致同学们

亲爱的同学们：

欢迎你们打开这本教材，进入高中英语学习的新阶段。在这个阶段中，同学们将通过语言能力、文化意识、思维品质和学习能力四个方面的综合训练，全面提升英语学科核心素养。

本套教材共分七册，必修第一至第三册为必修课程内容，通过这一阶段的学习，同学们可以达到《普通高中英语课程标准（2017年版2020年修订）》（以下简称《课程标准》）所要求的学业质量水平一，即高中毕业基本要求；选择性必修第一至第四册为选择性必修课程内容，学完这四册教材后，同学们可达到《课程标准》所要求的学业质量水平二，即达到未来接受高等教育的基本要求。

本册为必修第一册，共有四个核心主题（Our world、Places、Choices、My space）。同学们在这四个主题语境的引领下开展听说读写看的活动。

本册教材共由四个单元组成，每个单元有五个板块，各板块的具体内容和学习方式如下：

- Reading and interaction 是单元的核心内容，其中的主课文搭建了一个活动丰富的学习平台，供同学们研读文章的思想内容和语言特点。同学们可以据此联系生活实际，开展听说读写的综合性交际活动，全面提高语言能力、思维品质，把握文化内涵，提升文化意识和学习能力。
- Grammar activity 是《课程标准》所规定的相关语法学习内容，其中的语法范例展示了语法知识的特点，随后的语法合作学习活动将帮助你们建立规范和得体的语法知识体系，发展有效的语法应用能力。
- Listening and speaking 分为听力活动和口语活动。听力活动之前有丰富的听前准备活动，同学们准备得越充分，听力学习的成效就越大；口语活动和听力活动紧密相依，为同学们创造了听说相结合的训练机会。
- Writing 为同学们提供了发展写作能力的机会。在教师的指导下，同学们可以首先根据问题提示研究范文在内容、语言和文本编辑方面的特点，然后开展独立的写作训练。
- Cultural focus 提供了丰富的优秀中华文化和世界其他国家及地区的文化内容。同学们通过学习这些内容，理解丰富多彩的文化现象和文化特点，提升文化意识和文化比较能力，加强对中国文化的自信，树立家国情怀，培养人类命运共同体的理念，将价值塑造、知识传授和能力培养三者融为一体。本板块还有一个视频学习项目，蕴含丰富的语言和文化内容，同学们通过视听学习，能够有效地提升“看英语”的能力。

本套教材还有以下特点：

- 丰富的学习活动助你改进学习方式

《课程标准》提倡通过活动来提高语言学习效能。为此，本套教材含有大量的综合性语言交际活动，有助于同学们不断改进学习方式，主动、积极地参与到合作探究的学习活动中去。

- “学习目标”和“自我评价”手段有助于提高“教学评”一体化程度

明确的学习目标和准确的自我评价是保证“教学评”一体化的重要条件。本套教材为同学们提供了两个助学工具：(1) 单元开始时的“学习目标”提出了各个板块的学习内容和期望达成的学习结果；(2) 单元结束时的自我评价活动可以帮助同学们准确地评价自己的学习成果，并据此规划下一步的学习目标。

成功的英语学习需要建立在强有力的动机、合理的学习方式和持之以恒的努力之上。希望同学们在新的学习阶段中，积极参加各种交际活动，用耐心和恒心铺就成功之道。预祝同学们学习成功！

Pre-reading activity

1 Before you read, take one thing out of your pocket or school bag and then answer the questions.

Is it about your family?

Is it about your education?

Is it about your free time?

Is it about your health?

Is it about your friends?

Or is it about

Is this thing important to you? Why?

2 Read the first paragraph of the passage and then answer the questions.

(1) What is the general idea?

.....

(2) What do you think the two expressions video clip and digital time capsule mean? Look up their definitions in a dictionary to see if your understanding is correct.

• A video clip:

• A digital time capsule:

.....

What do you love? What do you fear?

What's in your pocket? These are the questions from the film Life in a Day.

Director Kevin Macdonald asked

5 people around the world to answer the questions and send in a video clip from a typical day. He was interested in creating a picture of the world, a digital time capsule for the future. On 24

10 July 2010, people from Africa, Europe, America, Antarctica and Asia recorded events on their mobile phones and digital cameras and uploaded^① them onto the Internet. In all there were 15 81,000 video clips. It took Macdonald and a team of researchers seven weeks to make them into a film.

The film starts at midnight. The moon is high in the sky, elephants

20 are washing themselves in a river in Africa and a baby is sleeping. At the same time, in other parts of the world, people are getting up, brushing their teeth and making breakfast. In the 25 next minutes of the one-and-a-half-hour-long film, we watch everyday routines from more than 140 different countries and see the connections between them. In one short scene an American girl is playing with her hula hoop. In another, a child is working at a shoeshine stand in Peru. One looks well off, the other is poor, 30 but then the shoeshine boy shows us his favourite thing—his notebook computer. He's very proud of it because he earned the money to pay for it.

"We all care about the same things," says the director and in some ways he's right. Family and friends are the things most people love and many of them are keen on sports, like football. But then one man says he loves his cat and another loves his 35 fridge because it doesn't talk back!

Monsters^①, dogs and death are the things most people fear. One young girl is worried about growing up and a man in Antarctica says, "I'm afraid of losing this place." But when asked, "What's in your pocket?", the answers are surprising. We don't see an ID card, a shopping list, or a bus ticket. Instead, one person has a 40 paper towel, and another shows us a button. A poor man says he has nothing. He's not ashamed of his poverty—he's simply happy to be alive.

