary exercises, students must locate words in the text, study their contexts and make intelligent guesses at their meanings. If guessing fails they may use their dictionaries, or the teacher may tell them.

In some of the exercises in the comprehension part, students are given tasks in which they must find items of information in the passage, and use them to complete a set of notes, a table, a dialogue, etc. Other exercises feature true/false sentences and open questions.

3 Post-reading

The exercises in the comprehension part cover reading skills such as extracting and organizing information, understanding different feelings and attitudes, reference skills, and making inferences. They develop students' ability to do things like identifying a writer's argument(s) and opinions from the text and their reasons for them.

Grammar

This section contains a systematic, graded presentation of language items which are appropriate for the Curricula Criteria (Shanghai). The language items are appropriate to the topic and text types of the unit and are practised in contextualized exercises.

The Teacher's Book contains detailed suggestions on how to present each language item, and provides brief, simple explanations to guide both students and teachers.

Listening

The Listening section contains a wide variety of exercise types and is designed to prepare students for different types of listening work.

The content is related to the general topic of the unit. The listening activities practise useful study skills such as taking guided notes, labelling diagrams or maps, sequencing the events in a story or procedure, and correcting errors.

Speaking

The Speaking section presents important communication skills such as agreeing and disagreeing, working together in group discussions and using the telephone in addition to specific pronunciation exercises.

Writing

This section aims to develop students' ability to write in a number of different formats, as described in the Curricula Criteria (Shanghai). The section gives practice in writing letters, reports, articles, diary entries, stories, poems, etc.

Suggestions are given in the Teacher's Book on how to conduct the writing lessons and examples of completed tasks are provided.

More practice

For students of English learning the language in a non-English environment, where natural exposure to the language is extremely limited, the amount of English language input and improvement of students' study skills are vitally important.

The purpose of the More practice section in each unit, therefore, is to present students with a series of additional materials related to the unit topic.

As the title of this section suggests, not all students are required to complete every exercise. It is completely up to the teacher to decide which to do and which not, which to do as class work and which to do for homework, or even to skip a whole section entirely, if appropriate.

Using English

This section, which appears at the end of each module, stresses the importance of English as a tool for study and the importance of developing in students the ability of self-study as part of their own education.

The aim of this section is to present students with a series of tasks and problems in which they can develop their study skills.

Progress file

Near the end of each unit there is a Progress file, which contains 15 short items relating to Vocabulary and Grammar. This helps students recall and revise some of the main vocabulary and grammar points of the unit. This section should be used as a teaching tool to motivate students in a positive way and not as a test.

Project

At the end of the book, there is a Project. This pulls together many of the skills and language items from the modules, and gives students an opportunity to explore the topics in greater detail.

Module 1 Legends, traditions and opinions

Unit 1 Ancient Greece

Unit topic: overview

The main topic for this unit is the famous story of the wooden horse of Troy, which is retold in the Reading passage.

The Grammar section introduces the present perfect tense.

The Listening section focuses on the events which caused the war between the Greeks and the Trojans.

The Speaking section practises the ways of offering, accepting and refusing help. It also includes a game in which the students pretend to be a famous person (alive or dead) or character.

The Writing section revises the story from the Reading passage.

The cartoon

The cartoon shows the boy Hi doing some history homework, and expressing the amusing idea that children who lived long ago did not have to learn so much history. There is no verbal joke here—this is just a statement of fact. The joke introduces the topic of history.

Pre-unit activities

- 1 Ask the students what they have learnt in their history class. Then ask them to tell you one or two stories from history.
- 2 Ask the class to imagine how they would get into a city that had very strong walls, was well defended and had plenty of food and water. Of course, they cannot use modern weapons!
- 3 Find out how much the class knows about ancient Greece. They may know Athens was the birthplace of democracy, or have heard of the sun god Apollo or the great leader Alexander the Great. They may recognize some of the letters of the Greek alphabet, such as alpha, beta, gamma, delta. They may also know some Greek words used as roots or prefixes in English, e.g., mono = one, poly = many, hydro = water, bio = life, geo = earth, hex = six.

A What do you know about ...?

This exercise helps get the students thinking about historical events. Do the exercise with the class and invite them to discuss the pictures.

Answers:

- A 1 b
 2 c
 3 a

Notes:

- 1 The pyramids were built as tombs for the ancient pharaohs (pronounced /'feərəʊz/) of Egypt. The mummified bodies of the dead pharaohs, surrounded by goods and treasures, were hidden somewhere in the centre of the pyramids. The most famous is the Great Pyramid of Giza (pronounced /'gi:zə/), just outside Cairo. It dates from about 2,600 BC and is made from 2,300,000 massive, but exactly cut, blocks of stone. It is considered one of the New Seven Wonders of the World.
- 2 Stonehenge (pronounced /,stəʊn'hendʒ/) is a strange circle of giant stones in the south of England. Built around 1,800–1,400 BC, it seems to have had religious significance, and some experts believe that it was used for funeral ceremonies. However, no one knows for certain. The stones are arranged so that the Sun and the moon rise over certain stones on particular days of the year, such as the summer solstice. By observing the Sun, the moon and the stars as they passed over the stones, the ancient people were able to keep a calendar for their religious ceremonies.
- 3 The Parthenon (pronounced /'pɑ:θɪnən/) Temple was built in the fifth century BC in Athens, Greece. It was built in honour of the goddess Athena (pronounced /ə'ti:nə/). The city's name also comes from the goddess' name. The Parthenon is one of the oldest and finest examples of the ancient Greeks' great building skills. Even though it has been badly damaged and many things have been stolen from it, the Parthenon is still spectacular. It can be seen from most parts of Athens.

Notes:

- 1 The passage is based on the famous story of the Trojan War told in Homer's the Iliad and the Odyssey, the two greatest epic poems from ancient Greece.
- 2 It is unclear how many of the events are historically true. However, archaeologists have discovered the site of the city of Troy, and have found jewellery and weapons there. The basic events are as follows:

Paris, the prince of Troy (a city in what is now Turkey), falls in love with Helen, the beautiful queen of Sparta (pronounced /'spɑ:tə/) (a city in ancient Greece). He takes her to Troy. The king of Sparta sends an army to Troy to bring her back. The war lasts for ten years and there are many famous heroes. Neither side can overcome the other. Then one of the Spartan leaders, Odysseus (pronounced /əd'ɒdɪsɪəs/), thinks of a trick. He builds a great wooden horse and hides soldiers inside its hollow belly. The Spartans then sail away. The Trojans are delighted and bring the horse into the city as an offering to the goddess Athena. That night, the Spartans secretly sail back. The soldiers creep out of the horse and let the Spartan army into the city. The Spartans capture and destroy Troy, and Helen returns to Sparta.
- 3 Note that the story of the origins of the war is told in more detail in the Listening section.

Reading passage

The night of the horse

This is a short story based on a famous historical tale.

The night of the horse

The soldier came down the stairs—two at a time. ‘Captain, they’ve gone,’ he cried. ‘They’ve disappeared—all of them. The plain is ...’ But the captain was no longer listening. He was going up the stairs—three at a time.

5 Seconds later, the captain stood on the high wall of the city of Troy. He looked down at the empty plain and, beyond it, at the empty sea. ‘They’ve gone and we’ve won,’ he said. ‘The Greeks have tried for ten years to capture our city. Now they’ve sailed away. And they’ve taken everything with them.’

‘Not everything, sir,’ the soldier said. ‘They’ve left their horse.’ Outside the main gates of the city stood a huge wooden horse.

10 ‘Ah, yes,’ the captain said, ‘that wooden horse. It’s so big that they couldn’t take it with them. Well, it’s ours now. Get some help and pull it into the city. That won’t be difficult. It’s on wheels.’

‘But why is it on wheels?’ the soldier asked. ‘I think that maybe the Greeks want us to ...’

15 The captain interrupted him. ‘You’re a soldier,’ he said. ‘You don’t have to think. You have to obey orders, and I’m giving you one now. Move that horse.’ So the Trojans dragged it into the city with ropes.

20 That night, in the main square, all the citizens of Troy celebrated. They sang and danced around the horse, and made jokes about their enemies, the stupid Greeks. Then the Trojans made sure all the gates of the city were securely locked, and they all went to sleep, including the gate guards.

25 By midnight, the square was empty, except for the giant horse. The six Greek soldiers waited for another hour, to be sure. Then, very quietly, they opened the secret door on the side of the horse and climbed out.

30 No guards stopped them as they opened the main gates. Outside stood the Greek army. It had returned in the darkness when the citizens were celebrating inside.

35 Now the army entered the city. The Greeks seized the captain. For ten years, they could not capture the city by fighting, but in one 40 night, they succeeded in capturing it through a trick.

The present perfect tense

A has/have done something

We can use the present perfect tense to talk about things that happened in the past, but are connected with the present. It is formed with has/have + the past participle form of the verb.

They've gone and we've won.

I have finished.

She has not gone.

Have they won?

Yes, he has.

No, we have not.

A1 This is a soldier's room. It is in a mess. The captain is giving him some orders to clean it.

Sweep the floor. Make the bed.
Wash the dishes. Hang up the clothes.
Fix the chair. Empty the rubbish bin.
Paint the wall. Mend the hole in the carpet. And get rid of those rats!

At once, sir!

Now look at the picture in A2 and say whether the following statements are T (True) or F (False).

1 The soldier has swept the floor.

3 He has washed the dishes.

2 He has not made the bed.

4 He has not painted the wall.

A2 Later the soldier reports to the captain. This is part of what he says. Look at the picture below and complete the sentences with have or have not, and suitable verbs.

I ⁽¹⁾ _____ the chair.
I ⁽²⁾ _____ the rubbish bin.
I ⁽³⁾ _____ the clothes.
I ⁽⁴⁾ _____ the carpet.

Grammar

The present perfect tense

A has/have done something

- 1 The present perfect tense causes learners great difficulties, and it is not usually mastered for regular, productive use until quite late in the acquisition process.
- 2 The present perfect tense is used to describe something that has happened in the past but that is still of current relevance. It is, in a way, a bridge between the simple past and the simple present tenses. The tense does not actually tell us when the past action took place, but it is, because of the need for current relevance, frequently a very recent event.
- 3 Because of the need for present relevance, the present perfect tense cannot be used with time adverbials, unless they situate the action in the very recent past, which can, in some ways, still be regarded as the present.

I have seen him yesterday is incorrect.

I have seen him this morning is correct during the morning and perhaps into the early afternoon.

- 4 By choosing the present perfect tense, the speaker is telling you that the information is important at the moment of speaking. It is helpful to think of this tense as an 'announcing' tense. It is often used to announce news on the radio or television (or in daily conversations), but then we normally continue in the simple past tense when we are giving further details of the news.
- 5 Read the introduction to the class. Make sure that they understand how to form the present perfect tense correctly using has/have and the past participle.
- 6 Write this list on the board, and then ask the students to write down the present perfect tense for each conjugation.

you allow (you have allowed)

he goes (he has gone)

we are (we have been)

you sing (you have sung)

they teach (they have taught)

I bring (I have brought)

she sits (she has sat)

we live (we have lived)

he opens (he has opened)

- 7 As the present perfect tense is rather difficult, it is advisable to go through Exercises A1 and A2 carefully with the class.

Answers:

- A1 1 T
2 F
3 T
4 T
- A2 1 have fixed
2 have emptied
3 have hung up
4 have not mended (the hole in)

Additional activities:

- 1 Draw a very simple picture of a stickman on the board. Ask the class What have I done? to elicit the answer You have drawn a man.

Add things to the drawing, stopping after each change and asking either What have I done? or What has happened? Your aim is to elicit responses such as:

You have given him a hat.

You have made him taller.

You have made him fatter.

The Sun has come out.

He has met a lady.

He has given her some flowers.

- 2 Go around the room and ask the students the following questions. Each answer must be different from the others and must use the present perfect tense. Possible answers have been provided in brackets.
 - 1 Why do you look so sad? (My cat has died./ My cousin has broken my favourite cup.)
 - 2 Why do you look so happy? (I have won the singing contest./I have passed my exams.)
 - 3 Where's Mrs Song? (She has left for lunch./ She has gone shopping.)
 - 4 What's the matter with your hand? (I've hurt/burnt/broken it.)
 - 5 Why do you look so pale? (I've been ill.)

8 Do Exercise A3 with the class.

Answers:

- A3 2 Have ... painted
No ... haven't
3 Have ... washed
Yes ... have
4 Have ... made
Yes ... have

B just, already and yet

- 1 The adverbs just, already and yet are used to mean, respectively, a very short time before, before now and up to now. They are often used in sentences which contain the present perfect tense.
- 2 Read the introduction and the examples given in the Student's Book to the class. Explain that just and already are used in positive sentences, and yet is used in negative sentences and questions.
- 3 Write the following questions on the board.
 - Would you like to have lunch with me?
 - Would you like to go to the cinema with me?
 - Would you like to read this book?
 - Would you like to have a drink?
 - Would you like to wash your hands?
- 4 Tell the students to choose a partner and to ask and answer these questions. They must reply positively the first time around, and negatively the second time, following the model given below.

Yes, I would. I haven't had lunch yet.

No, I'm sorry, I wouldn't. I've just/already had lunch.

5 Ask the students to do the exercise in the book.

Answers:

- B 1 Have ... got
2 yet
3 have just got 4 has not got
5 yet
6 has not saved
7 yet
8 has already packed
9 have not packed
10 yet

C ever and never

- 1 Explain to the class that we use ever to mean at any time and never to mean not at any time.
- 2 Read the examples in the Student's Book to the class.

A3 The captain also asks the soldier some questions. Complete the questions and answers with Yes or No, have or haven't and suitable verbs. The first one has been done for you.

1 Have you swept the floor?
Yes, I have.

2 _____ you _____ the wall?
_____, I _____.

3 _____ you _____ the dishes?
_____, I _____.

4 _____ you _____ the bed?
_____, I _____.

B just, already and yet

We can use just (to mean a very short time before), and already (to mean before now) with the present perfect tense in positive sentences. We can use yet (to mean up to now) in negative sentences and questions.

The captain is not hungry. He has just/already eaten.
The soldier is hungry. He has not eaten yet.
Have you eaten yet?

Hans and his sister Anna are German. They plan to visit their friend Eric and his sister Doris in China. Hans phones Eric about the trip. Read their conversation, put the verbs in the right tense, and add just, already or yet.

Hans Eric, we will definitely come to see you next month.

Eric I am glad to hear it. ⁽¹⁾ _____ you _____ (get) your plane tickets ⁽²⁾ _____ (already/yet)?

Hans I ⁽³⁾ _____ (get, just/yet) mine, but Anna
⁽⁴⁾ _____ (not get) hers ⁽⁵⁾ _____ (already/yet).

Eric Why is that?

Hans She ⁽⁶⁾ _____ (not save) enough money ⁽⁷⁾ _____
(already/yet). She will buy it next week. She is very excited about the trip.
She ⁽⁸⁾ _____ (pack, already/yet) her suitcase.
I ⁽⁹⁾ _____ (not pack) mine
⁽¹⁰⁾ _____ (already/yet).

C ever and never

We often use ever (to mean at any time) and never (to mean not at any time) with the present perfect tense. In questions, we usually use ever.

Have you ever visited China?
Yes, I have./No, I've never visited it.

C1 Work in pairs. Hans is now in Shanghai for the first time. Eric wants to find out what to show him. Eric asks questions about the pictures below:

Have you ever been in a

(1) cable car?

(2) maglev train?

(3) temple?

Have you ever had a

(4) Chinese meal?

(5) moon cake?

(6) ride on a metro train?

Have you ever seen a

(7) dragon dance?

(8) fireworks display?

(9) dragon boat race?

Hans answers questions (2), (6) and (8) like this:

Yes, I have.

He answers all the other questions like this:

No, I've never been in a _____.

OR No, I've never had a _____.

OR No, I've never seen a _____.

C2 Eric takes Hans out for a walk. He leaves a note about the above conversation for his sister Doris. Complete the note below with information in C1.

Dear Doris

I have just spoken to Hans. He ⁽¹⁾ _____ cable car or a temple. He ⁽²⁾ _____ Chinese meal or a moon cake. He ⁽³⁾ _____ dragon dance or a dragon boat race. However, he ⁽⁴⁾ _____ maglev train, he ⁽⁵⁾ _____ ride on a metro train, and he ⁽⁶⁾ _____ fireworks display. We have gone to a temple. We'll be back soon.

Eric

- 3 Tell the students to work in pairs, following the instructions to do Exercise C1.

Answers:

- C1 1 No, I've never been in a cable car.
 3 No, I've never been in a temple.
 4 No, I've never had a Chinese meal.
 5 No, I've never had a moon cake.
 7 No, I've never seen a dragon dance.
 9 No, I've never seen a dragon boat race.

- 4 Ask the students to complete Exercise C2 on their own.

Answers:

- C2 1 has never been in a
 2 has never had a
 3 has never seen a
 4 has been in a
 5 has had a
 6 has seen a

Additional activity:

Conduct a class survey. Select eight students and tell each of them to ask his/her classmates one question using the present perfect tense. Ask all the students to collect the results and to write a short paragraph about their class. Sample questions and paragraph are given below.

Have you ever been to Hong Kong?

Have you ever been to Beijing?

Have you ever been to People's Square?

Have you ever travelled by plane?

Have you ever seen a whale?

Have you ever eaten durian?

Have you ever won a competition?

Have you ever broken any glasses?

In our class, six people have been to Hong Kong, and thirty-four people have been to Beijing. Everyone has been to People's Square. Half of the class has travelled by plane, but no one has ever seen a whale. Most people have eaten durian, and two people have won a competition. Ten people have broken glasses.

D since and for

- 1 Read the introduction and the examples in the Student's Book to the class.
- 2 The present perfect tense avoids past time adverbials that tie it to a point in the past, but can be used with since and for, as they cover periods of time.
- 3 In 2015 means that whatever happened, happened only in 2015. Since 2015 means from 2015 until now. This creates present relevance.
- 4 The conversation in Exercise D1 shows the uses of the present perfect, simple present and simple past tenses. Select two students to read the conversation aloud to the class.
- 5 Ask the students to complete Exercises D1 and D2.

Answers:

- D1
- 1 lives ... Hamburg
 - 2 has lived ... since 2002
 - 3 has lived ... for fifteen years
 - 4 was born in Shanghai

- D2
- 1 T
 - 2 F, 2015 → 2016
 - 3 F, December → September
 - 4 T
 - 5 T

D since and for

We often use since and for with the present perfect tense. Since is used with a point in time. For is used with a period of time.

I've been here since 2007/June/last week/
Tuesday/eight o'clock.
She's been there for an hour/two days/six months/ten years/a long time.

Tips

We often use how long to ask questions about duration in the present perfect tense.

D1 Hans is from Hamburg in Germany. He is talking to Doris. Read their conversation and answer the questions.

Doris So you live in Hamburg, Hans?

Hans Yes, I'm a Hamburger. Have you ever met a Hamburger?

Doris Yes, I met one yesterday at the fast food shop, and I ate it.

Hans Ah, yes, a joke. I've heard it before, Doris.

Doris Sorry, Hans. Tell me, how long have you lived in Hamburg?

Hans Since 2002. And how long have you lived in Shanghai?

Doris For fifteen years. I was born here.

1 Where does Hans live?

He _____ in _____.

2 How long has Hans lived in Hamburg?

He _____ there _____.

3 How long has Doris lived in Shanghai?

She _____ here _____.

4 Where was Doris born?

She _____.

D2 Doris is talking about herself. Read what she says, and say whether the following statements are T (True) or F (False). Correct any false statements.

- 1 Doris has lived in Pudong for seven years.
- 2 She has been at her school since 2015.
- 3 She has been in the Science Club since December 2017.
- 4 She has been in the Dance Club for about ten months.
- 5 She has been in the Volleyball Club since July 2019.

Hello. I'm Doris. It's now September 2019. I've lived in Pudong since 2012. I've been at this school for almost three years. I like extra-curricular activities. I've been in the Science Club for exactly two years and in the Dance Club since last November. I joined the Volleyball Club two months ago.

D3 Write three similar sentences about yourself. Use Doris' speech in D2 to help you.

I _____ since _____.

I _____ for _____.

I _____ since _____ and in _____ for _____.

Tips

There is an important difference in meaning between have been to and have gone to. Compare these two sentences about Mr Hu and Mr Luo who work in the same office.

Mr Hu has been to lunch.

Mr Luo has gone to lunch.

The first sentence means that Mr Hu has finished lunch and has returned to his office. The second sentence means that Mr Luo is having lunch and is not in his office.

Listening

The start of the Trojan War

How did the Trojan War start? Listen to the story on the recording, and put the pictures in the correct order. Write the numbers 1–6 in the boxes.

Paris

Aphrodite

King Menelaus

Queen Helen

6 Exercise D3 is suitable for individual completion.

Possible answer:

D3 I have lived in Puxi since 2000. I have been at this school for three years. I have been in the Music Club since 2007 and in the Football Club for three months.

Listening

The start of the Trojan War

- 1 Tell the students that they are going to hear the story of how the Trojan War started. First, give the following information on the board to help the students understand the story:

Troy	Sparta	God and Goddess
King of Troy	King Menelaus (/ˌmenɪˈleɪəs/)	Zeus (/zjuːs/), King of the Gods
Paris (son)	Queen Helen	Aphrodite (/ˌæfrəʊˈdɑːtɪ/) (Goddess of Love)

- 2 Play the recording of the story two or more times, while the students label the pictures to show the right order. The script not only tells the story, but also describes some of the pictures, thus giving the students help with the task.

Tapescript:

Picture One.

The King of Troy had a son called Paris. One day Zeus, the King of the Gods, told Paris to decide which goddess was the most beautiful.

Picture Two.

Aphrodite, one of the goddesses, told Paris to choose her. 'If you choose me,' she said, 'I will make the most beautiful woman in the world fall in love with you.' So, Paris gave Aphrodite a golden apple, and said she was the most beautiful goddess.

Picture Three.

Aphrodite told Paris that the most beautiful woman in the world was Queen Helen of Sparta. Helen was married to King Menelaus. Soon Paris sailed from Troy to Sparta.

Picture Four.

Queen Helen and King Menelaus welcomed Paris to Sparta. Helen, Menelaus and Paris had dinner together. Helen and Paris soon fell in love.

Picture Five.

King Menelaus had to leave Sparta for a few days. As soon as he went, Paris took Helen to Troy. Everyone in Troy loved Helen because she was so beautiful.

Picture Six.

King Menelaus was angry. He called many other Greek kings to help him attack Troy. There were many battles in front of the walls of Troy. The Greeks and Trojans fought for ten years. But the Greeks could not get inside the walls until they tricked the Trojans with a wooden horse.

Exercise A

- a Give the students time to read the statements.
- b Play the recording once. The students listen.
- c Play the recording again. The students do the exercise.
- d Check the answers with the students and ask them to correct the false statements.

Exercise B

- a Tell the students that they are going to listen to a talk about the ancient Olympic Games from the TV programme 'History Time'.
- b Play the recording. The students listen and circle the correct answers.
- c Check the answers with the students.

Speaking

A Talk time

Offering, accepting and refusing help

- 1 This section shows the students how to perform the functions of offering, accepting and refusing help politely.
- 2 Read the conversation in Exercise A1 with the class, discuss the questions with them, and then ask them to practise the conversation in pairs.

Answers:

- A1
- 1 Anything I can do to help?
Come on, let me give you a hand.
If you want, I could do some typing.
 - 2 Thanks very much, but I can manage.
No, thanks. I'm OK.
 - 3 Oh, that would be good.
Thanks a lot.

- 3 Tell the students to work in pairs to complete the guided conversation in Exercise A2.

Possible answers:

- A2
- 1 busy
 - 2 I can do to
 - 3 Thanks very much, but I can manage.
 - 4 Come on, let me give you a hand.
 - 5 No, thanks. I'm OK.
 - 6 you want, I could
 - 7 would be good

Note:

Here are some useful patterns for the following functions.

- offering help:
Can I give you a hand?
Do you need any help?
Is there anything I can do?
Is there anything you want/need to do?
Shall I help you?
Anything I can do?
Need a hand?
May I assist you?
- accepting help:
Yes, please. Could you ...?
Oh yes, that would be nice/lovely/helpful.
Indeed you could, thank you.
Well, if you wouldn't mind ...
Well, now that you ask, you could ...
- refusing help:
No, there's no need.
Thanks, but I'm all right.
No. Everything's OK.
Thanks, but I can manage.
Thanks for asking, but everything's under control.
No, don't worry.

A Talk time

Offering, accepting and refusing help

A1 Jenny is very busy working on the school newspaper. Tony offers to help. Read their conversation and answer the questions. Then work in pairs to practise the conversation.

- Tony Hello, Jenny, you look busy. Anything I can do to help?
- Jenny Thanks very much, but I can manage.
- Tony Come on, let me give you a hand. Don't be so independent all the time!
- Jenny No, thanks. I'm OK.
- Tony If you want, I could do some typing.
- Jenny Typing? Oh, that would be good. I didn't know you could type. Thanks a lot.

Questions

- 1 Tony offers to help Jenny three times. What are the words he uses to offer help?
- 2 Jenny rejects Tony's offers twice. What are the words she uses to reject his offers?
- 3 Jenny accepts Tony's third offer. What are the words she uses to accept his offer?

A2 Jenny is doing some housework at home. Tony is visiting her and offers to help. Work in pairs to complete their conversation.

Hello, Jenny, you look ⁽¹⁾ _____.
Anything ⁽²⁾ _____ help?

(Offer help again.)
⁽⁴⁾ _____

(Refuse Tony's offer.)
⁽³⁾ _____

(Refuse the offer again.)
⁽⁵⁾ _____

If ⁽⁶⁾ _____
wash the dishes.

Wash the dishes? Oh, that ⁽⁷⁾ _____.
Thanks a lot.

B Speak up

Who am I?

Play the game 'Who am I?' in groups.

One student must pretend to be a famous person or character. You can choose someone who is dead or alive. You can also choose fictional characters from stories or legends, or even famous cartoon characters.

The other students must take turns asking you 'Yes/No' questions. You can only answer Yes, No or Perhaps. (But if they need help, you can give them one or two clues.)

The other students can ask 20 questions. If they cannot guess who you are, then you are the winner.

B1 First, read the example dialogues in groups of five.

- | | | | |
|-------------|----------------------------|----|---|
| 1 S1 | Right, who am I? | S5 | Are you a cartoon character? |
| S2 | Are you alive now? | S1 | Yes! |
| S1 | No! | S2 | Are you a Walt Disney character? |
| S3 | Were you a real person? | S1 | Yes. |
| S1 | No. | S3 | Are you Mickey Mouse? |
| S4 | Were you in films? | S1 | Yes. |
| S1 | Yes. | | |
| 2 S1 | Who am I? | S2 | Yes, please. |
| S2 | Are you a real person? | S1 | I used to live in China, over half a century ago. |
| S1 | Yes. | S2 | Oh. Were you an artist? |
| S3 | Are you alive now? | S1 | Yes. |
| S1 | No. | S3 | Did you paint pictures? |
| S4 | Were you in books? | S1 | Er, yes. |
| S1 | Er, I'm not sure. Perhaps! | S4 | Did you like drawing horses? |
| S5 | Did you live in America? | S1 | Yes. |
| S1 | No. | S5 | Are you Xu Beihong? |
| S2 | I don't know. | S1 | Yes! |
| S1 | Do you want a clue? | | |

* B2 Now play the game in groups. These sample questions will help you, but you may ask other questions too.

Are you alive/dead/real/fictional?
Were you in books/songs/films/poems?
Do/Did you live in China/Europe/America?
Did you live in the 18th century/thousands of years ago?
Did you write books/paint pictures/fight battles?
Are you a film star/singer/politician/sportsman/sportswoman?
Are you a cartoon character/character in a legend?

B Speak up

Who am I?

- 1 This is a familiar game which is sometimes called 'Twenty Questions'. In this variation, the students must imagine that they are a famous person or character.
- 2 The game practises the skill of forming questions in English, which most students find difficult. However, this is an important skill in both life and exams. This game also develops logical thinking.
- 3 Note that the person who is being questioned is allowed to give one or two clues, if the group has no idea at all. The main problem with this game in some classes is that the students do not listen to the questions which other students have just asked. Stress that they must listen carefully, and not just think about their own question.
- 4 Do Exercise B1. The students can work in groups of five to practise the game. They are practising the question forms (and intonation) and also getting to understand how the game works.
- 5 Now move to Exercise B2. Ask the students to play the game themselves. One student should write on a piece of paper the name of the famous person or character. The group should then ask questions in turn, working quickly. The main student should keep a tally of the number of questions that the others have asked. If they ask 20 questions without guessing the person or character, the group has lost.

Writing

A soldier's story

- 1 Ask the students to complete Exercise A. The aim of this exercise is to practise retelling the story from a different point of view. Remind them that the story is a past tense narrative, not a present perfect exercise.

Possible answers:

- A
- 1 left it outside the main gates
 - 2 did not go far away
 - 3 saw the horse
 - 4 was inside with five other soldiers
 - 5 pulled the horse into the main square of the city
 - 6 celebrated
 - 7 made jokes about us
 - 8 made sure that the gates were locked
 - 9 went to sleep
 - 10 climbed out of the horse
 - 11 opened the gates
 - 12 entered the city
 - 13 seized him

- 2 Ask the students to complete Exercise B on their own using their imagination.