The film ends just before midnight, with a young woman in her car. It's raining outside and she's recording a short clip on her phone. "I just want people to know that I'm here," she says. In other words, she wants to show that her life matters.
45 Even though their lives are very different, the people in Life in a Day have one thing in common: each of them is able to find meaning and happiness, no matter what his or her life is like.

① monster /'mɒnstə(r)/ n. 怪物

(4) What are the things that most people fear?

2 Read the summary below and fill in each blank with a suitable word based on the language of the passage. You may change the form if necessary.

Life in a Day is a film about the everyday lives of people in different countries. The director Kevin Macdonald is interested in ¹ a picture of the world as a ² time capsule for the future. He asked people around the world to film a short ³ of their daily routines on a ⁴ day. He also asked them to answer three questions about what they love, what they fear, and what they have in their pockets. He received 81,000 video ⁵ in all, which were recorded on mobile phones or ⁶ cameras. Then, he and his team turned them into a film. The scenes are well ⁷ and deal with topics, such as people's cares and worries, their fears and their feelings about some seemingly ⁸ and unimportant things in life. The film expresses a clear message: people around the world are living different lives, and each of them is unique. But they have one thing in common: they all try to find meanings in those everyday ⁹ —this is what really ¹⁰

Mini-project

Making a digital time capsule

Imagine that you are going to make a digital time capsule for people living 100 years from now. Each of you should suggest one object or one scene from everyday life for filming.

- Discuss the questions in groups.
What object / scene would you choose? Why would you choose it?
- Share ideas within your group.
- Select one person to report on behalf of your group.

My choice

I would film one of our English lessons for the time capsule.

Reasons

I think that the people living 100 years from now would find it surprising that there is a human teacher standing in the front and talking to so many students at the same time. By then, there might not be schools like ours any more. Children would probably learn from robots.

My work at UNICEF China

Li Zhen from UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund) China was interviewed by our reporter last week. Here is what he shared with us.

Reporter: What does UNICEF do?

Li Zhen: UNICEF is an international organization. Its goal is to protect the rights of children and to make sure that every child receives health care and education.

¹A lot of important work is being done by UNICEF and its partners. ²We are always doing our best to improve the lives of children around the world. The organization has offices in most countries. ³I'm mainly working in the UNICEF China office in Beijing, but I do travel a lot.

⁴A large number of activities are being organized by different UNICEF offices and partner organizations. Because of this, I'm always in touch with other offices to find out about new projects.

Reporter: ⁵What kind of programme is currently being implemented^①?

Li Zhen: UNICEF has an Early Childhood Development programme to help children between the ages of three and six. Kids that age are too young to start school, but they're not too young to start learning. ⁶Through our community programmes, children are playing and learning at the same time. Parents love these programmes.

Reporter: What are your plans for today at the office?

Li Zhen: Well, there are several things on my schedule. A big conference will be held in Beijing next week. ⁷My team is preparing to talk about our projects. ⁸I'm also writing a report for the UNICEF office in New York. ⁹Several plans are being developed to improve school quality in small towns far from any big cities. ¹⁰My report explains some of our goals and what we're doing to achieve them.

And later this afternoon, I'll take part in a meeting about UNICEF's e-learning project for parents. ¹¹That programme supports Chinese parents who are living and working far away from their children.

a Which sentences talk about actions that are happening now or over a period of time?

b Which sentences talk about something being done?

2 Complete the passage. Use the present continuous or the present continuous passive form of the verbs in brackets.

The UNICEF e-learning project

In parts of China many children are living with grandparents or relatives. Where are these children's parents? They ¹ (work) far from their homes and families. Many of these parents are only back home for a few days each year to see their children. This kind of life is hard for the children and hard for the parents as well.

Luckily, programmes ² (set up) to help them. UNICEF ³ (work) together with local organizations to provide support for families with left-behind children. Today, mobile technology ⁴ (use) to deliver useful information to parents.

The UNICEF e-learning project is one such programme. Every day, thousands of parents watch short videos, take quizzes^①, or read informative cartoons that inspire and educate them about parenting through online apps^②. Some apps ⁵ (develop), and some are already in use. And they provide useful tips for many families.

Teens Magazine:

What's new?

Every year, many young people enter senior high school just like you. You may have something to say about your new school life, so send us a letter about it. We want to know what's different, what's similar and what's new.

1 Read the advertisement in Teens Magazine. Imagine that you are writing to the magazine. You may prepare your writing by thinking about the questions.

(1) What type of writing do you have to do?

- an informal letter ■ a formal letter

(2) What do you need to include? Select one or more topics from the list below.

- school buildings ■ teachers ■ classmates ■ schoolwork
■ school activities ■ other things like

2 Read the sample letter. Which topics in exercise 1 question (2) does it include? Then complete the table on page 17 before you write.

18XX Renmin Road
Shanghai 200040
People's Republic of China
12 September 20XX

Dear Teens,

I've been at senior high for about two weeks and I love it.

Many things here are different from those in my junior high school. The school is larger. It has so many buildings that I still lose my way sometimes. We have more classes and the subjects are much more difficult than before. Unlike the teachers in junior high, teachers here don't set a lot of rules, so we have more freedom. There are more school clubs and activities. I have joined the basketball club and the guitar club. The biggest difference is that my senior high school is a boarding school. I live in the school dorm during the week. I miss my family sometimes, but I get on well with my roommates, and I'm learning how to live away from home.