Possible answer:

- B We took the captain away and put him in prison. For days, we went into all the houses and temples and took away everything that we could carry, but we didn't kill the citizens of Troy. We found a lot of gold and jewels in the palace. When we had taken what we wanted, we returned home in our ships.

Additional activities:

- 1 The present perfect tense is used frequently in letters that give recent news and in news bulletins that stress the present relevance of their stories. Ask the students to write a short letter or postcard telling a friend about their holiday in a resort.

Possible answer:

Dear Chen Ping

We have been here for four days now. I have seen some temples and have been on a boat. On Tuesday, I swam all day. We have had some lovely seafood. We will return to Shanghai on Saturday.

Guo Sheng

- 2 Ask the students to write three headlines for an evening TV news bulletin using the present perfect tense.

Possible answers:

- 1 There has been an earthquake in the Philippines. Fifty people have been killed.
- 2 There has been an accident near Nanjing Road. One man has been injured.
- 3 In the USA, the President has said that he will visit Beijing next month.

Exercises A and B

- a Give the students time to read Kevin's letter in Exercise A.
- b Ask one student to read the notes in Exercise B to the class.
- c Let the students complete the letter to Kevin on their own.
- d Invite individual students to read their letters to the class.
- e Give comments to their letters.

A soldier's story

A Imagine you were one of the six soldiers inside the wooden horse. After the war, you tell your story to your family. Part of the story is given below. Fill in the blanks with the words in brackets.

We tried to capture Troy for ten years, but failed. And then we thought of a trick. We built a huge wooden horse and ⁽¹⁾ _____ (leave/outside/main gates). Our army disappeared, but they ⁽²⁾ _____ (not go/far away). Then a soldier of Troy ⁽³⁾ _____ (see/horse). He told the captain. They did not know that I ⁽⁴⁾ _____ (be inside/five other soldiers).

The soldiers opened their gates and ⁽⁵⁾ _____ (pull/horse/main square/city). That night, they ⁽⁶⁾ _____ (celebrate) and ⁽⁷⁾ _____ (make jokes/us). Then they ⁽⁸⁾ _____ (make sure/gates/lock) and ⁽⁹⁾ _____ (go to sleep).

After they were asleep, we ⁽¹⁰⁾ _____ (climb/horse). We ⁽¹¹⁾ _____ (open/gates) and our army ⁽¹²⁾ _____ (enter/city).

We then went to the room of the captain. We ⁽¹³⁾ _____ (seize/him) ...

B Work in pairs. Write a few more sentences to complete the story above.

We took the captain away and put him in prison. _____

Archimedes and the crown^①

King Hiero asked the crown-maker to make him a gold crown, but when the king got the crown, he suspected^② that the crown was not entirely made of gold. Then the king sent the crown to Archimedes, the best scientist in the kingdom.

Archimedes thought about the problem while a servant poured some water into a bath for him. Archimedes got in the bath and some water came out of it, onto the floor. Archimedes was very excited. 'That's it!' shouted Archimedes to the servant. 'If we put an object in a pot full of water, some of the water will come out. The object displaces the water. A big object will displace a lot of water. A small object will displace only a little water.'

Archimedes went to the palace to weigh the crown. It weighed one kilogram. He put the crown in a pot of water. Five centimetres of water came out. He then put one kilogram of gold in another pot of water. Three centimetres of water came out of this pot. Archimedes said to King Hiero, 'Silver^③ made the crown bigger. That is why the crown displaced more water. So, the crown is not made entirely of gold; it is made of both gold and silver.'

King Hiero was very angry when he heard this, and he sent the crown-maker to prison.

Additional teaching suggestions

- 1 本单元Reading部分有两处出现了倒装句：Outside the main gates of the city stood a huge wooden horse./ Outside stood the Greek army. 因倒装句是高中阶段的教学内容，教师在教学中不必作语法讲解，只要求学生理解句意即可。
- 2 本单元 More practice 部分选用了另一则古希腊故事，讲述了“阿基米德定律”的由来，教师在教学中应利用此机会鼓励学生广泛阅读，了解世界文明古国的历史和成就。

Unit 2 Traditional skills

Unit topic: overview

The topic for this unit is describing traditional skills. The Reading passage is a factual description of an old cormorant fisherman, who uses the big birds to catch fish for him and his family.

The fisherman's story also forms the basis for several of the exercises in the Grammar section, which introduces the passive voice.

The Listening section describes another traditional skill: cutting pictures from paper using scissors.

The Speaking section practises ways of asking questions in an interview. It also focuses on describing people.

The Writing section requires the students to describe another traditional skill or job.

The cartoon

The cartoon shows our two characters enjoying some successful fishing in the harbour. Lo decides to put a cross on the boat to mark the spot. Since the boat will move away from that place, his idea will obviously not work! The cartoon introduces the topic of fishing.

Pre-unit activity

Ask the students if they know of any traditional Chinese skills or jobs which are disappearing as China develops and becomes more modern.

Notes:

- 1 There are many examples. Some skills are very old, such as spinning and weaving by hand, and they have been replaced by modern factories. In Europe over a hundred years ago, there were many trades connected with the horse, which provided the main form of transport. Now they have declined. Other skills decline because they become unfashionable (few people these days wear handmade cloth shoes, for example, and so there are few those shoe-makers).
- 2 Ironically, tourism sometimes revives some traditional skills and crafts, and places such as tourist resorts employ people to sit and perform ancient crafts to entertain tourists.
- 3 In general, it is rather sad that some of these old jobs are disappearing, but it is difficult to stop progress. Discuss some of these issues with the students, and then move on to the article.

B Before you read

 Read the four sentences below. Then look quickly at the article on the right and on the next page, and write the numbers 1–4 in the blanks.

- Paragraph ____ describes a kind of bird.
- Paragraph ____ is about the future of this type of work.
- Paragraph ____ describes an old man.
- Paragraph ____ describes how the man works.

FISHING WITH BIRDS

Damin sits on the side of the river cooking a meal, with a large bird on his head. The bird is a cormorant, and Damin is a fisherman. He is over 5 65 now but still works every day. He is thin, and of average height, but he is very fit. Although he is an elderly man, he is strong enough to control his raft in the river where he lives 10 and works with his cormorants.

Cormorants are large black birds. They are good at catching fish because they can swim well underwater. Their large feet are used 15 to push them quickly through the water. They can dive down 25 metres, and stay underwater for up to two minutes.

Damin does not require nets or a 20 fishing rod to catch fish. It is done for him by his 12 cormorants. Damin's fishing trips often begin in the late afternoon. He sets off on his

Reading passage

Fishing with birds

This is an article describing the traditional Chinese skill of fishing using cormorants.

Synopsis by paragraph [P=paragraph]:

- P1: Damin is a cormorant fisherman. Although over 65, he is fit and still working well.
- P2: Cormorants are large birds which can swim well underwater and catch fish.
- P3: A fishing trip is described. Damin and his birds set off on his raft. He ties grass around the birds' necks. The birds swim down and catch fish. He removes the fish from the birds' mouths.
- P4: Cormorant fishing is a traditional skill, but it is now disappearing in the modern world.

Vocabulary:

bang (v.) make a loud noise; hit

The drummer banged his drum and then the whole band started to play.

control (v.) have power over something; make it work

The pilot controls the aeroplane well.

cormorant (n.) a large black bird which can swim underwater

Cormorants are good at catching fish.

elderly (adj.) old (person)

Although he's now an elderly man, he's still very active.

fit (adj.) healthy and active

I do exercise regularly, so I am very fit.

modern (adj.) of the present (and future), not the past; recent; not old-fashioned

Modern telephones do not need wires, unlike those in the past.

of average height not tall or short

The students in Class 1B are of average height.

pole (n.) a long, strong stick

The boys pushed the boat along by using a pole.

reach (v.) arrive in/at

We reached the island yesterday.

remove (v.) take away; take out

Please remove the books from the table so that we can have lunch there.

require (v.) need; have to use

This job requires a lot of travelling.

rest (n.) the remaining part of something

The first two exercises are easy, but the rest are rather difficult.

set off start (a journey)

I set off from home every morning at 7.30.

so that for the purpose of something

Jim got up early this morning so that he could catch the early train to work.

traditional (adj.) a very old, familiar way of doing something that is part of people's life or culture bamboo raft with his birds. When he reaches the right place, he stops. He ties a piece 25 of grass around the neck of each bird, so that it cannot swallow the fish. Then he pushes the birds into the water, and jumps up and down and bangs the water with his pole. The fish are frightened by this. At night a light is hung from the front of the raft.

It is traditional to eat zongzi at the Dragon Boat Festival.

This enables Damin to see better, and also attracts the fish. The cormorants swim down and catch the fish, and bring them back to the raft. The fish are then removed 30 from the birds' mouths by Damin and thrown into a big basket. Later some of the fish are sold, and the rest are divided between Damin's family and the cormorants.

Cormorant fishing is a traditional Chinese skill, probably more than a thousand years old. Damin enjoys his work, and he is teaching his grandson everything he knows.
However, few young people are interested in doing 35 this type of work in the modern world. In 50 years, perhaps there will be no more cormorant fishermen in the world.

C Vocabulary

- 8 Cormorant fishing is probably more than a hundred years old.

D2 Read the article and find words or numbers to complete Millie's e-mail to Jenny.

From: Millie

To: Jenny

Dear Jenny

I think it would be a good idea to have some articles in our newspaper about traditional Chinese skills. For example, I saw a television programme about an ⁽¹⁾ _____ man who fishes with birds called ⁽²⁾ _____. He is over ⁽³⁾ _____, but he fishes every day with his ⁽⁴⁾ _____ birds. He lives with them all the time. Sometimes the birds even sit on his ⁽⁵⁾ _____! The birds dive into the water and catch ⁽⁶⁾ _____, but they cannot eat them because the man ties a piece of ⁽⁷⁾ _____ around the neck of each bird. So they take the fish back to him, and he removes the fish from the birds' ⁽⁸⁾ _____. After the programme, I wrote this article for our newspaper. I hope you like it.

Millie

D3 What do the words in italics refer to in the article? Choose the right answers.

- 1 It is done for him by his 12 cormorants.
 - a Catching fish
 - b Using nets or a fishing rod
- 2 The fish are frightened by this.
 - a the jumping and banging
 - b a large cormorant
- 3 This enables Damin to see better, and also attracts the fish.
 - a The raft
 - b The light

Grammar

Passive voice (I)

A Active and passive sentences

Active sentences tell us who or what does something.

Damin pushes the birds into the water with his pole.

Passive sentences often do not tell us who or what does something.

Some of the fish are sold.

A1 Answer these questions, saying what or who does each thing.

- 1 Who tied a piece of grass around the neck of each bird?
- 2 What catches fish for Damin?
- 3 What frightens the fish?
- 4 Who removes the fish from the cormorants' mouths?
- 5 Who is teaching his grandson everything he knows?

A2 Read these sentences and mark them A for active or P for passive.

- 1 Sometimes a cormorant sits on Damin's head.
- 2 The cormorants' large feet are used to push them quickly through the water.
- 3 Damin sets off on his bamboo raft with his birds.
- 4 Damin bangs the water with his pole.
- 5 At night a light is hung from the front of the raft.

A3 Complete each blank in this passage with is or are and one of the verbs from the box. The first one has been done for you.

Once a year, a new cormorant ⁽¹⁾ is raised by Damin. A female cormorant produces several eggs. The eggs ⁽²⁾ _____ by Damin, and the best one ⁽³⁾ _____ from the nest. After 25 days, it ⁽⁴⁾ _____ by a chicken on Damin's houseboat where he lives with his family. At this time it ⁽⁵⁾ _____ very carefully by the fisherman. As soon as he sees the cormorant breaking the egg, he takes it away from the chicken. Then the baby cormorant ⁽⁶⁾ _____ by Damin himself. For 10 days it ⁽⁷⁾ _____ every hour. The temperature ⁽⁸⁾ _____ to keep the baby warm. The other family members ⁽⁹⁾ _____ to go near the baby. The baby bird grows stronger day by day. After two months it ⁽¹⁰⁾ _____ to join the other birds on the raft, although it will not learn to catch fish for another year or more.

Grammar

Passive voice (I)

A Active and passive sentences

- 1 The passive sentence is formed by changing the status of the grammatical subject.

- 2 The normal order of an English sentence is to put the thing that we are talking about first, and then to give information about it. In most cases we are interested in the doers (i.e., the agents) of sentences, so The cat catches a mouse is a basic English sentence. However, sometimes we are more interested in the thing which is acted upon (i.e., the patient). In this case we use the passive construction A mouse was caught by the cat. We can even remove by the cat completely if we are only interested in a mouse.

- 3 The subject about which we are talking (often referred to as the focus) can be maintained at the centre of attention by using the passive voice. This is, indeed, the principal use of the passive voice. Write this short paragraph on the board.

Basketball is a popular sport. It is played by thousands of people. The game does not need large fields. It can be played on a small area.

Explain that the topic of the paragraph is basketball, and it is kept in focus (i.e., as the subject of each sentence) by means of the passive voice.

- 4 These initial exercises aim to show the students the effect of the passive voice on the subject, without using technical terminology. Read the introduction and the examples with the class and do Exercises A1 and A2.

Answers:

- A1 1 Damin.
2 Cormorants.
3 The noise (of Damin jumping and banging the water).
4 Damin.
5 Damin.

- A2 1 A
2 P
3 A
4 A
5 P

- 5 Exercise A3 aims to familiarize the students with the form of the passive voice before explicitly teaching it. The students can complete this exercise in pairs.

Answers:

- A3 2 are examined
3 is removed
4 is hatched
5 is watched
6 is looked after
7 is fed
8 is controlled
9 are not allowed
10 is taken

Note:

This is a fairly difficult exercise and the students may need some help in understanding that Damin removes the best egg from the cormorants and gives it to a tame chicken to sit on for 25 days, and then takes it and looks after it himself. (Thus the baby bird thinks that Damin is its parent.)

B Passive sentences with by

In this section, the students are shown how the subject, if it is retained, is placed at the end of the phrase and preceded by the preposition by. Ask the students to complete the exercise.

Answers:

- B
- 1 by artists
 - 2 by businessmen
 - 3 by shop assistants
 - 4 by tourists
 - 5 by these paintings

C Passive verb forms

- 1 In this section, the students are formally taught how to form the passive voice.
- 2 You may wish to write some sentences on the board for the students to change from the active voice into the passive voice. This will help revise irregular forms. Too much drilling of this nature, however, risks distracting attention from the use of the passive voice.

John broke the window.

Sally threw the stone.

Simon stole the eggs.

Mrs Li taught us History last year.

Alice sang a song.

The window was broken by John.

The stone was thrown by Sally.

The eggs were stolen by Simon.

We were taught History by Mrs Li last year./History was taught (to us) by Mrs Li last year.

A song was sung by Alice.

B Passive sentences with by

We can make passive sentences that tell us who or what does something by adding phrases with by.

The fish are removed from the birds' mouths by the fisherman.
Some of the fish are sold by Damin's wife.

Complete this passage using phrases with by and the words in the box.

The Chinese have always been famous for their arts such as painting. These days, works of art are produced ⁽¹⁾ _____ who work for big businesses in China. These businesses are usually owned ⁽²⁾ _____.

The artists paint beautiful pictures. The pictures are then displayed on the walls of the shops ⁽³⁾ _____. Many are bought ⁽⁴⁾ _____ and then they are taken back to the tourists' home countries. The new owners put the paintings on the walls of their homes, and are proud of them. A lot of enjoyment is given to many people ⁽⁵⁾ _____.

these paintings shop assistants businessmen tourists artists

C Passive verb forms

We make passive verb forms from to be and the past participles of verbs.

The picture	is was will be	painted sold	in China.
-------------	---	-------------------------------	-----------

The pictures	are were will be	painted sold	in China.
--------------	---	-------------------------------	-----------

C1 A film crew from France decided to make a programme about Damin. Complete the passage using the words and pictures below to help you. Put the verbs in the past passive form and use phrases with by to show who (what) performed each action. The first one has been done for you.

transport interview employ choose film use

The film crew came from France to China. An interpreter ⁽¹⁾ was employed by the French producer because he did not speak Chinese. Several different cormorant fishermen ⁽²⁾ _____. In the end, Damin ⁽³⁾ _____ because he has a friendly face. Then the cameras and lights ⁽⁴⁾ _____ to where Damin lives. A boat ⁽⁵⁾ _____ for some of the scenes on the river. Damin ⁽⁶⁾ _____ for many hours.

1 the French producer

2 the interpreter

3 the producer

4 lorry

5 the cameraman

6 the crew

C2 Below is what the French producer said to Damin after the filming. (The interpreter then translated it into Chinese, of course.) Complete his words by using these verbs in the future passive form.

make see translate take show add

Thank you for helping us, Damin. We are very grateful. Soon this film ⁽¹⁾ _____ back to France. We will do some more work on it. For example, some music ⁽²⁾ _____ to it. It ⁽³⁾ _____ into a programme for television. Also, it ⁽⁴⁾ _____ into English. Then our programme ⁽⁵⁾ _____ on television stations in many countries around the world. You and your cormorants ⁽⁶⁾ _____ by millions of people!

- 3 Exercise C1 offers further and more challenging practice with the past passive voice.

Answers:

- C1 2 were interviewed by the interpreter
 3 was chosen by the producer
 4 were transported by lorry
 5 was used by the cameraman
 6 was filmed by the crew

Note:

The passive voice is also used in the following situations:

- If we do not know who was responsible for an action.
 A bank in the city centre was robbed this morning. The sum of $2,000,000 was taken.
- When we wish to avoid blaming ourselves or someone in particular. For example, if a child breaks a window, he will probably say:
 The window was broken.
- When we cannot (for legal reasons) say who was responsible for something. This is common in newspaper stories.
 A pedestrian was killed in a car accident this morning.
- When it is completely unimportant who did the action.
 The street is cleaned every early morning.
- When using scientific English where the focus is on the experiment itself, not those who perform it.
 A test tube was put in the freezer.

- 4 Exercise C2 practises the future passive form.

Answers:

- C2 1 will be taken
 2 will be added
 3 will be made
 4 will be translated
 5 will be shown
 6 will be seen

Additional activity:

Mime or perform some simple actions for the students and ask them to write a description of your actions, using the passive voice. You may want to follow this model:

- Take a piece of paper.
- Cut the paper in half.
- Fold one piece.
- Place it in a drawer.
- Colour the second piece red.
- Throw it in the paper recycling bin.

Answer:

A piece of paper was taken. The paper was cut in half. One piece was folded. It was then placed in a drawer. The second piece was coloured red. Then it was thrown in the paper recycling bin.

Listening

What's wrong in the picture?

In this task the speaker describes a scene, but the picture has eight incorrect details. The students must listen and circle the errors in pencil. They can later be asked to explain the errors. The answers below are given in words as a model of what the students could be asked to do. (The key points are also underlined in the tapescript.)

Tapescript:

One day I was walking near the Bund when I saw a small crowd of people. I walked over and saw that they were looking at a short old man. The man was wearing a red hat. He was dressed in a dark shirt and trousers, and black shoes. He was holding a pair of scissors and cutting something carefully out of a piece of black paper.

A young girl was sitting on a bench in front of him. She was looking up at her mother, who was standing nearby. The girl had lovely, long hair. Then I realized that the old man was cutting a picture of her. A sign next to the man said 'Paper Pictures, ¥50'. One man in the crowd was holding a black paper picture. He was showing it to a woman. She was laughing at the picture.

I watched the old man carefully. He was very skilful. I thought about having my picture done, but then I looked at my watch. It was 6 p.m. Time for dinner. I left the small crowd, and went towards the bus stop.

Answers:

- 2 The man is tall, not short.
- 3 The hat is brown, not red.
- 4 His shoes are white, not black.
- 5 She is looking at her father, not her mother.
- 6 She has short hair, not long hair.
- 7 The sign says '¥500', not '¥50'.
- 8 The woman (on the left) is looking angry, not laughing.

| Damin | Yes, of course. |
| You | I know that you use cormorants to help you catch fish. Why do you use them? |
| Damin | Because they are good at catching fish. They can swim quickly underwater. |
| You | How do they swim quickly? |
| Damin | Their large feet are used to push them quickly through the water. |
| You | How deep can they dive and how long can they stay underwater? |
| Damin | They can dive down 25 metres, and stay underwater for up to two minutes. |
| You | How do you deal with the fish you get? |
| Damin | Some are sold and the rest are divided between my family and the birds. |
| You | What do you think of the future of cormorant fishing? |
| Damin | It's hard to say. Few people are interested in it. Maybe there won't be any cormorant fishermen in the future. |
| You | What a pity! Thank you very much for your help. |
| Damin | You're welcome. |

Listening

What's wrong in the picture?

One day, Millie's father saw a man cutting out pictures of people.

 Listen to Millie's father describe the scene, and look at the picture below. There are eight mistakes in it. Draw a circle around each mistake. One has been done for you.

Speaking

A Talk time

Asking questions in an interview

A1 Imagine that you are interviewing Damin. Complete the following conversation using suitable question words.

- You Excuse me, Damin. Could you answer a few questions, please?
- Damin Yes, certainly.
- You ⁽¹⁾ _____ cormorants have you got at the moment?
- Damin Twelve.
- You ⁽²⁾ _____ do you usually start fishing every day?
- Damin In the late afternoon.
- You ⁽³⁾ _____ do you do to make sure that the cormorants don't swallow the fish?
- Damin I tie a piece of grass around the neck of each bird.
- You ⁽⁴⁾ _____ can you work in the darkness?
- Damin I hang a light at the front of my raft.
- You Thank you very much for your help.
- Damin You're welcome.

A2 You want to find out more about Damin. Think of more questions that you can ask Damin and make a list. Then role-play the interview with a partner.

B Speak up

Describing people

When we describe people, we mention their age-group, their build (the shape of their body), their height, and any special things about their hair and face. Here are some of the words we can use.

age-group

young middle-aged elderly old build fat/plump well-built slim/thin thinly-built height

- tall
- above/of/below average height
- short hair /face

- black/blond(e)/red/curly/straight/long/short hair
- bald
- wears glasses
- has a beard/moustache

B1 Work in pairs. S1 reads the descriptions below. S2 looks at the pictures and says who S1 is talking about.

- 1 She's plump, above average height, has long blonde hair, and wears sunglasses.

- 2 He's well-built, short and bald, and has a thick black moustache.

B Speak up

Describing people

- 1 Read through and explain the terms listed in the Student's Book with the class.

Notes:

- 1 Build means body size and shape. Plump is a kinder word than fat. Well-built means muscular. Slim is a more flattering word than thin. Thinly-built means slightly-built.
- 2 When you are describing the height of someone who has not finished growing, it is normal to add for his/her age.
- 3 You may find that the following words are required for a complete description:
 - wavy hair (less tight than curly)
 - full/thin lips
 - mole (dark spot on skin)
 - flat/pointy/sharp nose
 - double/single eyelids
 - high cheek bones
 - round/sharp/double chin

- 2 Ask the students to follow the instructions in Exercise B1 to match the description with the picture. In addition, the students can give oral descriptions of the pictures to say how they are different.

Answers:

- | | | |
|----|---|---|
| B1 | 1 | b |
| | 2 | d |

- 3 Exercises B2 and B3 are designed to be amusing and allow more practice for the students in describing specific people that they know. The students may work in pairs to produce a description of someone in the class. A sample dialogue is given below, but in fact S1 may also be able to help S2 with the description. For Exercise B3, ask some students to read out their descriptions to the whole class, who must then guess the identity of the person being described.

Possible answer:

- B2 S1 How old is this person?
 S2 She is young, about 16.
 S1 Can you describe her build?
 S2 Yes. She is slim.
 S1 How tall is she?
 S2 She is above average height.
 S1 Can you describe her hair?
 S2 Yes. She has long, straight hair.
 S1 Good. And can you describe her face?
 S2 She has a small nose and big eyes.

Additional activity:

Tell the students to find a picture of someone from a magazine, stick it in their book and write a description of the person.

Writing

A traditional skill/job

- 1 Note that the suggested plan is the same as the plan for the main reading passage about Damin and his cormorants.
- 2 Allow the students some time to discuss the task in pairs if necessary. Tell them to work through the suggested paragraphs and check that they understand them. Tell them also to try to come up with some original ideas of their own.
- 3 Ask the students to write their articles on their own.

Possible answer:

Sun Yilin, a 62-year-old man, is a paper cutter. He is of average height, a little thin, with a small moustache.

Sun's father started teaching him paper cutting when he was only three. All he needs when he works are a pair of scissors and a lot of colourful paper.

Sun works either at home or at his stall. He usually takes out a square piece of colourful paper. After thinking for several minutes, he starts his work. It needs a lot of patience. When he finishes a piece of work, he displays it in his stall.

Paper cutting is more than two thousand years old. Sadly, this wonderful art is quickly disappearing. In a few years, it could disappear completely.

Exercise A

- a Ask the students to work in groups of three and talk about their future job plans. They can use the information listed for help.
- b Remind them to elect a group leader and take down some notes.
- c Invite individual students to report and exchange the information.

Exercise B

- a Ask the students to read the four questions and write down some notes for each question.
- b Invite a student to tell what he/she will probably write about his/her future job plan and correct the mistakes he/she has. This can be an example for the class.
- c Ask the students to write their plans and then invite individual students to read aloud to the whole class.

B2 Work in pairs.

Situation: S1 is a police officer. S2 saw someone drop a ¥100 note in the street. That person then got into a taxi and was gone. S2 took the money to the police station. S1 is asking S2 to describe the person who dropped the note. S1 must ask questions and complete this table. S2 may imagine a person in your class and describe him/her to S1.

Age
Build Height
Hair
Face

B3 S1 and S2 act out the scene in class. The class must guess who dropped the ¥100 note.

 Writing

A traditional skill/job

Jenny liked Millie's article about Damin, and decided to have more articles about traditional skills and jobs in the newspaper.

 Write a short article describing a person who has a traditional skill or job, e.g., a paper cutter. Make up a name for your character. Write four paragraphs with the following details:

- Paragraph 1 Describe the person.
—What does he or she look like? Use the Speaking section to help you.
 - Paragraph 2 Describe the things this person uses.
—What does this person use for his or her work?
 - Paragraph 3 Describe the skill or job of this person.
—Where and how does he or she do it?
 - Paragraph 4 Look at the past, and then look at the future.
—How long is the history of this skill or job?
What will happen to it in the future?

Some facts about tea

Tea is the most popular drink in the world besides water. There are thousands of different types of tea. All tea comes from the tea plant. The leaves and buds of this plant are picked several times a year, usually by hand. After it has been picked, the tea is processed into 5 black tea, oolong tea, green tea or white tea.

Black tea was invented in China during the Ming Dynasty as a way to keep tea fresh when it was transported long distances. As tea has to travel a long 10 distance to reach places such as the UK, Canada and Australia, it is not surprising that westerners drink mostly black tea.

However, the majority of the world drinks green tea.

Herbal tea^① is prepared in the same way as regular tea but is not real 15 tea. This is because it contains herbs, fruits, spices^②, etc., instead of leaves from the tea plant. To truly be tea, the leaves must come from this plant.

All tea naturally contains caffeine^③, which comes from the tea leaves. Decaffeinated tea^④ is regular tea (usually green or black) that has been 20 processed to remove the caffeine. In recent years, organic tea^⑤ has become popular too. This is tea that comes from plants that have been grown without the use of any chemicals. People believe that it tastes better and is healthier but sometimes it costs more than 25 non-organic tea. This is because the size of the crops is often smaller.

Some facts about tea

This passage includes information about tea, the most popular drink in the world besides water.

Vocabulary:

majority (n.) the largest part of a group of people or things

The majority of the students in our class prefer TV to radio.

process (v.) treat raw material, food, etc. in order to change it, preserve it, etc.

I watched a TV programme about how cheese is processed.

transport (v.) take somebody or something from one place to another in a vehicle

The goods will be transported to the USA by sea.

Pages 20–21

- 1 Damin sits on the side of the river cooking a meal, with a large bird on his head. 大民坐在河边煮饭，头上立着一只大鸟。
- 2 He is thin, and of average height, but he is very fit. 他身材瘦削、个头中等，但很健康。
(be) of average height 意为“身高中等”。又如：(be) of average weight 意为“体重中等”。
- 3 Although he is an elderly man, he is strong enough to control his raft in the river where he lives and works with his cormorants. 尽管他上了年纪，但身手依然矫健，能够在与鸬鹚一同生活与劳作的河面上自如地操控竹筏。
- 4 They can dive down 25 metres, and stay underwater for up to two minutes. 它们可以潜入水下 25 米深处，最长可以待上两分钟。
句中的 dive 作动词，意为“下潜”；在 7B 曾学过 dive 的另外两种意思，分别是“俯冲”和“跳水”。
- 5 Damin's fishing trips often begin in the late afternoon. 大民通常在傍晚时分出去捕鱼。
句中的 late 作形容词，意为“接近末期的”；late 还可意为“迟到；晚点”。
- 6 He sets off on his bamboo raft with his birds. 他带上鸬鹚，划着竹筏出发了。 句中的 set 作动词，set off 意为“出发；动身”；在 7A Unit 5 曾学过 TV set，其中的 set 作名词。
- 7 He ties a piece of grass around the neck of each bird, so that it cannot swallow the fish. 为了不让鸬鹚把鱼吞下，他用草绳拴住每只鸬鹚的脖子。
句中的 neck 意为“脖子”；在 7B Unit 4 中曾出现 a sweater with the V-neck，其中的 neck 意为“衣领”。
- 8 Later some of the fish are sold, and the rest are divided between Damin's family and the cormorants. 随后，一些鱼被卖掉了，剩下的则由大民全家和鸬鹚分了。
句中的 divide 作动词，意为“分享；分配”；在 8A Unit 4 中曾学过 divide 作动词，表示数学运算符号“÷”。
- 9 In 50 years, perhaps there will be no more cormorant fishermen in the world. 50 年后，或许世界上就不再有鸬鹚捕鱼的渔民了。

Additional teaching suggestions

- 1 本单元的主题围绕中国传统文化展开。其中，Reading 部分介绍了中国的一种传统捕鱼技艺，More practice 部分介绍了不同种类的茶，教师可利用这些材料对学生进行热爱祖国文化的爱国主义教育。
- 2 Although he is an elderly man, he is strong enough to control his raft in the river where he lives and works with his cormorants. 本句中的 where 引导一个定语从句。因定语从句是高中阶段的教学内容，教师在教学中不必作语法讲解，只要求学生理解句意即可。
- 3 He ties a piece of grass around the neck of each bird, so that it cannot swallow the fish. 本句中的 so that 引导一个目的状语从句，教师在教授本课时可对 8B 教材中归纳总结的时间、原因和让步状语从句进行适当的复习，以帮助学生巩固状语从句的用法。
- 4 本单元 Grammar 部分的重点是被动语态，教师在教学中应主要讲解被动语态的结构，以及含有一般现在时、一般过去时和一般将来时的被动语态。含有情态动词的被动语态的教学将在本册 Unit 3 中进行。

Unit 3 Pets

Unit topic: overview

The main topic for this unit is about pets. The pre-reading exercises encourage the students to think about different kinds of pets, and also their attitudes and knowledge of this subject. The Reading passage presents two different opinions about whether it is a good idea to keep pet dogs.

The Grammar section introduces the passive voice with modal verbs. It also introduces adverbs.

The Listening section features stamps with pictures of goldfish.

The Speaking section teaches the students how to make and respond to complaints. Then they will discuss how to choose interesting topics.

The Writing section asks the students to write about their favourite shop.

The cartoon

The cartoon shows that Hi thinks keeping a pet dog is a big responsibility. However, Lo thinks that it is also a big responsibility for him to be with Hi. The cartoon introduces the unit topic of pets.

Pre-unit activities

- 1 Have the students start thinking about the unit topic by writing these headings on the board.
 - Names of animals
 - Types of pets
 - Related words
- 2 Ask the students to come up to the board one by one and add a word under one of the headings. The students might write some of these words.
 - Names of animals—monkeys, snakes, tigers, rats, lions, elephants
 - Types of pets—cats, dogs, rabbits, fish, birds, turtles
 - Related words—fur, walk, run, hop, fly, swim, climb, bark, sing, roar, play, brush
- 3 Pin up some pictures of animals and ask the students to identify them. It is a good idea to have a box of pictures clipped from magazines available. Alternatively, bring a picture reference book to the lesson to show the class photographs and see which creatures they can name.
- 4 Ask the students to tell you if they like pets. Then ask them to name their favourites. Encourage them to give reasons why they like particular pets and perhaps dislike others. Ask them if they think some pets are dangerous (some people are afraid of dogs, especially larger ones, and think they are dangerous). If the students are scared of large dogs, tell them that most dogs are not dangerous if they are properly looked after and trained.
- 5 Ask if any students have pets at home. If they do, what sort of pets do they have? Ask them how long they have had the pets, and how they look after them. For those students who do not have pets at home, ask them why they do not keep pets and whether they plan to keep pets in the future.

- 1 Where can you see articles like this one?
- 2 What do you think the article is about?
- 3 Who likes keeping a pet dog?

Reading

A What do you know about ...?

Use this exercise to explain some facts about common animals.

Answers:

- A 1 F
 2 T
 3 F
 4 F
 5 T
 6 F

Notes:

- 1 Most dogs live between 8 and 14 years, depending on the breed, their health and treatment by owners.
- 2 It is easy to overfeed fish, and this may kill them.
- 3 Lizards are mostly harmless. They should not be confused with snakes. Lizards have legs; snakes do not.
- 4 Birds sing for various reasons, as far as we know. Some bird-songs are for mating, for warning, for marking territory and so on. We should be aware that we may be attaching human emotions and reasons to animals and birds incorrectly. We do often sing when we are happy, but that does not necessarily mean that birds are happy when they sing.
- 5 It is widely believed that dogs wag their tails from side to side when they are friendly or pleased with something. Cats, on the other hand, do seem to wag their tails when they are angry or upset.
- 6 The size of a dog does not mean that it is more or less friendly. However, many people are more afraid of larger animals. Some very small dogs can be aggressive; some large dogs are very gentle. The breed of the dog and the kind of treatment it has had in its life is more important than its actual size.

B Before you read

Ask the students to look at the title, the headings and the pictures, but not the main text and try to answer the questions. This will link the article to school newspapers and will start the students thinking about the topic.

Possible answers:

- B 1 In school newspapers.
 2 The article is about the question of whether keeping pet dogs is a good idea.
 3 Emma does.

Reading passage

Head to head

This is a student newspaper article giving the opinions of two students, Emma and Matt, about whether keeping pet dogs is a good idea.

Synopsis by paragraph [P=paragraph]:

- P1: Emma thinks keeping pet dogs is a good idea.
P2: Pet dogs are cute.
P3: Keeping pet dogs teaches children about responsibility.
P4: Keeping pet dogs teaches children about life and death.
P5: Pet dogs will love you faithfully for years.
P6: Matt thinks keeping pet dogs is not a good idea.
P7: Pet dogs create mess both inside and outside.
P8: Some of the dogs are unfriendly. They also cause noise problems.
P9: The small spaces make dogs unhappy.
P10: Pet dogs are expensive to keep.
P11: People should not keep pet dogs.

We had to train our dog to behave.

HEAD TO HEAD

Emma and Matt give their opinions about pet dogs. Is it a good idea to keep pet dogs?

Keeping pet dogs is a good idea, says Emma

I think that having a pet dog can change a person's life. Therefore, people should be 5 allowed to have pet dogs. There are lots of reasons for this.

First, dogs are really cute. It's nice to pick them up and hold them in our arms, and it's wonderful to see them growing up quickly.

10 Second, we can learn about responsibility from keeping pet dogs. We have to feed them, train them and play with them. We even have to take care of them at night. According to my mum, this helps us 15 become more responsible people.

We can also learn about life and death from dogs. Young people can learn how to care for others and how to respect all living things by keeping a pet dog.

20 A dog will love you faithfully for many years. Keeping pet dogs is something everyone can enjoy.

Keeping pet dogs is not a good idea, says Matt

25 In my opinion, it is never a good idea to keep a pet dog.

Pet dogs create a lot of mess. They leave fur and hair on the floor, on beds and on sofas, and they need to be washed regularly. Some people are 30 not very good at cleaning up after their dogs when they take them for a walk. As a result, these dogs create a lot of mess on the streets and in parks.

We should remember that not all dogs are friendly. Some dogs bark at people they do not 35 know. This can frighten young children. A few dogs bark all night. This stops their neighbours from getting any sleep. A small number of pet dogs even bite people.

What's more, most people in modern cities live
40 in flats. They have no choice but to keep their dogs in small spaces. This may make the dogs feel extremely unhappy. They always need fresh air and large open spaces where they can run free.

45 Finally, paying for dog food and visiting the vet can be expensive.

I believe that people should not keep pet dogs.

C Vocabulary

C1 Find the words and phrases in Column A in the article and match them with the meanings in Column B.

A	B
1 opinions	a as said by someone
2 train	b teach
3 according to	c one's feelings or thoughts about something
4 care for	d in a way that you can trust
5 faithfully	e love or like someone or something very much

C2 Use the words and phrases in the box to replace the words in italics in the dialogues below. Look back at the article if necessary.

have no choice
in my opinion responsibility extremely regularly

- Tony Mum, will you clean out my fish bowl for me?
Mum No, I won't. It's your job to do that.
- Frank I don't really want to go to work today.
Betty Well, you are not allowed to decide whether to go or not. You have got to go, so get out of bed right now!
- Bill How did you feel when your friend jumped out and scared you?
Ben I felt really very surprised and shocked!
- Tony A boy at school said that all students should be paid a salary.
Mum Well, I think that is a very foolish idea.
- Frank How can I improve my English, Betty?
Betty Well, Frank, you should read English books for a certain time every day.

C Vocabulary

- 1 Let the students work individually to find the correct meaning for each word on the left in Exercise C1. When the answers are being discussed as a class, ask the students to explain the meanings using other words and complete sentences.

Answers:

- C1 1 c
2 b
3 a
4 e
5 d

- 2 Exercise C2 will let the students use some of the new words and phrases from the article in different sentences. Again, the students can work individually to find their answers. Reviewing the article in this way will increase the students' comprehension of the main passage.

Answers:

- C2 1 responsibility
2 have no choice
3 extremely
4 in my opinion
5 regularly

D Comprehension

- 1 Exercise D1 will further assist the students in their comprehension of the article.

Answers:

- D1 1 really cute
2 responsibility
3 life and death
4 faithfully
5 a lot of mess
6 friendly
7 extremely unhappy
8 expensive

- 2 The students must pick different subjects for the word this from the article for Exercise D2. They should understand that it is important to look at the wider context of the pronoun reference, and not just the words immediately before or after it. This kind of exercise helps the students appreciate the way in which sentences may be connected in each paragraph.

Answers:

- D2 1 b
2 c
3 a

For further reading practice

Workbook 9A page 26

- a Give the students time to read the passage paragraph by paragraph. Ask them to give a synopsis of each paragraph.
b Let the students complete the exercise.
c Check the answers with them.

D Comprehension

D1 Emma and Matt both give us many reasons to support their opinions. Read the article again and complete the following notes.

Emma's opinion: keeping pet dogs is a good idea

- Emma's reasons:
- dogs are ⁽¹⁾ _____;
 - people can learn about ⁽²⁾ _____;
 - people can also learn about ⁽³⁾ _____;
 - dogs will love people ⁽⁴⁾ _____ for a long time.

Matt's opinion: keeping pet dogs is not a good idea

- Matt's reasons:
- pet dogs create ⁽⁵⁾ _____ at home, on the streets and in parks;
 - some dogs are not ⁽⁶⁾ _____;
 - dogs may feel ⁽⁷⁾ _____ if they are kept in small spaces;
 - keeping pet dogs can be ⁽⁸⁾ _____.

D2 What does the word 'this' refer to in the article? Choose from the answers in the box. You may look back at the article to check your answers.

- a The fact that dogs are kept in small spaces.
- b The idea that it is good to keep dogs.
- c The fact that we have to feed, train and play with pet dogs, and even take care of them at night.

- 1 There are lots of reasons for this.
- 2 According to my mum, this helps us become more responsible people.
- 3 This may make the dogs feel extremely unhappy.

A Passive voice (II)

Passive forms with modal verbs are made from a modal verb + be + the past participle form of the main verb.

The work can be finished in a week.
The work cannot be finished in a week.
Can the work be finished in a week?

People should be allowed to have pet dogs.

 Complete the sentences with suitable passive forms. Use the words in brackets to help you.

- 1 The floor _____ by the students every day. (should/sweep)
- 2 Many fish _____ back to the village by one fishing boat. (can/bring)
- 3 A pet dog _____ to a child. (may/give)
- 4 The paintings _____ on the wall so that all the visitors can see them clearly. (must/hang)
- 5 s1 What _____ a cat _____? Is chocolate OK?
(should/feed)
- s2 It _____ chocolate. Give it cat food. (can/not feed)

B Using adverbs

Some adverbs tell us how people do things.
We usually make these adverbs by adding -ly to adjectives.

How did he drive?

He drove badly.

well.

A dog will love you faithfully for many years.

Tips

- Some words can be used as both adjectives and adverbs, e.g., hard, fast, early, late.
- Good is an adjective; its adverbial form is well.

Grammar

A Passive voice (II)

- 1 In this section, the students are formally taught how to form the passive voice with a modal verb.
- 2 You may wish to write some sentences on the board for the students to change from the active voice into the passive voice.

Alice must complete the task today.
 We should send the invitation to Mr Li.
 They cannot solve the problem.
 Jack may write articles about pets.

The task must be completed by Alice today.
 The invitation should be sent to Mr Li by us.
 The problem cannot be solved by them.
 Articles about pets may be written by Jack.

Answers:

- A
- 1 should be swept
 - 2 can be brought
 - 3 may be given
 - 4 must be hung
 - 5 should ... be fed, cannot be fed

B Using adverbs

- 1 Introduce the use of adverbs with verbs by performing some actions for the class. This will help demonstrate the way in which a verb is performed vividly.
- 2 Walk very slowly across the room, and then ask the students how you have walked. Write slowly on the board, underlining -ly to make the adverbial form clear.
- 3 Then do another action (e.g., waving, writing) quickly and write the adverb on the board. Continue in this way with four or five actions (e.g., slam a book loudly, yawn sleepily, turn around suddenly, bang the table noisily). Each time, write the adverb on the board and underline the -ly ending.
- 4 Proceed to the text and read the introduction with the students.
- 5 Read Tips with the class. Exceptions are always a problem for language learners. Remind the students of the words that can be used as both adjectives and adverbs and that well is the adverbial form of good.

- 6 Read the short passage in Exercise B1 to the students and ask them to work in pairs to think of examples (i.e., speech or actions) of shop assistants behaving badly. A few of the students' ideas can be performed, but the activity should be short so as to maintain the focus on adverbs of manner.
- 7 Let the students work in pairs to complete the exercise. They should first fill in those blanks for which they are sure of the answers, and then discuss those they are unsure about.

Answers:

- B1
- 1 carefully
 - 2 badly
 - 3 cheerfully
 - 4 patiently
 - 5 politely
 - 6 fast
 - 7 accurately
 - 8 well
 - 9 happily

- 8 To complete this exercise, call on a few students to demonstrate, orally and visually, polite and attentive service or to give a description of proper and improper dress.

Additional activity:

Copy the following paragraph onto the board, without the words in brackets, and then ask the students to make it more interesting by adding adverbs wherever possible. The adverbs in brackets offer possible answers and are for reference only.

Last week I went (excitedly) to a concert. The fans all screamed (noisily). The singer sang many songs (wonderfully). She danced (gracefully) throughout the performance. The audience clapped (wildly) after the show ended. In their excitement, some people lost their wallets and purses (carelessly). Perhaps some thieves had (quietly) taken them. Although the Sun had shone (brightly) all day long, when I left it was raining (heavily), so I ran home (quickly).

B1 A man called Happy keeps a pet shop. But today Happy is not happy! He is thinking ...

This is what Happy says to his staff. Complete it with the adverbial form of the adjectives in the box. Use each word once only.

accurate	cheerful	careful
happy	patient	polite
bad	good	fast

I want you all to listen to me ⁽¹⁾ _____. We are losing all our customers because you behave ⁽²⁾ _____.

In the future, I want you all to smile ⁽³⁾ _____ at our customers. I want you to listen to them ⁽⁴⁾ _____ and speak to them ⁽⁵⁾ _____. I want you to work ⁽⁶⁾ _____ and add up all bills ⁽⁷⁾ _____. Customers don't like mistakes. Finally, I want you all to dress ⁽⁸⁾ _____.

Do all these things, and I'm sure we'll work ⁽⁹⁾ _____ together.

- 9 Write the sentences at the top of page 42 on the board and tell the students some other uses of adverbs:
- before adjectives
 - before other adverbs
 - before a sentence
- 10 Now ask the students to work in pairs and do Exercise B2 orally first, and then to work on their own and write out the sentences. Note that several of the answers can either be in the simple present tense or the present continuous tense.

Answers:

- B2
- 2 Everyone is dressed very neatly.
 - 3 You are all serving the customers quite quickly.
 - 4 You are very patient with the customers.
 - 5 You are adding up the bills very accurately.
 - 6 The customers feel very happy.
 - 7 Luckily, the business is growing quite fast.

Listening

Different kinds of goldfish

- 1 This is a two-stage exercise. Let the students read the outline notes in Exercise A, and explain any difficult words. Then play the recording once or twice. The students must listen carefully and select the relevant words to complete the notes.
- 2 After that, the students must use their notes to solve the puzzle in Exercise B, and work out which notes refer to which stamps, and then to write in the appropriate values of the stamps.

Tapescript:

- Emma Grandad, can you tell me something about the goldfish on these stamps? I want to write an article about them for my school magazine.
- Grandad Yes, I'll see what I can remember. Let's look at the first one. Well, this is a funny one. It's gold all over its body ...
- Emma Except for that red piece.
- Grandad Yes. That's called a red cap. It has a red cap on top of its head.
- Emma Is this a new type of goldfish?
- Grandad Oh, no. Goldfish like this, with a red cap, have been in China for over four hundred years.
- Emma Wow! What's the value of this stamp?
- Grandad It's 1.90 yuan. Now, let's look at the second one. This one is different, Emma. What's unusual about it?
- Emma Oh, its eyes!
- Grandad Yes, it has very big eyes, like a dragon's eyes. And the colour is different, of course. It's black and gold.
- Emma Is this type of goldfish old too?
- Grandad Yes, very old. You can see this same fish in Chinese pictures which were painted four hundred years ago. Would you like to keep this stamp? Its value is 5 yuan.
- Emma Sure, Grandad. The third one is the prettiest, I think. This one has lots of fins!
- Grandad Yes, it has long fins and a beautiful, long tail.
- Emma It's lovely.
- Grandad And look at the shape, Emma. See how flat it is above the head. It has a sharp, pointed head. This stamp has a value of 2.40 yuan.
- Emma Yes, I see. Thank you for telling me about the goldfish, Grandad.
- Grandad You're welcome, Emma. Would you like to keep all these stamps?
- Emma Yes, please! Thanks a lot, Grandad.

Answers:

A	1	gold	8	black
	2	red	9	pictures
	3	head	10	5
	4	four	11	tail
	5	1.90	12	head
	6	eyes	13	2.40
	7	dragon's
B	1	¥1.90
	2	¥2.40
	3	¥5

Exercise A

- a Give the students time to read the statements.
- b Play the recording and let the students do the exercise.
- c Check the answers with the students.

Exercise B

- a Play the recording again. The students listen and answer the questions.
- b Check the answers with the students.

Speaking

A Talk time

Complaining and responding to complaints

- 1 After looking at the examples in the cartoon, ask the students to name some things we complain about frequently.
 - Services—e.g., late buses, rude shop assistants, overcharging.
 - Goods—e.g., bad food, defective electrical appliances, clothes that fall apart easily, scratched furniture.
- 2 Stress that we should always begin by complaining politely. It is not helpful to become rude. One way to soften a complaint is to begin with I'm sorry, but .... Another way is to minimize the degree of displeasure you express (e.g., I'm not very happy about ...). The tone of voice should always be kept gentle at first.

Listening

Different kinds of goldfish

Emma wants to write an article about some old stamps which have photographs of goldfish on them.

A Listen to Emma talking to her grandad about three stamps, and complete her notes below. Write one word in each blank.

First goldfish

Colour: ⁽¹⁾ _____ all over body, except for a ⁽²⁾ _____ cap on its ⁽³⁾ _____.

This type is over ⁽⁴⁾ _____ hundred years old.

This goldfish is shown on the ¥ ⁽⁵⁾ _____ stamp.

Second goldfish

Unusual feature: very big ⁽⁶⁾ _____, like a ⁽⁷⁾ _____.

Colour: ⁽⁸⁾ _____ and gold.

You can see this type in old Chinese ⁽⁹⁾ _____.

This goldfish is shown on the ¥ ⁽¹⁰⁾ _____ stamp.

Third goldfish

Unusual feature: Long fins and a beautiful, long ⁽¹¹⁾ _____.

Shape: sharp, pointed ⁽¹²⁾ _____.

This goldfish is shown on the ¥ ⁽¹³⁾ _____ stamp.

B Match the notes in A with the stamps below by writing the value of the stamp in each box.

Speaking

Complaining and responding to complaints

I want to complain about this CD.

There's a hole in the middle.

What's the problem?

A1 Ellen goes to the supermarket to complain to David, the manager. Practise the conversation below in pairs and answer the questions.

Ellen Excuse me. I want to complain about these peppers.

David What's the problem?

Ellen When I took off the plastic, I found that two of them were rotten. Look!

David Oh, I'm very sorry about that. I'll take care of it right away. Can you show me your receipt?

Ellen Yes, here it is.

David Thanks. Now if you can wait, I'll be back in a moment.

Questions

- 1 What did Ellen say to complain?
- 2 What did David say to apologize?
- 3 What do you think David will do?

A2 Make two similar conversations between Ellen and David. Use the words below to replace the words in italics in the conversation above.

Ellen	David
- have a complaint about this rice - opened the bag/there were bugs in it - here you are	- the trouble - terribly/you give me - minute

Choosing interesting topics

Work in groups. You are all committee members of your school's English-language newspaper. Look at the table on the next page. Your group must decide which five topics are the most interesting. You can follow the steps listed below.

- 1 Discuss the topics one by one, and tick the table. The group must all agree about each topic. (If necessary, you can vote.)
- 2 Choose the five most interesting topics for the newspaper as a group.
- 3 Suggest other interesting topics for the newspaper.
- 4 Report your decisions to the class.

- 3 Read the conversation in Exercise A1 and ask the students to follow the instructions practising it in pairs.
- 4 Tell the students to answer the questions individually.

Answers:

- A1
- 1 I want to complain about these peppers.
 - 2 Oh, I'm very sorry about that.
 - 3 He will bring her some fresh peppers.

Note:

When we take goods back to a shop, we either want them to be replaced or we want our money back (a refund).

- 5 Tell the students to continue to work in pairs and do the role-play in Exercise A2.

Answers:

- A2
- Ellen Excuse me. I have a complaint about this rice.
- David What's the trouble?
- Ellen When I opened the bag, I found that there were bugs in it. Look!
- David Oh, I'm terribly sorry about that. I'll take care of it right away. Can you give me your receipt?
- Ellen Yes, here you are.
- David Thanks. Now if you can wait, I'll be back in a minute.
- Ellen Excuse me. I want to make a complaint about this soya milk.
- David What's wrong with it?
- Ellen When I opened the carton, I found that it was a funny colour.
- David Oh, I'm awfully sorry about that. I'll take care of it right away. Can I have your receipt?
- Ellen Yes, here it is.
- David Thanks. Now if you can wait, I'll be back in a second.

Additional activity:

Ask the students to cut out a picture from an advertisement of an item they would like to own. Tell them to imagine that something has gone wrong with it and to complain to their partner, who plays the person who sold it to them. They must negotiate a settlement. The salesperson should be less cooperative than David and need persuading before he/she does anything to help.

B Speak up*Choosing interesting topics

- 1 This exercise returns to the newspaper theme that runs throughout the Student's Book and gives practice in expressing opinions and making choices.
- 2 Make sure that the students understand the situation. Some students have difficulty in playing a role, and yet they must become used to this type of task because it is used for teaching spoken English and also in public examinations. In this task, the students are acting as committee members of the school's English-language newspaper.
- 3 If your school produces or has produced any such newspapers, you could bring copies to class as examples.

- 4 Note that the students have to do several things in this task. First, they must review the list of possible topics and evaluate each one by putting a tick in one of the boxes. Next, they must reduce the topics to the best five. Third, they must then add another suggested topic of their own. Fourth, one person from some of the groups (depending on how much time is available) must summarize the group's decisions.
- 5 Appoint a group leader and a secretary for each group. The group leader's main jobs are to get everyone to contribute, to keep the group working through their tasks fairly quickly, and to make sure that people speak English and not Chinese. The secretary's jobs are to note down the decisions of the group, and to give the final report at the end of the meeting.
- 6 Page 45 contains some suggested language which the students may find helpful in the discussion, but they should not feel that they must attempt to use or be restricted to this language. What we are always trying to do in 'Speak up' tasks is to help the students to become independent and to use their own linguistic resources, even if they make mistakes.
- 7 If your class or school does produce an English-language newspaper, it may be useful to pass on to them the results of this exercise, as feedback about what the students want to read in such a newspaper.
- 8 A sample report is given here, but there is no 'correct' answer and both the discussion and the report can contain many possible variations.

Sample report:

- B We discussed these topics. We decided that the five most interesting topics are these. First, we like articles about school sports. Second, word games and crossword puzzles. Third, articles about our local area. Fourth, film reviews, because everyone likes to go to the cinema. Finally, poems by students. We also have another suggestion. We could have articles about computers. That's all. Thank you.

My favourite shop

Jenny and her friends decided to have an article called 'My favourite shop' in their newspaper.

A One student, Martin, wrote the article below. Read Martin's article in pairs. Then discuss which shops you like to visit. Tell your partner where the shop is, what it sells, why you like it, and what you have bought there.

My favourite shop

My favourite shop is called 'Model World'. It is located on the second floor of Happy Plaza, near Pizza Club. It is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day.

All kinds of models are sold in the shop, such as model soldiers, cars, boats, planes, rockets and even dinosaurs. The models there are not only for young children but also for adults. Some models have only twenty pieces; others have over 2,000 pieces. Paints and glue and other things can also be bought there.

The staff at 'Model World' are very nice. They are very interested in making models. They will give you advice, and answer all your questions. The models are not cheap but they are not too expensive either. My best buy was a model of a helicopter. It cost 240 yuan but it had over 400 pieces. It was really fun to make. If you are interested in models, you should visit this shop.

B On your own, write a short article about your favourite shop in Shanghai. Write three paragraphs, using the plan below. (You can invent some of the information if necessary.)

Paragraph 1

Name of the shop
Location
Opening hours

Paragraph 2

Items on sale

Paragraph 3

Writing

My favourite shop

- 1 In some of the writing tasks, we have withdrawn some of the guiding structures and are encouraging the students to use their own language. This task is one such example. More able students can write freely about their own ideas, using any suitable language.
- 2 However, for less able students there is still plenty of guidance in the model article. Notice in particular these words and patterns:

P1: My favourite shop is called '...'.
It is located on/in/near ...
It is open from ... to ...

P2: ... is/are sold in ...
... can (also) be bought here.

P3: The staff at '...' are ...
My best buy was ...
If you are interested in ..., you should visit this shop.
- 3 Before starting on the writing, discuss the concept of favourite shops with the class. Talk about your own favourite shop, or one you remember from your youth. Ask the students about their favourites, which may be toy shops, computer shops, clothes shops, or department stores.
- 4 Then give the students some time to discuss the task in pairs, before asking them to work on their own to produce a short piece of writing.

Note:

The article 'My favourite shop' in the Student's Book acts as a model for what we want the students to produce.

The fisherman and the fish

This is a story about a fisherman and a golden fish.

Vocabulary:

comfort (v.) say kind words to a person who is in pain or is sad

I bent down to comfort the little girl after she dropped her ice cream on the ground.

demand (v.) ask for something very firmly

The group failed to carry out the task in time, so the boss demanded an immediate explanation for it.

grant (v.) give somebody what is asked for

His parents refused to grant his request to buy him the toy car because it is too expensive.

The fisherman and the fish

Once upon a time in Russia, there lived an old fisherman and his wife. They were poor and lived in an old, mud hut near the sea. One morning, something unusual happened while the fisherman was at work. He caught a small, golden fish in his net. The fish begged the fisherman to let him go and 5 offered to grant^① the fisherman any wish in return. However, the man was kind and asked for nothing before returning the fish to the sea.

The man went home and told his wife about the fish. She shouted at him angrily and called him a fool for not making a wish. She sent him back to the sea to catch the fish and ask for a new bucket because their bucket was 10 broken. The Sun was shining as the man met the fish again and when he returned, he saw a new bucket. But the fisherman's wife was still not happy and wanted a new house. The weather was getting bad as the man explained to the fish about his rude wife. The fish comforted him and promised to grant the second wish. When he returned, he saw a nice, new cottage^②.

15 The next day, his wife said that she wanted to be mayor^③ of the city. The waves were getting big and the sky was becoming dark as the man apologized to the golden fish. Again, like the wishes before, this wish was granted. When he returned, he found his wife dressed in expensive clothes and giving orders to servants. She told her husband that he still had to sleep
20 in the hut even though she now had a bigger house. She was a very greedy woman and the following week she demanded^④ to be queen of all the land.

Again the fisherman went down to the shore. By now there was a terrible storm. There was thunder and lightning, and giant waves in the sea. The man shouted as loudly as he could so that the fish 25 could hear him. This time the fish did not reply and turned around to swim out to sea. The fisherman waited but the golden fish never came back. When the man returned home, he found his wife in the old, mud hut holding 30 their broken bucket.

① grant v. 实现 ② cottage n. (乡村)小屋 ③ mayor n. 市长 ④ demand v. 强烈要求

A Read the story again. What were the fisherman's wife's four wishes? Fill in the speech bubbles below.

B In small groups, discuss the questions below.

- 1 How many different types of weather are mentioned in the story? What are they?
- 2 What did the changes in the weather in the story symbolize?
- 3 What can we learn from the story?
- 4 What would you wish for if you found the golden fish?

C In groups of four, make up a play about 'The fisherman and the fish'. There should be three characters and one narrator. Act your play in front of the class. You may begin like this:

Narrator Once upon a time in Russia, there lived an old fisherman and his wife. They were poor and lived in an old, mud hut near the sea. One morning, something unusual happened while the fisherman was at work.

Fisherman Oh, look! I've caught a small, golden fish in my net.