Other things are the same. Students here are as friendly as those in the junior high school. I've made some friends here and we play basketball after school together—just like before.

Next week, we're going to have the School Art Festival. I'm playing the guitar for my class and I'm excited about that!

I like life here. So much is new, challenging and fun. I know I'll enjoy the next three years here.

Yours,

Li Ming

People who live in a particular area may share a similar lifestyle. This is what we call culture. We need to learn how to understand other cultures, and get to know their history and societies.

In this section, you will first read a passage about how to study culture. You will then watch a video about Irish immigration to the USA.

1 Read the passage to learn how to study culture.

How to study culture

Culture means a way of life for a particular group of people. It can be studied in terms of four cultural elements—cultural objects, cultural festivals or celebrations, cultural behaviours and cultural ideas.

A cultural object usually refers to a thing that is closely related to a particular culture. Chinese knots, lanterns and dragon boats are examples of Chinese culture.

A cultural festival / celebration usually refers to an event where the traditions of a particular people or place are celebrated. Some Chinese examples include the Spring Festival, the National Day (1 October) and the Mid-Autumn Festival.

A cultural behaviour usually refers to a way of doing a particular thing that is shared by other members of that group or community. For example, the way you introduce yourself to new people, eat your meal, or even the way you speak in public.

A cultural idea refers to an understanding of the world that typically reflects the way of thinking in a particular culture. For example, there are ideas about wealth, family, and attitudes towards one's elders in almost every culture in the world. Yet, people from different cultures view these things from different perspectives^①. In China, for example, respect for older people is of much greater importance than in some other countries.

Where history comes alive

Xi'an, China

Xi'an is no doubt one of the most popular tourist destinations in China. Every year, millions of travellers visit the Terracotta Army of Emperor Qin Shihuang about 42 kilometres from the city centre, which is one of the most amazing historic sites in the world.

As one of China's great former capitals, Xi'an grew to be the largest city in the world during the Tang Dynasty, a golden age of art and poetry. Chang'an, as it was known at the time, was the starting point of the Silk Road, which connected China to the world. It was here that Xuan Zang set out on his famous travels, which became the basis of Journey to the West. Historic sites from that time include the two Wild Goose Pagodas and the remains of the Daming Palace, which was the centre of the Tang court.

20 Today, Xi'an is a modern city, at the heart of China's Belt and Road Initiative, but its long history can be seen everywhere: it is one of the few cities in the world that still have city walls. The wall, almost 14 kilometres in length, was originally built for the purpose of defence, but nowadays, it's a great way to experience Xi'an: from here, you can get an amazing view of the city.

25 Florence, Italy

Florence, one of the famous historic cities in Italy, is the birthplace of many amazing ideas and discoveries!

Florence's history is alive with the memory of a time when art, culture and science were being "reborn". In the late 13th century, the Renaissance began here before spreading to 30 the rest of Europe. At that time, Michelangelo, Leonardo da Vinci and Galileo were some of the people living, working and studying in Florence. During this period, they, along with other great minds, contributed valuable artworks and made important scientific discoveries.

Florence is filled with art, science and history museums and ancient buildings, as well
35 as historic universities. You can visit many of these places to experience and admire the amazing work and discoveries that happened during the Renaissance period. An example is Michelangelo's famous statue David, which he completed between 1501 and 1504. Another must-see is the University of Florence. It was started in 1321 and many famous people studied there in the Renaissance period, including Leonardo da Vinci.

40 In Florence today you can experience the old and the new. Historic sites are neighbours with fancy restaurants and high-end shops. While you are trying the delicious local food, you can decide which interesting places to visit next.

Future in the past

One way to talk about the future in the past is to use would / should (instead of will / shall) + verb.
The boy thought that he would never see the girl again.

→ Grammar reference 2 (p. 88)

- 1 When we travel around, we meet different people with different stories. Here is one such story. Read and find examples of future in the past. Then complete the grammar rules.

The kindness of strangers

It was Saturday, and Gina was excited. She usually met her friends at the weekend. However, today she would visit her aunt in Toronto. She was about to go to the bus station. This wasn't her first bus trip on her own, but she still felt a bit nervous. The bus ride wouldn't be short: it was going to take almost five hours. Gina put some fruit and a sandwich in her bag, in case she got hungry.

It was nine o'clock when she arrived and the station was crowded. Long lines of people were waiting there. It took 45 minutes to buy a ticket. When she got on her bus, there was one seat left, next to a boy in a basketball shirt. He was talking on his mobile phone. The boy looked up when she sat down beside him. Gina smiled and she wanted to talk to him. However, the boy didn't smile back. She was still watching him when he turned away and looked out of the dirty window. He didn't want to talk. "What did I do? Was I impolite?" she wondered. Gina closed her eyes. She thought about her trip. She was going to spend a week at her aunt's place. She couldn't wait to arrive in Toronto! The bus started moving, and Gina quickly fell asleep.

When we are talking about future events, as seen from the past, we can use the structures

- 1 and
- 2 indicates that the action happened soon afterwards.

2 Complete the passage with the correct forms of the verbs in brackets.

A few hours later, Gina ¹ (wake up). Outside there were empty streets and ugly houses, grey skies and rain. The bus ² (stop). "We must be in Toronto now," Gina thought. She ³ (meet) her aunt at 5:00 p.m. That meant she had time to check out some stores downtown.

The boy beside her ⁴ (get up) to leave. "Where are we?" asked Gina, to make sure she ⁵ (not get off) too early. "Hamilton," said the boy.