Fish Please let me go, kind fisherman. I will grant you any wish in return.

Fisherman ...

Possible answers:

- A
- 1 I want a new bucket.
 - 2 I want a new house.
 - 3 I want to be mayor of the city.
 - 4 I want to be queen of all the land.
- B
- 1 Four. They are: nice weather with the Sun shining; the weather starting to get bad; the waves in the sea getting big and the sky becoming dark; a terrible storm with thunder and lightning, and giant waves in the sea.
 - 2 The changes in the weather symbolized the golden fish getting angry because the wife wanted so many things.
 - 3 The story tells us not to be greedy.
 - 4 (Students' own answers.)

C Sample script:

- Narrator Once upon a time in Russia, there lived an old fisherman and his wife. They were poor and lived in an old, mud hut near the sea. One morning, something unusual happened while the fisherman was at work.
- Fisherman Oh, look! I've caught a small, golden fish in my net.
- Fish Please let me go, kind fisherman. I will grant you any wish in return.
- Fisherman Thank you, but I need nothing.
- Narrator So, the fisherman returned the golden fish to the sea and went home. When he told his wife what had happened, she was angry.
- Wife You fool! Go back to the sea and ask the fish for a new bucket. Our bucket is broken.
- Narrator The Sun was shining as he did this. When he returned, he saw his wife with a new bucket. However, she was still not happy.
- Wife Go back again and ask the fish for a new house.
- Narrator The weather was getting bad as the man explained his wife's wish to the fish.
- Fish Don't worry. I will grant you this wish.
- Narrator When the fisherman returned, he saw a nice, new cottage. The next day ...
- Wife I want to be mayor of the city.
- Narrator The waves were getting big and the sky was becoming dark.
- Fisherman I'm very sorry about my wife.
- Fish I will grant you yet another wish.
- Narrator When he returned, he found his wife dressed in expensive clothes and giving orders to servants. She was very greedy, and the next week she wanted even more.
- Wife I want to be queen of all the land.
- Narrator By now there was a terrible storm. There was thunder and lightning, and giant waves in the sea.
- Fisherman Golden fish, where are you?
- Narrator The fish did not reply and swam out to sea. When the fisherman returned home, he found his wife in the old, mud hut holding their broken bucket.

- 1 标题 “Head to head” 意为 “针锋相对”。
- 2 It's nice to pick them up and hold them in our arms, ... 抱起宠物狗，搂在怀里，这感觉多美好呀……
句中的it是形式主语，后接的两个动词不定式 to pick up, (to) hold是句子逻辑上真正的主语。
- 3 Young people can learn how to care for others ... 年轻人可以学习如何关爱他人……
句中的 care作动词，care for 意为 “关爱”，在 7A Unit 2曾学过 take care of, care 作名词。
- 4 Pet dogs create a lot of mess. 宠物狗会让环境变得脏乱。
句中的 mess意为 “杂乱；不整洁”。
- 5 As a result, these dogs create a lot of mess on the streets and in parks. 结果，宠物狗在马路上和公园里留下了许多粪便。
句中的 mess 意为 “(猫、狗等的) 粪便”。
- 6 They always need fresh air and large open spaces where they can run free. 它们（宠物狗）离不开新鲜的空气，以及可以奔跑撒欢的大片空地。
句中的 free 作副词，意为 “不受束缚”。

Understanding descriptions of products in leaflets

A lot of shops produce leaflets to tell people about their products. This part helps you understand how products are described in leaflets.

A Imagine you want to do some shopping and you see these new products in a department store's leaflet. What questions will you ask yourself before you decide what to buy? Match the questions with the suitable products. Write the numbers in the circles.

New Products

a

Strap this electronic gadget on your wrist to protect you from horrible mosquitoes.

b

After shave by Kevin Cane

c

Gold bracelet

d

Skin Repair helps your skin after you have been in the sun too long!

e

This little Keyfloat means you won't lose anything you drop in the water. It floats!

f

Your body does the ironing for you. The hotter and stickier the climate, the better!

- 1 Do I always lose my keys?
- 2 Do I need to shave?
- 3 Do I wear jewellery?
- 4 Do I hate ironing clothes?
- 5 Do I spend a lot of time on the beach during the day?
- 6 Am I going to a place where there are a lot of insects?

B Now, work with a partner to check your answers in A. Look at the caption and question for each product. Then underline the words that give you hints for the answers.

Using English

Understanding descriptions of products in leaflets

The purpose of this section is to help the students understand and appreciate descriptive text in leaflets. It is quite common to receive leaflets as a method of advertising. Leaflets generally use short, entertaining sentences to catch the reader's attention.

- 1 Explain the context to the students. Discuss the importance of researching the details of a product before buying it. Ask the students to imagine that they want to buy some products they have seen in a leaflet. They should think about the questions they would ask themselves before deciding to buy the product. The students complete Exercise A by writing the appropriate number in the circles.
- 2 Next, ask the students to do Exercise B. They should work with a partner and cross-reference the captioned pictures with the questions in the box. Tell them to look for common key words that will link the captions to the questions.

Vocabulary:

leaflet (n.) a free, printed piece of paper that gives information or advertises a product

Let's look at the leaflet before shopping.

bracelet (n.) a piece of jewellery that is worn on a person's wrist

Joyce wears a beautiful bracelet every day.

gadget (n.) a small thing or machine that has a specific use

My mother has a gadget to help her clean the windows.

ironing (n.) the action of removing creases from clothes

Mrs Smith does the ironing every Saturday.

shave (v.) cut hair from your skin with a sharp blade

My father must shave his face each day or he will look untidy.

sticky (adj.) feeling hot and uncomfortable or very sweaty

It is stickier in Hong Kong in summer than in autumn.

strap (v.) fasten in place, usually with a piece of leather

I strapped my sports watch to my arm and went running.

 - f Your body does the ironing for you. The hotter and stickier the climate, the better!
 - 4 Do I hate ironing cloths?

Additional activity:

Bring a collection of pictures of gadgets and household goods to class. Ask the students to choose one product and write a short description of it, in the style of a leaflet. The students should not mention the name of the product. Collect the written product descriptions from the students and post them on the board. Then post the pictures on the board and ask for volunteers to match the descriptions with the pictures.

Module 2 Computers vs humans

Unit 4 Computers

Unit topic: overview

This unit is about computers and other machines. The Reading passage is a set of short texts about different aspects of computers and their effects on our lives.

The Grammar section teaches comparison of adjectives and adverbs.

The Listening section requires the students to listen to a telephone conversation and complete an order form for some office products.

The Speaking section practises ways of giving opinions, agreeing and disagreeing. The students also conduct a survey about the use of computers at home.

The Writing section includes a task in which the students have to compare two radio-controlled cars, and then two flats.

The cartoon

This cartoon, unlike most of the others, does not depend on a pun or verbal joke. The humour comes from the idea that an ATM machine could be alive, and could be a relation of the little robot. (In fact, we often talk to machines as if they were alive—particularly when we are angry with them because they will not work.) The cartoon also introduces the topic of computers and machines.

Pre-unit activities

- 1 Briefly discuss whether your students have computers at home, and what they do with them. (But note that this topic is also the subject of the Speak up task.)
- 2 Ask them to tell you any technical words associated with computers that they know and list them on the board. Write these words on the board, along with their meanings.

PC (a small personal computer) virus (something that gets into a program and harms it)

data (information)

file (a collection of data stored together)

software (programs)

hardware (the monitor, keyboard, drives, etc.)

laptop (a small, portable personal computer) command (an order to the computer)

e-mail (electronic mail)

modem (a device which links a computer to the telephone system) multimedia (a combination of sound, moving pictures and text) network (two or more computers linked together)

Reading passage

Computer facts

These are five short texts typical of information leaflets or newspaper/magazine articles, discussing different aspects of computers in the modern world.

Synopsis by paragraph [P = paragraph]:

- P1: Smaller and smaller—Computers have become much smaller. There are small computers inside everyday appliances in the home.
- P2: What kind of jobs can a computer do? — Computers can perform many functions.
- P3–4: Is a computer cleverer than I am?—At present, the human brain is superior to the computer, but this may change. If computers can do some of our jobs better than we can, how will our lives change?
- P5: Talk to your computer—Now you can use a program which will recognize your voice and write for you.
- P6: CD-ROMs/DVD-ROMs—Some computers use CD-ROMs or DVD-ROMs, which can hold huge amounts of information, including writing, pictures, videos and sound.

Vocabulary:

command (n.) order or instruction

'Sit down' and 'Stand up' are simple commands.

common knowledge something that is known by most people

It is common knowledge that the Japanese eat sushi.

desktop (n.) a full-sized computer with a separate monitor and keyboard

I prefer to use the desktop computer.

for the time being for now and some time into the future
She is staying with her grandparents for the time being.

laptop (n.) a small computer that you can carry around easily

Mrs Cai uses a desktop computer in her office, but she takes her laptop when she is on business trips.

obey (v.) follow a command or order

It is important for a soldier to obey orders.

operate (v.) use or control a machine

How do you operate this machine?

rarely (adv.) not often; seldom

People rarely eat snakes in England.

recognize (v.) know and identify

I can hardly recognize you with your new haircut!

super (adj.) excellent

My mother is a super cook.

tiny (adj.) very small

Many household appliances have tiny computers in them now.

type (v.) write using a keyboard or typewriter

Susan, here are some handwritten notes. Will you please type them up?

unaware of not knowing about

Max was unaware of his mistake.

Computer facts

Smaller and smaller

The first computers were built in the 1940s. They were bigger than cars! Since then computers have become smaller and smaller. Desktop computers are the size of televisions.

- 5 Laptops are the size of big books. Now we have palmtop computers. They are small enough to put in your pocket like a bar of chocolate. Other kinds of computers are so tiny that you may be unaware of them. There is probably one inside your TV, telephone, or washing machine. So you probably depend on computers more than you realize.

10 What kind of jobs can a computer do?

It is common knowledge that computers are super calculators. They can calculate very fast and rarely give wrong answers. They can also type, print and draw things. They can teach you and play games with you. More importantly, they can 15 operate railways and fly aeroplanes and spaceships. For these reasons, we often call them electronic brains.

Is a computer cleverer than I am?

The answer to this question is, for the time being, 'No'. Your brain can understand the meaning of things better and create new ideas.

- 20 However, one day computers may be able to do most things that a human brain can do and even do them better. For example, they may be better than doctors at doing their job.

If this is true, it raises some interesting questions. What will happen to us if computers can do our jobs? How will we spend our lives?

- 25 Will we have nothing to do? Computers may change our lives, but will they make them better?

Talk to your computer

Now you do not even need to know how to type. You can use a program which helps the computer

- 30 recognize your voice. You can talk to the computer and it will obey your commands, and write your letters!

CD-ROMs/DVD-ROMs

Some computers have CD-ROM or DVD-ROM drives. A DVD-ROM can hold millions

- 35 of pages of writing, and can also contain pictures, videos and sounds. For example, you can use your computer to read about a famous person from history and you can see a photograph or video of him or her, and even listen to them speaking.

C Vocabulary

C1 Find these words and phrases in the passage. Then read the words around them and choose the best meanings.

- | | |

C2 Find the words and phrases in Column A in the passage and match them with the meanings in Column B.

A	B
1 tiny	a make (it) work
2 be unaware of	b better than all others
3 super	c at present
4 operate	d puts forward
5 for the time being	e do not know about
6 raises	f very small

C Vocabulary

- 1 Tell the students to do Exercises C1 and C2. They must look carefully at the words and phrases in context and see which option has the correct meaning. Do not allow the students to use their dictionaries.
- 2 Tell the students to compare their answers with their partner's, and then to discuss any differences.

Answers:

- C1
- 1 a

 - 5 c
 - 6 d

Additional activity:

Each of the sentences below is a clue to one of the target vocabulary items. Read the sentences to the students and tell them to decide which of the vocabulary words is suggested. The answers are given in brackets.

- 1 Now I understand! (realize)
- 2 He just stood in the road. He didn't see the car coming. (unaware of)
- 3 There will be no homework for a few weeks. (for the time being)
- 4 Plants cannot live without the Sun. (depend on)
- 5 It is well known that Chinese students are hard-working. (common knowledge)
- 6 You turn on the engine and move the lever to the left. (operate)
- 7 I don't really like the cinema. I go once every year or so. (rarely)
- 8 It's the biggest and the best! (super)

Exercise A

- a Give the students time to read the computer news silently.
b Encourage the students to guess the meaning of the new words if there are any.
c Ask the students to do the exercise on their own.
d Check the answers with the students.

Exercise B

- a Let the students read the information in the exercise.
b Ask the students to do the exercise. They may discuss it with their partners.
c Check the answers with the students.

D Comprehension

D1 When you say things, people often expect you to give examples of what you mean. Read these statements and give examples. The first one has been done for you.

- 1 S1 There may be tiny computers in your home.
S2 Where, for example?
S1 Inside your TV.
- 2 S1 Computers can do some important jobs.
S2 For example?
S1 _____.
- 3 S1 A human brain can do some things better than a computer.
S2 For example?
S1 _____.
- 4 S1 In the future, computers may change our lives a lot.
S2 For example?
S1 We may have _____.
- 5 S1 You can tell a computer to do things, and it will do them.
S2 For example?
S1 It will _____.

D2 Daisy is asking Benny some questions about computers. Help Benny answer her questions by completing the sentences below. The first one has been done for you.

- 1 Daisy What were the first computers like?
Benny They were bigger than cars.
- 2 Daisy How big is a palmtop computer?
Benny It is the size of _____.
- 3 Daisy Besides calculating, what else can computers do?
Benny They can also _____, _____ and _____ things.
- 4 Daisy How can you make the computer recognize your voice?
Benny I can use _____ to help the computer recognize my voice.
- 5 Daisy How many pages of writing can a DVD-ROM hold?
Benny It can hold _____ pages of writing.

A Comparison of adjectives

When we compare two things or two groups of things, we use the comparative form of adjectives + than. We usually add -er to short adjectives and we use more with long adjectives.

In the 1940s, the first computers were bigger than cars.
These new chairs are more comfortable than the old ones.

When we compare more than two things or two groups of things, we use the + the superlative form of adjectives. We usually add -est to short adjectives and we use most with long adjectives.

Simon is the tallest boy in our class.
This is the most intelligent robot I have ever seen.

A1 David needs to buy a suitcase. He is talking to a salesman in a shop. Complete the conversation with the comparative form of the adjectives in the box.

heavy light cheap expensive big small

Salesman Can I help you, sir?

David Yes, I need a suitcase. I have some questions about these two. The red one costs ¥2,500. Why is it ⁽¹⁾ _____ than the black one?

Salesman Because it's made of leather, sir. The black one is made of plastic. That's why the black one is ⁽²⁾ _____ than the red one.

David I see.

Salesman But if you are going on an aeroplane, you must think about the weight. The red suitcase is ⁽³⁾ _____ than the black one. Try them, sir.

David Oh, you're right. The black one is much ⁽⁴⁾ _____ than the red one.

Salesman And look at the size too, sir. The black one is ⁽⁵⁾ _____ than the red one.

David Yes, that's true. The red one is ⁽⁶⁾ _____ than the black one. Right, I'll have the black one then.

Salesman Thank you very much, sir.

Grammar

A Comparison of adjectives

- 1 Draw some dissimilar pairs of lines, shapes or simple objects on the board and ask the class to tell you the differences. They should be able to make short sentences comparing the things you have drawn, e.g., Line A is longer than Line B. Line C is the longest of the three.
- 2 Read the introduction to the class. Ask the students to give you examples of things which are cheaper, higher, more useful or more expensive. Then ask the students which things are the cheapest, highest, most useful and most expensive.
- 3 Point out that, usually, one-syllable adjectives take the -er, -est ending. Two-syllable ones can use either the -er, -est ending or the more, most construction, but longer adjectives always use more or most. Many two-syllable adjectives usually take the -er, -est form, particularly those that end in -y.

lucky	funny	easy	pretty
luckier	funnier	easier	prettier
luckiest	funniest	easiest	prettiest
quiet	clever	narrow	simple quieter	cleverer	narrower	simpler
quietest	cleverest	narrowest	simplest

Note:

These same adjectives will often take the more construction when preceded by far (e.g., far more simple, far more pretty).

- 4 Ask the students to do Exercise A1 on their own.

Answers:

- A1
- 1 more expensive
 - 2 cheaper
 - 3 heavier
 - 4 lighter
 - 5 bigger
 - 6 smaller

- 5 Tell the students to do Exercises A2 and A3.

Answers:

- A2 2 a
3 a
4 b
A3 2 lightest model ... 200 g
3 most popular model ... 2,800

Additional activity:

- 1 Tell the students to work in pairs and discuss and compare each other.
- 2 They must then give a short oral report to the rest of the class. Their partner's report must state the same information, but using different adjectives.

Possible answer:

Wei Ming is taller than I am.
He is younger than I am.
His skin is darker than mine.
His school bag is newer than mine.

B Comparison of adverbs

- 1 Most adverbs form comparatives and superlatives by the addition of (the) more or most.
- 2 Before more you can add the modifiers a bit, a little, much, a lot, far or rather.
- 3 A few adverbs, usually those of only one syllable, have comparative and superlative forms which use -er and -est:
early (earlier, earliest) fast (faster, fastest) hard (harder, hardest) late (later, latest) long (longer, longest) near (nearer, nearest) quick (quicker, quickest)
soon (sooner, soonest)

- 4 These are some of the most common irregular forms:

much	more	most little	less	least
well	better	best
badly	worse	worst
far	farther/further	farthest/furthest

- 5 Remind the students that slow, quick and loud (which take -er and -est endings) are often used as adverbs in informal English.
- 6 Ask the class the following questions.

Who can swim the fastest in this class?
Who can shout the loudest?
Who can sing the most sweetly?
Who can draw the most beautifully?
Who behaves the most politely?

Ask the students to answer you using the same structure as the example offered below. Then write their answers on the board.

John can swim the fastest.

- 7 Go on to ask a question such as Can anyone in Grade 9 swim faster than John? for each of the five superlative statements you have collected. Ask the students to give you answers using the same structure (e.g., Yes, Peter in Class 3 can swim faster.).
- 8 Point out to the students that we can use adverbs with more and most, and that there are some irregular forms to be learnt. Read through the introduction and examples on page 59 with the class.

A2 Mary is shopping for earphones. Write the letters of the earphones that the salesman is talking about. The first one has been done for you.

made in May 2017
200 g
over 2,780 sold

b

¥750 made in October 2018
215 g
over 2,800 sold

c

¥1,200
made in January 2018
239 g
over 2,650 sold

Mary I'd like to see some of your earphones.

Salesman Certainly. (1) This is the cheapest model.

(2) This is the oldest model.

(3) This is the lightest model.

(4) And this is the most popular model.

a

A3 Later Mary told Tony about her shopping trip. Complete Mary's sentences using the superlative form of the adjectives in the box. The first one has been done for you.

Tony Did they show you any interesting earphones?

Mary Yes. (1) The dearest model costs ¥1,200.

(2) The _____ weighs _____.

(3) The _____ has sold over _____.

dear light

B Comparison of adverbs

We can compare many adverbs by using more or most. However, we compare a few adverbs by adding -er and -est.

Philip sings more beautifully than you (do).

Eric completed the science test (the) most quickly in our class.

Tom can jump higher than David.

Plants live the longest of all things on the Earth.

Tips

The comparatives and superlatives of some adjectives and adverbs are irregular,

e.g., Base form	Comparative	Superlative good/well	better	best
bad/badly	worse	worst
far	farther/further	farthest/furthest

B1 Denise has been unwell. Now she is feeling better. Simon is asking her how she is. Work in pairs to make dialogues. Follow the example.

Example: Simon Can you study better now?
Denise Yes, I can study better than before.

- 1 think/quickly? 3 remember things/easily?
- 2 study/long? 4 finish your work/early?

B2 Denise entered a speech competition with two other students, Mary and Ann. Work in pairs. S1 asks S2 for information. S2 uses the score sheet and the words below to answer S1. The first one has been done for you.

Score Sheet (1 = Fair 2 = Good 3 = Very good)
	Denise	Mary	Ann
Accuracy of speech	2	1	3
Clearness of speech	3	1	2
Sensible arrangement of ideas	3	2	1
Confidence of the speaker	1	2	3
Ability to answer questions	3	1	2
Cleverness of arguments	2	3	1
Total	14	10	12

- 1 S1 Let me fill out the score sheet. What about accuracy of speech?
S2 Denise spoke more accurately than Mary, but Ann spoke (the) most accurately.
(accurately)
- 2 S1 What about clearness of speech?
S2 Ann spoke _____ Mary, but Denise _____.
(clearly)
- 3 S1 What about sensible arrangement of ideas?
S2 Mary arranged her ideas _____ Ann, but Denise
_____. (sensibly)
- 4 S1 What about confidence of the speaker?
S2 Mary spoke _____ Denise, but Ann _____.
(confidently)
- 5 S1 What about ability to answer questions?
S2 Ann answered questions _____ Mary, but Denise
_____. (well)
- 6 S1 What about cleverness of arguments?
S2 Denise argued _____ Ann, but Mary _____.
(wisely)

- 9 Read the example in Exercise B1 to the students, and then tell them to complete the exercise in pairs. Call on various pairs to give their answers.

Answers:

- B1
- 1 Simon: Can you think more quickly now?
Denise: Yes, I can think more quickly than before.
 - 2 Simon: Can you study longer now?
Denise: Yes, I can study longer than before.
 - 3 Simon: Can you remember things more easily now?
Denise: Yes, I can remember things more easily than before.
 - 4 Simon: Can you finish your work earlier now?
Denise: Yes, I can finish my work earlier than before.

- 10 Read the first dialogue in Exercise B2 to the class and tell them to model their answers on it closely.

Answers:

- B2
- 2 S1 What about clearness of speech?
S2 Ann spoke more clearly than Mary, but Denise spoke (the) most clearly.
 - 3 S1 What about sensible arrangement of ideas?
S2 Mary arranged her ideas more sensibly than Ann, but Denise arranged her ideas (the) most sensibly.
 - 4 S1 What about confidence of the speaker?
S2 Mary spoke more confidently than Denise, but Ann spoke (the) most confidently.
 - 5 S1 What about ability to answer questions?
S2 Ann answered questions better than Mary, but Denise answered questions (the) best.
 - 6 S1 What about cleverness of arguments?
S2 Denise argued more wisely than Ann, but Mary argued (the) most wisely.

Notes:

- 1 When we compare things, we can use that and those when we do not want to repeat the same noun, e.g., The weather in Shanghai is cooler than that in Guangzhou.
The vegetables in the market are fresher than those in the supermarket.
- 2 We can use and to join two comparatives when we talk about continuous changes over a period of time, e.g., Since then, computers have become smaller and smaller.

Listening

An order form

- 1 This exercise gives the students practice in two skills: selecting the relevant information from a dialogue, and filling in a form correctly.
- 2 As usual, explain the situation clearly. The students must act the role of the man, and write down the information. Explain any difficult word. Play the recording once or twice. Watch the students as they work, and see which items cause them difficulty. Explain these points in more detail later.

Tapescript:

Man: Top Office Supplies. Can I help you?
 Mabel: I'd like to place an order, please.
 Man: Right. May I have your company's name, please?
 Mabel: Yes, it's the Hi-Lo Company.
 Man: And may I have your name?
 Mabel: Yes, I'm Mabel Wang.
 Man: Mabel Wang. And, do you have your customer number?
 Mabel: Yes. KY-73620.
 Man: KY-73620. Thank you. Now, what would you like to order?
 Mabel: I'll give you the order reference numbers, shall I? First, it's J-1505. That's a box of ballpoint pens.
 Man: What colour?
 Mabel: Black. We would like three boxes, please.
 Man: Three boxes. They're 38 yuan per box, so that's a total of 114 yuan.
 Mabel: Right. Next, some paper. The reference number is P-1961.
 Man: P-1961. That's A4 paper. What colour? White?
 Mabel: Yes, white. We'd like ten boxes, please.
 Man: Ten boxes, at 30 yuan each, that's 300 yuan. Right. Anything else?
 Mabel: Yes, some blank DVDs. Reference number D-2791.
 Man: D-2791. Blank DVDs. That's a box of ten.
 Mabel: Yes, we'd like five boxes, please. That's 20 yuan each, I think.
 Man: Yes, 20 yuan for each box, five boxes, so the total is 100 yuan.
 Mabel: Right. And just one more thing, I want a good office chair. The number's C-4083. That's a high-back chair.
 Man: A high-back chair. One. Do you want black or white?
 Mabel: Black, please.
 Man: Black. Right. And the price for that is 1,800 yuan.
 Mabel: Yes. That's all.
 Man: OK. That's 2,314 yuan in all. Thank you very much. We'll deliver those tomorrow morning.
 Mabel: Thank you. Goodbye.
 Man: Goodbye.

A Talk time

Giving opinions, agreeing and disagreeing

A1 Tony and Jenny are talking about food. Read the conversation. Then practise it with a partner.

Tony I think Shanghainese food is better than Sichuan food.

Jenny I don't agree. In my opinion, Sichuan food is better.

Tony But Sichuan food is hotter.

Jenny I agree. That's why I like it.

A2 Answer these questions about the conversation in A1 in complete sentences.

- 1 What is Tony's opinion about Shanghainese food?
- 2 What does Jenny think of Sichuan food?
- 3 Does Jenny agree that Shanghainese food tastes better than Sichuan food?
- 4 Does Jenny agree that Sichuan food is hotter than Shanghainese food?

A3 Work in pairs to make similar conversations about the following items. Use the words in brackets to help you.

- 1 Desktop computers vs Laptops (work well/small and light)
- 2 Travelling by train vs Travelling by plane (comfortable/fast)

Speaking

A Talk time

Giving opinions, agreeing and disagreeing

- 1 This section continues to practise the comparative and superlative forms and helps the students take part in conversations expressing opinions.
- 2 Linguists often use the concept of maintaining face to explain many language structures. If someone disagrees with you but does not wish to offend you, they must use softer language forms. When we say something that pleases someone, such as agreeing with them, we can be much more straightforward.
- 3 Read the examples in the Student's Book, and then point out the following additional expressions of agreement.

Yes, indeed.

Yes, (that's) exactly what I think.

I agree totally/100%/completely.

That's just what I was going to say.

I think so too.

Yes, that's right.

How true!

- 4 Expressing disagreement is sometimes more of a problem. Here the students are taught a very bare form, suitable to their level. Certainly, a direct form such as I don't agree should be spoken with some hesitation in the voice.
- 5 Adverbs are often used to weaken the force of the disagreement (e.g., I don't really agree; I don't altogether agree.). Point out these other forms of disagreement.
 I'm not so sure about that.
 Do you really think so?
 I'm a bit surprised you say that.
 Well, that's a matter of opinion.
 I wouldn't say that.
- 6 Do Exercise A1. Read the conversation to the class and tell them to practise it. Then ask one or two pairs of students to perform it for the class.

7 Do Exercises A2 and A3.

Answers:

- A2
- 1 Tony thinks (that) Shanghainese food is better than Sichuan food.
 - 2 Jenny thinks (that) Sichuan food is better (than Shanghainese food).
 - 3 No. She thinks Sichuan food tastes better (than Shanghainese food).
 - 4 Yes, she does.

Possible answers:

- A3
- 1 S1 I think desktop computers work better than laptops.
 S2 I don't agree. In my opinion, laptops work better.
 S1 But laptops are smaller and lighter.
 S2 I agree. That's why I like them.
 - 2 S1 I think travelling by train is more comfortable than travelling by plane.
 S2 I don't agree. In my opinion, travelling by plane is more comfortable.
 S1 But travelling by plane is faster.
 S2 I agree. That's why I like it.

A computer survey

- 1 This activity requires the students to prepare and carry out a simple survey in English. It also makes the task more interesting for the students. It is not essential for all of them to have the same survey questions.
- 2 Let the students work in pairs or in groups of three to produce eight questions on this topic. If possible, check their questions (mainly to make sure they make sense) before the next stage. Sample questions are given below but the students are free to produce any relevant questions.

Sample questions:

- B1
- 1 Is there a computer in your home?
 - 2 Whose is it?/Who is the owner?
 - 3 Do you know how to use it?
 - 4 Do you enjoy using a computer?
 - 5 What are your three favourite computer games?
 - 6 Do you ever do your homework on a computer?
 - 7 Do you use a computer to write e-mails?
 - 8 (Students' own answers, e.g., Would you like to have more computer programs in your computer? What would they be?)

- 3 When each student has produced a set of eight written questions, let the students move freely around the class interviewing six or more people. Tell them not to allow the other person to read the list of questions: the communication must be done orally. The students must also make notes of the answers.

- 4 Let the students report back to the class using the pattern in Exercise B2. They can also do this by simply reading out their questions and summarizing some of the results. For example:

Question 6. Do you ever do your homework on a computer?

Two people said 'Yes', and four people said 'No'.

- 5 If you wish, you could ask the students (for homework) to write out their questions, giving the answers in note form.
- 6 Another possibility for additional work would be to try to put all of the results together, and find out how many people in the whole class own a computer, etc.

B Speak up

A computer survey

Carry out a survey about the use of computers at home. You want to find out whether your classmates use computers at home and what they use them for.

B1 Work in pairs or threes, and write eight survey questions. Use the notes and question patterns below to help you. For number 8, make up your own question. Each person in the group must have a copy of the questions.

Notes

- 1 computer in your home?
- 2 owner?
- 3 you use it?
- 4 you enjoy?
- 5 three favourite games?
- 6 homework on computer?
- 7 write e-mails?
- 8 (?)

Useful question patterns

- | | |
|----------------------|------------------------|
| Is there ...? | What are ...? |
| Whose ...? | Do you ever ...? |
| Do you know how ...? | Do you use ... to ...? |
| Do you enjoy ...? | Would you like ...? |

B2 Now work on your own. Go around the class and interview six other students. Make notes of their answers. Then report your findings to the class, using the pattern below to help you.

My classmate _____ (name) has a computer at home.
It is his/her father's/mother's computer. He/She knows how to use it. ...

My classmate _____ (name) does not have a computer at home. ...

Dear Gran

Yesterday Mum and Dad gave us two radio-controlled cars for our birthday. They are great!

Nigel's car is a 'Lightning'. It is ⁽¹⁾ _____ than mine, which is rather slow. My car is a 'Hi-Climb', and it is ⁽²⁾ _____ at climbing over things than the 'Lightning'. The 'Lightning' is ⁽³⁾ _____ and ⁽⁴⁾ _____ than the 'Hi-Climb'. The 'Hi-Climb' weighs 210 grams and so it is ⁽⁵⁾ _____ than the 'Lightning' and this means that the battery use is heavier ⁽⁶⁾ _____ the 'Lightning' too. The 'Lightning' is ⁽⁷⁾ _____, with a weight of just 150 grams. This means that it can go ⁽⁸⁾ _____ on one set of batteries. Sometimes we put toy people in the cars. The 'Hi-Climb' can hold ⁽⁹⁾ _____ passengers, as it has 4 seats. The 'Lightning' is good on a flat surface, but it is ⁽¹⁰⁾ _____ than the 'Hi-Climb' on rough ground, because it cannot climb over things.

B Dear Jane

Thanks for your letter. Mary and I have just bought a new flat near the sea! We looked at one in Peak Garden and one in Seaside Court. In the end, we chose Peak Garden.

The flat in Peak Garden is bigger than the one in Seaside Court, but it has fewer rooms. It is also more modern, and its price is higher. It is nearer to the park, but it is farther away from the market. Finally, the view from Peak Garden is better than that from Seaside Court. I will send you some photos of our new flat in my next letter.

Best wishes

Peter

Note:

We use the comparative adjectives higher and lower when we are referring to price.

Additional activity:

Ask the students to write a few sentences comparing:

- their primary school and their secondary school;
- Shanghai and Hangzhou;
- the underground and buses.

- Invite individual students to read their writing to the class.

Exercise B

- Ask the students to read the notes and put them in the correct order.
- Let the students work in pairs to talk about the robot Millie.
- Give the students time to write a passage about Millie.

B Peter is going to retire next month. He wants to live near the sea with his wife Mary for the rest of their lives. So they have just bought a new flat on the west coast of Australia. Peter is now writing a letter to his sister Jane about it. Use the information in the table and the adjectives in the box to finish his letter.

The history of the Internet

A research team in the United States first developed the concept of linking computers together in the 1960s. They wanted to have a system that would enable universities, research departments and the army to share resources^① with 5 each other. Computers at this time were as large as refrigerators and could not be transported easily. Another problem was that they were often complicated and not compatible^② with each other. The research team had to overcome these difficulties to create a network that could 10 share computing power.

Gradually, more and more scholars^③ came online. Years later, businessmen began using the Internet too. The number of users is increasing all the time and it is becoming more widely available across the world. In fact, it is possible to use the Internet somewhere in every continent in the world. At the same time, the computers are becoming smaller 15 and smaller, and more convenient to carry around.

There is a wide range of services available on the Internet. This means that there are many different ways to communicate. One of the most popular ways is electronic mail—more commonly called ‘e-mail’. Another popular way is browsing^④ on the World Wide Web (WWW). The WWW is a very big series of connected pages containing various forms 20 of multimedia. It is quite popular to use online messenger services to send instant messages to people all over the world.

- 1 Other kinds of computers are so tiny that you may be unaware of them. 其他类型的电脑太小了，因此你可能没有意识到它们的存在。 注意：英语中有些形容词加上前缀 un- 可以构成反义词，如此句中的 unaware。又如：unhappy（不高兴的），unlucky（不幸的），unfair（不公平的）等。
- 2 It is common knowledge that computers are super calculators. 众所周知，电脑是超级计算器。
It is common knowledge that ... 也可以用 As we all know, ... 来表示。
- 3 However, one day computers may be able to do most things that a human brain can do and even do them better. 然而，将来某一天，电脑也许可以做人脑所能做的大部分事情，甚至做得更好。
句中的 that a human brain can do 是一个定语从句，用来修饰 things。
- 4 You can use a program which helps the computer recognize your voice. 你可以使用一套程序，用以帮助电脑识别你的声音。
句中的 program 是名词，意为“程序；编码；指令”。8A Unit 4曾学过 Someone had to first program the computer with instructions；其中的 program 作动词，意为“编程”。
句中的 which helps the computer recognize your voice 是一个定语从句，用来修饰 a program。
- 5 Some computers have CD-ROM or DVD-ROM drives. 有些电脑有光驱。
句中的 drive 是名词，意为“驱动器”。另外 drive也可作动词，意为“驾驶”，如：He drives a taxi. 他开出租车。
- 6 For example, you can use your computer to read about a famous person from history and you can see a photograph or video of him or her, and even listen to them speaking. 譬如，你可以用电脑来查阅某个历史名人的相关资料，你还可以看他（她）的照片或录像，甚至聆听他（她）的演讲。
句中的 read about 意为“读到；查阅到”，如：Our English teacher likes reading about American history. 我们的英语老师喜欢阅读美国历史方面的东西。

Additional teaching suggestions

- 1 Other kinds of computers are so tiny that you may be unaware of them. 句中的 so ... that 引导结果状语从句，教师在教学中可作适当讲解。
- 2 It is common knowledge that computers are super calculators. 本句中含有一个由 that 引导的主语从句，教师在教学中不必作语法讲解，只要求学生理解句意即可。
- 3 They are small enough to put in your pocket like a bar of chocolate. 句中的 enough 作副词，此外 enough 也可作形容词，这是学生学习中的一个难点，教师在教学中可采取举例或比较等方法进行说明，如：用 enough food/time/books, good/well/bright enough 等来帮助学生区分其词性及用法。

Unit 5 The human brain

Unit topic: overview

This unit is about memory. The Reading passage is a feature from a school newspaper containing five short articles about different aspects of memory.

The Grammar section introduces adverbial clauses using if and unless.

The Listening section contains some exercises which are designed to test the students' memory power.

The Speaking section includes a conversation in which one person has to apologize to another person for forgetting something. It also has an exercise about if sentences.

The Writing section requires the students to write an article about a special memory, i.e., an interesting incident in their past.

The cartoon

The joke consists of the fact that Lo has been on a memory-improvement course, but he has forgotten how much the course cost. Thus, the course could not have been very effective.

Pre-unit activities

- 1 Take a large number of items, at least ten, into the classroom in a box, and then lay them out clearly in a row on your desk. Any assortment of small objects from the staff room will be suitable.
- 2 Ask the students to try to memorize (in order) what is on the table, and then after about three minutes, return all the items to the box. Ask the students to write out a list of as many of the items as they can remember. After you have checked their lists against the actual contents of the box, you can tell the class that this unit will help them make their memories even better.
- 3 Tell the class that research into human memory has come up with all sorts of fascinating findings. For instance, recall is much better if it takes place in the same place and under the same conditions as the learning first took place in. In one experiment, divers were given some information while they were underwater. Their memory for the information was much better when it was tested again later underwater than it was on land. This is one reason why the police re-stage crimes to try to trigger people's memories. Another finding is that things we learn in the afternoon are normally better remembered than those we learn at other times of day.

MEMORY

Joyce wanted to have a feature about memory in the school newspaper. She and her editors all agreed to write short articles on this topic.

ARTHUR

I read in a book that we have a short-term memory and a long-term memory. When people get old, their short-term memory becomes weaker, but they can still remember things that happened a long time ago.

My grandad told me a joke about memory. He said, 'When you get old, three things start to go wrong. First, you start to lose your memory. And I can't remember what the other two things are!'

JOYCE

Memory is essential for life. I saw a programme on television about a man who had had an accident and injured his brain. Afterwards, he could not remember anything for longer than a few minutes.

His wife visited him in hospital every day, but he forgot her visits a few minutes after she left. He was often angry with her because he thought that she never visited him. It was very sad.

Reading

A What do you know about ...?

This is another way of attracting the students' attention to the topic of this unit. You may use other sets of words if you wish.

You'd better memorize these formulas before the exam.

method (n.) way of doing something

The best method of keeping slim is to exercise regularly.

Additional activity:

If you wish, you can also mention these two methods of improving your memory.

1 The peg method

In this method you connect the numbers from one to ten with similar sounding words (rhymes), such as these:

one	Sun, bun, gun
two	shoe, glue, barbecue, queue
three	tree, bee, see, ski, tea
four	door, store, war, shore
five	dive, drive
six	sticks, chicks, bricks, ticks
seven	heaven
eight	gate, plate, weight, skate
nine	wine, line, sign
ten	hen, pen, men

Then you connect the numbers and rhymes with mind-pictures of things which you want to remember. For example, if you want to remember ten items in order, you can use the rhyming words to help you. Thus if number six on your list is 'aeroplanes', you can make a picture in your mind (or draw it on paper) of little yellow chicks in an aeroplane. This will help you remember that item six (=chicks) is 'aeroplanes'.

2 The initial letter method

Another method of remembering things is to make up a sentence in which the initial letter of each word helps you remember a list. Most British children remember the order of the colours in a rainbow by remembering Richard Of York Gave Battle In Vain (referring to Richard III who died at the battle of Bosworth, 1485). The initial letters in this sentence help you remember the colours red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo, violet. The students can try this method themselves, if they need to learn facts in a certain order.

PANSY

One basic way of improving your memory is to 35 use the link method. If you want to memorize something, you should make a picture in your mind. If the picture is silly, strange and colourful, you will remember it better. For example, I am trying to remember the word 40 'smiles'. An easy way to do this is to imagine there is a 'mile' between the first letter and the last letter. This makes it the longest word in the world!

TONY

45 In the Guinness Book of Records, we can find some amazing stories about memory. For example, Gou Yanling from Harbin in China has memorized more than 15,000 telephone numbers. And Dave Farrow from America
50 remembered the correct order of 2,704 playing cards, after seeing them just once.

MILLIE

Memory is connected with our feelings. For example, if someone 55 says 'This is a spider', and then puts a large spider on your hand, you will probably remember the word 'spider'! When something dramatic happens, we usually remember it well, and we also remember where we were and what we were doing. For example, most people in China can remember where they were when 65 the opening ceremony of the 29th
Olympic Games was held in Beijing in 2008.

C Vocabulary

C1 Find the words and phrases in the box in the five articles, work out their meanings and use them to complete the sentences and dialogues below.

lose your memory	essential	imagine
go wrong	link	method

- 1 Food, water and sunlight are _____ for all green plants.
- 2 The machine was working well at the beginning, but it started to _____ half an hour later.
- 3 Ann I wonder what it's like to be an astronaut.
Don I don't know, but I _____ it's exciting.
- 4 Pierre The Channel Tunnel is the _____ between France and Britain.
Pansy Yes. And we've built several tunnels to connect Puxi and Pudong in Shanghai too.
- 5 Ron I had an accident this morning. I fell down some stairs and landed on my head.
Joe Oh, I hope you don't _____! How did the accident happen?
Ron What accident?
- 6 Cindy My brother is trying to lose some weight. He's using the 'see-food' _____, but it doesn't work very well.
Bessy You mean, seafood, like fish and crabs?
Cindy No, see-food. If he sees food, he eats it!

C2 Complete the sentences with the words in the box. They must mean the same as the words in brackets.

injured	improve	dramatic	memory
---------	---------	----------	--------

- 1 Shakuntala is a lady with an amazing brain. She has a good _____ for numbers. (ability to remember things)
- 2 Last night's game between England and France had a _____ ending. France scored a goal in the last minute of the game to win the match. (very exciting)
- 3 The teacher said to him, 'Your marks are not good. If you want to _____ your grades, you must work much harder!' (make something better)
- 4 One person was killed and two others were _____ in a car accident near East Road yesterday. (hurt)

C Vocabulary

Tell the students to look carefully at each word or phrase in Exercises C1 and C2. Then ask them to complete the sentences.

Answers:

- C1 1 essential
2 go wrong
3 imagine
4 link
5 lose your memory
6 method

- C2 1 memory
2 dramatic
3 improve
4 injured

D Comprehension

- 1 Exercise D1 provides a review of some of the main points of the passage, to make sure the students have understood it. The exercise also practises scanning skills. The students can find all the answers they need in the text itself.

Answers:

D1 1	joke	8	silly
2	old	9	strange
3	never	10	colourful
4	forgot	11	Tony
5	link	12	dramatic
6	picture	13	where
7	mind	14	what

- 2 Exercise D2 gives the students a chance to practise one of the memory techniques which are mentioned in the passage and in the teacher's notes. The students could use the link method here in two possible ways: they could make mental pictures linking the English word and the Chinese word or they could make up mental pictures linking the words in the list in pairs. For example, they could imagine an 'enemy bulb'—a light bulb with a frightening face and a gun; or they could link 'passport' and 'astronaut' by imagining an astronaut going through the passport control queue at the airport, showing his/her passport. Ask the students to try the exercise, and have them tell the class some of the techniques they used to try to remember the words in the list.

- a Give the students time to read the passage silently.
- b Ask the students to read the questions and find information in the passage to answer the questions.
- c Check the answers with the students.

D Comprehension

D1 Two students, Keith and Penny, are talking about the feature about memory. Complete their dialogue by putting one word in each blank.

- Keith Why couldn't Arthur's grandad remember the other two things?
- Penny Oh, that was just part of his ⁽¹⁾ _____. It shows that people forget things as they get ⁽²⁾ _____. But he was just joking.
- Keith In Joyce's article, why was that man angry with his wife?
- Penny Well, he thought she ⁽³⁾ _____ visited him in hospital. She did visit him every day, but he ⁽⁴⁾ _____ about it after a few minutes.
- Keith Can you explain what Pansy says? What does she mean by the '⁽⁵⁾ _____ method'?
- Penny She means that you must make a ⁽⁶⁾ _____ in your ⁽⁷⁾ _____. It must link two things together in an unusual way. So if you are learning a new English word, you could try to think of a funny picture to help you remember that word.
- Keith What kind of picture is best?
- Penny It's best if the picture is ⁽⁸⁾ _____, ⁽⁹⁾ _____ and ⁽¹⁰⁾ _____.
- Keith Whose article contains some stories about people who have memorized thousands of things?
- Penny Oh, that's in the article by ⁽¹¹⁾ _____.
- Keith What does the example about the opening ceremony of the Beijing 2008 Olympic Games show us?
- Penny It shows that when a ⁽¹²⁾ _____ thing happens, people remember it well, and they also remember ⁽¹³⁾ _____ they were and ⁽¹⁴⁾ _____ they were doing at that time.

D2 Use the link method to make pictures in your mind connecting the words below. Then close your books and write down, in order, as many words as you can remember. Compare your score with the one in A on page 72. Have you improved your memory?

Adverbial clauses (II)

We use if sentences to talk about possible actions and the results of those actions.

An if sentence has two parts called clauses. Each clause contains a verb.

A if sentences: actions with definite results

In these if sentences, both verbs are in the same simple present tense.

If you cool water, it turns into ice.

Tips

In if sentences, the if clause can come first or second. When the if clause comes first, there is always a comma after it, e.g., If you cool water, it turns into ice.

Water turns into ice if you cool it.

A1 Read these if sentences and match the possible actions with the results.

possible actions

- 1 If you take a fish out of water,
- 2 If you boil water,
- 3 If you heat metal,
- 4 If you put wood into water,
- 5 If you plant seeds in soil,
- 6 If you drop a glass,
- 7 If you do not give plants water,

results

- a it melts.
- b it dies.
- c they grow.
- d they die.
- e it breaks.
- f it becomes steam.
- g it floats.

A2 Work in pairs. Read the dialogue below and make similar dialogues about the other sentences in A1.

S1 What happens if you take a fish out of water?

S2 It dies.

S1 Are you sure?

S2 Of course I'm sure. If you take a fish out of water, it dies.

Grammar

Adverbial clauses (II)

This section introduces the students to one of the adverbial clauses—conditional clauses. The simple conditional clauses covered should cause little difficulty to the learners, and you should be able to proceed through this section fairly quickly.

A If sentences: actions with definite results

- 1 Ask the students to do Exercise A1.

Answers:

A1 1 b 3 a 5 c 7 d
2 f 4 g 6 e

- 2 Ask the students to do Exercise A2 in pairs.

Answers:

A2 2 S1 What happens if you boil water?
S2 It becomes steam.
S1 Are you sure?
S2 Of course I'm sure. If you boil water, it becomes steam.

3 S1 What happens if you heat metal?
S2 It melts.
S1 Are you sure?
S2 Of course I'm sure. If you heat metal, it melts.

4 S1 What happens if you put wood into water?
S2 It floats.
S1 Are you sure?
S2 Of course I'm sure. If you put wood into water, it floats.

5 S1 What happens if you plant seeds in soil?
S2 They grow.
S1 Are you sure?
S2 Of course I'm sure. If you plant seeds in soil, they grow.

6 S1 What happens if you drop a glass?
S2 It breaks.
S1 Are you sure?
S2 Of course I'm sure. If you drop a glass, it breaks.

7 S1 What happens if you do not give plants water?
S2 They die.
S1 Are you sure?
S2 Of course I'm sure. If you do not give plants water, they die.

- 3 A pair of conditional clauses are spoken with a rising and falling intonation pattern, rising to a peak on the last word of the if clause.
- If you take a fish out of water, it dies.
- 4 Read the instructions to Exercise A3 aloud to the class, and then ask the students to write their answers on their own.

Answers:

- A3 1 A balloon bursts if you stick a pin into it.
 2 Metal melts if you heat it.
 3 Wood floats if you put it into water.
 4 A glass breaks if you drop it.

B if sentences: actions with possible results

- 1 All of the if sentences in Section A concern things that follow the laws of nature. The if sentences in Section B offer suggestions that are usually reliable, but contain some element of uncertainty.
- 2 Read the text with the students, and then proceed to Exercise B1. Explain to them that items 1–5 contain statements by William. The students must find a sentence in the two boxes which will give William some relevant advice. (The advice is being given by William's mother.)

Answers:

- B1 1 If you check your timetable every night, you will know which books to take.
 2 If you telephone your friends, they will tell you what homework to do.
 3 If you go to bed earlier, you won't feel tired in the mornings.
 4 If you look it up in the dictionary, you'll find out its meaning.
 5 If you think about each picture for 10 to 20 seconds, it will stay in your mind better.

Additional activity:

We often use the probable conditional when we are stating plans. Ask the students to imagine they are planning an outing, and then to complete these if clauses in different ways. Possible answers are given in brackets.

- 1 If we go to the beach, ... (we'll need to take sun cream/we'll be able to go swimming).
 2 If we go to Chongming Island, ... (we'll take the ferry or the bus).
 3 If we have a barbecue, ... (we'll need fuel).
 4 If it rains, ... (we won't go/we'll take umbrellas).
 5 If it's cool, ... (we'll take coats/we'll play volleyball).
 6 If it's hot, ... (we'll sunbathe/we'll go for a swim/we'll buy ice cream).

A3 Complete these sentences with the words in brackets.

- 1 A balloon _____ it. (a pin/if/stick/you/bursts/into)
- 2 Metal _____ it. (you/heat/melts/if)
- 3 Wood _____ water. (you/into/put/if/floats/it)
- 4 A glass _____ it. (drop/you/breaks/if)

B if sentences: actions with possible results

In these if sentences, the verb tenses are different. The verb in the if clause is in the simple present tense while the verb in the other clause is in the simple future tense.

If you use the link method, you will improve your memory.

What will you do if you fail the driving test?
If you pass the driving test, what will you do?
If I fail the test, I'll take it again soon.
I won't buy a car if I fail the test.

You will remember things better if the pictures in your mind are silly, strange and colourful.

B1 William's mum is giving him advice about his problems. Choose the correct half-sentences from the boxes to complete her advice for him.

William's problems:

- 1 I sometimes take the wrong books to school.
- 2 I was away from school today. I don't know what to do for homework.
- 3 I hate getting up! I always feel tired in the mornings.
- 4 I don't know what this word means.
- 5 The link method doesn't help me much. I forget the pictures in my mind.

Mum's advice:

If you go to bed earlier,
If you telephone your friends,
If you check your timetable every night,
If you look it up in the dictionary,
If you think about each picture for 10 to 20 seconds,

you won't feel tired in the mornings.
it will stay in your mind better.
they will tell you what homework to do.
you'll find out its meaning.
you will know which books to take.

B2 Carol is giving advice to Henry. What is she saying? Use the pictures and the words in brackets to help you.

- 1 If you make the wheel round, it will turn more easily. (make/turn)
- 2 The seeds will grow if you plant them in the soil. (grow/plant)
- 3 _____ another wing, it _____. (put on/fly)
- 4 _____ your jumper, you _____ so cold. (put on/not feel)
- 5 The meat _____ in the fridge. (not go bad/put)
- 6 You _____ your glasses. (see better/wear)

- 3 Read the instructions to Exercise B2 and look at the examples with the class. Then ask the students to complete the exercise. Give them a few minutes and then orally check their answers by randomly selecting students from the class.

Answers:

- B2 3 If the plane is put on another wing, it will fly.
 4 If you put on your jumper, you will not feel so cold.
 5 The meat will not go bad if you put it in the fridge.
 6 You will see better if you wear your glasses.

Notes:

- 1 It may seem to the students that, in many of these sentences, the results are absolutely certain, and that, according to the rule, two present tenses should be used. Part of the uncertainty lies in the if clause itself.
- In type A conditionals, actions having results that will certainly happen, the you in the if clause refers to anyone (e.g., If you (anyone) heat water, the water boils.).
- In type B conditionals, actions having results that will probably happen, the you refers to an individual, who may or may not follow the advice.
- 2 The students must also consider the question of politeness. One of the main ways in which politeness is achieved is by using markers of hesitation and uncertainty. I wonder if you could possibly help me? is much more polite than Can you help me? You can say If you make the wheel round, it turns more easily, but it may sound slightly rude, offensive or sarcastic.

C Using if ... not and unless

- 1 Read the text with the class and explain the meaning of if ... not and unless.
- 2 In Exercise C1, the students must insert if ... not. They must read the sentences carefully, and think about where to insert if ... not. Remind the students that they need to add an auxiliary verb to each sentence and that not is usually inserted after the auxiliary verb.

Answers:

- C1
- 2 You will get toothache if you do not clean your teeth regularly.
 - 3 This room will get very hot if you do not put the air conditioning on soon.
 - 4 If you do not understand this exercise, please put up your hand.
 - 5 If you do not close that window, lots of mosquitoes will get in.
 - 6 If the waiter does not come soon, I shall leave this restaurant.

- 3 Exercise C2 involves using both expressions. The students can use both the grammar and the meaning of the words to help them link the halves of the sentences.

Answers:

- C2
- 1 d
 - 2 c
 - 3 e
 - 4 f
 - 5 b
 - 6 a

C Using if ... not and unless

The word unless means if ... not. For example, these sentences have the same meaning:

Unless you keep ice cream in a freezer, it melts.

If you do not keep ice cream in a freezer, it melts.

We can put clauses with unless or if ... not first or second.

You will be late for school

unless you leave now.

if you don't leave now.

Unless you leave now,

If you don't leave now,

you will be late for school.

C1 Join the following sentences with if ... not.

- 1 you improve your handwriting/you will lose marks in the exam
If you do not improve your handwriting, you will lose marks in the exam.
- 2 you will get toothache/you clean your teeth regularly
- 3 this room will get very hot/you put the air conditioning on soon
- 4 you understand this exercise/please put up your hand
- 5 you close that window/lots of mosquitoes will get in
- 6 the waiter comes soon/I shall leave this restaurant

C2 Match the beginnings of the sentences in Column A with the endings in Column B.

A

- 1 We'll have a barbecue
- 2 I'll park the car at Pacific Palace
- 3 Unless you want to watch something,
- 4 I'm going to buy a blouse for my mum
- 5 Unless that noise stops soon,
- 6 Unless you practise playing the piano regularly,

B

- a you will not improve your ability.
- b I shall telephone the police.
- c unless the car park there is full.
- d if the weather is fine tomorrow.
- e I would like to switch the TV off now.
- f unless I can think of a better idea for a present.

Listening

Testing your memory

 This exercise will test your memory. Listen, but do not take notes. Write short answers to the questions. The first one has been done for you.

Making apologies and excuses

People usually make an apology for doing something wrong or causing a problem. An excuse is a reason people sometimes give for doing something bad.

A1 Arthur meets Tony outside a theatre. Arthur is late. Read their conversation and answer the questions. Then work in pairs to practise the conversation.

- Arthur Sorry I'm late, Tony, but the bus broke down, and there were no taxis.
- Tony That's all right, Arthur. I've just got here myself, so I wasn't waiting for long.
- Arthur And, Tony, I'm terribly sorry, but I've forgotten to bring the tickets with me.
- Tony How could you do that?
- Arthur It's my memory. It's so bad these days. I keep forgetting things.
- Tony Then you'd better do something about it, hadn't you?

- 1 How many times does Arthur apologize to Tony?
- 2 Which apology is stronger?
- 3 How many excuses does Arthur give?
- 4 Which excuses does Tony accept? Which excuse does Tony reject?
- 5 What suggestion does Tony make to Arthur?

Listening

Testing your memory

- 1 This section is partly for fun, to give the students a memory test. But it is also true that memory plays a part in listening comprehension, and it is useful to train the students in listening and remembering.
- 2 Explain to the students what they must do and then play the recording. You may need to stop after the first item to check that the students understand. They can write short answers for both parts.
- 3 You can devise more work yourself in the same way, or get the students to make up test items for each other.

Tapescript:

- Woman: One. A dog, a cake, a lion, a book, a cat.
 Man: Question one. How many animals were in that list?
 Woman: Two. A telephone, a fax machine, a boat, a policeman, a TV set.
 Man: Question two. What was the first item in that list?
 Woman: Three. A banana, a hamburger, an apple, a coconut, a pizza.
 Man: Question three. How many fruits were in that list?
 Woman: Four. A policeman, a postman, a teacher, a headmaster, a waitress.
 Man: Question four. How many of those words ended in 'man'?
 Woman: Five. Carbon, water, oxygen, nitrogen, pollution.
 Man: Question five. In that list, what was the word after 'water'?
 Woman: Six. A car, a ferry, a bicycle, a ship, an aeroplane.
 Man: Question six. How many of these vehicles have wheels?
 Woman: Seven. Blue, sky, bird, rainbow, building.
 Man: Question seven. How many of the words in that list began with the letter 'B'?
 Woman: Eight. Bread, rice, trousers, green, elephant, glue.
 Man: Question eight. What was the fourth word in that list?
 Woman: Nine. A bridge, a tunnel, a mountain, a river, a highway.
 Man: Question nine. How many of the things in that list are NOT made by people?
 Woman: Ten. Peter, Alice, Steven, Katie, Alan.
 Man: Question ten. What was the second name in that list?

Answers:

- | | | | |
|---|-------------|----|-------|
| 2 | a telephone | 7 | three |
| 3 | three | 8 | green |
| 4 | two | 9 | two |

Exercise A

- a Give the students time to read the statements.
- b Play the recording once. The students listen.
- c Play the recording again. The students decide whether the statements are true or false.
- d Check the answers with the students.

Exercise B

- a Give the students time to read the questions.
- b Play the recording again. The students complete the answers.
- c Check the answers with the students.

Speaking

Making apologies and excuses

- 1 Read the instructions with the class. Then select two students to read the conversation in Exercise A1 aloud. Let the students work out the answers, and then go over the answers with them.

Answers:

- A1
- 1 Twice.
 - 2 The second one (I'm terribly sorry).
 - 3 Three (i.e., the bus broke down, no taxis, his bad memory).
 - 4 Tony accepts the excuses that the bus broke down and there were no taxis. He rejects the excuse that Arthur's memory was poor.
 - 5 He suggests Arthur do something to improve his memory.

- 2 To complete Exercise A2, ask the students to insert the words from the box. Note that this conversation follows the same general pattern as the one in Exercise A1.

Answers:

- A2 1 I'm late
2 That's all right
3 I'm terribly sorry
4 How could you
5 I don't know
6 you'd better

Notes:

- 1 Sorry and other forms of apology are often preceded by Oh.
- 2 Sorry, on its own, is quite casual. You might use it when gently bumping into a friend.
- 3 Very, terribly and awfully are commonly used to increase the degree of apology.
- 4 There are numerous ways of trying to soften someone's anger when you have done something wrong.
 - blame yourself:
I was so stupid.
I've been a fool.
 - attract pity:
I've had a terrible day.
 - blame someone else:
That stupid bus driver said ...
 - admit you deserve punishment:
Don't hate me.
Hit me. I deserve it.
- 5 Normally, we accept apologies. Here are some phrases we use:
That's all right.
It doesn't matter.
No problem.
Never mind.
Forget it.
Don't worry about it.
It's nothing.
Things/Accidents happen.

B Speak up

Talking about daydreams

- 1 This exercise offers further work on conditionals and creates an opportunity for interesting oral practice.
- 2 Follow the instructions in the Student's Book to complete the exercise.