Gina was surprised. "⁶ we (not ... go) through Toronto?" she asked.

"Yes, we did," he replied. "We ⁷ (leave) Toronto an hour ago and ..."

Gina didn't wait to hear more. She quickly ⁸ (get off) the bus before it left and called her aunt. No reply. She tried again, but her phone stopped working. Things got worse by the minute. Gina reached for her bag, but it was still on the bus. She looked down the road. The bus ⁹ (drive) away in the distance. She felt as if she would never find her way back. Gina almost started crying when she suddenly heard a voice behind her.

"Does this belong to you?" It was the boy in the basketball shirt and he had her bag. Gina ¹⁰ (remember) this moment for the rest of her life.

Sarah's travel blog

25 June

Last week I went to Queenstown in New Zealand. I travelled there by bus, through the mountains and past peaceful lakes. It was a long, tiring trip, but while I was travelling, I met a girl called Kate. We had a nice chat. She was from Queenstown and she was very helpful. She told me all about the place.

Queenstown is in a beautiful location. It's next to Lake Wakatipu and it was originally a Maori settlement. Then in the 1860s there was a gold rush. That's when the Europeans came and settled there.

While I was staying in Queenstown, I didn't see any gold, but I did see a lot of adventure sports. Queenstown is famous for them. The weather was cold, but sunny and bright, so I tried snowboarding. I also went to a music festival. It was very busy, but I met a lot of friendly people.

As well as festivals and sports, I visited some lively markets and ate at some popular restaurants. Queenstown was a fantastic and energetic place!

E Cultural focus

When we read about a famous city, we are often drawn to its unique history and culture, and want to travel there to experience a different way of life.

In this section, you will first read a passage about place names in Australia. You will then watch a video about the natural resources in Nanning, the capital of Guangxi Zhuang Autonomous Region.

1 Read the short passage below and discuss the question.

How do you understand the sentence "For in naming we speak, don't we?"

Naming is important in almost any culture. People name their children for a variety of reasons. They may want to express their hopes, dreams and what they believe in. Sometimes, this is done simply for the purpose of giving it a name. As Shakespeare wrote in Romeo and Juliet, "... that which we call a rose / By any other name would smell as sweet." Like people, places or buildings are also named for many different reasons. In the words of Plato, "For in naming we speak, don't we?"

2 Read the passage on pages 37 and 38 and complete the table below. Choose at least three places to illustrate the meanings behind or the origins of their names. Then present your ideas to the class.

Names of places	Meanings / Origins
Murwillumbah	good campsite
Nambucca
Bondi Beach
Uluru
Bougainville
Arnhem Land
Melbourne
Waterloo

What's in a name?

Last year, as I was travelling through Australia, I often stopped at places with strange names: names like Murwillumbah and Waterloo. I often asked myself, “Where do all these names come from, and what can we learn from them?” Local people sometimes knew the answer and sometimes they didn’t, so I decided to look at these place names more closely and found out some interesting facts.

“Where are we?” That’s the question we all ask when we arrive in a new place. Think about it. How can we tell another person where we are? Many place names give us an idea because they describe physical features, like “big hill”, “dry desert”, or “tall tree”. Thousands of years ago, this is how the first Australians—the Aborigines^①—named places. Today, in Australia, there are thousands of places with Aboriginal names, towns like Murwillumbah (good campsite), Nambucca (entrance to the sea), Bondi Beach (from the word “Boondi”, the sound of water falling over rocks) and Uluru (big rock).

The Europeans had different ideas. When they first arrived in 1606, they wanted to make this strange new land feel like home. How did they do it? Well, they borrowed names from the country they came from—it showed that these places belonged to them. French and Dutch place names like Bougainville and Arnhem Land started to appear along the Australian coast. Then, in 1770, the English explorer 30 Captain James Cook arrived in Botany Bay. Soon, there was Melbourne, a town named after a British Prime Minister, and Waterloo, named after a famous battle between England and France.

① Aborigine /ˌæbəˈrɪdʒəni/ n. 澳大利亚土著

Altogether there are over 250,000 names in Australia: names of rivers, mountains, deserts, towns, cities and many more. These names can tell us what we can find there, 35 they can tell us about history, they can warn us about danger or they can welcome us. Next time you travel to a new place, think about its name. What is it telling you?

3 Read the passages in exercises 1 and 2 again and choose the correct answers.

(1) According to Shakespeare,

- a a rose should not be called any other name because it would not sound so sweet
- b a rose should be called a rose because the name sounds as sweet as a real rose
- c a rose can be called anything; the name itself is not important
- d a rose can be called anything as long as the name sounds as sweet as a rose

(2) According to Plato,

- a naming is a part of communication in a strange place
- b we need names to communicate in speech, but not in writing
- c naming perhaps is one of the important features of human language
- d naming perhaps is one of the important cultural features in human lives

(3) People name places for many reasons. Which of the following is not mentioned in the passage in exercise 2?

- a A famous event.
- b Famous people.
- c Features of land.
- d Trading between settlers.

4 Work in groups and discuss the question.

What place names do you know that have special meanings in them?

Food for thought:

The good, the bad and the really ugly

by Jane Brown

Today, in my fridge, there are a few grapes, some bananas and some fruit juice—things that are not expensive and that are good for me. There is also a pizza^①, and some burgers^②—which are not so good. I know what this food does to my body, but what does it do to the world around me? It's time to look at my carbon footprint and think about the difference between the good, the bad and the really ugly.

① pizza /'pi:tʃə/ n. 比萨饼 ② burger /'bɜ:gə(r)/ n. 汉堡包

Food miles

My first stop is the label. Labels give us lots of information: how long we can keep our food, how healthy it is and where it comes from. A few hundred years ago, most of our food came from places we could walk to, but today, food travels thousands of miles. We refrigerate it, and then transport it in planes and ships all over the world. This creates pollution and causes global warming. I look at the pizza and feel bad at once—not because it’s unhealthy, but because the seafood on it comes all the way from Thailand. I know seafood is also produced in the UK, but the local seafood is more expensive. I take out a banana—it’s from Brazil, but that’s not too bad. It came here by boat, so the carbon footprint of this healthy snack is small.

Packaging

The next stop is the packaging. In the UK, we don’t recycle all our packaging; we throw away more than 30% of it. This waste goes to the rubbish dump and not to the recycling facility. Luckily, we don’t need to package food like bananas, but food like grapes needs protection. I look at the grapes in my fridge—they’re in a plastic container and they’re from Spain.

Production

So my grapes are from Spain, but at least they grew in natural sunlight. In the UK, people grow grapes in heated greenhouses, which means our grapes are less energy-efficient. But there is one other thing in my fridge, and if pizza and grapes are “bad”, then this food is “really ugly”. It’s the burgers. They have the biggest carbon footprint because they come from cows. In the USA, cows create the same amount of greenhouse gases as 20 million cars!

As I close the fridge door, I make a checklist for my next trip to the supermarket: 1) Read the label; 2) Look at the packaging; 3) Don’t buy a lot of meat. Maybe I could grow my own vegetables too. It’s eco-friendly. I’d save some money and I wouldn’t feel bad about eating burgers!

Comprehension work

1 Read the passage and answer the questions.

(1) What does the writer want to find out about the food in her fridge?

(2) What can we learn from food labels?

(3) Why does the writer feel bad about the pizza?

(4) Why does the writer think bananas are better than grapes?

(5) What is "the really ugly" according to the writer? Why?

(6) What will the writer take into consideration when making food choices?

2 Read the summary below and fill in each blank with a suitable word based on the language of the passage. You may change the form if necessary.

The passage is about the great impact of food transport, ¹ and production on the environment. The writer divides food into three types based on their carbon ² and shows us three ways to determine the environmental impact of different kinds of food.

The first method is to check food miles by reading food ³ Long transport distances are bad for the environment because they waste energy and cause ⁴ Next is to check the food packaging. Much of the packaging doesn't get ⁵, but ends up in the rubbish ⁶ In other words, food with less packaging is more environmentally friendly. The last way is to look at how the food is produced. Compared with vegetables grown in natural ⁷, vegetables grown in greenhouses are less ⁸ Burgers cause huge environmental stress because they come from cows. In the USA, cattle produce the same amount of ⁹ gases as 20 million cars. The writer of the passage suggests that we should choose more eco-friendly food to ¹⁰ our environment.

Deep reading

- 1 Read the sentences and discuss in pairs why the writer gives us these facts and figures. Then complete the table. You may use the example below to help you.

We refrigerate it, and then transport it in planes and ships all over the world. This creates pollution and causes global warming.

You may ask and respond like this:

A: What does the writer tell us about food transport?

B: According to the writer, many foods travel a long way before they reach us. They are often frozen on the way.

A: Why does the writer mention these things?

B: I think the writer wants us to buy more local food. Local food is more eco-friendly.

Mini-project

Checking food in my fridge

1 Think of the food in your fridge. Put them into three groups (the good, the bad and the ugly) and explain the reasons. You may use the ideas below to help you.

- in / out of season
- where it comes from
- how it is made / produced / grown
- the distance it travels
- its packaging

2 Share your findings in class and suggest some changes you can make to reduce the impact of food on the environment.

My findings

In my fridge, there are local vegetables, apples packaged in plastic and some beef. I think the vegetables are "good" because they don't have to be transported a long way. That is, transporting vegetables locally can save energy. However, the apples are "bad" because the plastic packaging they use cannot be recycled easily. And the beef is "really ugly" because it has the biggest carbon footprint.

Changes I can make

1 Read the passage again. Find words in the passage to match the items below to make compound nouns and adjectives. Then match the compound words to definitions 1–5.

■ eco- ■ food ■ greenhouse ■ recycling ■ rubbish

(1) a piece of land where waste materials are dumped

(2) not harmful to the environment

(3) the distance food travels to get to our homes

(4) gases like carbon dioxide that are bad for the environment

(5) a place where old objects and materials are treated so that they can be used again

2 Complete the passage with the correct form of the words below.

■ global ■ packaging ■ efficient ■ stress ■ convenience
■ recycle ■ container ■ determine ■ dump ■ impact

It is often hard to ¹ whether the food we eat is eco-friendly or not. However, it is clear that some types of food have a bigger environmental ² than others. What can we do in our everyday lives to make a difference?

Firstly, we should avoid food that has travelled a long way. Food transport is a big source of CO₂, which causes global warming. In other words, it is best to eat food that is produced locally. Secondly, we should eat less fast food. Due to its ³, fast food has become very popular, but it is unfortunately very bad for the environment. The industry produces a lot of waste: unnecessary ⁴, along with other single-use plastics, is one big part of the problem. Most takeaway ⁵ will probably end up in the rubbish ⁶, However, we can encourage restaurants to use ⁷ materials to pack their meals. Thirdly, we should avoid those types of food that cause huge environmental ⁸, For example, rainforests around the world are being burned down to make room for cattle farms and palm^① oil plantations^②. To protect the rainforest, we should eat less beef and avoid food that contains palm oil.