Possible answers:

- B 3 teacher
4 teacher, I will go to poor areas
5 go to poor areas, I can help children there
6 help children there, they will have opportunities for better education
7 they have opportunities for better education, their lives will be better
8 their lives are better, I will be very happy

A2 Millie meets Arthur. Work in pairs to complete their conversation with the words in the box. Then practise the conversation.

I'm terribly sorry
How could you
That's all right
I don't know
you'd better
I'm late

Sorry ⁽¹⁾ _____, Arthur, but I couldn't find your pen.

⁽²⁾ _____, Millie.
I've got another one.

And, Arthur, ⁽³⁾ _____, but I've broken your e-dictionary.

⁽⁴⁾ _____ do that?

⁽⁵⁾ _____. It just doesn't work now.

Well, ⁽⁶⁾ _____ get it repaired, hadn't you?

B Speak up

Talking about daydreams

Work in groups. Discuss the if sentences in the thought bubble and then complete all of the eight sentences. Remember that each sentence must be connected with the one before it. Write the sentences down and read them to the class.

- 1 If I pass my exams, I'll leave school.
- 2 If I leave school, I'll get a job.
- 3 If I get a job, I'll work as a _____.
- 4 If I work as a _____, _____.
- 5 If I _____, _____.
- 6 If I _____, _____.
- 7 If _____, _____.
- 8 If _____, _____!

Memory Corner

The school newspaper wants articles for its section called Memory Corner. Jane wrote an article for the paper.

A Work in pairs. Look at the pictures and complete Jane's article with the correct forms of the verbs in the box. You can use some of the verbs more than once.

begin	pick up	thank	come
pour	want	count	stop
tell	be	put	fix go

This is a special memory for me.

Early one morning, I went to the International Bank with my father. He ⁽¹⁾ _____ to take out one hundred yuan. He ⁽²⁾ _____ his card into the ATM machine. A 100-yuan note ⁽³⁾ _____ out. He ⁽⁴⁾ _____ it into his wallet.

Then the machine ⁽⁵⁾ _____ to make a funny noise. More notes ⁽⁶⁾ _____ out. This ⁽⁷⁾ _____ on for about ten minutes. Then it ⁽⁸⁾ _____.

We ⁽⁹⁾ _____ the notes and ⁽¹⁰⁾ _____ them into a big basket. We wanted to call the bank service, but at that moment, the manager ⁽¹¹⁾ _____. We ⁽¹²⁾ _____ him everything immediately. He ⁽¹³⁾ _____ amazed!

The manager ⁽¹⁴⁾ _____ the notes. There ⁽¹⁵⁾ _____ exactly ten thousand yuan. He ⁽¹⁶⁾ _____ us and ⁽¹⁷⁾ _____ the machine. Then he ⁽¹⁸⁾ _____ the money back into the machine.

That is my special memory.

B Now, work alone. Write your own article for Memory Corner. It can be about a real memory you have, or you can imagine one.

- 2 For Exercise B, it is impossible to predict what the students might wish to write about. They could remember a family event, such as a birth, a wedding or moving house. Their first day at secondary school could be a good choice. Some students may have been on a special holiday which they wish to write about. Sports players may have a memory of winning a big match. Pop music fans may have once spoken to their favourite singer or been to an exciting concert. If the students prefer not to write about their personal experiences, allow them to write about an imaginary memory using one of the topics covered in this unit.

How to improve your memory

This passage is about how to improve memory. The students can learn some ways to improve their memories.

Vocabulary:

focus (v.) give attention to one point

This passage focuses on how to improve your memory.

maintain (v.) continue; keep up

Eating vegetables and fruit can help us maintain our health.

prevent (v.) stop something from happening

Something must be done to prevent pollution from damaging the environment.

Answers:

- A
- 1 I can do activities that I do not usually do and change my daily habits.
 - 2 Because this will lower my chances of making accurate memories.
 - 3 My brain stores memory while I am asleep.
 - 4 The good things about caffeine in tea and coffee are that it is very good at preventing sleepiness and helping concentration. The bad thing is that it may cause problems with memory.

How to improve your memory

There are many things you can do to improve your memory, such as using various memorizing methods as well as taking special care of your health.

It is important that you regularly stimulate^① your brain to make your memory more efficient. For example, you can do activities that you do not usually do and change your daily habits.

- 5 Learning a new skill helps your brain develop. When trying to memorize something, you should focus your attention and concentrate^② on the most important things about it. Do not allow other thoughts to enter your mind because this will lower your chances of remembering things accurately.

- 10 An excellent way to help memory is to link information with pictures. Try to see the images^③ in your mind. Taking notes, being organized and keeping a diary will also be useful tools.

- Healthy food and plenty of vitamins are essential for your memory to work properly. Drinking a lot of water also helps maintain your memory. You must allow your brain to have enough sleep and rest 15 too. When you are asleep, your brain stores memory. Not enough sleep can, therefore, cause problems with storing information. In addition, being tired will stop you from being able to concentrate well. Caffeine in tea and coffee is very good at preventing sleepiness and helping concentration, but some people believe they may cause problems with memory.

- 20 In order to concentrate well, you must be relaxed. Generally keeping fit and having regular health checks are both important as well, and not just for improving your memory.

A Answer the following questions based on information in the passage.

- 1 How can you make your memory more efficient?

- 2 Why should you not allow other thoughts to enter your mind when you are trying to memorize something?

- 3 What does your brain do while you are asleep?

- 4 What are the good things about caffeine in tea and coffee? What may be the bad thing about it?

① stimulate v. 刺激 ② concentrate v. 集中 (注意力) ③ image n. 形象

B Look at the following pictures for one minute. Then close your book. How many can you remember? In groups, discuss your methods for memorizing things.

C The passage on page 83 suggests that linking information with pictures is an excellent way to help memory. Do you have any other good methods or techniques? Tell the class what they are and give some examples to illustrate them.

D Look at the habits below and tick the ones that you have. Ask yourself whether they are good or bad for your memory. Then work in groups to discuss each of the habits.

- ☐ Every day, I drink one carton of milk and eat a lot of vegetables.
- ☐ I do not like drinking water. I prefer soft drinks.
- ☐ I like reading and writing until late at night. The quiet helps me concentrate.
- ☐ I like fruit and eat a lot of it every day.
- ☐ I usually have bread with milk for breakfast.
- ☐ When I get tired, I usually have a rest and then do some exercise to help me relax.
- ☐ I used to drink tea, but now I drink coffee instead.

- 1 When people get old, their short-term memory becomes weaker, but they can still remember things that happened a long time ago. 当人们年事渐高时，短时记忆力会变差，但他们依然能记得很久以前发生的事。句中的 get 和 become 均为连系动词，后可接形容词。
- 2 I saw a programme on television about a man who had had an accident and injured his brain. 我看了一个电视节目，一名男子在一次意外事故中脑部受伤。句中的 programme 意为“电视节目”；在 6A Unit 5 曾学过 Open Day programme，其中的 programme 则意为“活动安排”。
- 3 An easy way to do this is to imagine there is a 'mile' between the first letter and the last letter. 一个简单的办法是想像第一个字母和最后一个字母之间有一“英里”的距离。句中的 there is a 'mile' between the first letter and the last letter 是一个宾语从句，与 imagine 之间省略了连接词 that。
- 4 And Dave Farrow from America remembered the correct order of 2,704 playing cards, after seeing them just once. 美国的戴夫·法罗只看了一遍，就记住了2 704张纸牌的正确顺序。句中的 after 是介词，后接动词的 ing 形式。另外 after 也可作连词，引导时间状语从句，如：Alice practises playing the piano after she finishes her homework every day. 艾丽斯每天做完作业后练习弹钢琴。
- 5 For example, most people in China can remember where they were when the opening ceremony of the 29th Olympic Games was held in Beijing in 2008. 例如，大多数中国人都能记得 2008 年第 29 届奥运会开幕式在北京举行时，他们身在何处。句中的 where 引导的宾语从句中还含有一个由 when 引导的时间状语从句。

Additional teaching suggestions

- 1 本单元 Grammar 部分状语从句的教学是 8B Unit 5 语法内容的延续，教学时可适当回顾、复习前面的内容，以帮助学生全面掌握状语从句的用法。
- 2 通过教授本单元课文，帮助学生了解人类记忆能力的特点，改进记忆方法、提高学习效率。

Training your memory

A Here is a list of new words. Look up their meanings.

forgetfulness amnesia identify female helicopter

shadow

B Imagine you want to be able to remember the words in A. In pairs, try the methods below to see which is the best for you.

1

Keep saying the word

Repeat the word aloud to your partner. Say the first word, then the first + the second word, then the first + the second + the third word, and so on.

2

Use the 'picture' method

Imagine a picture for each word. Learn the words with your 'pictures', and then close the book and repeat the words to your partner.

Put the words in groups

Put the words into different groups, that is, nouns, verbs, adjectives, etc., in your vocabulary notebook. Learn the words that way, and then say them to your partner with your book closed.

Write sentences

Write the meanings of the words in simple English in your vocabulary notebook. Then write a sentence to show how each word is used. Learn the words that way, and then say them to your partner with your book closed.

C With your partner, discuss which method is the best and why. Then decide which method you will use in the future to help improve your memory.

Using English

Training your memory

Memory skills are like other skills and there are many ways that we can improve our memory if we practise. This task gives some practical memory techniques that the students can use.

- 1 Do Exercise A. The students should look up the words on the list on their own. They should write the word and its meaning in their vocabulary notebooks.
- 2 Make sure the students know how to pronounce the words correctly. It may be a good idea to read the words aloud for the class.
- 3 Do Exercise B. Ask them to read the instructions for each item and do it. For number 1, after the students have repeated all the words in the list, they should close their books and repeat them again. For number 3, remind the students that the words can be in other kinds of groups such as long words and short words, etc.
- 4 Do Exercise C when most students have completed Exercise B. Ask them which techniques they thought were best for remembering:
 - 1 meaning
 - 2 spelling
 - 3 pronunciation
 - 4 part of speech
- 5 Now ask them what their reasons are. Ask the students to remember these ideas when they are studying new vocabulary and encourage them to write down their favourite method in their vocabulary notebooks.

Possible answers:

- C Numbers 2 and 4 are the best ways to remember meanings. The pictures are easy to remember and stop me from using Chinese words. Writing sentences makes me use the word so it helps me know the meaning.

Numbers 1 and 4 are the best ways to help remember a word's spelling. Saying the word makes me practise the sound of the word and sometimes this helps me remember the letters better. Writing the word in the sentence gives me practice writing the word and I can see it on the paper.

Numbers 1 and 2 are best for pronunciation. The picture can remind me of the sound of the word. Saying the word again and again helps me remember how it sounds.

Numbers 3 and 4 are best for remembering the part of speech. If I put the words in a group with other nouns or verbs, I can remember what part of speech they are more easily. Writing sentences makes me use the word as a noun, verb, etc., so I practise using it as a certain part of speech.

Module 3 Fighting crime

Unit 6 Detectives

Unit topic: overview

This unit is about detectives and crimes. The Reading passage is an interview between Pansy and Detective Ken, who tells her about one of his cases.

The Grammar section introduces infinitives.

The Listening section contains a task about identifying stolen jewellery, in which the students have to listen to a spoken description and identify the correct pictures.

The Speaking section includes practice on asking questions in a questionnaire and two separate interviews in which two robbery suspects must try to give the same story.

In the Writing section, the students must use pictures and notes to write a report of a crime.

The cartoon

The joke in the cartoon depends on the fact that the detective character assumes that the broken arm is called Lo, and not that the robot is called Lo. (Although Hi's sentence is grammatically correct, it does not make the meaning clear. It would be better to say 'He's a robot called Lo. He has a broken arm.' But, of course, we need this ambiguous sentence to make the joke possible.)

The cartoon introduces a funny detective character, and suggests what the topic of the unit will be.

Pre-unit activities

- 1 Ask the students what crimes have been reported in the news recently. Tell them to read or watch the news and to make a list of the crimes mentioned.
- 2 To activate and enlarge vocabulary associated with crime and detection, ask the students to do the following matching exercise. The answers are provided in brackets.

1 robbery (d)	a something put on criminals
2 murder (j)	b something that helps you find the answer
3 stealing (f)	c having committed a crime
4 clue (b)	d the crime of taking what is not yours from someone/somewhere, especially using violence
5 detective (i)	e the person who makes the decisions in court
6 suspect (l)	f taking something that is not yours
7 innocent (h)	g what someone tells the police
8 guilty (c)	h having done nothing wrong
9 witness (k)	i a kind of policeman
10 statement (g)	j the crime of killing someone
11 judge (e)	k someone who saw what happened
12 handcuffs (a)	l someone the police think committed a crime

Note:

Explain that we use a person or place as the object after rob and a thing as the object after steal (e.g., He robbed me/the bank. He stole the money.).

A What do you know about ...?

 Could you be a detective? Read the dialogue below and find the things for Michael in the picture. You will find nine things that tell you it was painted recently, and not in 1850. One has been done for you.

Michael I bought this painting yesterday. It was painted in 1850.

Mei Ling I'm afraid someone has cheated you. Look at the picture carefully.

B Before you read

 Before you read the dialogue on the next page, look at the title, the introduction and the picture, and then try to guess the answers to the questions below.

- 1 What was the crime?
- 2 Did the detective solve it?
- 3 What happened to the criminal?

Reading

A What do you know about ...?

Read the short dialogue with the class and ask them to find the clues in the picture that tell them it must have been painted recently. All of the answers are anachronisms, things that do not belong in a particular historical period. The nine items did not exist in 1850, as they are all modern inventions.

Answers:

- A (TV aerial) mobile phone helicopter speedboat electric street light/lamp
zebra crossing Walkman double-decker bus roller skates

Note:

The picture shows the waterfront. A number of words are used for this, including bund (used in Shanghai). Waterfront seems the simplest term for the students to use.

B Before you read

- 1 Ask the students to examine the title, the introduction and the picture in order to make them think about what they are going to read.
- 2 Encourage them to tell you as much as they can. For instance, from the title we can guess that an innocent person is in some sort of danger. The man in the picture is probably rich, as he is wearing a bow tie and putting an expensive-looking vase into a safe. The vase might be the object stolen. The two women could be suspects. The students can guess that finally the guilty person is caught.

Answers:

- B 1 A vase was stolen.
2 Yes, he did.
3 The criminal was caught.

Reading passage

Protecting the Innocent

This is an interview between Pansy and Detective Ken.

Synopsis by paragraph [P = paragraph]:

- P1: Pansy asks why Ken enjoys being a detective.
- P2: Ken replies with a case involving Mr Jones, a rich antique collector, whose vase was stolen.
- P3–4: During the investigation, Ken looked for clues and observed that the carpet was clean, although it was muddy outside the open window. He also found an earring.
- P5–6: He interviewed Jill, a friend of Mr Jones's, who had a necklace matching the earring.
- P7–8: She claims that she had lost the earring a month before. Ken checked her story.
- P9: Pansy asks how he solved the case.
- P10: Ken tells Pansy that he accused Mr Jones of stealing his own vase for the insurance money and that Mr Jones confessed.
- P11–12: The earring was put there by Mr Jones to make his friend the suspect.
- P13: Mr Jones was put in prison.
- P14: Ken answers Pansy's original question. He likes protecting the innocent and finding the guilty.

I know the number to open the safe.

spotlessly (adv.) without any dirt
An operating theatre should be spotlessly clean.

suspect (n.) someone the police believe has committed a crime
The police are holding a suspect for questioning.
☞ Note that this word has the main stress on the first syllable when it is a noun, but that the verb has the main stress on the second syllable.

the guilty those people who have done something wrong
He promised to find the guilty and bring them to justice.

the innocent those people who have done nothing wrong
Many of the innocent died during the war.

Protecting the innocent

Pansy wanted to write an article on detectives for the school newspaper. To get information, she interviewed Detective Ken. This is part of the interview.

PANSY You say that you like being a detective. Why?

KEN Let me tell you about a recent case that I dealt with, Pansy. Mr Jones is a very rich man who lives alone and enjoys collecting things. He purchased a vase for 300,000 dollars. He showed it to only two people—his friends Jill and Jenny. Then he locked it in the safe at his house. That night, someone stole it. Mr Jones reported the theft, and I went to his house to look for clues.

10 PANSY Did you find any?

KEN Yes, I found a black pearl earring near the open safe and, outside the open window of the room, I saw a lot of mud on the wet ground. Inside the room, the carpet was spotlessly clean.

15 PANSY So what did you do next?

KEN I interviewed Jill and Jenny. They both denied stealing the vase. But I noticed that Jill was wearing a black pearl necklace—but no earrings.

PANSY So Jill was the thief?

20 KEN I didn't know. I needed proof. A good detective never jumps to conclusions. I decided what to do next. I showed Jill the earring, and she admitted it was hers. She said someone had stolen it from her house a month before. I checked her story. It was true.

25 PANSY So Jill was no longer a suspect. But what about your other clue—the mud outside and the spotless carpet inside?

30 KEN That told me that probably no thief broke into Mr Jones's house. So I questioned Mr Jones and, in the end, he admitted stealing his own vase. He had bought insurance for it. The insurance company would pay him 300,000 dollars if the vase was stolen.

35 PANSY And who stole Jill's earring?

KEN Mr Jones did that as well. He tried to make sure that Jill would go to jail instead of him.

PANSY So now Mr Jones is behind bars.

40 KEN Yes, and Jill is free. My job is to protect the innocent as well as find the guilty. That's why I like being a detective.

C Vocabulary

C1 Find the words in the box in the interview and try to work out their meanings by reading the words around them. Then use the words to complete Ken's diary. You will need to use one of the words twice.

admitted	denied	purchased	case	proof	safe

12 September

Yesterday I dealt with two cases. In the first case, the suspect, Ricky, at first ⁽¹⁾ _____ being a bank robber. I showed him a photograph of himself in the bank at the time of the robbery, carrying a gun. This was all the ⁽²⁾ _____ I needed and he ⁽³⁾ _____ that he was guilty.

In the second ⁽⁴⁾ _____, the suspect, Flora, ⁽⁵⁾ _____ a diamond for fifty thousand dollars. She paid for it with fake banknotes. Later, she ⁽⁶⁾ _____ she had printed the notes herself. When I searched her flat, I found half a million dollars in fake notes. She kept them in a ⁽⁷⁾ _____ in the wall.

C2 Use the words and phrases from the interview in the box to complete the sentences below. The words and phrases should have the same meaning as those in brackets.

behind bars	jumps to conclusions
the guilty	spotlessly clean
insurance	the innocent

- 1 Mr Jones was put _____ (into jail).
- 2 Ken is a good detective. He never _____ (makes up his mind too quickly).
- 3 In the case of the missing vase, Ken succeeded in finding _____ (person who has done something wrong) and protecting _____ (person who has not done anything wrong).
- 4 The carpet in the room was _____ (completely clean).
- 5 Mr Jones bought _____ (a promise from a company to pay him money if someone stole his vase) for his vase.

C Vocabulary

- 1 Ask the students to find the words in Exercise C1 in the interview, and then to think about what they might mean. The students should work alone to complete the exercise.

Answers:

- C1
- 1 denied
 - 2 proof
 - 3 admitted
 - 4 case
 - 5 purchased
 - 6 admitted
 - 7 safe

- 2 Tell the students to do Exercise C2. Let them follow the same process as with Exercise C1 to select the correct words and phrases to fill in the blanks.

Answers:

- C2
- 1 behind bars
 - 2 jumps to conclusions
 - 3 the guilty ... the innocent
 - 4 spotlessly clean
 - 5 insurance

Additional activity:

This activity is intended to reinforce the target vocabulary. Each sentence is a clue to one of the target vocabulary items. Not all items are included. The answers are given in brackets.

- 1 If the dress isn't too expensive, I'll buy it. (purchase)
- 2 Your shirt's wet. It must be raining! (jump to conclusions)
- 3 Mrs Song was a lawyer. One day she was found murdered. (case)
- 4 The judge said the man could not be innocent, and the jury agreed that he had committed the crime. (the guilty)
- 5 I think I've found something! (clue)
- 6 His fingerprint on the gun showed he was definitely the murderer. (proof)
- 7 This is Prisoner No. 720321. He is in jail for selling drugs. (behind bars)
- 8 There was never any litter and the street was very clean. (spotlessly)
- 9 I'm not sure, but I believe Raymond is the one who did it. (suspect)

D Comprehension

- 1 The exercises in this section help develop logical thinking. Before doing the exercises, use the following material to prepare the students.
- 2 Remind the students that by jumping to a conclusion they might form a very wrong idea about something. Ask them to think of a few different possible reasons to explain the statements below in order to demonstrate how easily one can make the wrong judgement. Possible answers are given in brackets.
 - 1 There are a lot of policemen coming out of a building. (A crime has been committed in the building./There has been a police officers' meeting inside the building.)
 - 2 There's a broken window and a boy running nearby. (The boy has kicked a ball through the window./The boy is jogging near the building.)
 - 3 There's a very, very long queue at the bus stop. (The bus has broken down./The bus is going to the waterfront during the Dragon Boat Festival.)
 - 4 Peter is absent from school. (Peter is ill./Peter is on holiday.)
 - 5 It's winter, but you see a woman looking very brown. (She has been away on holiday./She has put some special cream on her skin.)
 - 6 Your neighbour suddenly starts buying a lot of expensive things. (He/She has won the lottery.; He/She has a new, well-paid job.)
 - 7 The underground station in People's Square is very, very crowded. (Today is a public holiday./It's rush hour.)
- 3 Ask the students to think of similar sentences and to see what possible different conclusions their classmates can make.

- 4 Tell the students to do Exercises D1 and D2 on their own.

Answers:

- D1
- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 | c |
| 2 | a |
| 3 | d |
| 4 | e |
| 5 | b |

- D2 Right conclusions: a, b, e
Wrong conclusions: c, d

- 5 Ask the students to complete Exercise D3. It practises ordering a sequence logically.

Answers:

- D3 3, 2, 5, 1, 4

For further reading practice

Workbook 9A page 52

- a Give the students time to read the questions first.
- b Let the students read the diary and find the answers to the questions.
- c Check the answers with the students.
- d Ask the students to write down the troubles Peter had on his birthday.

D Comprehension

Reaching conclusions

We often reach a conclusion from a fact. Read the examples below.

Facts

Your phone is ringing.

David's face has become very dark.

Alan is standing outside a cinema.

Sometimes our conclusions are right, and sometimes they might be wrong.

Possible conclusions

→ Someone wants to speak to you.

→ He has been sunbathing.

→ He is waiting for someone.

D1 Here are some of the facts that Detective Ken discovered and some of the conclusions one might reach. Match the facts with the possible conclusions.

Facts

- 1 Mr Jones showed his vase to only two of his friends.
- 2 The ground outside was muddy, but the carpet was clean.
- 3 The earring near the safe belonged to Jill.
- 4 Mr Jones bought insurance for the vase.
- 5 Mr Jones put Jill's earring near the safe.

Possible conclusions

- a The thief came from inside Mr Jones's house.
- b He wanted the police to believe that Jill had stolen the vase.
- c One of them stole it.
- d Jill stole the vase.
- e Mr Jones stole the vase.

D2 Some of the conclusions in D1 were right and some were wrong. Read the interview again. Write down the letters of the right conclusions and the letters of the wrong ones.

Right conclusions: _____ Wrong conclusions: _____

D3 These are the steps Ken used in finding out the truth. Put them in the correct order. The first one has been done for you.

- ☐ I checked Jill's story about someone stealing her earring.
- ☐ I interviewed Mr Jones's friends Jill and Jenny.
- ☐ I discovered that Mr Jones was guilty, and he was put into jail.
- ☒ 1 I looked for clues and found an earring.
- ☐ I checked and found that Mr Jones had bought insurance for the vase.

Using infinitives

A Infinitives after verbs or verbs + objects

We can use verbs + infinitives or verbs + objects + infinitives in sentences.

Pansy wanted to write an article on detectives.

Pansy wanted to get information for her article.

Mr Jones expected the insurance company to pay him 300,000 dollars for the vase.

Tips

The full infinitive consists of two words, to + verb. But after certain verbs we can use the form without to, e.g., The teacher let me go home early.

The doctor made me roll up my sleeve.

A1 Answer these questions. Look back at the interview if necessary.

- 1 Who did Ken decide to question?
He _____ Mr Jones's two _____.
- 2 Who did Ken hope to find?
He _____ the _____.
- 3 What did Mr Jones want to get?
He _____ money from the _____ company.
- 4 What did Mr Jones try to make sure of?
He _____ that _____ would go to _____.

Grammar

Using infinitives

A Infinitives after verbs or verbs + objects

- 1 Tell the students that there are various ways of joining together two verbs in English. The correct way depends on what the previous verb is.

- 2 First, show the students some verbs which are followed by the (infinitive) to form. Write the following list on the board.

agree	promise
decide	refuse fail	seem hope	start
manage	want offer	wish plan

- 3 Give the students oral examples of sentences using two verbs together.

I agreed to go with them.
 We decided to have lunch.
 They failed to pass the test.
 I hope to study in Beijing University.
 He managed to find his pen.
 They offered to help us.
 We plan to visit her tomorrow.
 I promise to be good.
 She refused to pay.
 She seemed to be unhappy.
 They started to leave the room.
 She wanted to buy it.
 I wish to see you soon.

- 4 Ask the students to prepare some sentences in pairs and to read them aloud to the class.

- 5 Tell the students to do Exercise A1.

Answers:

- A1 1 decided to question ... friends
 2 hoped to find ... thief
 3 wanted to get ... insurance
 4 tried to make sure ... Jill ... jail instead of him

- 6 Show the students some verbs which are followed by a noun or a pronoun and the (infinitive) to form. Write the following list on the board and give the students some examples.

ask	expect
tell	invite order

Mum often asks me to help with the housework.
 The sign tells us to turn left.
 The captain ordered the soldiers to pull the wooden horse into the city.
 He expected us to go there on time.
 Ben invited all his friends to attend his birthday party.

- 7 Tell the students to do Exercise A2.

Answers:

- A2 2 not to be late for dinner
 3 to rent another DVD
 4 to join us for lunch
 5 to pass him the salt

B Infinitives after wh- words

- 1 Remind the students that we can use verbs of thinking and mental processes with wh- words and a to infinitive.

She asked me what to buy.

- 2 Tell the students to read the introduction and the example on page 95. Call upon some students to give you sentences following the pattern of the example and using the verbs in the box.

He explained what to feed the dog.
 We discussed when to have the picnic.
 She forgot where to go.
 They learnt how to cook.
 I asked her how to do the exercise.
 I couldn't remember what to say.
 I wonder which to buy.
 Teach us how to do it.
 Show me who to speak to.
 She told me where to find the shop.

A2 Complete the sentences with infinitives. The first one has been done for you.

- 1 Mr Tang said to us, 'I'm surprised that you took a taxi.'
Mr Tang didn't expect us to take a taxi.
- 2 My mum said to me, 'Remember not to be late for dinner.'
My mum reminded me _____.
- 3 Caroline said to them, 'I think you should rent another DVD.'
Caroline advised them _____.
- 4 We said to her, 'Can you join us for lunch, Miss Gao?'
We invited Miss Gao _____.
- 5 Jacky said to me, 'Pass me the salt, please.'
Jacky told me _____.

B Infinitives after wh- words

We can use some verbs with wh-* words (what, when, where, which, who, how) followed by infinitives to give information about actions.

I decided what to do next.

These are some verbs we can use in this way.

explain	remember
discuss	wonder forget	teach learn	show
ask	tell

Dad drove Tom to a speech contest. Tom worried a lot on the way. Dad tried to calm him down. Complete their conversation with the words and sentences below.

where when what how

- a It'll tell you ____ to begin.
- b I'm sure you'll remember ____ to say.
- c I know ____ to get there.
- d I'm sure someone will show us ____ to go.

Tom I don't know where the university is, Dad.

Dad Relax, Tom. ⁽¹⁾ _____

Tom And I've forgotten which room the contest is in.

Dad No problem. ⁽²⁾ _____

Tom I can't remember what time I've got to start my speech.

Dad Don't worry. Look at your programme. ⁽³⁾ _____

Tom I'm so nervous. I'm afraid I might forget my speech!

Dad Keep calm, Tom. ⁽⁴⁾ _____

- 3 Tell the students to read the instructions and look at the sentences in the box. Ask them to fill in the blanks with a wh- word. Then read the conversation to the class and ask the students to suggest the best place to use each phrase.

Answers:

- B 1 c how
2 d where
3 a when
4 b what

Additional activity:

Ask the students to complete these sentences in the best way possible with the wh- words and verbs from the box on page 95. Possible answers are given in brackets.

- 1 I can't (remember where) to park the car.
- 2 I'll (show) you (how) to do it.
- 3 Can you (tell) me (how) to recognize him?
- 4 Can you (explain) to me (how) to work this machine?
- 5 Mr Li can (teach) you (what) to do to complete the experiment.
- 6 I'll (ask) her (what) to say in my speech.
- 7 I'm afraid I might (forget where) to go if I do not write down the address.
- 8 The committee will (discuss where) to go for our school picnic.
- 9 I want to (learn how) to type.