Pollution and climate change are ⁹ problems, so we all need to work together. The good news is that every little bit counts. By using our resources in a more ¹⁰ way, we can save a lot of money at the same time as we save the environment.

A recent study shows that more and more teenagers are not eating a healthy diet. ¹We asked a student who is in senior high school to keep a food diary. Her name is Tina Fisher. ²In her diary, she recorded details of her meals which provided us with lots of information. It is an example of what a typical teenager eats and drinks. Does she eat any fruit and vegetables? Is there a lot of fast food in her diet? Read on and find out!

Day 1

Breakfast: ³Most teenagers whose parents work long hours have to prepare breakfast themselves. I woke up late for school, so I didn't eat anything. My mum left me some yoghurt, but I put it aside. ⁴The yoghurt which she leaves for me is always the healthy kind. I don't like it at all. I had some orange juice instead.

Lunch: My dad gives me money every week for my lunches, but I use it to buy magazines, so there's not much money left for food. Today, I had some biscuits instead of lunch.

Dinner: ⁵By 5:00 p.m. I was hungry, so I had a snack that I made myself. I had a little peanut butter on bread, but I didn't eat any vegetables. For dinner, I had a small egg sandwich. I don't have many big meals because I want to stay slim.

Day 2

Breakfast: I had some bread and drank a lot of water. I was still hungry, but I don't know how to cook, so I didn't eat any more.

Lunch: I drank a few glasses of orange juice. Then I had a banana and some chocolate. I sometimes eat fruit, but I don't eat many vegetables. I hate salad.

Dinner: ⁶The family dinner that we had tonight was really nice. We had soup, chicken, baked potatoes and carrots, but I didn't eat any soup or potatoes. I had some apple juice before I went to bed.

d whose to express a possessive meaning

2 Complete the passage with the correct relative pronouns.

Teenagers worry a lot about how they look and their body image is something ¹ can be a huge source of stress. As a food and health expert, I meet many young people ² ask me about weight loss tips. Many of them have read health advice on the Internet ³ may seem like a good idea, but is actually harmful.

In fact, teenagers ⁴ want to stay slim often pick up unhealthy habits. They also tend to eat things ⁵ aren't good for them. For instance, snacks ⁶ contain a lot of sugar might give you some quick energy, but will make you feel tired later on. Moreover, teens ⁷ haven't had enough to eat during the day will simply buy lots of junk food on the way home from school instead.

From what I can see, teenagers ⁸ parents have good eating habits tend to have fewer problems themselves. My advice to Tina: eat three healthy meals a day and do lots of exercise—that's the best way to stay slim.

Our food choices can have an impact on our health, as well as the environment. Even though certain types of food may be convenient, we need to consider the consequences our eating habits might have.

In this section, you will first read a passage about online food delivery services. You will then watch a video about different types of food in Britain.

1 Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

(1) Do you use online food delivery apps?

(2) What do you think the advantages and disadvantages of such apps are?

A new way of eating: online food delivery services

Few people knew about online food delivery apps ten years ago, but today, many would find it hard to live without them. In China alone, over 400 million people use such apps. For better or for worse, online food delivery services have changed the way we eat, and they are also 5 having a huge impact on our society.

These services have no doubt brought us many benefits. They provide jobs for millions of people and help restaurants find more customers. Since the apps are very convenient, they also benefit consumers: we can now have meals delivered at any time of day, despite bad weather

10 or busy schedules. This is especially important for people who work long hours, since they might not have time to cook. Not only do these apps save time, they also provide us with a wide variety of restaurants to choose from. They have proved to be useful for retired people as well: seniors who live far away from restaurants and supermarkets can

15 now get hold of meals and groceries more easily.

However, we must not forget the drawbacks^① of online food delivery services. For one thing, they make it even easier to order unhealthy food, high in sugar, fat and salt. Food safety is another problem: it can

① drawback /'drɔːbæk/ n. 缺点; 不利条件 be hard to establish where the food actually comes from, and whether 20 the owner is legally permitted to run a restaurant. As couriers^① need to deliver the orders as quickly as possible, some pay little regard to traffic rules. In recent years, there have been a number of terrible traffic accidents because of this. Moreover, the industry is creating unbelievable amounts of packaging waste: over a million tonnes of online food delivery 25 boxes are thrown away every year. Experts assume that this number will continue to grow in the future, and this will have a negative impact on the environment.

There are many advantages of these services, but we need to make sure that we make the right choices in the long run. We should do our best 30 to limit waste, especially when it comes to packaging. We also need to think about what we eat and the impact on our health. Next time you are thinking about ordering in, you should ask yourself whether you really need to. In most cases, it's better to walk over to the supermarket, buy the ingredients^② you need, and then cook them yourself.

① courier /'kʊriə(r)/ n. 快递员 ② ingredient /ɪn'ɡri:diənt/ n. (尤指烹饪) 材料

The 1940s house

"There were many times when I thought, 'I can't do this. I am a 21st century woman. I don't work eighteen-hour days.' But then I'd stop and say, 'Hang on. In the 1940s, women didn't say they couldn't do it. They just got on with it.'" These are the words of 50-year-old Lyn Hymers, who took part in an experiment called The 1940s House. The purpose of the experiment was to see if a modern-day family would be capable of surviving in the 1940s.