C Infinitives after certain nouns

- 1 Tell the students to look at the introduction and the examples on page 97. Point out that the structure demonstrated is formed with a noun followed by a to infinitive.
- 2 Write Ken has got the ability. Ask a student to follow the first example in the Student's Book and ask you the question The ability to do what? Reply with The ability to be a great detective. Call upon more students to repeat the process using the word promise and following the second example.
- 3 Write plan, ability, way, method and decision on the board. Repeat this drill with the class substituting, in turn, each of these nouns and appropriate verbs and objects.
S1 I've got a plan.
S2 A plan to do what?
S1 A plan to learn dancing.

- 4 Now ask the students to complete the exercise in pairs.

Answers:

- | | | |
|---|---|---------------|
| C | 2 | A decision to |
| | 3 | A way to do |
| | 4 | A way to |
| | 5 | The time to |
| | 6 | Advice to do |

C Infinitives after certain nouns

To give more information about nouns, we can use infinitives after certain nouns.

Ken has got the ability to be a great detective.

Pansy made a promise to write an article on detectives.

Tony is telling Jenny about his ambition. Use the clues below to finish their conversation. The first one has been done for you.

- Tony I've made a decision.
- Jenny ⁽¹⁾ A decision to do what?
- Tony ⁽²⁾ _____ become a professor.
- Jenny You can't be serious.
- Tony I've decided to find a way.
- Jenny ⁽³⁾ _____ what?
- Tony ⁽⁴⁾ _____ make people live forever.
- Jenny You must be joking!
- Tony So now is the time. ⁽⁵⁾ _____ start work. You're not giving me any encouragement, are you?
- Jenny No, but I'll give you some advice.
- Tony ⁽⁶⁾ _____ what?
- Jenny To stop daydreaming!

Tips

Other uses of infinitives

- Infinitives may be used after be, e.g., My job is to protect the innocent as well as find the guilty.
- Infinitives can express purpose,
e.g., Ken used clues to help him find the thief.

Listening

Mrs White's lost jewellery

Last week, a burglar stole four pieces of jewellery from Mrs Karen White's flat. Now the police have arrested a man and discovered all the jewellery in the picture below.

 Listen to the conversation between Mrs White and a policeman. Which are her four pieces of jewellery? Write the letters next to the numbers.

Piece 1: _____

Piece 3: _____

Piece 2: _____

Piece 4: _____

Listening

Mrs White's lost jewellery

- 1 Explain that the police have found the jewellery in the picture. Make sure the students know the words bracelet, and also the words gold and silver and the precious stone ruby. They should also know the useful phrase in the shape of.
- 2 Play the recording once or twice (if necessary), while the students identify the four pieces of jewellery.
- 3 After the Listening task, you can use this picture for an oral exercise. One student must describe one piece from the picture, and others must identify the right one.

Vocabulary:

bracelet (n.) a piece of jewellery worn around the wrist or arm ruby (n.) a valuable stone, red in colour

Tapescript:

POLICEMAN Hello, is that Mrs Karen White?

WOMAN Yes.

POLICEMAN I'm Detective Brown. I visited you after your burglary last week.

WOMAN Oh, yes, I remember.

POLICEMAN Well, we've arrested a man and discovered a lot of stolen jewellery, and I think your four pieces may be here. Could you describe them again for me?

WOMAN Yes, well, the first piece is a bracelet. It's made of gold. It's not a complete circle. The two ends of the bracelet are in the shape of balls. The second piece is my pearl necklace. It's very simple—just one string of pearls. The pearls are all about the same size. It's quite a short necklace. Next, there is a silver bracelet. This is not so expensive, but it's quite pretty. It's made of lots of little rings, all joined together. It has a silver figure on it, in the shape of a little dog. The last piece is a pair of earrings. They are made of gold. Each earring is in two parts. There is a red ruby on top, and hanging under the ruby there is a large, white pearl.

POLICEMAN Yes, you're very lucky. I think we have all of those pieces here at the police station. Could you come down to have a look at them?

WOMAN Yes, of course. I'll be there soon. Thank you so much! Goodbye.

POLICEMAN Goodbye.

Exercise A

- a Give the students time to read the questions.
- b Play the recording once. The students listen and choose the correct answers.
- c Play the recording again and check the answers with the students.

Exercise B

- a Give the students time to read the story.
- b Play the recording once. The students listen and fill in the blanks.
- c Play the recording again and check the answers with the students.

Speaking

A Talk time

Asking questions in a questionnaire

The main aim of this exercise is to give the students practice pausing when they ask another person a question. Sometimes, when people are nervous, they talk too quickly and run all their words together. This can make it very difficult to understand their question. It is also good to pause after asking a question to give the person time to think of an answer. If your students often read too quickly, this will be a good exercise for them.

- 1 Read the introduction. It would be best if you read the example in the speech bubble very quickly, linking every word to show the students what it would sound like.
- 2 Do Exercise A1. Put the students in pairs. Ask them to designate themselves as Student 1 and Student 2. Student 2 should close his/her book and listen to Student 1. Student 1 should read the question in Exercise A1 as quickly as he/she can.
- 3 Ask Student 1 to read and do Exercise A2, pausing wherever a pause is indicated.
- 4 Do the exercise again, having Student 1 and 2 switch roles.

*B Speak up

Interviewing suspects

- 1 This is a popular language-teaching game which is sometimes called 'Alibis'. Once the students understand how to play it, it can be used on any future occasion when you have some free class time.

Speaking

A Talk time

Asking questions in a questionnaire

When we ask questions, especially in a questionnaire, we need to add pauses in each question to give the listener time to understand the question.

A1 Work in pairs. Ask your partner this question without pausing. Do not let your partner see the question.

Do you find it difficult to learn new skills like how to use a new computer?

Often Sometimes Never

A2 Did your partner understand the question? Now, read the question again, this time adding these pauses.

Do you find it difficult to learn new skills (pause) like how to use a new computer? (pause)

Often (pause) Sometimes (pause) Never

* B Speak up

Interviewing suspects

Last night, there was a burglary between 6 and 11 p.m. Detective Ken thinks that Michael and Andrew may be the burglars. He interviews each of them separately.

Work in pairs. Read the interviews aloud. Then find some differences between Michael's story and Andrew's story.

- Ken Where were you between 6 and 11 p.m. last night?
Michael I went to the cinema with my friend Andrew.
Ken Where did you meet him?
Michael Er, he came to my flat.
Ken When?
Michael At about 5.30 p.m.
Ken Which cinema did you go to?
Michael We went to the Ocean Cinema in Parkhill.
Ken How did you get there?
Michael We went by underground, and then walked.
Ken Was the cinema full or empty?
Michael It was quite full.
Ken What film did you see?
Michael We saw a film called 'The Mystery of the Murder'.
Ken Where did you sit?
Michael We sat at the back of the cinema.

- Ken Where were you between 6 and 11 p.m. last night?
Andrew I went to see a film with Michael.
Ken Where did you meet him?
Andrew We met at the underground station.
Ken Michael said you met at 4.30 p.m. Is that right?
Andrew Yes, that's right.
Ken Which cinema did you go to?
Andrew The Ocean Cinema. It's in Parkhill.
Ken How did you get there?
Andrew We went by bus to the ferry pier, and then walked.
Ken Was the cinema full or empty?
Andrew Er, it was rather empty that night.
Ken What was the name of the film?
Andrew It was 'The Mystery of the Murder'.
Ken Where did you sit?
Andrew We sat at the front.

Example: Michael said that they met at his flat, but Andrew said that they met at the underground station.

- 2 Get the students to read the interviews in pairs. Deal with any problems the students might have. Then write this pattern on the board:

Michael said that ..., but Andrew said that ...

Ask the students (working in pairs or as a class) to use this pattern to explain any other differences between the stories of the two suspects.

- 3 You can also ask the students to explain the points where the two stories were the same, using this pattern:

They both said that ...

For example, they both said that they went to the cinema together, that they went to the Ocean Cinema, and that they saw a film called 'The Mystery of the Murder'.

- 4 Point out the way that Detective Ken tricks Andrew by (falsely) saying that Michael said that they met at 4.30 p.m.

Answers:

- B 1 Michael said that they met at about 5.30 p.m., but Andrew said that they met at 4.30 p.m.
2 Michael said that they went by underground, but Andrew said that they went by bus.
3 Michael said that the cinema was quite full, but Andrew said that it was rather empty.
4 Michael said that they sat at the back of the cinema, but Andrew said that they sat at the front.

Writing

A crime report

- 1 In this exercise, the students will practise writing a guided report of a crime from Detective Ken's perspective. The story is based on police reports of a real crime in which a criminal tricked people into thinking that they had broken his sunglasses and then forced them to pay him money.
- 2 Let the students prepare by working in pairs and telling the story to each other in English. Explain any words they do not know.
- 3 Remind the students that the words beside/under the pictures are in note form. They will need to add other words such as verbs, articles and prepositions. They must break the notes up into grammatical sentences.
- 4 Remind the students to write in short paragraphs. They can start a new paragraph for each picture. They must start a new paragraph whenever a different person speaks. (See the possible answer below.)
- 5 Make sure that the students understand the story, and then ask them to write it out in complete sentences, working on their own. The possible answer follows the notes closely, but the students should also feel free to change words or add other details or comments if they wish.

Possible answer:

... a man standing in a doorway. He was holding a broken pair of sunglasses. He was tall, aged about 25, and he had brown hair. He was wearing a red T-shirt, blue jeans, a black belt and dirty trainers.

Then I saw a young schoolboy walking along the road. He was wearing a white shirt and blue shorts. He was reading a book.

The man quickly went out in front of the boy. The boy bumped into him. The man dropped the sunglasses, and put his foot on them.

The man looked very angry. He told the schoolboy, 'These sunglasses cost me 100 dollars! You must pay for a new pair.' The boy was very frightened.

The boy said, 'But I only have 20 dollars.'

The man said, 'All right, give it to me.' He took the money quickly.

Exercises A and B

- a Give the students time to read the newspaper article silently and look at Ted's notes.
- b Ask the students to complete Exercise A. Check the answers with them.
- c Let the students complete Ted's report in Exercise B with the help of the information in Exercise A.
- d Invite individual students to read their report to the class.

A crime report

Last week, Detective Ken saw a crime. The pictures below show what happened.

Man — standing in a doorway, holding a broken pair of sunglasses — tall, about 25, brown hair
— red T-shirt, blue jeans, black belt, dirty trainers

Schoolboy — white shirt, blue shorts
— reading a book

bumped into, dropped sunglasses put his foot on them man very angry, told schoolboy '...' boy frightened

boy said, '...'
man took money quickly

police arrived man was caught

Later, Detective Ken decided to write a report of the crime. Use the words and phrases below the pictures to help him complete the report.

☐	On Friday, 12th October at about 4 p.m., I was walking along Riverside Road. On the other side of the road, I saw ...
☐	...
☐	I called the police right away. Soon, the police arrived and the man was caught.

An extract^① from The Further Adventures of Sherlock Holmes

The death of Ronald Adair in the spring of 1894 is one of the most interesting cases I have ever worked on. I have thought about it quite a lot, but can find no possible explanation.

Adair was the son of a famous general^② who was abroad at the time. The young man's friends were from good families, and he seemed to have no enemies. On the day of his death he had played a game of cards at the Bagatelle Club in London with some friends.

On the evening of 30 March, Adair returned from the Bagatelle at exactly ten o'clock. His mother was out, visiting relatives. The servant said Adair went upstairs to his room, where she had lit a fire. She had opened the window because of the smoke from the fire.

Just before midnight, Adair's mother returned and went to say goodnight to her son. The door was locked and there was no answer, so it was forced open. Adair was found lying near the table. A bullet^③ from a small gun had entered his head, but the police could find no weapon. Some coins were on the table, and a note with names of his friends at the Bagatelle. This appeared to be a list of all the money he had lost and won playing cards.

There were no marks on the outside wall. Since it was impossible to aim a small gun from a distance, the murderer was probably in the room. Nobody had heard any noise. In addition to all this, nothing had been stolen from the room.

A Read the extract. In pairs, discuss the statements below. Say whether you think they are true or false. Circle T or F.

- 1 The person who wrote about the case has succeeded in solving it. T/F
- 2 Adair's father was in London at the time of his death. T/F
- 3 Adair and his friends were all quite wealthy. T/F
- 4 On the evening of 30 March, Adair had been visiting relatives. T/F
- 5 The window was already open when Adair went into his bedroom. T/F
- 6 The weapon was found lying near the table. T/F
- 7 The murderer fired the gun from outside the window. T/F
- 8 There were no obvious reasons for someone to kill Adair. T/F

Nothing had been stolen from the room.
- E Sherlock Holmes is a character that was created by the British author Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. Holmes is very well known for being a famous detective that solved crimes with his partner Doctor Watson. He is also famous for playing a violin and smoking a pipe in his spare time. These two characters appear in a total of four novels and 56 short stories, all published between 1887 and 1927. Some of them have been made into films, television series, and even cartoons. Holmes and Watson lived together at 221B Baker Street in London and there is now a Sherlock Holmes Museum at this address.

B Find the facts in the extract about the case of Adair's death. Then fill in the table below with the things that definitely happened on 30 March 1894.

Time	Facts

Midnight

C Imagine that you are a detective. In groups, discuss what other information you need to help you solve the case. Who would you interview? What would you examine? Write down any other questions you may have about the case.

1 People I would interview:

2 Things I would examine:

3 Other questions I have:

D In pairs, make up a possible conclusion to the case. Was it a murder or did Adair kill himself? Report your ideas to the class.

E Do you know who Sherlock Holmes is? What do you know about him? Tell the class what you know about this famous detective.

Page 91

- 1 Protecting the innocent 保护无辜者
标题中的 innocent 是形容词, 前面加定冠词 the 可用来表示一类人, 意为“无辜者”。文中还出现类似的用法, 如: the guilty, 意为“罪犯”。
- 2 To get information, she interviewed Detective Ken. This is part of the interview. 为了收集信息, 她(潘希)采访了肯侦探。这是采访的部分内容。
第一个句子中的 interview 作动词, 第二个句子中的 interview 则作名词。
- 3 Let me tell you about a recent case that I dealt with, Pansy. 潘希, 告诉你我最近处理的一个案件。
句中的 case 作名词, 意为“案件”; 在 8A Unit 7 曾学过 a plastic case, case 意为“盒; 套”。
- 4 He purchased a vase for 300,000 dollars. 他花 30 万美元买了一个花瓶。
相当于: He paid 300,000 dollars for a vase.。
- 5 Then he locked it in the safe at his house. 然后, 他把花瓶锁进了家里的保险柜。
句中的 safe 作名词, 意为“保险箱; 保险柜”。另外 safe 也可作形容词, 意为“安全的”。
- 6 I checked her story. 我核实了她的话。
句中的 story 意为“叙述; 描绘”。另外 story 也可意为“故事”。
- 7 Yes, and Jill is free. 是的, 吉尔自由了。
句中的 free 是形容词, 意为“自由的”。在 8B Unit 4 中曾学过 Should it be free to readers, or should they pay for it?, 其中的 free 则意为“免费的”。
- 8 My job is to protect the innocent as well as find the guilty. 我的工作不仅是要查出罪犯, 而且还要保护无辜者。
句中的两个动词不定式 to protect 和 (to) find 都作系动词 is 的表语。

Additional teaching suggestions

- 1 He purchased a vase for 300,000 dollars. 教师应提醒学生注意动词 purchase、cost 和动词词组 pay ... for, spend ... on 等的用法区别, 并在教学中加以辨析和操练。
- 2 通过教授侦探专访, 教育学生不要被某些表象所迷惑而轻率下结论, 要学会透过现象看本质, 培养科学的思维方式。

Unit 7 Escaping from kidnappers

Unit topic: overview

This unit is about comic strips. The Reading passage is an explanation of how comic strips are created, and contains a vivid example about a crime.

In the Grammar section, the students practise different patterns with adjectives.

The Listening task is to complete some notes and then use that information to solve a problem. The story for this exercise is similar to the story in the comic strip.

In the Speaking section the students learn how to show emotions in dialogues. It also includes an exercise in which the students must use given vocabulary to describe the expressions on some cartoon faces.

The Writing section presents a new comic strip and requires the students to write the words for the story.

The cartoon

The cartoon draws our attention to the unit topic, comic strips and cartoon characters. The character Lo is vainly watching himself in a mirror.

Pre-unit activities

- 1 If you are good at drawing, start off the unit by drawing caricatures of members of the class and seeing if the rest of the class can identify who you have drawn.
- 2 Ask the students to draw pictures of their favourite cartoon characters such as Snoopy or Garfield.
- 3 Show a short video of a famous cartoon figure.
- 4 Start a discussion on the students' favourite comics and comic strips.

Creating a comic strip

A robbery ... an escape from the zoo ... an exciting and dangerous journey ... a kidnap!

The first thing to do when creating a comic strip is to think of a plot. It needs to be funny or dramatic with an exciting finish. It should be full of action to keep the reader interested. The story needs to move fast, and something new must happen in each picture.

The characters need strong personalities which will be understood in the pictures. You can tell what the characters above are like just from looking at them.

B Before you read

Look at the title, the headings and the pictures. Then try to answer these questions.

- The article will probably be about how comic strips _____.
 - affect people who read them
 - are produced
 - have become popular
- The story in the strip on page 109 is probably about _____.
 - space travel
 - a crime
 - a detective
- How many comic strips do you read in a month?
- Do you like comic strips? Why or why not?
- Who are your favourite characters in comic strips?

Reading

A What do you know about ...?

Do the exercise with the students to make sure they know how a comic strip looks.

Answers:

- A 1 newspaper
2 comic strip
3 storybook

B Before you read

- 1 This exercise helps the students focus on the passage, find clues about the content of the passage and prepare to read it.
- 2 Do the exercise with the students, conducting a general survey and asking for opinions from the class for Questions 3–5. Write their answers on the board.

Reading passage

Creating a comic strip

This is an extract from a book showing how to create a comic strip.

Synopsis by paragraph [P = paragraph]:

P1: To create a comic strip, start by thinking of a good, fast-moving story.

P2: The characters should have strong, easily recognizable personalities.

The comic strip shows the beginning of a story about a boy, Terry, who has been kidnapped by two men. He escapes from them in the end.

The comic strip is divided into 10 pictures called 'frames'. Various comments around the edge point out some of the techniques used in comic strips.

Vocabulary:

action (n.) lively happening(s)

We had a very exciting holiday. Every day was full of action.

comic strip a set of small cartoon-style pictures

I'm busy drawing pictures and I will finish an interesting comic strip next week.

personality (n.) a person's character; individual nature

The twins don't get along because their personalities are so different.

plot (n.) the main events in a story

The music in the film was good, but the plot was silly.

scenery (n.) the painted background that is used to represent natural features or buildings on a theatre stage

The scenery in the strip is beautiful.

text (n.) written words

The advertisement consists of a picture of a car and some text describing its special features.

variety (n.) differences; change

There is a variety of dishes to choose from.

vary (v.) make different

Businesses vary their advertisements to attract our attention.

Comic strips

Drawing the strip

Here you can see how the script was made into a finished comic strip (you can only see the first part).

THE TEST-TUBE AFFAIR

Some frames can be left without borders to add variety.

The story is mainly told in the pictures, but there are bubbles for speech and thoughts.

A line of text at the top can explain changes of scene or time.

Meanwhile, back at police headquarters

Sound effects add excitement to the pictures.

Frame sizes are varied to make the strip more interesting.

Scenery can make the strip come to life.

C Vocabulary

C1 Find these words in the comic strip, try to work out their meanings and then use them to complete the sentences and dialogues below.

effect	variety	action	dramatic
plot	mainly	scene	speech

- 1 There is a saying that '_____ is the spice of life'. This means that it is good to do many different things instead of doing the same thing all the time.
- 2 The headmaster made a wonderful _____ to all the parents and students on the Open Day.
- 3 This article _____ talks about how to protect the environment.
- 4 The new medicine has a good _____ on my illness.
- 5 s1 Did you enjoy the film?
s2 No. The _____ was very difficult to understand. Also, there was too much talking and not enough _____, except in the _____ at the end when the island sank into the sea. That was very _____.

C2 Find these words in the comic strip. Use them to replace the words in italics in the sentences below.

strip	vary	personalities	scenery	text
-------	------	---------------	---------	------

- 1 These prices differ a lot. Some of the things are cheap, and some are very expensive.
- 2 Jenny is very serious, but Jerry is always joking. They have completely different characters.
- 3 Books for young children usually have lots of pictures and some printed words.
- 4 A group of students are busy designing the natural views and buildings for the school play.
- 5 Before you draw a comic row of pictures, you must think of a plot.

C Vocabulary

Tell the students to use grammar, part of speech and context to find out what the words in Exercises C1 and C2 mean. Ask the class to complete the exercises on their own, and then check their answers.

Answers:

- C1 1 variety
2 speech
3 mainly
4 effect
5 plot, action, scene, dramatic

- C2 1 vary
2 personalities
3 text
4 scenery
5 strip

D Comprehension

- 1 Exercise D1 should be completed while or immediately after reading the passage.

Answers:

- D1 1 plot
2 funny
3 dramatic
4 fast
5 new
6 personalities
7 pictures
8 borders
9 text
10 effects
11 sizes

- 2 Exercise D2 is a comprehension exercise based on the comic strip. Questions 1–4 are about how to create comic strips and Questions 5–9 are about the crime story. Allow the students to work with their partners to prepare their answers.

Answers:

- D2 1 a top left b bottom left c top right
d bottom right
2 The edges of thought bubbles are not smooth. Thought bubbles are connected to characters by smaller bubbles, while speech bubbles have sharp points to connect them to the speakers.
3 Ordinary oval speech bubbles are for the characters' words. Speech bubbles with jagged edges are for speech coming from outside the picture, e.g., from the radio, TV, telephone.
[Note: The students are allowed to answer Questions 2–3 in Chinese.]
4 Brrrring, brrriing.
5 The sound of the window breaking (crash) and glass falling to the floor (tinkle).
6 He tripped them by suddenly pulling a rope tight under their feet.
7 He must be climbing up the pipe because later we can see him on the roof.
8 The man must be the Chief Inspector of the police in charge of the case. He is listening to someone on the telephone, not speaking to himself.
9 He is waving his arms in the air.

Additional activity:

Introduce the students to some more sound-effect words they will find in comic strips with this matching exercise. The answers are provided in brackets below.

- | | |
|--------------------|------------------------|
| 1 bang (c) | a someone at the door |
| 2 pop (d) | b scissors |
| 3 drip-drop (k) | c gun firing |
| 4 zzzzzz (h) | d balloon bursting |
| 5 sizzle (g) | e angry dog |
| 6 clang (n) | f flying insects |
| 7 hiss (j) | g frying food |
| 8 snip-snip (b) | h snoring |
| 9 ka-pow! (m) | i explosion |
| 10 grrrr (e) | j water poured on fire |
| 11 buzzzz (f) | k water leaking slowly |
| 12 boom (i) | l clock |
| 13 tick-tock (l) | m punch |
| 14 knock-knock (a) | n object hitting metal |

Exercise A

- a Tell the students what an animated cartoon is. Then tell them that they are going to read about how to make an animated cartoon.
b Give the students time to read through the leaflet.
c Ask them to fill in the blanks with the words in the box on their own.
d Invite individual students to read a paragraph each and check the answers orally.

Exercise B

- a Let the students read the leaflet in Exercise A again. Ask them to pay attention to what kind of information they can get from each paragraph.
b Ask them to read the subtitles in Exercise B and match them with the correct paragraphs.
c Check the answers orally.

(Note: Do not play the recording until the students finish doing the exercises.)

D Comprehension

D1 Read through the article again and complete these rules about creating comic strips. Put one word from the article in each blank.

Creating a comic strip

Rule 1: Think of a ⁽¹⁾ _____ that is ⁽²⁾ _____ or ⁽³⁾ _____. Make the story move ⁽⁴⁾ _____. Something ⁽⁵⁾ _____ must happen in each picture.

Rule 2: Give the characters strong ⁽⁶⁾ _____ which will be easy to understand just by looking at the ⁽⁷⁾ _____.

Drawing the strip

Rule 1: For variety, leave some frames without ⁽⁸⁾ _____.

Rule 2: Explain changes of scene or time by using a line of ⁽⁹⁾ _____.

Rule 3: Use sound ⁽¹⁰⁾ _____ to add excitement.

Rule 4: For interest, vary the ⁽¹¹⁾ _____ of some frames.

* D2 Answer these questions about the comic strip.

- 1 Look at the pictures of the four characters on page 108. Match the descriptions of the personalities with the faces.
 - a lively (full of energy) and clever
 - b smart and successful
 - c not very smart
 - d bad-tempered
 - 2 Look at the strip. How can you tell a thought bubble from a speech bubble?
 - 3 There are two kinds of speech bubbles. What is each kind used for?
 - 4 What sound-effect words are used in the strip?
- 5 In frame 5, what did the men hear?
 - 6 In frame 6, what did Terry do to make the men fall?
 - 7 In frame 7, is Terry climbing up or down the pipe?
 - 8 Who is the man in frame 9? Is he speaking or listening?
 - 9 In the last frame, how is Terry attracting the attention of the men in the helicopter?

Using adjectives

A Adjectives before nouns

We often put adjectives before the nouns they describe.

He was a plump, middle-aged man. He had thinning, black hair, and a little moustache. Yes, that's him.

Complete the following instructions with these adjectives. You will need to use some of the words more than once.

straight	round	small	smiling	brown
rough	bright	thick	thin

Drawing cartoon faces

We can make people's faces look funny by exaggerating (making greater) some of their features. For example, this girl has ⁽¹⁾ _____ cheeks, ⁽²⁾ _____ eyes, a ⁽³⁾ _____ mouth and ⁽⁴⁾ _____ hair. She also wears glasses with ⁽⁵⁾ _____, ⁽⁶⁾ _____ frames.

Draw a ⁽⁷⁾ _____ outline of the shape of her face, with guidelines in pencil. Add a nose and exaggerated glasses, with ⁽⁸⁾ _____ frames.

Draw very ⁽⁹⁾ _____ eyes and a ⁽¹⁰⁾ _____ mouth.

Add eyebrows and very ⁽¹¹⁾ _____ hair. Colour the face with ⁽¹²⁾ _____ colours.

Grammar

Using adjectives

A Adjectives before nouns

- 1 This section revises and consolidates the students' knowledge of adjectives. Section A covers attributive adjectives, those that are placed in front of nouns.
- 2 The ordinary use of adjectives before nouns should not cause any trouble to learners. Read the introduction to the class and proceed to the exercise.

Answers:

- A
- 1 round
 - 2 small
 - 3 smiling
 - 4 straight
 - 5 thin
 - 6 brown
 - 7 rough
 - 8 thick
 - 9 small
 - 10 smiling
 - 11 thick
 - 12 bright

Additional activity:

- 1 You could ask the students to work in pairs and to draw a cartoon-style picture of their partner, and then to add a short written description underneath.
- 2 Alternately, the students could draw or copy a picture of a favourite cartoon character from a comic or newspaper, and then write a short description of the character.
- 3 The best pieces of work could be displayed on the wall of the classroom.

B Adjectives after verbs

- 1 Section B covers predicative adjectives, those that follow a small family of verbs.
- 2 Read the introduction to the class and ensure the students understand the pattern.

Notes:

- 1 Some adjectives are found mainly in the predicative position (e.g., alive, awake, afraid, asleep, alone, ill and well).
- 2 When old is used predicatively, it can only refer to age.
My old friend means my long time friend.
My friend is old means my friend is elderly.
- 3 When poor is used predicatively, it can only refer to a lack of money, not to pity.
I am poor can only mean I have no money.

- 3 Go over the instructions with the class, and then proceed to the exercise.

Answers:

- B
- 1 high
 - 2 polite
 - 3 fast
 - 4 dangerous
 - 5 awful, delicious
 - 6 hot

B Adjectives after verbs

We can also put adjectives after certain verbs.
Some verbs that we can use in this way are:

sound	seem	grow	taste
smell	feel	get	turn

Use the adjectives in the box to complete the thought and speech bubbles in the pictures below and on page 114. Use each adjective only once.

awful	dangerous	tiny	rude	polite
huge	delicious	hot	fast	high

C Adjectives with It is and to + verb

The adjectives below can be used with It is and to followed by a verb.

funny	possible	dangerous
lucky	strange	interesting
good	difficult	wonderful
safe	boring	important

John and Jane are talking about Jane's new flat. Work in pairs. Complete their conversation using It's and the phrases from the box. The first one has been done for you.

difficult to sleep	easy to get there	impossible to find
nice to live	safe to live there

John Do you like your new flat?

Jane Oh, yes. ⁽¹⁾ It's nice to live in a new flat.

John No complaints about it?

Jane Well, sometimes it's noisy at night, so ⁽²⁾ _____.

John It's in Puxi, isn't it?

Jane That's right, and ⁽³⁾ _____ because it's near an underground station.

John Do you have good security?

Jane 24 hours a day, so ⁽⁴⁾ _____.

John Is the building full?

Jane Yes. ⁽⁵⁾ _____ a flat now.

Answers:

- B 7 huge, tiny
8 rude

Additional activities:

For further practice with these verbs, there are a number of simple activities you can try.