In March, Lyn, her husband Michael, her daughter and two grandsons arrived at a three-bedroomed house in south London. Unfortunately, when they opened the door, all 21st century labour-saving devices immediately disappeared. There was no central heating or fridge in the house, but luckily they had a coal fire to keep them warm. But food and warmth were not as important 20 as safety—their first task was to quickly dig a hole in the garden. The family needed to have a place to take cover: World War II started in 1939, and German planes were regularly dropping bombs over London. Although the war wasn't real for the Hymers, they spent a lot of time down in the hole. They wanted the experiment to seem as real as possible.

The war wasn't real, but the difficulties of everyday life were. In the 1940s, there was 25 rationing^① of goods such as food and petrol. There wasn't much meat or milk, or many eggs, and the food was really boring. As a result, the family were often hungry, especially the children. Before the experiment, the children often had snacks, but now they ate dry sandwiches for lunch.

Domestic chores were a challenge too. In the 1940s, these chores were like a full-time job.
30 While Michael went out to work, Lyn and her daughter spent most of their time preparing meals, doing the dishes and cleaning the floor. Things that Lyn did easily before, now became terribly difficult. She missed her washing machine most of all. "We had to boil the clothes and when the weather wasn't good, it was impossible to dry anything," said Lyn.

Today, Lyn is back in her modern, open-plan home, but surprisingly, she misses the 1940s
35 house. The family grew closer, she feels, because they helpfully shared the hard work. In the evenings they played board games with the children, read books or just talked. Life in the 1940s wasn't easy, but an easier and more comfortable life doesn't necessarily mean a better life. "I would happily go back there," she says. "I loved that house where we all laughed and cried together as a family."

2 Read the summary below and fill in each blank with a suitable word based on the language of the passage. You may change the form if necessary.

In the 1940s, personal ⁵ was a big problem because of the war. To make their experiment as ⁶ as possible, the whole family stayed in a narrow ⁷ much of the time. They also followed a wartime diet and often suffered from ⁸ because of food rationing during the war. Despite all these difficulties, Lyn feels that her family grew closer because they ⁹ shared the hard work and spent more time together. According to her, an easier and more comfortable life does not ¹⁰ mean a better life. What matters more is that the family spend quality time together and are emotionally connected.

Zhao Ping and Wang Wei are students from the same school. They are talking about their favourite rooms.

Zhao Ping

My favourite room? Well, it isn't my brother's bedroom. That's the worst room in our apartment and definitely the messiest. ¹My brother simply treats it as a place where he can throw his stuff all over the floor: his dirty football clothes and bits of pizza. To his credit, he helps keep the rest of the house tidy. I think my favourite room is the downstairs living room. It's a lot tidier than the other rooms and much more comfortable—there's a big sofa and it's right in front of the TV. ²However, the piano is the main reason why I love this room: if nobody else is around, I can sit there and practise for hours.

Wang Wei

The kitchen, because it's the busiest and most interesting room, I think. ³My dad is always cooking there—that's the reason why it's warmer and friendlier than the other rooms. It's open-plan, which means there's lots of space, and it's got big windows that look out onto the garden, so it's lovely and bright. That's really nice in the summer; ⁴it is the time when I'm free to read my science fiction books.

My space, my world

This week we want to know all about your personal space. What things do you have in your room? Email us a description of your room, including three expressions which best describe it. The most interesting description will appear in next month's magazine.

Email: ed@myspacemyworld.edu

1 Read the advertisement from a student magazine. Imagine that you decide to enter the competition. You may prepare your writing by thinking about the questions.

(1) What do you have in your room?

(2) What is your favourite thing that you own?

.....

(3) How are the things in your room arranged?

2 Read the article that the magazine published. Then complete the table on page 71 before you write.

It's a small room, but ...

■ by Meimei

"It's unbelievably small," said my best friend when she first saw my bedroom. She's right: it's tiny and a bit dark, but it's also very special.

When you walk through the door, the first things you see are a rather small bed and a really big poster on the wall. The poster is of Yao Ming, my favourite sports star. There isn't much space in my room, so it's not very tidy. Right next to my bed is the old bookcase where I keep my textbooks and music magazines. On top of the bookcase, I've got some family photos and my pink Bluetooth speaker. It's my favourite thing that I own.

Opposite the bookcase is a small red desk. It's the messiest part of my bedroom because there's homework everywhere. Then, at the side of my desk, there's a small sofa which is extremely comfortable. On the days when I have time to relax, I often sit there and listen to music. My friends love that sofa too!

The three expressions that best describe my room are: relaxing, slightly messy and quite original. It's my own private space: that's the reason why I love spending time in it.

Aspects of writing	Guiding questions	My exploration
Content	What is the writer's purpose of writing the article?

A house

with a history

Size matters

- Imagine living in a huge house, a house so big that you don't know how many rooms it has! Lady Carnarvon, owner of Highclere Castle, is not sure about the number of rooms, but she does know that Highclere is one
- 5 of the biggest houses in England. From the outside, the castle looks like the Houses of Parliament in London. In fact, the same person, Sir Charles Barry, built both places. When Barry finished building Highclere in 1842, the castle had more than 50 rooms, including one room with a 15-metre-high ceiling! But this room was only used on special occasions. Today,
- 10 Highclere is one of the most expensive houses in Britain, worth more than 150 million pounds.

Treasure

Do you want to learn about ancient Egypt? Visit Highclere and find out about its famous Egyptian connection. In 1922, Lord Carnarvon opened the 15 tomb^① of an ancient pharaoh^② in Egypt. However, Lord Carnarvon suddenly died just a few weeks later. Many people thought that the pharaoh's angry spirit brought about his death. Today, you can find out more about his discovery in the castle's Egyptian room and make up your own mind!