- 1 Feel — Mime the way you are feeling, and then ask the class to guess the adjective you are showing (e.g., ill, happy, tired, full, angry).
- 2 Get/grow — Draw simple pictures on the board showing changes (e.g., The tree is growing taller. The man is getting older.).
- 3 Seem — Give the students these sentences to complete, to bring out the doubt associated with seem.
She seems nice, but (she is often rude).
It seems like a nice flat, but (the neighbours are very noisy).
It seems a nice day, but (the forecast is for rain).
- 4 Smell — Ask the students to describe how a variety of things smell (e.g., the drains, coffee, roses, old socks, apples, lemons.) using adjectives they are familiar with (e.g., awful, terrible, delicious, sweet, sour).
- 5 Sound — Ask the students to describe how a variety of things sound (e.g., police sirens, songbirds, explosions, drums, flutes) using adjectives they know (e.g., loud, noisy, terrible, sweet, lovely, relaxing, frightening).
- 6 Taste — Ask the students to describe how a variety of things taste (e.g., strawberries, limes, sugar, coffee, chips, ice) using adjectives they know (e.g., juicy, sweet, sour, delicious, bitter).

C Adjectives with It is and to + verb

- 1 Section C looks at a structure that can be used with adjectives to express opinions.
- 2 Read through the introduction with the class, and then proceed to the exercise.

Answers:

- C 2 it's difficult to sleep
3 it's easy to get there
4 it's safe to live there
5 It's impossible to find

Additional activity:

Ask the students to complete these sentences with the words from the box on page 114. Possible answers are given in brackets.

- 1 It's (possible) to pass the exam if you work hard.
- 2 It's (good) to have a holiday sometimes.
- 3 It's (funny) to see you in those old clothes.
- 4 It's (safe) to put your money in the bank.
- 5 It's (interesting) to talk to an explorer.
- 6 It's (important) to do your homework.

D Adjectives ending in -ing and -ed

- 1 Adjectives ending in -ing and -ed cause great confusion to the students. The use of the verb feel may help, as it is normally followed by the -ed form. If the student cannot decide between I am excited and I am exciting, he/she can think of the statement having the same meaning as I feel excited.
- 2 Another way is to think of the difference between active and passive voices. If the student hesitates over completing the sentence The film was very excited/exciting, he/she can ask if the film is excited by something or whether it excites someone. The passive voice construction uses the -ed form; the active voice construction uses the -ing form.
- 3 Spend some time explaining the differences between -ing and -ed adjectives. Study the examples with the students, and then tell them to complete the exercise.

Answers:

- D
- 1 boring
 - 2 bored
 - 3 surprising
 - 4 disappointed
 - 5 relaxing
 - 6 exciting
 - 7 interested

Additional activity:

Ask the students to write a short sentence for each adjective in the yellow box on page 115.

Possible answers:

Your exam results are very disappointing.
I was disappointed by his words.

I think History is a very interesting subject.
I am very interested in playing chess.

Watching action films is exciting.
The dog was excited by the smell of food.

We had a relaxing day at the beach.
She felt relaxed after drinking a cup of tea.

The news about the football match was surprising.
I was surprised by her new hairstyle.

The story is boring.
It rained all day, and I was very bored.

D Adjectives ending in -ing and -ed

Some pairs of adjectives can end in -ing and -ed. Adjectives that end in -ing describe how someone or something affects us; adjectives that end in -ed describe how we feel about something.

Frame sizes are varied to make the strip more interesting.
It should be full of action to keep the reader interested.

If something is interesting, it makes you feel interested. Here are some adjectives that we can use in this way:

disappointing	exciting	surprising disappointed	excited	surprised interesting	relaxing	boring
interested	relaxed	bored

Simon is talking to his mum. Complete their conversation with the adjectives in the box above.

Mum How were things at work today, Simon?

Simon Very ⁽¹⁾b_____. I had nothing to do all day. No customers. I felt really ⁽²⁾b_____.

Mum No customers? That's ⁽³⁾s_____. You usually have lots on Saturdays.

Simon I know. Mr Jones was very ⁽⁴⁾d_____. He looked most unhappy all day.

Mum What do you plan to do tonight? Go out, I suppose?

Simon No. I think I'll just have a ⁽⁵⁾r_____ evening at home.

Mum There's an ⁽⁶⁾e_____ film on at Studio Nine.

Simon No, thanks. I'm not ⁽⁷⁾i_____.

Listening

'Help me!'

Rita Rich has been kidnapped. The kidnappers have left the room. They do not know that Rita has her own mobile phone. Now she is telephoning the police.

A Suppose you are a police officer. Complete the notes below.

Rita Rich

On Square Island, in locked room. Two kidnappers.

Windows painted ⁽¹⁾ _____.

She can hear ⁽²⁾ _____ — thinks she is near a ⁽³⁾ _____.

Can also hear the noise from a ⁽⁴⁾ _____ but ⁽⁵⁾ _____ very near.

Can't hear noises from ⁽⁶⁾ _____.

Can hear ⁽⁷⁾ _____ but not very ⁽⁸⁾ _____.

Can smell ⁽⁹⁾ _____ — strong smell.

Can also smell ⁽¹⁰⁾ _____ — thinks she is quite ⁽¹¹⁾ _____ it.

Plastics factory: can smell it just a ⁽¹²⁾ _____.

(Kidnappers returned at this point.)

* B The police know that Rita is on Square Island. They think she is in one of the buildings marked A to F. Use your notes above, and study the map below carefully. Can you find out which building Rita is in?

Listening

'Help me!'

- 1 Explain the situation to the students. Rita has been kidnapped, but is now phoning the police. She cannot see where she is, but the police officer urges her to use her senses of hearing and smell to give some clues. The students must complete the notes by writing one word in each blank. Play the recording more than once if necessary.
- 2 After that, the students should be able to use the notes to work out which building Rita is probably in on the map. They should pay attention to the arrow on the map which shows the 'Usual Wind Direction'. The wind will take both the smells and the sounds in that direction. Let the students work in pairs or small groups for this exercise.
- 3 After the students have worked out the right answer, ask them to explain some of the reasons why the other buildings were wrong. (Some of these reasons are given.)

Tapescript:

Police officer: Hello. Police Headquarters.
 Rita: Hello. This is Rita Rich. I've been kidnapped!
 Police officer: Oh, Rita. Where are you?
 Rita: I'm on Square Island, somewhere. I don't know where. I'm locked in a room. Two men kidnapped me. They have gone away now. But the windows are all painted black. I can't see anything.
 Police officer: All right, Rita, keep calm. So you can't see anything at all?
 Rita: No, nothing.
 Police officer: Right. Well, can you hear anything?
 Rita: Yes, I can. I can hear the trains when they go by. I think I'm near a railway line.
 Police officer: Good. Can you hear anything else?
 Rita: Sometimes I can hear the noise from a school. But I'm not very near the school.
 Police officer: That's good, Rita. Well done. Now, there's a big zoo on Square Island. Can you hear the noises of any strange animals?
 Rita: No, I can't.
 Police officer: What about the airport? Can you hear the planes?
 Rita: Yes, a bit. But they're not very loud.
 Police officer: That's very good, Rita. You're doing very well. Now, I want you to think about smells. Can you smell anything from the outside air?
 Rita: Oh, yes. There's a strong smell of fish. I can smell fish most of the time. And I can smell the sea. I think I'm quite near the sea.

Police officer: Good. Now, there's a big plastics factory on the island. There's a lot of strong chemical smells from that factory. Have you smelt anything like that?

Rita: Yes, just a bit. Not often, though. Oh, I must stop now. The kidnappers are coming back.

Police officer: All right, Rita. Don't worry. I think I know where you are now. We'll come and rescue you soon!

Answers:

- | | | |
|----------|-----------------------|-----------------|
| A | 1 black | 7 planes |
| | 2 trains | 8 loud |
| | 3 railway line | 9 fish |
| | 4 school | 10 sea |
| | 5 not | 11 near |
| | 6 animals | 12 bit |

B Rita is in building C. Here are some of the reasons why the other buildings are wrong:

- A: No school nearby; wrong side of fish market.
 B: Railway too far away; airport too far away.
 D: Too near plastics factory; not near fish market.
 E: Wrong side of fish market; too close to airport and zoo.
 F: Not near railway or fish market.

For further listening practice

- a Give the students one minute to look at the pictures.
- b Play the recording once and let the students write down the numbers.
- c Play the recording again and pause for the students to complete the dialogue.
- d Check the answers with the students.

Speaking

A Talk time

Showing emotions in dialogues

In this section the students practise showing different emotions in a dialogue.

- 1 Go through the instruction for Exercise A1 with the students. Make sure that they know what to do.
- 2 You could demonstrate the sentences to the students before they do the exercise in pairs. They can repeat chorally after you. If you can imitate accents (e.g., American or Australian), say the sentences in those accents to the class and let them imitate you chorally. This will give the students practice in sound imitation.
- 3 For Exercise A2, let the students practise the examples first. Then ask them to work in groups and give them a short time limit to write three sentences. After practising their sentences in groups, the students could say a sentence to the class, with the class trying to guess the emotion.

Answers:

- A1 (afraid) Oh no! I'm afraid of spiders!
(worried) Jim has been very ill recently. I hope he will feel better soon.
(confident) I'm well prepared. I can win the match!

A Talk time

Showing emotions in dialogues

You can use word stress, and rising and falling intonation to show different emotions.

A1 With a partner, practise using these emotions to say the sentences in the box. You must decide which of these emotions goes with each of the sentences.

Oh no! I'm afraid of spiders!

I'm well prepared. I can win the match!

Jim has been very ill recently. I hope he will feel better soon.

1 You sound afraid.

2 You sound worried.

3 You sound confident.

A2 Work in groups of four. Each of you writes three sentences that show your emotions. Then say your sentences to the group. Finally, discuss if you showed your emotions correctly. Read these examples:

(surprised) Have I really won the competition?

(brave) Don't be afraid. I won't let these dogs bite you.

(bored) I've studied for ten hours already. I wish I could watch some TV.

B Speak up

Cartoon faces

You can make cartoon faces come to life by giving them different expressions, e.g., happiness, anger.

 Work in pairs or small groups. Look at the descriptions on the left and the cartoon faces on the right. Then discuss which description goes with which face.

- 1 Very happy. You can make the person burst out laughing by opening the mouth and showing the teeth.
- 2 Frightened. Face is pale. Hair stands on end. Eyes are wide open.
- 3 Naughty. Mouth goes up on side where eye is closed.
- 4 Tricky. Eyes look to the side and mouth is small.
- 5 Very angry. Mouth is wide open in a loud shout.
- 6 Thoughtful. Eyes look up and to the side.
- 7 Sad. Mouth and eyebrows droop.
- 8 Angry. Use straight lines for the mouth and eyebrows.
- 9 Sleepy. Nose is pushed up to eyes, which are closed. Mouth is wide open showing teeth.
- 10 Bored. A wavy line for the mouth and droopy eyes give a bored look.

B Speak up

Cartoon faces

This exercise requires you to ask the students to describe the pictures one by one, saying what emotions they think the faces are expressing. Ask the students to work in pairs to match the descriptions with the faces.

Answers:

Writing

On Mystery Island

- 1 The students should work in pairs or small groups and look through the pictures. To help them understand the pictures, they should describe to each other what is happening in each one and also study the words and phrases at the bottom of the page.
- 2 Each student should then work on his or her own, and write the words for the comic strip. They should write these in their exercise books and not on the comic strip, as they need more space for some of the longer items.
- 3 The sample answers here are not the only correct possibilities. There are many other possible correct answers, and it is not essential for the students to use all of the given words and phrases. Note also that it is not always necessary to write in complete sentences in comic strips, especially when an action interrupts a speaker.

Possible answers:

- 1 Steve and Jody set out on a round-the-world trip in their small boat.
- 2 Good luck! Goodbye!
- 3 Thanks! Goodbye!
- 4 The trip went well. They were celebrating together.
- 5 We've been sailing for one month, Jody!
- 6 Listen! It's the weather forecast.
- 7 A typhoon is coming ...
- 8 The typhoon soon arrived.
- 9 The sea's getting rough.
- 10 We'd better put our life jackets on, Steve.
- 11 CRASH!
- 12 Now we're in trouble!
- 13 After the typhoon ...
- 14 That was terrible, Jody.
- 15 Yes, but thank goodness we're still alive.
- 16 A few days later ...
- 17 Look, Steve! There's an island.
- 18 I'll try to row towards it.
- 19 Back on land.
- 20 We made it! Now we're safe!
- 21 Suddenly, from behind the trees ...
- 22 ROAR!
- 23 Quick! Run! It's a dinosaur!

Exercises A , B and C

- a Let the students look at the pictures in the two comic strips and discuss in pairs what the characters may say or think.
- b Ask the students to read the sentences in Exercise A and discuss in pairs what actually happened in the comic strips. Then have them write the correct sentences in frames 1 and 2 of each comic strip.
- c Let the students compare their writing with another pair.
- d Give the students time to complete frames 3 and 4 of each comic strip and remind them to add some symbols and sound-effect words.
- e Invite a few pairs to read their comic strips to class.

On Mystery Island

A In small groups, look at the comic strip below. It is the beginning of a story called On Mystery Island. Discuss what is happening in each picture.

B On your own, write the words for the strip in your exercise books. Write the text, speech bubbles, thought bubbles and sound effects. Invent your own ending. You may wish to use some of the words and phrases below. It is not necessary to use all of these.

How an animated cartoon is made

1 The idea

To begin with, some basic ideas for a story are necessary. For example, a plot needs to be thought of. That is, the sequence^① of events in a story. The characters and settings are important too.

10 This story is about a robot, Han. He works at a hotel in the city centre, but he has a problem. He always forgets things. One day, Han meets his friends, Fanny and Tim, at the pier. They are waiting for the ferry going to Lucky Island. Han says, 'I'm happy. I bought a Palm Pilot. It's useful to have. You won't forget things.' Fanny says, 'Yes, Palm Pilots are useful. Here's mine.' Tim says, 'Where's yours?' Han says, 'Oh no! I forgot to bring it!'

2 The characters

In the second stage, the type of characters and their sounds are decided.

Han is a very tall and large robot. He sounds funny because his voice comes from a computer. He has square eyes, not round ones, because they are actually video cameras.

25 Tim is a thin, happy boy. He wears glasses, so he looks clever. It's important to make him look funny but nice.

Fanny is a tall, pleasant girl, with a cheerful face. She has long, straight, black hair. She thinks that robots are fun to talk to, so she smiles a lot when she talks to Han.

3 The storyboard^②

Now, a rough sketch of the story is made in black and white. At this stage, the animated cartoon is like a comic strip. Words are added to thought or speech bubbles and captions are inserted^③.

4 Sound recording

Next, the voices and sounds in your animated cartoon are recorded. For example, Han, Fanny and Tim talking, and the noise of the ferry.

5 Making detailed drawings

Now, detailed drawings are made and colour is added. Then different camera angles are set for each drawing.

6 Computerized camera photographs

Finally, each frame (drawing) is photographed separately. For this, a computerized camera is used. An animated cartoon is made when the photographed frames are put together and played very fast.

① sequence n. 顺序 ② storyboard n. 剧情梗概系列图片 ③ insert v. 插入; 嵌入

How an animated cartoon is made

The passage consists of six numbered paragraphs, setting out a step-by-step sequence of cartoon production.

Vocabulary:

animated (adj.) made to move or brought to life

An animated cartoon is one in which the characters move and appear to be alive.

camera angle the position of the camera relative to what is being filmed or photographed

Film directors usually use different camera angles to create different effects.

caption (n.) words describing the action of a cartoon, usually written under a cartoon or under frames in a comic strip

A lot of strips don't have captions; they only have speech bubbles.

frame (n.) one picture in a comic strip

We want you to draw a four-frame comic strip, so you must tell the story in four pictures.

insert (v.) put something into something else or between two things

Coins are inserted into the slot of a vending machine.

Note: Insert can also be used as a noun and it is pronounced as /'ɪnsɜ:t/.

separately (adv.) one by one; not together

The teacher talked to Paul and April separately, first April and then Paul.

sequence (n.) the order in which things happen

You can draw the comic strip in sequence, 1,2,3,4.

setting (n.) places and times at which a story happens

The story was set in Shanghai and had two settings, Lujiazui and Zhongshan Park.

stage (n.) a step in a sequence

We have completed the first stage of the task.

storyboard (n.) a set of pictures which shows the outline of a story in sequence

The storyboard is very important in cartoon production.

Additional teaching suggestions

- 本单元的教学重点是如何绘制连环画，关于绑架的故事只是一个载体，用以帮助学生了解连环画的制作过程和要点，因此故事中出现的生词进 Notes 以帮助学生理解故事内容，不要求学生掌握运用。
- 本单元 Grammar 部分总结了以 -ing 或 -ed 结尾的形容词，这是教学重点和难点，教师在教学中应作充分的讲解和操练。
- 通过教授有关被绑架少年如何与绑匪巧妙周旋最终得以安全逃生的故事，提醒并教育学生遇到突发事件时要保持镇定、认真思考，加强自我保护意识并采取恰当的应对措施。

Making notes (III)

- 1 Making notes and filling in flow charts, diagrams and pie charts with information from a passage is a useful test of comprehension. It can also help us make clear and easy-to-understand summaries.
- 2 This skill is quite a difficult one, and you will need to work through the exercise with your class. Read the passage with the students and explain any parts they do not understand.
- 3 Copy the flow chart onto the board and ask selected students to come up and fill in the blanks. Continue until you have all the correct answers.

Answers:

- 1 immediate
- 2 rejected
- 3 short-term
- 4 rejected

- 6 held

Making notes (III)

Sometimes you can read something and show its meaning by drawing a diagram.

 Read the following passage and then complete the diagram below it with information from the passage. Put one word in each blank. (Words with hyphens count as one word.)

Here are two of the words you will have to use.

held rejected

Three types of memory

Some scientists believe that there are three kinds of memory—immediate, short-term and long-term.

Immediate memory holds items of information coming into it from the five senses for less than a second. Then it either rejects (i.e. forgets) them or passes them into short-term memory.

Short-term memory can hold about seven items of information at one time (e.g., telephone numbers). It holds them for about thirty seconds. Then they are rejected or passed into long-term memory.

Long-term memory can hold information for the whole of our lives. Some scientists believe that long-term memory can be divided into two types. One type remembers events, that is things that happen to us. The other remembers knowledge (e.g., the names of countries or the meanings of words).

*Project

Making a class book Our Cartoon Friends

In this project, we will make a class book called Our Cartoon Friends.

You can write about a cartoon character in this project, or you can make up your own one. For example, I've just made up Miss Poodle.

A You need to decide which cartoon you like the most and want to write about. You can make up a new character for this project.

Do you watch cartoons on TV? Are they interesting to write about?

Do you collect cartoon books and toys?

B Then in groups, discuss who you want to write about. Ask each other for ideas.

Example:

S1 I want to write about Miss Kitty.

S2 I want to make up my own character. He's an octopus! Who are you going to write about, Sam?

S3 I don't know.

S4 You like art. You could write about Ma Liang!

S3 Yes, that's a good idea. What about you, Helen?

S4 I'd like to write about the Monkey King. He's my favourite cartoon character.

S2 That sounds great.

Project

Making a class book Our Cartoon Friends

This project combines many of the skills that have been practised in the previous units. It also encourages the students to develop their creativity.

- 1 Introduce the task. Make sure that the students understand what they are going to do. The students must choose a familiar cartoon character or invent a new one. You may wish to brainstorm with the class and make a list of cartoon characters' names, or ideas for creating cartoon characters, on the board.
- 2 Let the students work in groups and discuss what they want to write about. You may use Exercise B as an example for discussion. After that, you could have the students fill out a sheet showing which characters they have chosen and make sure that the same character has not been chosen by too many students.

- 3 Ask the students to write a description and a story of their cartoon characters. Explain the two different text types to the students.
- 4 Ask the students to make a plan that shows what they will have on their page. Let the students work in groups and discuss their plans. They should help each other improve the plans in a positive and supportive way.
- 5 Remind the students that they can also collect some pictures of their familiar cartoon characters. If they are inventing their own character, they need to produce some simple drawings of the character.
- 6 Now the students should produce the final versions, which should be neat, colourful and attractive. If possible, encourage the students to draw more cartoon pictures to show the story, with speech and thought bubbles to make a comic strip.
- 7 Display the final copies of the task in class and then assemble them into a ring file to make a class book.

C Work in pairs. Design a page for your cartoon character. First, write a short description like the one below.

A description of your cartoon friend, e.g.,

My cartoon friend is called Miss Poodle. She is not a famous character. I made her up myself. Miss Poodle is a girl dog. She is very cute. She has golden, curly hair. She wears a red ribbon in her hair. Miss Poodle is very friendly ...

D Write a short story about your cartoon character with your partner. You can use the following introduction for reference.

A story about your cartoon friend, e.g.,

One day, Miss Poodle was sitting in a café in Paris. She was drinking some coffee and reading a newspaper. Then her friend, Tony Tiger, arrived. He said ...

E Now plan your page with your partner. Please use your imagination to make your page as beautiful as possible. You should draw two pictures. One should be your cartoon character. The other should show the setting of the story. The following is a sample plan.

My cartoon friend—Miss Poodle

My cartoon friend is called Miss Poodle. She is not a famous character. I made her up myself. Miss Poodle is a girl dog. She is very cute. She has golden, curly hair. She wears a red ribbon in her hair. Miss Poodle is very friendly ...

A story about Miss Poodle

One day, Miss Poodle was sitting in a café in Paris. She was drinking some coffee and reading a newspaper. Then her friend, Tony Tiger, arrived. He said ...

F For the story, you can also draw more pictures and put in bubbles for speech and thoughts to make a comic strip.

G Finally, all students put their pages together to make a class book called Our Cartoon Friends.

Unit 1

Listening A

In 490 BC the Greek army was fighting the Persians. The war was on a plain near a place called Marathon. The Greek army had 10,000 soldiers, and the Persians had 50,000. However, the Greeks defeated the Persians. Their army captured many enemy soldiers. A Greek soldier ran across the plain from Marathon back to his home town to tell everyone the good news, and they all celebrated. This man became famous because he ran so far—the distance was 24 miles. We still celebrate this man's long run in the modern Olympic Games, but the distance of the marathon has changed to 26 miles.

Listening B

Good evening, everyone. Welcome to 'History Time'. Tonight, we are going to tell you about the ancient Olympic Games.

The first Olympic Games were held thousands of years ago in Greece. The Olympic Games were started because the people of Greece wanted to show respect to the gods. The first Olympic Games only lasted for one day! In modern times, the Olympic Games last for two weeks. In the modern Olympics, there are many different types of sports, but in the ancient Olympic Games, there were only about ten types. And did you know that thousands of years ago, married women were not allowed to watch the games? If a married woman was found inside the stadium, she would be punished!

Reporter: It is known that in England farmers have traditionally used dogs to look after their sheep. In some parts of the country, farmers teach their dogs from a very young age to be responsible for keeping the sheep together. This requires a lot of training. Here we have Mr Smith, a farmer in England to talk to us about this topic.

Mr Smith, may I ask you a few questions, please?

Mr Smith: Certainly.

Reporter: What do you teach your dog to do?

Mr Smith: I teach him to keep sheep together and move them around.

Reporter: Does this require a lot of time?

Mr Smith: Yes. It takes a long time to remove the dog's desire to chase the sheep.

Reporter: After the dog is trained, what do you need to do then?

Mr Smith: All I have to do is stand with a pole in the corner of the field and call or whistle to the dog.

Reporter: Is there a more modern method that can be used to control the sheep?

Mr Smith: Yes. A special motorbike can be used.

Reporter: Have you ever tried that?

Mr Smith: No, I don't like that. I enjoy working with my dog.

Reporter: Thanks for your time, Mr Smith.

Mr Smith: You're welcome.

Unit 3

Listening

In Europe, North America and many other places around the world, people like to have pets. They think one of the best and easiest pets to take care of is a mouse. It is easier and cheaper than a dog, and it is a better friend than a cat. A mouse is interesting to watch. It loves being with people. And it does not bark or make noise like some pets.

A mouse's house is not as expensive as a dog's one. You can use a fish tank. It will be easy to clean.

A mouse needs a lot of exercise. It does not like having nothing to do. So give it something to climb on. Make two floors in its house. Then it can climb up and down.

A mouse can eat anything. It loves fruit. It does not eat as much as some pets, but it eats more often. Give it something to eat two or three times every day. Like all animals, a mouse needs good, clean water. Do not forget to wash its water bowl every day.

April: Did you know you can buy a cheap robot? It's called RoboPet. It only costs 3,900 yuan. It's the cheapest robot in Garden City.

Peter: What can it do?

April: When you touch it, it can smile.

Peter: Really? A robot that can smile?

April: Yes. And it can talk. It can say things like 'Good morning, sir'.

Peter: What else can it do?

April: It can tell you to do things. It can say 'April, it's Thursday. Do your maths homework.'

Peter: I don't need a robot to tell me to do my homework. My mother does that every day. Hey, do you know about P-Too? It's a really useful robot. It's three metres tall and weighs 207 kilos.

April: That's tall.
Peter: Yes. It's the tallest robot in Garden City.
April: What does it do?
Peter: It can run and it can also climb stairs.
April: That's not very useful. What else can it do?
Peter: It can help make cars in factories.
April: I want a robot that has feelings. I want a robot that can cry and laugh.
Peter: It's difficult to make robots that can cry or laugh. But there is a robot that can feel angry.
April: A robot that can feel angry? Wow? What's its name?
Peter: It's called KY-30. It gets angry when you don't touch it or talk to it. The inventor of KY-30 is the famous Ken Tan. It's made in England.
April: Sorry, who's Ken Tan?
Peter: He's an inventor.
April: Can KY-30 help me do things?
Peter: Yes, it can cook meals for you.
April: That's good. Anything else?
Peter: It can smile and it can speak. Do you want one for your birthday?
April: No, thanks! I don't need an angry robot.

Unit 6

Listening A

A man tried to run into a bank, but he became stuck in the doorway. Some bank clerks released him, and he left the bank. Five minutes later, the man came back with a gun. He walked over to a clerk and asked for 500,000 dollars from the safe. The clerk thought it was a joke so he refused to give the money to the robber. He changed his request to 50,000 dollars, then 5,000 dollars. The police finally arrived when the unlucky robber was demanding 5 dollars. They did not want to jump to conclusions, so they interviewed the man. He denied the crime and said he was too stupid to rob a bank.

Listening B

I'll tell you another funny story. This case happened in England a few years ago. A woman called Mrs Smith owned a white parrot. It was an unusual bird, and she purchased it for 10,000 pounds. The parrot was called Snowy. One night, someone stole Snowy from Mrs Smith's home. Then, about three weeks later, the police found that a man called Bill had a new white parrot. They went to question Bill. He denied stealing the parrot. He said his sister gave it to him, and its name was Happy. Bill said he was an innocent man. But the police did not believe him. They took Bill and the parrot to Mrs Smith's house. When the parrot saw Mrs Smith, it was very excited. It flew to her, landed on her shoulder, and shouted, 'Hello! Hello! I'm Snowy! I'm Snowy!' After that, Bill admitted stealing the parrot from Mrs Smith's home. The police arrested the guilty man and took him away.

Dear Kevin

Thank you very much for your letter. I enjoyed reading it. I am glad you enjoy watching and playing tennis. Keep practising, and you will get better and better!

Now let me answer your questions. I have been to Shanghai and have already played tennis there several times. I like Shanghai, but I have not been there for several months. I have visited lots of countries, including Australia, the UK, Canada, France and Italy. I have played tennis since 2000. I have never won the US Open Championship. My favourite hobby is keeping beautiful fish. I have kept fish for many years.

Best wishes

Michael

Dear Martin

Thank you for telling me some of the problems at the zoo. Here are some of the things we have done to solve the problems.

We have moved the lion into a larger cage. It has more space, and now it can move easily. There is no problem with the tiger. Tigers always sleep in the afternoon, especially in summer. There is a big problem with the fish. We have put a big notice near the aquarium. It warns people strongly, 'Don't feed the fish! Fine:¥1,000.'

I have told the restaurant staff to speak politely to visitors. We have also put three new rubbish bins near the restaurant.

I hope this letter answers some of your complaints about the zoo. We are certainly not perfect, but we will try very hard to make it a nice place both for animals to live and for people to visit.

Yours

I've created a new game recently. The game is about the environment. It is called 'The Garden City Environment Game'. There is a man in the game. He keeps throwing rubbish into the sea. Then he hides. You have to find him and give him messages about the environment. When you get 1,000 points, you win the game.

I hope you will like my game.

A day to remember

My twelfth birthday was a day to remember.

It was a cool autumn day. My parents prepared a surprise party for me. When I returned home from school and rang the doorbell, there was no answer. As soon as I opened the door with my key, my parents and relatives were all there shouting, 'Surprise!' I felt really surprised and thanked them all. My parents gave me a Harry Potter book for my birthday. It was exactly the present I wanted. My relatives took out a nice cake with twelve candles on it. It was delicious. All of us enjoyed the party.

I will always remember my twelfth birthday.

B

(Possible answer)

There was a robbery on the eighth floor of a block of flats in West Town last night. Someone stole earrings and a necklace worth about $10,000 from Mr and Mrs Jones's flat while they were out.

I decided to interview all the residents on the eighth floor. First, I interviewed Frank and he suggested talking to the watchman. Then Richard told me that he didn't steal the jewellery and he was innocent. After that I found that Ada loves to dress up and likes wearing large earrings. When I interviewed Louis and Bob, they said that they saw a strange-looking man in the lift just before the robbery. I didn't think Chris was helpful because he refused to answer some of my questions. Mr and Mrs Jones admitted that they were so careless they forgot to close some of their windows.

I didn't want to jump to conclusions. I thought that Richard might be the suspect because he knew that some jewellery was stolen from Mr and Mrs Jones before I told him.