The small screen

20 Nowadays, Highclere is one of the most well-known homes in Britain, but it's not because of its interesting past or its Egyptian treasures. It is because Highclere is the star of a British TV show called Downton Abbey. The show is all about the life of an upper-class family in the 1910s, and most of the story takes place inside Highclere. More than ten million viewers enjoy watching 25 it every week. Fans love coming to Highclere and many hope to see their favourite actors too!

Planning your visit

Open from May to September, 7 days a week, from 10:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.
Tickets: £9.50 child, £16.50 adult

3 A historic house must meet some standards before being listed officially as “historic”. Work in pairs and discuss how Highclere Castle meets the standards below.

1 Present continuous passive

Present continuous passive shows that the action is being done on the object.

	Active	Passive
Present continuous	am / is / are + present participle I am painting the house. The police are questioning the thief.	am / is / are + being + past participle The house is being painted. The thief is being questioned (by the police).

2 Future in the past

There are different ways to talk about an event or activity that at a certain point in the past you thought it would or was going to happen in the future. To express this idea, we can use the past tense of the verb forms we would commonly use to refer to the future (will do—would do, is going to do—was going to do, is doing—was doing, is to do—was to do, is about to do—was about to do, is due—was due, etc.).

Future from now	Future in the past
• It's her ninth birthday. She will have her birthday party tomorrow. • We are going to visit Shanghai Museum this Sunday. • He is meeting his friend at the airport this evening. • There is to be an election on 1 June. • What do you want me to do? I am about to leave. • The writing assignment is due on Friday morning.	• It was her ninth birthday and she would have a birthday party. • We were going to visit Shanghai Museum last Sunday, but it rained. • He left the office early because he was meeting his friend at the airport that evening. • I was told there was to be an election on 1 June, so I registered to vote. • I was about to leave when he asked me to help him, so I missed my train. • The writing assignment was due this morning, but the teacher was sick.

- 1 The past continuous is used when we talk about activities planned or arranged in the past, especially with verbs such as come and go.

The Smiths were coming for lunch this Saturday.

His son was going to a summer camp next week.

- 2 When these forms are used, we often know from the context whether the activity or event did or did not happen. But in some cases, we may not know whether it happened or not.

I was seeing Bill that afternoon, but I had to cancel because of an important meeting. (I did not see Bill.)

I did not tell him the news on the phone because we were seeing each other later that day. (We saw each other.)

He was sure that the blood test would show that he was alright. (We don't know whether he was alright or not.)

3 Defining relative clauses

A defining relative clause gives essential information about the noun phrase or pronoun it modifies. Its purpose is to clearly define who or what we are talking about. Without this information, it would be difficult to know who or what is being referred to.

The woman who treated my child is an outstanding doctor.

The policeman found the car that he was looking for.

Anyone who breaks the rule will be punished.

Notice that commas are not used between the noun phrase or pronoun and the defining relative clause.

(1) Defining relative clauses with who, whom, which and that

The following relative pronouns are used in defining relative clauses.

	Person	Thing
Subject	who / that	which / that
Object	who / whom / that	which / that

The relative pronoun can be the subject or the object in a defining relative clause. In the following sentences the relative pronoun is the subject.

They're the people who / that bought our house.

I have a friend who / that dances well.

In the following sentences the relative pronoun is the object in the defining relative clause. In this case, we can omit the relative pronoun wh-word / that and use a zero relative pronoun.

I didn't see the film (which / that) you recommended to me.

That's the girl (who / whom / that) I saw yesterday.

Whom can be used as an object relative pronoun. However, whom is very formal and is only used in written language.

The man whom you talked to at the party was my brother.

That should be used after superlatives and words like something, anything, nothing, everything, all, little, much, none, etc. We can also use a zero relative pronoun as the object after these words.

She is the most beautiful girl (that) I know.

Do you have anything (that) I can have for lunch?

(2) Defining relative clauses with whose

A relative clause beginning with whose + noun is used to talk about something belonging to or associated with a person. Whose can also be used after noun phrases for towns, countries and organizations, etc.

Bei Yuming is an architect whose designs have won international praise.

It is a company whose products are found everywhere.

(3) Defining relative clauses with where, when and why

We can use where and when after noun phrases referring to places and time. We can use why after the noun reason. In formal English, a phrase with preposition + which can be used instead.

	Meaning	Use	Example
when	in / on / ... which	refers to a time	the day when we met him where	in / at / ... which	refers to a place	the place where we met him
why	for which	refers to a reason	the reason why we met him

There is a box where / in which I keep my keys.

Do you remember the date when / on which we first met?

This is the reason why / for which you cannot do it.

(4) Prepositions in defining relative clauses

There are often prepositions in defining relative clauses, and a relative pronoun is the object of that preposition. In formal styles, a preposition is often put before the relative pronouns which and whom.

This is the room in which I work.

The professor with whom you had worked called you this morning.

Notice that after a preposition, who or that cannot be used.

A lot will be expected from people to whom a lot is given. (NOT: ... people to who ...)

It is an organization to which both my parents belong. (NOT: ... an organization to that ...)

Notice that in informal English, the preposition is normally placed at the end of the relative clause and the pronoun may be included or omitted. In formal English, the preposition is placed before the relative pronoun, and in this case the pronoun cannot be omitted.

Does he know the girl (that) Gary is talking to? (informal)

Does he know the girl to whom Gary is talking? (formal)
